GALCADOR WINS ENGLISH DERBY RACE

Plane Rates Jumped 7% On Atlantic

Expect 27 Countries To Adopt Ruling Of IATA Conference

MONTREAL, May 27.—(CP).—North Atlantic air fares have been "bumped" up seven per cent., but the world's air lines will continue in 1950-51 special winter bargain rates between Europe and North America.

The International Air Transport Association announced from its headquarters here today that a recent semi-annual traffic conference in Madrid decided to boost basic North Atlantic fares to meet "part of the increased costs of operating new equipment."

The special winter excursion rates will, however, save passengers considerable amounts on round trips. Passengers will also get a choice of several price levels at different times of the year.

The announcement said that 42 IATA member airlines from 27 countries, flying 90 per cent of the world's scheduled plane miles, took part in the conference.

Jump In September

All decisions of the IATA traffic conferences are subject to approval of interested governments before they can become law. If ratified, the new fares will become effective next Sept. 30.

The basic trans-Atlantic rate is computed as between New York and London with corresponding fares computed to other gateway points. The basic one-way fare during the busy season (summer) will be $375 in United States funds with a 10 per cent reduction for round trips. The "on-season" fare will be in effect from April to September east-bound and from July to December west-bound.

During the remaining seven months of the year in each direction, the basic fare will be approximately $500 in U. S. funds for round trips of any duration.

Passengers may also combine "on season" trips in one direction with an "off season" trip in the other for a round-trip fare of $587.50.

UK To Evacuate Troops In Egypt

CAIRO, May 27—(Reuters)—Britain has accepted an Egyptian proposal to evacuate British troops from Egypt provided a military alliance is concluded between the two countries, sources close to the Egyptian Wafdist government said today.

The sources said the proposal was accepted in the British reply to the recent Egyptian note on Anglo-Egyptian relations.

There is a widely-shared belief in Cairo that if the present preliminary communications between Egypt and Britain are successful Anglo-Egyptian negotiations for a new treaty may start soon after the arrival next month of Britain's new ambassador, Sir Ralph Stevenson.

One newspaper here said Field Marshal Sir William Slim, chief of the Imperial General Staff, will visit Egypt next month to explain to Egyptian political and military chiefs the international military situation and to hold defence talks.

Find Enough Poison To Kill 860,000

BILTON, Staffordshire, England, May 27 — (AP) — Bilton police today were trying to find out who left 400 pounds of deadly sodium cyanide in the town dump.

Authorities said they thought the poison, in six steel drums, was from nearby steel plants and had been dumped by mistake. The factories use cyanide to harden the steel.

The cyanide was discovered by children playing around the dump.

Police said the drums contained enough poison to kill 860,000 people if spread properly. Bilton has a population of 31,430.

Taking A Chance

MALACCA, Malaya, May 27—(Reuters)—War Minister John Strachey and Colonial Secretary James Griffiths of Britain today sped through several danger spots in a heavily-armed convoy, on their tour of guerrilla operation areas in Malaya. Jungle squads were stationed off the road at possible ambush points, and the route ahead of the convoy was swept by security forces.

Seamen Losing Jobs Due To Last Strike

OTTAWA, May 27—(CP)—The disastrous Communist-inspired seamen's strike of 1949, which paralysed ports both here and abroad, produced an ominous echo in the Commons Friday.

It seeped into debate as Transport Minister Chevrier, giving an outline of government shipping policy, told of Canadian seamen who now are losing their jobs because of their association with that long-drawn, hard-fought walkout.

This is developing through the transfer of Canadian merchant ships to British registry. Efforts are being made to have Canadian seamen stay aboard the ships, but the British seaman's union is "doubtful" about taking them into their ranks because of a fear of Communist activity.

Own Fault

Mr. Chevrier said he could not blame the British union.

He added:

"I know that the great majority of Canadian seamen are not Communist, but the lesson to be learned from what occurred is that men who allow themselves to be misled by Communist leaders must suffer the penalty for their mistake."

Ninety-three registry transfers already have been approved and 23 others are pending. The Canadian Maritime Commission estimated that not more than 1,500 Canadian seamen would be put out of work by the transfers.

Delivering his statement on government marine policy, Mr Chevrier said the seamen's strike led by the Canadian Seamen's Union, had brought Canadian shipping "to a state of near collapse."

Stranahan Three Up On Dick Chapman

ST. ANDREWS, May 27.—(CP)—Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., stood three up on Dick Chapman, of Pinehurst, N.C., at the halfway mark in their 36-hole final for the British amateur golf championship today.

The match was being played in a cold rain and in a wind which blew in gusts up to 35 miles an hour. Both Americans, in wretched weather conditions, played far below their earlier form.

Stranahan took 40 strokes going out on the "old course," four over par, but still was one up on Chapman at the turn. He went two up at the short 11th as Chapman sliced his tee shot and then went three up by holing the first birdie of the match at the 564-yard 14th hole.

Report U.S. Preparing Crackdown

Retaliatory Move Against Czechs Expected Shortly

WASHINGTON, May 27—(AP)—The United States was reported set today for a new crackdown on one of the Soviet bloc countries — this time Czechoslovakia. Officials indicated the Czech consulate-general in New York might be closed as one possible result of a demand by Prague for a second reduction in the American diplomatic staff in Czechoslovakia. The consulate-general is the last establishment Communist Czechoslovakia has in the U.S. aside from the embassy in Washington. Consulates at Pittsburgh and Cleveland were shut down this month after an enforced two-thirds cut in the number of American official representatives in Czechoslovakia.

The latest exchange presumably would mean the closing of the American consulate at Bratislava, leaving only the embassy at Prague, manned by a skeleton staff.

Authorities ruled out the likelihood of an order restricting movements of Czech officials in the U.S., to a 35-mile radius around Washington, such as was ordered Friday for the Romanian staff of seven persons here. The Czechs, unlike the Romanians, thus far have not hampered the movements of Americans in their country.

The sole certainty was that the state department was set to go a step further with the tough tit-for-tat policy toward the Soviet satellites which has been followed in recent months.

The travel ban against the Romanians was announced Friday by James Webb, undersecretary of state.

While he indicated there might be still further reprisals in the making against the Soviet bloc, Webb said there is no present plan to limit the movements of Russian Ambassador Alexander Panyushkin and his staff.

One of the largest in the country, the Soviet embassy numbers nearly 40 officials, aside from dependents.

Young Germans Remain Quiet

BERLIN, May 27 (AP)—Communist leaders turned East Berlin into an amusement park today for nearly 400,000 young Germans massed here for Sunday's giant Whitsun rally.

Red leaders jeered, meanwhile, at the western sector for having feared that the rally might turn into an attack on West Berlin.

With a "long live Stalin" cheer, the Communists began a 12-hour program of sports festivals and pro-Soviet speeches to dazzle the "Free German Youth" (F.D.J.).

Berlin—a hot spot of the Cold War—was freer from violence than at any time in recent months, though there still were some scattered incidents.

Two alleged Communist agents were arrested during the night for trying to abduct a 32-year-old political refugee from the Russian zone at the British sector elevated railway station.

Run Out of Jawbreakers Children Beat Dictionary

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—They ran out of jawbreaking words four times during the 23rd annual national spelling bee on Friday and the affair wound up in a two-day draw.

The co-champions: Diana Reynard, 12, of East Cleveland, O., and Colquitt Dean, 14, of College Park, Ga.

All told, Diana spelled 48 words, Colquitt 49 before the supply ran out.

Each was given $500 and a trip to New York.

The Scripps-Howard chain which sponsors the bee along with other newspapers from coast to coast, had prepared 615 of the toughest words they could find for the 50 contestants. Normally, a supply like this is far more than is needed.

But this time it was different. With only minor pauses, the spelling dragged on for almost seven hours.

When the first stock of brain teasers began running low, an official started digging into the dictionary. Three times he came up with extras.

They were tough. Words like heliotaxis, ectogenous, profligacy, alkalescent, alluvial, ossification, irradiant, resiliency, heterogenous, tessellated, ichthyology.

The word hunter couldn't find words as fast as the kids could spell 'em. First time in spelling bee history that the spellers outspelled the dictionary, he declared.

Seeing-Eye Dog Leads Master From Holdup

MONTREAL, May 27.—(CP).—Bambi, a seeing-eye dog, never had any training under gun-fire but she knew what to do with her blind master, George Cohen, when they approached a Bank of Toronto branch Thursday just as a hold-up man was shooting his way out.

"She certainly knew what to do when the shooting started," Cohen said after the 3-year-old Dober led him through traffic and across the street from the hold-up scene.

Cohen said that when he heard the shooting Bambi blocked his path.

"She took the lead firmly and jaywalked as fast as she could through the cars across to the southwest corner of the street. And it must be serious when Bambi could break one of the strictest rules of her training by cutting through traffic."

BERNARD (BUN) WANNAMAKER'S racing hopes were riding today on a 66-to-1 shot entered in the English Derby at Epsom. His horse was Billiter Street ridden by Jockey J. Marshall. Although it did not finish in the first three (and at press time it was not known if the horse finished) Mr. Wannamaker is assured of $750 for holding a starter. An employee of the Outboard-Marine Manufacturing Co. and resident of Norwood, he is shown holding his 2½-year-old daughter, Patsy.

Deserters Can Come Home Government Forgives All

OTTAWA, May 27.—(CP).—The armed forces, finally washing their hands of Second World War deserters, are giving the green light for a return home to roughly 100 Canadian servicemen who quit their uniforms and vanished overseas. Nobody will ever know how many heed it. Nobody knows their whereabouts. Some may have slipped quietly back to Canada, but the majority, defence officials feel, have disappeared into the web of British or European life and will probably never return.

Once the bill to consolidate defence legislation passes Parliament, the forces will no longer care. Once that happens, there will be no deserters from that war. They and their crime will be written off.

A clause tucked away at the end of the bill's numerous sections writes the last chapter in the war's story of desertion, one that involved nearly enough men to fill a division.

The great majority of these men have already been written off by cabinet order-in-council passed in 1946. They were largely the so-called Zombies, soldiers called up for military duty who refused to volunteer to serve overseas.

That order covered 14,100 men who were deemed "never to have served."

A special provision in the bill covers the last 414 deserters still on the forces' books. About 100 of them were men who deserted overseas. The rest deserted after they came home at the end of the war in a period between that covered by the order-in-council up to the end of 1945—and the formal establishment of the peacetime forces in late 1946.

Both the order and the bill adopt the same process. The men are deemed never to have served. They can draw no discharge benefits.

Prefer To Use Canadian Plants

TORONTO, May 27 (CP)—The manner in which one new industry spreads activity among others was described today to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Walter N. Deisher, general manager of A. V. Roe, Canada, Ltd., said that more than 300 suppliers and manufacturers from the Maritimes to the Middle West are supplying components and materials for their jet plane.

"Almost daily we are locating and establishing new sources of supply for products which at one time were obtained from foreign countries. To ensure that the work will go on uninterrupted and to help establish Canadian industrial and material sources from a national defence viewpoint, it is our policy to keep looking in Canada until we locate such a source, and failing this to endeavor to set up the source."

Speaking of his company's work in the last four years, Mr. Deisher said:

"We have completed the design, construction and initial test flights of Canada's foremost, and indeed the world's foremost aircraft of their types, the C-102 jetliner a 50-passenger 30-ton transport with a top speed of over 500 miles per hour, and the CF-100 long range fighter, the most powerful service fighter in the world."

Chiang Hands Reds Wanshan

HONG KONG, May 27 (AP)—The Chinese Nationalists today handed the Wanshan (Ladrone) islands to the Communists, British naval officials reported.

A spokesman for the Royal Navy said evacuation of the blockade base 40 miles southwest of Hong Kong was completed by Nationalist warships at 8 a.m.

In giving up the Wanshans the Nationalists left the trade-starved Communist metropolis of Canton open to foreign sea commerce for the first time in more than eight months.

WOMAN DIES AT 149

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, May 27—(Reuters)—An African woman, said to be 149 years old, has died in a township on the outskirts of Johannesburg, officials said today. A doctor who examined the body of the woman, Makatrina Malinga, certified the age as "probably correct."

Arrest Man In Murder Of Constable

Wounded Suspect Being Held As Mountie Dies

MONTREAL, May 27—(CP)—Police today arrested a man they suspect is the gunman who fatally shot RCMP Constable Alex Gamman in an abortive bank holdup Thursday.

The man, who had a bullet wound in the left arm, was picked up in Montreal's east end and taken to headquarters for questioning.

The bandit is believed to have suffered a wound from his own gun as he shot his way to freedom immediately after the holdup attempt.

Gamman died in hospital late Friday night.

The 58-year-old veteran of 14 years with the RCMP was shot three times at point-blank range Thursday when a gunman came running out of the Bank of Toronto branch on downtown Beaver Hall hill.

The constable, an unarmed member of the protective detail at Montreal's Bank of Canada head office near the hold-up scene, was on his way home for dinner when he heard a shot coming from the bank.

A bullet had just felled Bank Manager S. G. Bickley, who now is recuperating in hospital from a minor wound in the leg.

Shot by Thug

Although unarmed, the red-uniformed RCMP officer made a dash for the bank and was met by the lone thug who fired three times at him, one of the bullets finding its mark just above the heart.

Despite repeated blood transfusions, the constable was so weak that it was impossible to operate and remove the slugs.

First RCMP officer to be killed in Quebec province in the line of duty, Gamman had applied three days before for special leave to visit his three children and three grandchildren in Alberta. His wife lives here.

Meanwhile, police said their hunt for what they called a "ruthless and desperate thug" was progressing with the help of the RCMP who joined in the search on learning that one of their men had been cut down.

U.K. Flood Plane Leaves Montreal

MONTREAL, May 27 (CP) — The London-to-Winnipeg plane carrying supplies for flood victims in Manitoba left Montreal airport today on the second leg of the flight.

The ship, a British Overseas Airways Corporation stripped-down stratocruiser, was piloted by Capt. Bill May and carried nine tons of supplies sent by the Commonwealth Relations Office in London. It was the biggest air cargo ever to cross the Atlantic.

The stratocruiser reached Montreal Friday afternoon and the crew rested overnight.

Quints Not Interested In Boys — Father Says

CALLANDER, May 27—(CP)—The Dionne quintuplets, 16 tomorrow, aren't interested in boys. So their dad says, anyway.

As far as he's concerned, that's as it should be.

"Some people think I should give the girls more freedom," Oliva Dionne said in an interview as his famous five prepared for a family get-together to mark their anniversary.

"But I feel it is my duty to keep a close check on them and I intend to do so until they have finished school at least."

That means not for a couple of years. The quints—Annette, Cecile, Emile, Marie and Yvonne—are in Grade 10 and shooting for full high-school education.

Not until they've been graduated will the girls be permitted to go out alone. Papa Dionne said. The ruling seems to suit them fine.

"I am glad to be able to say," said Mr. Dionne, "that the Quints themselves have shown no desire to have dates. They have never asked their mother or me for permission to go out with boys, and if they think about boys at all they certainly keep it to themselves.

"They seem to be quite happy with their school work, their music and helping their mother around the house. They are very busy girls.

At the Quints' request, the birthday celebration tomorrow will be a "family affair" — the quietest yet. There'll be 12 outsiders: the Rev. R. Sauve of Ottawa, a family friend; Lillian Barker of New York, a writer and frequent visitor; and the 10 Callander girls with whom the quints go to school.

There was a last-minute rush and Mrs. Dionne didn't get around to baking a cake. But there'll be a 16-candle beauty from the pastry shop.

Mouse Costs $20,395

ELIZABETHTOWN, N.Y., May 27—(AP)—A woman who claimed her skin was diseased by ketchup from a bottle containing a mouse has won a $20,395 award. A state supreme court jury returned the verdict Friday in favor of Mrs. Paula Robinson against the H. J. Heinz Company of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Plan To Close Army Hdqts. On Flood Work

WINNIPEG, May 27—(CP)—Premier Campbell announced today another inevitable step in the Red River Valley's return to normal: the army's flood-control headquarters will be shut down within a few days.

A week ago none would have believed that Brig. R. E. A. Morton's command of all river-defence work would end so soon.

By Monday, or earlier, said Premier Campbell in an interview, civilians will have replaced service men along much of the 20 miles of diking in Winnipeg and its twin city, St. Boniface.

Simultaneously, most of the reserve troops called to active service on flood duty were being stood down.

Two-fifths of the 5,000 service men under flood-headquarters command were to be off the job this weekend. Hundreds already have left the city as the emphasis switched gradually to relief and rehabilitation.

Still Dropping

At 5 a.m. CDT its Winnipeg level was 27.95 feet—still almost 10 feet above flood stage but down 2½ feet from the 30.3-foot peak it reached May 19. The risk that further serious damage would occur was considered remote.

The weather, which caused the flood in the first place by pelting the Red River Valley with heavy rain and snow in April, was with Winnipeg and St. Boniface at last. A weekend of sunshine and drying winds was in prospect, the Dominion weather office said.

A week of fine weather has licked up water in the suburbs with unbelievable rapidity. Once-submerged municipalities are emerging from the sludge that has oozed around their houses for two weeks. Some areas, including streets behind major dikes, have been declared open for the return of the residents.

But before most of 100,000 voluntary evacuees can come back to their homes in Greater Winnipeg, a highly-organized cleansing program—widely called "Operation Rainbow"—although it is a civilian job—must be completed. Health officers must pass on all flooded premises before they can be used.

Cross Ocean In Yacht

BELFAST, May 27—(Reuters)—Four young Irishmen set out today to cross the Atlantic in a 12½-ton yacht, the Ituna, which they bought for £150 ($465). They are going to be students of the Frank Lloyd Wright School of Architecture in Wisconsin. They will go by Dublin, Lisbon, Madeira, Canary Islands, Bermuda, New York, up the St. Lawrence River to the Great Lakes.

Woodstock Couple Get $77,500

Prince Simon Places Second In Field, Double Eclipse Third

TORONTO, May 27—(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harper of Woodstock, today won $77,500 when Galcador, the horse they drew in the Irish Sweepstakes, finished first in the Derby at Epsom.

Galcador started as a 100-to-9 shot.

Prince Simon finished second and Double Eclipse was third.

Double Eclipse is a stablemate of the Kentucky-bred Prince Simon.

Prince Simon, owned by William Woodward, New York banker, appeared to have the 1½ mile classic race won in the stretch, but the French-owned colt caught him.

Galcador started at 100 to 9, Prince Simon, the favorite, at 2 to 1 and Double Eclipse at 40 to 1.

The victory of Marcel Boussac's horse killed the hopes of banker Woodward of winning the coveted British turf prize with an American-bred horse.

Galcador's win gave Boussac a fine double. His filly, Asmena, won the Epsom Oak Stakes on Thursday.

The field consisted of 25 starters.

It was the richest Derby of them all, with the winner netting approximately £52,392. Second money was £6,200 and third was £3,100.

Until Galcador came with a long sustained finish run it seemed certain Prince Simon would succeed. Woodward's horse appeared to have run the other 24 starters off their feet. Galcador caught him in the last few strides.

The Royal Family, and a huge crowd, including celebrities such as Bing Crosby, Rita Hayworth, the wife of Prince Aly Khan, Dorothy Lamour and Irene Dunne, watched the race.

The crowd was estimated at 500,000 sprawled over the downs in a circus atmosphere.

Telegram II finished fourth, Rising Flame fifth, and Castle Rock, sixth. Mattygainmal was last.

Rain Puts Out Forest Fires

KIRKLAND LAKE, May 27 — (CP)—A steady rain during the night put out a five-day forest fire which blazed uncontrolled over 4,000 acres of grass and slash to within two miles of Kirkland Lake's city limits.

Until the rain started late on Friday, more than 500 men had been employed in two 12 hour shifts to prevent the fire from spreading.

Department of Lands and Forests officials here said today that the rain had been general throughout the area and that all fires now were out.

It is expected that bush travel permits banned during the height of the fire outbreaks will now be issued.

Say Typhus Epidemic Stalks 'Quake Area

CUZCO, Peru, May 27—(AP) May 27— (AP) — Threat of a typhus epidemic hovered today over this ancient Andes capital, still reeling from the effect of last Sunday's earthquake in which at least 83 persons were killed and another 200 were injured.

Already eight cases are being treated in Cuzco's only hospital. Pneumonia also is prevalent.

Thousands of persons, terrified by recurring tremors, have fled to the Andes mountains. Others have been kneeling in the city square praying before the statue of the Lord of Earthquakes.

The United States Caribbean command announced today it is flying 42,000 pounds of blankets and first aid supplies to the quake victims.

British Drivers Started On Gas Binge

LONDON, May 27—(AP)—Britain ended gasoline rationing today after almost 11 years in a flare-up of national exuberance that resembled an explosion.

A king's order-in-council lifting the controls took effect this morning, 10 years, eight months and four days after the restrictions had been imposed as a wartime measure.

But already thousands of gallons of gas had been sold overnight by filling stations that jumped the gun after Fuel Minister Philip Noel-Baker announced the big event in the House of Commons Friday.

Noel-Baker said rationing was ending because two American oil companies—Standard Oil of New Jersey and the California Texas Oil Company—had agreed to take sterling instead of dollars for gasoline.

First sales were phenomenal. One London garage sold 3,000 gallons—four days' supply previously—in six hours. The price of gas, recently raised 10 per cent now is three shillings a gallon (about 46 cents).

Motorists danced joyfully around their cars lined up in the longest gas queues in history. They tore up ration coupons or made bonfires of them.

The coupons had entitled them to only 90 miles of pleasure driving each month. Many persons filled cans as well as automobile tanks for fear the sudden rush would dry up the supply.

Report Jury Split On Verdict

HARTFORD, Conn., May 27—(AP)—The climax neared today in the $200,000 libel suit brought by entertainers Paul Draper and Larry Adler to defend their reputations and earning power from charges of Communist sympathies.

A federal jury, locked in debate for almost seven hours Friday, was called back into session at 10 a.m. EDT after a night's sleep.

It weighed these possible verdicts:

To find for Draper or Adler or both and give them either substantial or token damages.

To find for the defendant, Mrs. Hester McCullough, a 32-year-old Greenwich, Conn., housewife, who claims she had every right to call the entertainers pro-Communist.

The long debate among the panel of eight women and four men indicated the possibility of a hung jury as the result of the four-week trial.

The libel suit was based on a letter Mrs. McCullough sent the Greenwich Community Concert Association, protesting its sponsorship of a Draper-Adler concert in January, 1949.

Provinces Ask For More Power

OTTAWA, May 27 (CP) — A move to extend the powers of the provinces in relation to taxation and other matters will be considered by the Supreme Court of Canada following a two-day legal battle between federal and provincial lawyers.

In the Supreme Court Friday Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret and six other justices reserved their decision on a submission by the Nova Scotia government that the dominion and provinces should be permitted to exchange their legislative powers.

Ontario and Alberta supported Nova Scotia, while contrary argument was made by an official of the Federal Justice Department, who explained, however, that the Federal Government was not opposing the delegation of powers. Argument centred around a bill introduced by the Nova Scotia government in 1947, which was subsequently ruled out by the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia as "unconstitutional."

Nine Cadets Pass Morse Code Test

NORWOOD, May 27.—(ENS).—Nine cadets of Norwood High school recently passed the Morse code test sponsored by the Canadian army. The boys put much effort into this by constant study and practice. They were awarded cash prizes for their effort.

Those who passed were: Grade IX Marvyn Scott, Robert Danford and Gerald Johnson; Grade X, Jack Stackhouse, Lloyd Oliver, Roy Ashe, Richard Fredericks, Daniel Longauer and Jack Youngs.

Board Refuses To Tax Race Winnings

OTTAWA, May 27—(CP)—A decision handed down by the Income Tax Appeal Board supports the view that the man who goes out to the race track occasionally and happens to hit the jackpot—even repeatedly—should not have to account for his winnings to the income tax collector.

The decision announced Friday affected one man particularly but an official said later that it also would affect the thousands of horse-race lovers who go out to the track each year in the hope of hitting the jackpot, and keep wondering what the government will do about their winnings.

In a nutshell, the board's decision implies that the government may do as it pleases, but if the case ever comes before the appeal board, then the bettor is almost certain to get favorable treatment—that is if he can prove he is an occasional bettor.

The decision won't help the bookmaker or the habitual bettor who does no other work but follows the tracks, living by what he wins, and starving by what he doesn't.

Treated On Merits

"Each case will be treated on its merit," the official said. "There are cases where it will be difficult for the government to decide the category in which the bettor falls."

Friday's decision will be particularly gratifying to William Scott Walker of Winterburn, Alta. He won an appeal against the government which was trying to assess him with having taxable earnings of $17,863 in 1946 and 1947.

Walker, who is called "Lucky Walker" by his track friends, appealed to the board and won his case when he claimed that the money earned over a seven-year period, 1941-47, in occasional betting.

Walker, whose regular business is farming, also won another point in which he asserted that the amount of cash he had in the bank in 1941 was $10,000—and not $5,000 as determined by the government. In winning that point, he cut down the department's estimate of his income in later years and therefore the amount of tax he was liable to pay.

Plan Band Concerts At Nicholls Oval

The Peterborough Citizens' band, the Salvation Army band, the Peterborough Film Council and the Peterborough Ministerial Association will conduct the Sunday night concerts this year to be held at the Nicholls Oval bandstand.

Several week-night programs have been agreed to by the Citizens and the Salvation Army bands. The Salvation Army band will play a concert at the exhibition grounds on July 4 and the Citizens' band on July 20.

The schedule of band concerts for the summer is: June 4, Salvation Army, Oval; June 11, Citizens' band, Oval; June 18, Salvation Army, Oval; June 25, Citizens' band, Oval; July 2, Film Council, Oval; July 4, Salvation Army, Exhibition; July 9, Citizens' band, Oval; July 16, Salvation Army, Oval; July 20, Citizens, Exhibition; July 23, Film Council, Oval; July 30, Ministerial Association, Oval; August 6, Film Council, Oval; August 13, Citizens, Oval; August 20, Salvation Army, Oval; August 27, Citizens, Oval.

Boy Fractures Arm

HAVELOCK, May 27 (ENS)—Bobby Revoy, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Revoy, suffered a broken left arm on Thursday afternoon in a ball game in the school grounds. He was treated by Dr. D. J. Holdcroft and was taken to Peterborough on Friday for X-rays. The game was supervised by H. Hunter of the Public School teaching staff.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

"I watched a very good player the other night," relates a Cincinnati reader; "and noticed that she habitually discarded cards that matched her closed canasta. For example, she would have a canasta of kings and would pick up an extra king. Instead of melding it, she would discard it as quickly as she could.

"I didn't like to ask questions for fear of seeming ignorant. However, maybe you will be good enough to tell me why she did this and whether or not it was a good idea."

It will be a pleasure to oblige. First, however, let me assure you that any good player loves to answer an occassional intelligent question. Just wait until the hand is over and pop your question. The person you ask will feel flattered that you came to her (or him) for advice.

Now for the question itself. Suppose you have a canasta of kings, including five kings and two wild cards. There are only three kings left in the whole deck. It isn't very likely that either opponent has two of those three kings in his hand, particularly if you have the third one yourself.

In other words, when you pick up an extra king, you can discard it with great confidence that it will not get picked up by the next player. If you melded the king (by adding it to your canasta), you would score 10 points. It may cost you as much as 20 points to discard the king instead of melding it. Wouldn't you gladly pay 20 points each to turn to be assured of a safe discard? Safety is actually worth a great deal more.

That's not all, however. Suppose you discard your king safely enough but that your next discard is picked up. Now your opponent has a king that he doesn't know what to do with. He can't meld it. If he keeps it in his hand, he has to make room for it by throwing a more useful card. If he discards it, your partner can pick it up—together with any other cards there may be in the discard pile.

In short, when you discard a card that matches one of your closed canastas, you are putting into the discard pile a card that your opponent cannot use immediately and that will be a thorn in his flesh if he gets it later on.

Q—We were playing two-hand Canasta. I made an insufficient meld. Can I just put the cards back in my hand without penalty, or is there a penalty as there is in four-hand Canasta?

A—There is no penalty. You may put the cards back in your hand and continue the hand as though nothing had happened. In the two-hand game you haven't helped a partner by showing your cards. If anything, you have helped your opponent. Hence there is no need to penalize you.

Q—In a three-hand game, the winner collects from both opponents. Does the second-best player collect from the last man?

A—Both methods are used. In some game, only the winner collects. In other games the man in the middle wins from the bottom man as well. When playing with a new group, it's wise to agree beforehand which method you will use. If you forget to ask what they do, you must abide by the custom of the other players.

Blame Combustion

HULL, Que., May 27 — (CP)—Hull Fire Chief Adelard Audette announced Friday that spontaneous combustion was the cause of the tragic $250,000 fire in the Hull Normal School last week in which four nuns were burned to death.

Navy Bars Unification Rebels At Demotion Plan

OTTAWA, May 27—(CP). — Armed forces unification hit a snag Friday as the navy rebelled against an army and air force proposal to allow reduction in rank as a penalty for military officers. A spirited navy spokesman said the fleet wants no part of this "entirely new departure."

The Commons Defense Committee, discussing a bill to consolidate defense legislation in one act, came across the first sign of a breach in the unification of the laws of the three forces to create one code of discipline for the first time. It finally postponed judgment.

The clause proposed to have one law for the army and air force, another for the navy. The first two could reduce an officer's rank as a punishment for misconduct unless he was the equivalent of a lieutenant-colonel or higher. There was no such provision for the navy.

There now is a wide gap between officer punishments—reprimand and dismissal with disgrace.

Wing Cmdr. H. A. McLarn said it started with the wartime RCAF "to cope with the great number of offenses by young officers who had been commissioned swiftly and had risen to responsibility swiftly. It allowed, say, a flight lieutenant to be knocked down to a flying officer and removed from combat leadership responsibility.

The air force wanted it kept in. The army had agreed, it was a good idea.

Then came Cmdr. P. Hurcomb. The navy he said, felt that if an officer should be reduced in rank he should be discharged, in fairness to the service and to himself.

"He's no good to us," he said, "that's the way we feel."

A demoted officer lost prestige and respect. He could not be discharged as a man could. This "new departure" had caused "a great deal of disagreement" at defense headquarters.

Union Director Been Reinstated

GLACE BAY, N. S., May 27—(CP)—The executive board of United Mine Workers (CCL) District 26 voted by a close margin for reinstatement of research director C. B. Wade, fired by president Freeman Jenkins last week-end, it was learned here Friday night.

The meeting was closed and none of the board members would comment.

But it was learned from reliable sources that these two major moves were made:

1. The board voted, on a close, split ballot, for reinstatement of the former Queens University lecturer as director of research and education for the 13,000-member union.

2. The board ordered the name of Bob Stewart, only opponent to Mr. Jenkins in elections scheduled for next month, stricken from the ballot. Jenkins said last weekend that Stewart was ineligible, automatically returning himself to the president's position.

When Jenkins announced Wade's sudden firing, Jenkins said it was "part of a showdown . . . for removal of Communist influence" in the Maritimes' largest union.

Study Weather As Flood Cause

TORONTO, May 27 (CP) Weather forecasts, not flood warnings, are the business of the Dominion Meteorological Bureau here but a detailed indictment of the weather as the cause of the disastrous Manitoba floods has been worked out by one of the bureau's experts.

C. C. Boghner, heading the climatological section of the Transport Department's meteorological service, prepared a study of the weather factors entering into the Red river floods. With the river level steadily dropping and the official word that no disaster risk remains, his study will become a pattern of what to look for in future.

Boghner found the chief contributing weather factors were unusually heavy rainfall, which saturated the soil before the freeze-up; the freeze-up was later than usual; unusual cold and deep penetration of frost in the Red river basin from December to mid-February; heavy late winter snowfall; a late spring with sub-normal temperatures in April and May which reduced normal evaporation, and finally heavy rainfall in April and May.

Under the transfer, Canada will keep 40 Canadian-flag ships operating under a Federal subsidy of not more than $3,000,000.

Another 1,200 men would continue to find work in the Canadian tanker fleet and in specialized ocean-going vessels.

Students Honor Two Teachers

Some 800 PCVS students from Grade X to Grade XIII in the collegiate auditorium Friday honored Miss Margaret A. Lees and Lorne M. Richardson, both retiring this year from the teaching staff.

On behalf of the students Sam Murphy, Students' Council president, presented Miss Lees with a silver tray and Mr. Richardson with a leather club bag.

Combining their years of service at the collegiate they have taught for 56 year. Miss Lees joined the staff at the collegiate in 1925. Since then she has taught English, French and History in the commercial department.

Mr. Richardson joined the collegiate staff in 1919 upon his return from World War I. He is head of the geography department.

Mr. Murphy, in presenting the gifts, told the students that any profession calls upon its members to serve and work with people. The teaching profession, he added, has an additional burden "working with people like you and me."

"When we think of the number of years Miss Lees and Mr. Richardson have spent in this school, working in the interests of students like ourselves, we realize that we owe them a debt which can never be repaid. PCVS will never be quite the same without them."

Mr. Murphy added that he felt sorry for the students that will enter PCVS next year for they will not have the opportunity of working with Miss Lees and Mr. Richardson.

"Today I have the privilege of presenting to Miss Lees and Mr. Richardson a tangible token of our appreciation of their efforts in the school we love. In presenting these gifts I would like Miss Lees and Mr. Richardson to accept them not only as a token of our appreciation but also as a token of what we, the students, feel toward the teaching staff, the finest in Ontario."

Little Buyer Has Fling On Stock Market

By FRANK KAPLAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The little guy had his fling on the stock market this week.

And the big-time operator—the one that buys dollar stocks—sat back and watched the penny operator have his fun.

The big industrial stocks faded into the background following almost a full year as the centre of attraction, moving sluggishly under considerable downward pressure but managing to hold their ground as investors tallied up the current good business picture.

In Toronto and Montreal, where most of the penny mining stocks are listed, the little guy—the general public—bombarded brokers with buy and sell orders. The stock that sold anywhere from five to 20 cents was his favorite.

Everybody was doing it, Monday in Toronto when business boomed in the busiest session in three years. Some penny golds were carried ahead but generally there were just as many people ready to sell as there were to buy.

There was a large dose of financing and development news to digest. Small mining companies have increased their activities in recent weeks. A group of companies with property or acquiring property in the Red Lake district, Northern Ontario, held much of the attention.

Golds Climb

In Toronto, leading senior and junior gold producers climbed slowly to chalk up a gain of 3.02 on the Exchange's index of representative stocks. Base metal stocks encountered considerable attention for a loss of 1.16 on the index.

Sudden switching to western oil stocks Friday pulled that list ahead 5.62 from the previous Friday to the highest point on the index since the boom days of Turner valley in 1937.

Paper stocks led a handful of leading industrials ahead another notch in their 11-month-old bull market. The index gained 2.60.

In New York, interest waned over five days and the Associated Press 60-stock average closed Friday at 78.9, a loss of .2 from the previous Friday. The drop in the average was the first in four weeks.

Grain markets gained strongly. In Chicago, soybeans were in heavy demand, twice climbing the daily 10-cent limit. July rye, oats and wheat also gained. In Winnipeg, May oats, barley and rye firmed.

OWEN SOUND WINS

Owen Sound Crescents displayed power in all departments on Friday night to defeat Mimico Mounties 21-9 at Owen Sound in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series. Playing-coach Doug Gillespie scored four goals and two assists to pace the Owen Sound attack. Ken Dixon netted two goals for Mimico.

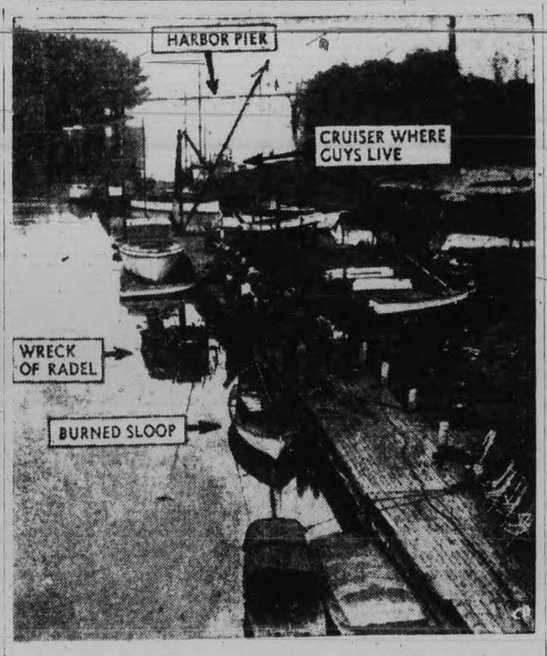
St. Laurent Plans To Inspect Cabano Damage

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que., May 27 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Friday was due to leave here for fire-stricken Cabano where he plans to inspect what once was the thriving commercial section of the little lumber town.

The Prime Minister arrived here Thursday night after a tour of Rimouski's razed western side during which he heard about reconstruction projects from Mayor Victor Lepage and city councillors.



During his tour of the ruins, relief centres, and of the gutted mills of Price Brothers Limited, the Prime Minister made no statement regarding federal aid to the stricken area.

Mr. St. Laurent said:

"I have not come here to talk, but to see and listen. I repeat to the mayor that I bring him Canada's deep sympathy and that I am happy to see that the courage of Canadians is strong enough to allow them to face the future."

Mr. St Laurent visited Rimouski Coliseum where some 1,500 meals are served daily to the homeless and then went to the Quebec Colonization Department warehouse where food, clothes and furniture gifts from all parts of Canada and some United States points are stacked.

Meeting a group of workers rebuilding a house, the Prime Minister asked for a hammer, a plank and some nails. Then he nailed the plank into its place.

BLAST KILLS TWO—Two men were killed and four others injured when the former National Research Council radar experimental ship Radel exploded and burned in Oakville harbor, 20 miles west of Toronto, Thursday night. Dead are Garland Guy of Newfoundland, mechanic on the Radel, and John Pecze of Galt. The partially submerged wreck of the Radel, which was to start salvage operations in Lake Ontario this week, is shown in this photo. Also shown is the cruiser where Guy and his wife lived. Two crew members were hurled 50 feet from the ship onto the dock by the force of the explosion.

Broadway Shows Said Down; 72 Productions

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, May 27 —(CP)— Statistically speaking, the Broadway theatre season now ending was a disappointment compared with two previous years.

Figures compiled by this department show a total of 62 incoming productions during the drama year ending May 31, compared with 72 in 1948-49 and 89 two seasons ago. The current season's productions break down in 28 straight plays, 13 musicals and revues, 12 revivals and nine miscellaneous shows, including ballet and opera.

The theatre year's start and end is determined by actors' equity contracts, which run from June 1.

Quality Better

From the standpoint of quality, the 1949-50 season seemed better.

It included "The Consul," a tour de force for Gian-Carlo Menotti. The 37-year-old Italian-born composer, wrote the words as well as the music and staged the production of this musical drama—a tragedy built around the efforts of a family to flee one of Europe's "Iron Curtain" countries.

It also included T. S. Eliot's "The Cocktail Party," a play whose real meaning still intrigues—and plagues—many intellectually-minded theatre-goers, and "The Member of the Wedding," a vividly-fashioned examination of the mind and emotions of a teen-age girl at a personal crisis in her life.

Of the incoming productions during the season now ending, six straight plays, six musicals and one revival ("Peter Pan") are still running and apparently set for at least part of the summer months.

Still At It

Productions still running but already announced as closing shortly include "The Innocents," "I Know My Love," the Alfred Lunt-Lynn Fontanne vehicle; "Lost in the Stars," the musical tragedy based on Alan Paton's novel of the South African racial problems; "The Devil's Disciple", a revival of the Shaw play; "As You Like It," Shakespeare's Forest-of-Arden gambol with Katharine Hepburn; and the San Carlo Opera Company, which ends its season next week.

The Lunts plan to go on tour through the United States in the autumn with "I Know My Love," and "Lost in the Stars" is expected to resume its run in Manhattan after summer's heat abates.

THANK YOU CANADA—Farmer Bruce MacKenzie, left, of Morris, Man., and Ted Burch, a resident of the inundated Wildwood district of Winnipeg, are flying across Canada to voice the gratitude of all Red River flood victims for the response to the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund. The tour started Tuesday.

When Is Ship "She" Not "It" There's A Difference—Navy

OTTAWA, May 27 —(CP)— When is a ship a "she" and when an "it?"

There are differences, a navy officer told the Commons defence committee today.

The question came up as the committee studied a bill to consolidate defence legislation. A clause on wartime convoys referred to a vessel as "it".

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, (PC-Nanaimo) pricked up his ears. "Since when," he asked "has a ship not been a she?"

Cmdr. P. Hurcomb, defence department law officer, said with a smile that phraseology was "one of the sacrifices the navy made to services uniformity." However the sacrifice wasn't total.

As far as the navy was concerned only His Majesty's ships were "she's". Other vessels, he indicated, were of neither gender.

Cmdr. Hurcomb came under facetious questioning over another clause, making special reference to desertion from a navy ship.

Gen. Parkes asked if that meant desertion was more prevalent in the navy than the other services. Cmdr. Hurcomb said it didn't.

As a matter of fact, he said, there was less desertion from the navy.

L. T. Stick (L-Trinity-Conception), said he wasn't so sure about that. Newfoundland should know. A good chunk of its early population resulted from naval desertions.

"Ah yes," said the officer, "but they were British deserters."

The clause, he said, simply sought to emphasize the offence of naval desertion because of the problem of replacing a deserter once a ship left port.

Gordon Higgins To Visit City

Gordon F. Higgins, OBE, KC, member of the House of Commons from St. John's Newfoundland is scheduled to address an open meeting of the Life Underwriters Association on Monday night in the Empress hotel. Every year the Underwriters bring to Peterborough an outstanding Canadian to address this opening meeting. Last year the speaker was Minister of External Affairs Lester B. Pearson.

Mr. Higgins comes from a family who for years has been represented in the public life of Newfoundland. His father late Hon. Mr. Justice W. J. Higgins represented the district of St. John's East under responsible government from 1913 to 1938. Gordon F. Higgins is a lawyer and has been practising law since 1931. He was member of the National Convention just prior to Newfoundland entering the Dominion and was a member of the first delegation to Ottawa to discuss the proposition of Confederation.

In the last federal election he was elected to the House of Commons as a Progressive Conservative.

Future Of Diesel Locomotive Depends On Cost Railway Coal

OTTAWA, May 27—While the diesel locomotive has had a spectacular development and has ousted the conventional steam locomotive, it holds its premier position by a somewhat precarious margin, S. W. Fairweather vice-president, research and development, Canadian National Railways, today told members of the Ottawa Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Dealing with the subject, "New Developments in Transportation," Mr. Fairweather found that gas-turbine locomotive "even more intriguing." "It has a good chance of capturing the field for heavy main line movements," he said.

Cut in Cost of Coal

At the same time, the railway executive observed "a change in relative fuel prices to anything approaching pre-war conditions would bring the coal-burning steam locomotive back into the picture—not in its conventional form, it is true, but probably in a form which would burn the lowest grade of run-of-mine coal with efficiency higher than that obtained by the conventional locomotive using the best screened coal."

Mr. Fairweather pointed out that the Canadian railways have such a large investment in steam locomotives that research is indicated as to how this investment best be salvaged in the change-over period.

"Previously," he said, "research in locomotive design was mostly conducted by the locomotive companies, but now that these companies have changed over to diesel production, such research must be carried on by the railways."

"The coal industry also has a lively interest in this subject since railway coal normally constitutes a considerable segment of their business," he observed.

$130 Millions on Coal

All these types of locomotive power have specific advantage for specific types of work, Mr. Fairweather indicated. Selection of type is governed by economic consideration. In this connection Mr. Fairweather estimated that Canadian railways spent at least $130,000,000 annually in obtaining fuel for their locomotives. In the case of the Canadian National System, the expenditure is $70,000,000, amounting to 15 per cent of the total expense of operation.

Mr. Fairweather said a thermal efficiency of 8 per cent of a conventional modern steam locomotive could be tolerated when the mine price of coal was $2 per ton. Coal in Canada, delivered to the tender, now costs $10 per ton.

"A thermal efficiency of 8 per cent became an intolerable burden, and engineering talent, in seeking to remedy matters, turned to the internal combustion engine with its higher thermal efficiency."

"Basically, it is fuel economy which has given the diesel locomotive such a commanding lead over steam locomotives that it is probably true that no more conventional steam locomotives will be built," he stated.

Oil Burners

Mr. Fairweather believed the steam locomotive, converted to oil-burning, will make its last stand in Western Canada, where there is a plentiful and cheap supply of bunker "C" oil, "but it will be many years before the steam locomotive passes out of existence."

Although the gas-turbine has a lower thermal efficiency than the diesel, this is offset by the lower cost of fuel. The diesel burns refined fuel oil and a considerable amount of expensive lubricating oil, while the former burns bunker "C" oil, the lowest refinery product, and has a negligible consumption of lubricating oil. The gas-turbine's power increases during cold weather, a particular Canadian advantage, and in addition, waste heat from the engine is available for heating of passenger trains. Steam for heating the cars, diverted from the steam locomotive, reduces the power in cold weather and is a frequent cause of off-schedule performance in winter time. Diesels must be equipped with an auxiliary automatic steam-boiler burning diesel fuel, an expensive method.

Freedom of The City Conferred on 50th H.A.A. Regiment R.C.A.

WHEREAS the history of Peterborough is closely identified with every feat of British arms, even as far back as the Napoleonic Wars, because many of the original settlers of the community had fought in those wars under Wellington or Nelson, and since that time citizens of Peterborough have always been prompt to answer Canada's call for military service during all periods of danger and conflict.

AND WHEREAS Peterborough's military tradition in times of peace has been centred for more than 50 years in the 57th Battalion Peterborough Rangers, which battalion bore all the battle honours of the famed 2nd Battalion C.E.F. (1914-1918) and was closely identified with the Middlesex Regiment of the British Army.

AND WHEREAS since the end of the last war, in the reorganization of Canada's defence forces the 57th Battalion, more lately known as the Peterborough Prince of Wales Rangers, has become the 50th Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, and as an artillery unit does not have military colours but centres its esprit de corps on the quality and perfect efficiency of its artillery pieces.

AND WHEREAS it seems proper and fitting that the colours of the Peterborough Rangers Battalion should be deposited for safe-keeping in a hallowed place where other colours of famous Peterborough military units are kept, and there treasured and displayed to the citizens of Peterborough on proper occasions.

AND WHEREAS it has been arranged that these colours be borne in a suitable procession from the Peterborough Armouries to St. John's Anglican Church, and in a ceremony at 3.00 o'clock Sunday afternoon next, May 29th, the colours will be accepted by the rector of that church for safe-keeping.

AND WHEREAS at 2.15 o'clock on the same afternoon in the Peterborough Armouries there will be a modified ceremony of trooping the colours which will be the last occasion on which these particular colours will appear in such a ceremony.

THEREFORE, I proclaim this coming Sunday, May 28th, 1950, as a special day for citizens of Peterborough to join with the local regiment in the observance of its history and tradition and that the public should endeavour to be spectators of these two ceremonies.

AND I also, on the authority of a resolution of the Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough, under date of April 17th, 1950, grant to the 50th H.A.A. Regiment, R.C.A., its officers and men the freedom of the City of Peterborough, being fully appreciative of all the civic privileges which such freedom grants.

Signed this 27th day of May, 1950.

MAX J. SWANSTON,
Mayor.

Problems Of Old Age Pensions

A joint committee of both Houses of Parliament has been appointed to study present federal and provincial old age pension legislation and alternative measures. Briefs are being presented, expert opinion heard, and special groups are making recommendations. Old age security provisions by governments are a perplexing problem. The country will not allow its elderly people to suffer privation. There is a newer concept, quite apart from a charitable intention, that when a person reaches a certain age he is automatically entitled to be supported by the country in which he has spent his working years; that is, that old age pensions should be automatic for all, apart from need. Offset against these are the vital matters of costs and social results. How much can the country bear to pay without breaking its back financially and stultifying individual initiative?

The present Old Age Pensions Act provides for maximum pensions of $40 a month to persons over seventy, whose annual income is not more than $600 (including pensions) if single, or $1,080 if married. Pensions are paid by the Provinces, with Federal Government reimbursement. In some provinces the basic maximum pension is supplemented by the provincial treasury.

Statements are being made that $40 a month pension is grossly inadequate; that the means test is an affront, and that the age limits should be reduced. The system is not perfect. The parliamentary committee is attempting to find ways to make it better, within the country's ability to pay. At present federal and provincial expenditures on old age pensions total 135 million dollars a year, and there are 293,000 pensioners. The expenditure has increased three-fold in the last seven years, and the number of pensioners has doubled in the last thirteen.

Many persons, including the Minister of National Health and Welfare, wish to see the means test eliminated. There is a general recognition that $40 is a pittance in these days. Can the country afford more and should it? These are questions the parliamentary committee is faced with.

If a $60 monthly old age pension were made available to all men of 65 and over, and all women of 60 and over, without a means test, it would cost Canadian taxpayers and workers next year $974,952,000, and in 1961, $1,200,744,000. It is obvious that the present economic fabric of Canada would crack under those demands. If $50 a month pensions were paid to all men over seventy and all women over 65, the cost next year would be $526,260,000, which is twice the cost of the baby bonus, and four times the present cost of old age pensions.

Conditions and social thinking have changed since the Act was passed in 1927. Its basic structure may need changing. For instance, the national income has swollen vastly, and this year's much greater pension payments are not a greater percentage of the nation's income. Another change is significant. Canada's population has aged, and world vital statistics show that life expectancy has increased; for women it is now 70, for men 67. A century ago people were "old" at fifty or sixty. How old is "old" now? Can a man think himself old at 70; can the country afford to allow its army of people aged between sixty and seventy to be idle? Instead of reducing the pensionable age to 60 or 65, perhaps it should be raised to 75. And why should women be considered pensionable at a younger age than men? Women outlive men, and are healthier and better able to work longer.

• • •

Before Canada embarks on a grandiose billion dollar scheme of old age pensions, very detailed answers to very large questions must be given. As the Honourable Paul Martin said in the Commons when introducing the motion to establish the joint committee on pensions, "It will do us no good, I think, but infinite harm as a people, to embrace a scheme which is beyond our capacity to continue in future years."

The Anglicans And The Manichees

The council for social service of the Anglican synod of the Toronto diocese is under fire because it has said that drinking intoxicating liquors is not to be deprecated so long as it is not carried to excess. Apparently this mild and common sense view of the situation has given great offence to those who feel that drinking in any degree is an evil. However, we think that we understand the view of the Toronto Anglican clergy. Their church has for many centuries fought a heresy which is dear to the hearts of the anti-alcohol forces.

That heresy is called Manichaeism, and although it is complex in its nature, it may be briefly summarized thus: the followers of Manichee, believing that Satan is co-eternal with God, believed also that certain material things were the special instruments of Satan and were therefore incapable of any good use. Christians, on the contrary, believing that all things are from God, believe also that all things may be used in a manner pleasing to God. From time to time outbreaks of Manichaeism have troubled the Christian world, in which such diverse things as money, alcohol and women have been accused of being the direct instruments of Satan, designed to lure frail man from the path of salvation.

The Manichee attitude toward strong drink, though not as powerful as it was fifty years ago, still rages in many parts of Canada, and the Manichees are now in full cry after the Toronto Anglicans.

Banner Province

During his official tour of Peterborough last Saturday, Prime Minister St. Laurent was smilingly presented with a series of references to "banner" provinces. One speaker named Ontario, the next spoke diplomatically of two banner provinces, and Mr. St. Laurent countered by calling Ontario one of the ten banner provinces. The friendly banter indicates a wholesome condition, economically as well as socially, and indeed, post-war developments have made the whole country "banner." Without desiring to make any special claims for Ontario, we can take this province's present position to be the flag-staff for the Dominion.

In the past five years Ontario's population has increased by half a million. It is now 4,500,000, a third of the total population of Canada. The personal income of these Ontario residents amounts to forty per cent. of Canada's total. The increased population, the capital investment in new plant and equipment of all kinds ($4.4 billion in the five years 1944-49), the buoyant business conditions and diversity and activity of industry, promise a robust economic future for this province. The vast new Hydro projects will contribute to this: $600,000,000 is being spent (up to 1952) on expanding the power capacity, $200,000,000 on the frequency standardization.

Other physical and financial signs of mature vigour are the 73,000 miles of highways, 58,000 of them hard-surfaced, a nearly fifty per cent. increase in the number of registered motor vehicles, and provincial surpluses during the last five years amounting to $39,358,154, applied entirely to debt reduction, this despite huge expenditures in the same period—$375,500,000 — by the departments of education, health and public welfare alone.

Enrolment in the province's schools has increased from 572,000 in 1945 to 730,000 this year. Seven hundred new schools, or substantial additions to existing ones have been built since the war. Some 62 municipalities have either acquired or are in the process of getting new hospital accommodation, and the province now has in its various hospitals 16,000 beds.

These bits and pieces of information do not tell the whole story; they are flecks of colour on a lusty banner.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We see that a "fact-finding" commission is to investigate the Winnipeg flood. A fact we would like to know is how many warnings of flood have been given during the past ten years, and by whom.

A woman in Chicago has caused a man to be arrested because he kissed her and ran. If she really looks like that no amount of litigation will do anything for it.

A New York dress designer is quoted as saying, "The American woman has a droopy body and busts." Well, if you droop long enough you're likely to bust at last.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.

Dear Pil:

Since last I wrote to you I have gone through what is widely believed to be one of the most moving spiritual experiences a Canadian can sustain—a jaunt through the Rocky Mountains. I enjoyed it, but spiritually I am exactly where I was before. I have seen them in full sunlight, which robs them of all mystery, and I have seen them in a rainy haze, which is much better. I have gaped at chunks of rock which are said to resemble the faces of Indians, though the likeness escaped me. I have looked shudderingly down into gorges over which the train was passing. I have been pleased, diverted and surprised, but I am not one of those who finds a sight of the Rockies an equivalent for getting religion at a revival meeting.

✧ ✧ ✧

To make a shameful confession, the Rockies put me in mind of nothing so much as the first act of "Rose Marie", a musical comedy of my younger days and the favourite theatre entertainment of his late Majesty, King George V. At any moment I expected a lovely French-Canadian girl to leap on the observation car, saying "You make ze marriage wiz me, no?" Or an In'dian girl, more lithe and beautiful than any Indian girl has ever been, to begin a totem dance on the track. The scenery was right: only the actors were missing.

✧ ✧ ✧

Upon arrival in Vancouver, the first thing to meet my eye was a notice, signed by the Chief of Police, warning me against confidence tricksters. It told me in detail how I might expect them to work. I would be approached, first of all, by someone who would try to make friends: this would be "The Steerer" who would eventually steer me to "The Speller", who would sell me Stanley Park or the harbour at a bargain price. Not long after I had read this I was approached by a crafty-looking woman carrying a handful of pasteboards. "Juwanna buy four chances on the Legion car?" she cried, blocking my way. "Madam, you are wasting your time," said I, "I know you for what you are—A Steerer." She shrunk away, muttering unpleasantly. Never let it be said that Marchbanks failed to heed a warning.

✧ ✧ ✧

Vancouver has much to recommend it as a city; indeed, if it were not on the other side of those pestilent mountains I should go there often. Among other attractions it has a large and interesting Chinese quarter, where I ate the best Chinese food I have ever tasted. There are times when I think that I shall give up Occidental cuisine altogether, and eat Chinese food for the rest of my life. After lunch I wandered among the Chinese shops, and found one which sold a scent called "Girl Brand Florida Water." There is a simplicity about that name which enchants me. In the same shop I saw the only piece of Chinese nude art that has ever come my way; the Chinese, as you know, do not care for representations of the nude; but this was plainly the result of Western influence; it was a Chinese girl, lightly draped, holding aloft a bunch of paper flowers. Her legs were short, her body long, and she seemed more amply endowed for sitting than Western standards of beauty permit. It was, I suppose, the kind of thing one finds in Chinese bachelor apartments, just as Occidental bachelors enrich their rooms with ash-trays held aloft by naked beauties in chrome, and drink beer from glasses into which libidinous pictures have been etched. East is East, and West is West, but bachelors are wistful rascals the world over.

✧ ✧ ✧

This transcontinental journey has some curious characteristics which I had not foreseen. Having entrained at Vancouver I have seen many passengers come and go, and have outlasted three dining-cars. I am undisputed Grand Old Man of the observation car, and raw new-comers ask me what the next stop will be, how late we are running, and how the Winnipeg flood is progressing. I have also become a connoisseur of the various types of boredom which are possible on a train, and of these I think that Rainy Day Boredom is the worst. It has rained all day today, and I was surprised to discover this afternoon that even the train staff was affected by it. Let me tell you how I found this out.

✧ ✧ ✧

The porter on my car is a young Moor of pleasant appearance and engaging manners. Passing the hutch where he lurks when not busy I heard a plaintive sound, and peeping in I saw him playing a banjo and crooning to himself the following song, which I jotted down and which may be called

RAINY DAY BLUES

Since I was a nipper,
I have been a tripper,
Here and there and back again.
But as a lifelong rover
I just can't get over
The boredom of a train
In the rain.

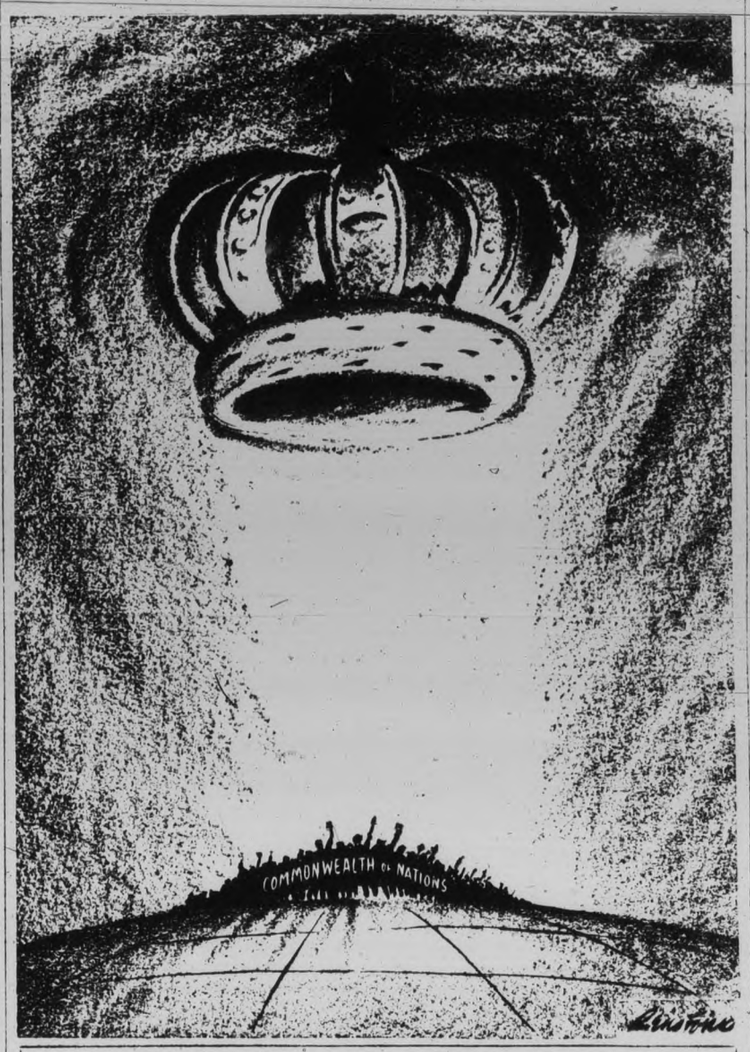
There's boredom of teachers,
And of public speechers,
There's the boredom of the bounding main.
Even parties are a boredom
To those who can't afford 'em,
But they're nothing to a rainy train.

Oh the East is the East
And the West is the West
And the C.P.R. links them twain.
But I wish that I was far
From the bloody C.P.R.
When I'm lookin' at the rain—
(Plink, plonk-a-plink)
The weary, dreary rain—
(Plonk, plonk-a-plunk)
From a train.

There you are: genuine folk-music, straight from the heart.

✧ ✧ ✧

Passed through Winnipeg tonight and no one can deny that it is very, very wet. However, everyone looked cheery, and I made a quick tour of the principal streets without even a pair of rubbers. When I was a child I lived in a village which was flooded regularly every Spring, and I consider myself a judge of inundations. The Winnipeg flood is the genuine article, and when it subsides the inhabitants of the flooded areas are going to find some rather unexpected things on their sofas and in their pianos.



✧ ✧ ✧

Normally I do not mind cigars. I do not smoke them myself, but I have no quarrel with those who do. But on a train — ! Opposite me as I write sits a little bald man with a baby face and a head like a peeled onion who has, for the past 45 minutes, burned and sucked the most villainous stogie I have ever choked over. He has doused it with his drool, and re-lit it, five several times. He is just about to do so again and I must leave him to it, or strike him with the emergency axe, or be sick myself. If he made that stench by any other means, the sanitary inspector would condemn him.

Yours gaggingly,
SAM.

THIS ABOVE ALL

"Other Men's Flowers"

THE MONTREAL STAR

HAD fate not assigned him a military career and a world-wide reputation as a great war captain, Viscount Wavell might well have become a literary and music critic of authority and a poet whose maturing work earned growing admiration and acceptance. He would not have died as Field-Marshal Viscount Wavell, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., G.C.I.E., C.M.G., M.C., and a freed world might not have been preserved in freedom in good part at least because of him. But for himself one can imagine him far happier in "the abode where the Eternal are", in the fields of great poetry where so much of his youth and early manhood were spent.

What poetry meant to Lord Wavell is attested by the anthology which he assembled and which was first published in 1944. The title "Other Men's Flowers" was taken from Montagne who wrote "I have gathered a posie of other men's flowers and nothing but the thread that binds them is my own."

✧ ✧ ✧

The getting together of an anthology is bound to be in large measure a reflection of the taste and judgement of the compiler. The Wavell volume of more than 400 pages is one of the best-rounded, best-selected collections of its kind in the language. The amazing thing about it is narrated in the author's foreword in which he explains that the book is "purely personal" and that it came into being as the result of his amusing himself by setting down in a notebook the poems he could repeat entire or in great part. One wonders whether there are many people, even with retentive memories, capable of a similar feat. Furthermore, how great must his love for poetry have been and how discerning his critical appraisal to have read and re-read and preserved all this in some locked storeroom of a mind preoccupied with things far other than poetry. Not all of the Wavell collection are "gems of purest ray serene." It would have been far less interesting as a human document and as a mirror to the personality of the man had that been so. Now and then there is a bit of commonplace that finds itself on the company of the great mainly, one imagines, because of some special memory or reason known only to the mind that embalmed it. Commonplace there may (rarely) be, but never just fustian.

THE variety in these 425 pages is infinite. "The Hound of Heaven" and "The Lay of St. Cuthbert", a grim collection of "poems of hate" and a lovely "ragbag" with, naturally, every sort of thing in it, classics, many of them, in their own right of joyful nonsense. Nobody, one feels sure, can wander about among "Other Men's Flowers" without a wish to have known the man who made the "posie." A mind that could love and retain so much of the very best in our poetic literature and of such diversity it would have been an immense privilege to know. In the latest years when the warrior came home, to die too soon, it must have been a joy to return and meet the old friends again. It was a happy thing that he was able to carry so much of them with him always.

Only one of his own poems is to be found in the anthology which is quoted here with a characteristic little note appended, "At the end of my garden of other men's flowers, outside the gate, I have put this little wayside dandelion of my own. It has no business here, even outside the garden, but the owner of the lady for whom it was written is anxious for it to be included." The poem is a sonnet "For the Madonna of the Cherries" by Leonardo da Vinci.

Dear Lady of the Cherries, cool, serene,
Untroubled by our follies, strife and fears,
Clad in soft reds and blues and mantle green,
Your memory has been with me all these years.
Long years of battle, bitterness and waste,
Dry years of sun and dust and Eastern skies,
Hard years of ceaseless struggle, endless haste,
Fighting against greed for power and hate and lies.
Your red-gold hair, your slowly smiling face
For pride in your dear son, your King of Kings,
Fruits of the kindly earth, and truth and grace,
Colour and light, and all warm lovely things—
For all that loveliness, that warmth and light
Blessed Madonna, I go back to fight

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith the Lord, As the new wine is found in the cluster, and one saith, Destroy it not; for a blessing is in it: so will I do for my servants' sakes, that I may not destroy them all. And I will bring forth a seed out of Jacob, and out of Judah an inheritor of my mountains: and mine elect shall inherit it, and my servants shall dwell there.

And Sharon shall be a fold of flocks, and the valley of Achor a place for the herds to lie down in, for my people that have sought me. The wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock: and dust shall be the serpent's meat. (Isa. 65: 8-10, 25.)

And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

A BRITISH OPINION

RUNAWAY ROMANCE OVER THE ANVIL

Progress of Peterborough: XXI

Priests, Teachers Come To Peterborough First Mills, Otonabee Bridge Built

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Before the Irish sailed from Cork in May 1825, Bishop McDonell of Glengarry went to London to persuade the Colonial Office to allow Roman Catholic priests to accompany them to Canada; however, Archdeacon Strachan of York, a member of the Family Compact and Anglican leader in Upper Canada, was in London also and blocked this wise proposal. Nevertheless, Bishop McDonell sent a mission to serve the Irish emigrants as soon as they were settled around Peterborough.

On January 29, 1826, Mrs. Stewart wrote: "The Irish are principally Roman-Catholics; a priest also lives here. There seems to be a total want of religion among them . . . " and on February 14: "Stewart returned more comfortably than he went, as our Roman Catholic priest, Father Crowley, was coming from York, and was delighted to have him for a companion . . . " This was the Father Crowley who was aided on the Governor's visit by land grants in Peterborough and Ops; he served in the district until 1833. In the spring of 1826 Father Ahearn arrived, and lived in a cabin on the corner of George and Charlotte Streets, celebrating Mass regularly in Dr. Reade's house.

The sketchy records of early Douro mention a Father Vaughan who served a mission circuit in that area, celebrating Mass in cabins enroute, such as that of George Clark in the 1st Concession. Others mentioned as travelling through the backwoods settlements from Ops to Marmora and from Rice Lake to Stony Lake were Fathers O'Hearne, Butler, Burke, Coyle and Hagen. Bishop McDonnell wrote to the Colonial Office on March 6, 1827, after a visit to the Irish settlements around Peterborough, praising the progress made and asking Government aid to provide them with 20 priests and 20 teachers; but little assistance was forthcoming except a few lots of land.

To the Church of England adherents, who included most of the gentry, government aid was more tangible. In the spring within a month or two of the governor's visit a combined church and school was built, on the ground just behind the present site of the western building of Central Public School, facing diagonally toward the corner of Murray and Water Streets. This log building with shingle roof could hold 150 persons, and was the largest building in town, situated among dense woods overlooking the plain. Here Rev. Samuel Armour conducted Church of England services and school classes from 1826 to 1832.

Armour was born in north Ireland in 1785 and educated in Scotland. After coming to Upper Canada, he secured the favour of Archdeacon Strachan, by which he was appointed as schoolmaster at Peterborough, with the princely government salary of £20 a year. On September 3, 1826, he was ordained into the Anglican ministry, and in January 1827 the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel (in Britain) was persuaded by Strachan to support the Peterborough mission, paying "Reverend Armour lately ordained deacon by the bishop thereto with a salary of £75 a year." Mrs. Stewart noted on January 1, 1827. "An interesting event took place about three weeks ago in the village. Thirty-five Indians, men, women, children, came to our log schoolhouse, used for a Church of England service, by Rev. Mr. Armour . . . " Rev. Armour rode circuit through the eastern townships, holding services usually once a month in pioneer homes such as that of Lt. Rubidge in Otonabee; Rev. Joseph Thompson of Cavan did the same in the western townships, holding Anglican services in the homes of pioneers like John Nelson Sr. of Cavan.

Methodist Missions

One of the earliest Methodist chapels in the district was built in 1826 on the site of Millbrook, where Rev. Anson Green of Cobourg came regularly to preach. The same year another chapel was built on the northwest corner of lot 13, concession 2, Emily township. Rev. James Evans, Methodist missionary to the Indians of the Newcastle District, also preached often at the homes of John Fife, John Stewart and George Howson in Otonabee and in various homes in Monaghan and Smith.

A more famous Methodist, Rev. Egerton Ryerson, in 1827 served a term on the Cobourg Circuit, including ministrations to the Rice and Mud Lake Indians. He noted on Sept. 23, 1827 in his diary "Religion is at a low ebb among the people", but was encouraged by the devoutness of the Rice Lake Indians, whom he praised: "The Rice Lake Indians appear to be more intelligent (than the Scugog and Mud Lake groups), and are the handsomest company of men I have seen. Potash, their chief is very majestic in appearance, possesses a commanding voice and speaks with great animation." With the aid of Peter Jones, an Indian missionary, he succeeded in getting them to start farming, and helped them build a schoolhouse on the reserve. Peter Jones wrote Robinson Sept. 28, 1829, on behalf of the tribe, urging their "Great White Father" to stop the white men "making depredations on their hunting-grounds"; it was next to impossible, however, for the government to prevent such encroachments.

The only Baptist missionary mentioned in this early period in the Newcastle District was Rev. R. Scott, who had been sent by the New England Company about 1828 to serve among the Indians from the Trent River to Lake Scugog.

No mention is made of Presbyterian preachers before the thirties; as there were only two Church of Scotland ministers in Upper Canada at this time, they probably visited the district only occasionally.

Schools

The grammar school at Peterborough was the only one in the region north of Rice Lake to receive direct government aid. But, as we have seen in earlier articles, the staunch pioneers were determined that their children should receive elementary education in spite of every obstacle. In most cases the government granted a half-lot or quarter-lot for a school site, and the parents by their own labour erected a school. The teacher boarded with one parent after another for a few weeks at a time during the short school terms, and had to be content with a few dollars in cash each year. There was no government inspection of either schools or teachers in those early decades, so that conditions varied greatly depending on the community and the teacher.

In Emily township, Patrick Baragy began a school as soon as he was settled in 1825. Before 1830, a school was built close to the mill and chapel on the site of Millbrook. In Otonabee David Housten, a Scot, started the first school on the east half of lot 20, concession 4, in 1829. In Douro, Henry Sheehan was the first teacher. The labours of these and other pioneer teachers, working in little log schools with few texts, no blackboards or maps, and very little other equipment, deserve more recognition than they have ever received.

Grist Mill

The third request of the settlers granted by the governor was the erection of government grist and sawmills. Before the spring break-up in 1826, the government called for tenders to build the mills and mill-dam on the Otonabee River near the north end of the townsite. Horace Perry, Thos. Harper and others submitted tenders, and Perry's was selected. The disappointed Harper thereupon petitioned for a millsite at the south end of the townsite, which the executive council curtly rejected "as it may interfere with the Honorable Peter Robinson's arrangement." The dam was built first, in the autumn of 1826, across the Otonabee at the foot of London Street, where the river turns eastward for 200 yards or so. The flume cut across the short side of the triangle (the river forming the other two sides) down to the mills erected on the west bank just above Murray Street; the spillway of the modern powerplant runs down the same route at present. Early in 1827 the sawmill was begun, and men from many miles around gave several days' free labour to speed the job.

As soon as it was completed, it sawed lumber to build the gristmill, which was finished in the summer of 1828; together they were the largest buildings north of Lake Ontario in Newcastle district. Surveyor Smith wrote to Galt in 1827: "There is great waterpower on the townplot, on which mills are now being built by government on an extensive scale to pack 40 bbl. of flour and the sawmill to cut 3,000 feet a day. A substantial bridge has been thrown over the river . . . "

Just opposite the mills a breakwater was built part way across the river of which the piers ballasted with stones were visible 100 years later, and were known as "the old dam" to the children who went swimming and fishing there. The gristmill had two runs of large stones, and proved immensely valuable to the development of the region. McDonell on March 11, 1828, wrote Robinson saying that Bethune had 4000-

Had my first good look at that nasty fish, the carp, early this week. Biologist Charlie Weir, Lands and Forests, Lindsay, took me to the mouth of McLaren Creek on the west side of Sturgeon Lake. Of the 768 fish embroiled in the carp trap net, 200 were these freshwater pig fish. Uglier customers you could not imagine. They are natives of Eastern Asia and would that they had stayed there. But they have spread throughout the world over the centuries and 1,500 species are known. It is hard to realize it, but it is true, that goldfish, chub, minnows and half a dozen other varieties, all belong to the carp family. The damage they do to aquatic plants which game fish feed on, is appalling and in the process they root out plants that have spawn clinging to them. That is why they are being netted and disposed of in lime pits. Charlie Weir says the only possible use carp could be is to provide spawn for game fish to feed on. They reach an average of 15 pounds in Canada, 25 in England and 100 on the Continent.

Great news about the Jaycees and their tourist booth; it is being moved into the city, at last. That move took a lot of prodding, by thunder! It will be situated beside the CNR freight shed office on Charlotte St., with fairly ample parking room round about. They hope city people will use their facilities after they have moved down town and if tourists inquiries don't show an upswing at the new location, a lot of us will be badly mistaken. It's a good move.

Tourists Wonder Why The Flags

Now that our fair city is brave with bunting for blocks and blocks—glad rags for the centennial year—how about several banner signs across streets and traffic gateways? American tourists who are already streaming in, will do a lot of brow-knotting unless they are told the reason for it all. Too bad they don't have bumper or windshield stickers supplied to them to extend our proud message to the USA.

The best-known boat man on the Kawarthas, Frank Gillespie, has gone again to Stony—for the 26th season in a row—to open the Peterborough Canoe livery at Juniper Island. Understand he will have an understudy this year who will be appointed by the company to learn the business from the water up. And many times the work has taken Frank underwater, too. Many American visitors will miss the warm Irish smile of Frank Clancy at the plant on Water St., this summer; sales manager Frank is ill, could be off work for considerable time, so officials say.

Camp Inglestane, the old YW camp on Stony, is up on the sales block again. It was rumoured late this winter that C. Stuart of Toronto was going to operate it this season as Royal Kawartha Lodge. The deal apparently fell through and a real estate ager is offering it for a mere $9,800. A good buy at that price.

He's Dry Who Drinks Like A Fish

Pious people who talk behind their hands about this and that young rake "who drinks like a fish" might as well stop this silly expression from now on, or think of another simile. Fish don't drink water, see. Fish take water into their mouths as part of their breathing operation to pass it over their gills just as we draw air into our lungs. Blood in the gills extracts oxygen from the water but none of the water is swallowed into the fish's stomach. Fish get enough moisture out of the food they eat and, although they are constantly surrounded by water, they drink none of it.

Organist Donald Kennedy of Trinity United Church has been telling a fish story that has his minister raising his brows in misbelief. Sounds funny, too. Mr. Kennedy caught himself two nice pickerel, both more than seven pounds he says. He parked the pair in his Pigeon Lake cottage pool overnight to bring back to the city to have his picture took. But next morning the fish weren't there. The remains of one were, but the other had disappeared. He blamed it on a prowling bear, and an old timer of the district supports this theory. It just could have been a 'coon, but the bear story seems to be the bare truth. Far better that you should have eaten them right away. D.K

Green Ones Throw Their Chinking

My respected friend of the cloth is in difficulty with his cabin. To him I say: "Your Riverence, if you want to make a tight chinking job, and you say that the logs are very old and therefore well seasoned, straight peeled poles between the rounds, toe-nailed in place, can be smoothed over with a strong mortar mixture, not too much sand. It's green logs that throw their chinking after the first winter's frost but you should have no trouble on this score."

FISH TAILS: Stories of two German browns made the best hit of the week. One caught by Charlie Carson scaled 7½ pounds and was taken on Victoria Day "somewhere south of Hastings." Albert Scriver of Hastings helped him land it; it fell for spinner and worms. Another brown was taken by a lady angler, Mrs. Norman Jewell of 420 O'Connell Rd., at the pool below the cemetery at Young's Point. It weighed 4-pounds and a minnow plus a red and white plug was the lure. A hefty speckled, 4-7, was landed by Mrs. Hannah McKinley of 277 Bethune St., "somewhere in Haliburton" early in the week; a two-pounder was also taken by her the day before on which her party of four ate an excellent camp meal after SHE cooked it. Secretary of Campbellford Fish and Game Association, Hector McArthur, showed his clubmen up by landing a 6-2 rainbow in Shelter Valley on a homemade fly; it measured 24 inches. When photog Maurice Duke was asked how his fishing trip fared on the 24th, he merely replied, "Oh, my wife fell in AGAIN."

Rangers' Colors Deposited In St. John's Have Traditions Dating From 1868

St. John's Anglican church will become the permanent home of the colors of the 57th Regiment (Peterborough Rangers) Sunday at a service to be conducted by the padre, the Rev. Walter J. Gilling.

This stand of colors was presented to the regiment in 1904, when the first stand, which had seen long service since 1868, was also placed in St. John's.

The women of Peterborough played a major part in obtaining the first stand of regimental colors. Several weeks before the annual drill on July 13, 1868, they busied themselves raising funds to purchase the banners and these were bought in Toronto for the sum of $200.

When the Peterborough Rangers were re-organized in 1920, the Order in Council stated the regiment would perpetuate the 2nd Bn. CEF, the 93rd and 247th Bns. CEF and the regiment was authorized to carry the battle honors of the 2nd Battalion.

As a result, during the tenure of command of the late Lieut. Col. G. G. Winterbottom, MC, DCM, the ladies of the 57th Regiment Chapter IODE during 1934 had the battle honors inscribed on the regimental color. They were as follows: St. Julien, Poizeres, Arleux, Passchendaele, Drocourt Queant, Festurbert 1915, Vimy 1917, Hill 70, Amiens and Canal Du Nord.

First Colors 1868

The first colors were presented in 1868 at the conclusion of the annual drill, when the battalion was drawn up on a field to the west of the town, near the Gilmour residence and inspected by Lieut. Col. Jarvis, the assistant adjutant general.

A current description of the event states "the banners consisted of a beautiful silk flag over the entire of which the bars of the Union Jack are extended and which are known as 'Queens Colors.' The other, the large battalion flag, had not arrived and a temporary one was substituted for the time being."

The committee of ladies was made up of Mrs. Carnegie, Mrs. Gilmour, Mrs. Romaine, Mrs. Kempt, Mrs. Dennistoun, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. William Snider and Mrs. Shaw.

Those colors remained in the battalion until 1904, and when replaced by others, they were deposited in St. John's Church. On Sunday the second colors will be placed in the church.

By 1897, when new colors were first considered, it was felt they were deserved, the old ones being much the worse for wear. Although cherished on account of the associations surrounding the gift, they could well be replaced, it was felt.

A description of the new colors of 1904 says "The colors were the work of Messrs. Hobson and Sons, army and volunteer contractors of London, England, and were very handsome.

"The field of the regimental flag is blue, properly corresponding with the facings of the regimental uniform. The material is heavy silk, very rich in quality and color tone, the whole being fringed with bullion.

"In the centre of the flag is the regimental device and motto, a beaver, under which are the numerals in gold, LVII, encircled with a scroll of garter. This is clasped by a buckle and bearing the designation 'Peterborough Rangers.'

"The whole is surrounded by a wreath in which the rose, thistle and shamrock are entwined by the Imperial Crown. Underneath all is the motto 'Quis Seperabeit.'

"The capitals of the staff, a crown surmounted by a lion, have been handsomely finished in gold. King's colors consist of the three emblematic crosses in red, white and blue, centred by the regimental designation."

1904 Ceremony

Victoria Day, May 24, 1904 was a momentous day not only for the regiment, but for the citizens of Peterborough, who shared the joy of the presentation of new colors.

At Nicholls park, the colors were presented on behalf of the ladies of the town and those presented in 1868 were saluted for the last time.

A report of the ceremony reads the King's Colors were received from Major Stevenson by Mrs. Dennistoun. The regimental colors by Mrs. Stratton and from Major Hayes. The first were presented to Lieut. Hamilton and the latter to Lieut. McLean, both officers sinking to the left knee.

"Accompanying the colors was an address from the ladies which was read by Mr. T. A. S. Hay. The address was signed on behalf of the ladies of Peterborough by Mrs. J. F. Dennistoun, Mrs. J. R. Stratton and Mrs. Peter Campbell. Lieut. Col. Miller made an eloquent address and thanked the ladies in the name of the regiment for the beautiful stand of colors."

Hints On Horticulture

FLOWERING SHRUBS

Hardy shrubs alone should be chosen, the various groups to flower at various times, not simultaneously. They should be so arranged in the planting area that some of the groups would be in flower at various points throughout the late spring, summer and autumn season. To ensure this the following kinds may be planted:

Caragana pendula and aborescens, flower in May and June.

Mock Orange, white, June.

Bridal Wreath, white, June.

Golden Bells, yellow, April.

Deutzia, white, summer.

Weigelia rosea, rosy mauve, summer.

Tartarian Honeysuckle, pink, June.

Silberian Pea, with yellow flowers, Japanese Flowering Quince, scarlet, April.

Hydrangea, white, August-October.

Billard's Spiraea, pink, July-September.

Lilacs in many varieties, April, May and June.

Viburnum Lantana, white, May-June.

Rose of Sharon, purple, rose, and white, autumn.

In addition to these there are dozens of other species and varities.

Beauty and Utility:

In the planting of the home grounds in the country, as, for instance, on farms, the shade trees planted could in part be such as would in time produce a return for the time and money expended. The butternut, English and Japanese walnuts, black walnut, hickory, and chestnut could be used when climate and soil are satisfactory. In the shrub groupings English filberts and other nut-bearing bushes could be grouped to advantage. What an opportunity these things afford on farms and yet we have hardly realized their importance.

Fine Old Stone House Was Bankers' Home

By DON GRANT

A glimpse 40 years ago at this gray stone home with the old-fashioned but presently modern horseshoe driveway would have placed it in the centre of Peterborough's residential district. It is the house now occupied by J. J. Crowley, 273 Hunter St. W.

For nearly 40 years this building was the home of the managers of the Bank of Montreal. The bank had purchased the land and house in 1896 from a James Stevenson, who was one of a long list of owners of the home between 1875 and 1893.

Finally in 1931 when the trend of the banks was to have the managers own their homes instead of the banks, the Bank of Montreal sold the house to E. S. Martin who was a manager of the local bank branch for 15 years. He bought the house upon his retirement.

When the stone masons of Peterborough's stone age built this home is unknown. It is believed that a start was made on the house in 1848, but there is no official record. The property was then owned by Thomas Eastland who had bought it in 1847. James C. Carveth later acquired the land and house, the first in a series of different owners between 1875 and 1893.

James Stevenson and a George A. Cox were co-owners of the property for some time during that period and finally James Stevenson became the full owner. The Bank of Montreal bought the house and property from Stevenson in 1896.

J. J. Crowley, local real estate agent, is the present owner of the house. He bought it from Mr. Martin

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

No Conquerors

The House of Lords and the House of the Commons divide the legislative power under the King; but the Romans had no such balance. The Patricians and Plebeians in Rome were perpetually at variance, and there was no intermediate power to reconcile them. The Roman Senate, who were so unjustly, so criminally proud as not to suffer the plebeians to share with them in anything, could find no other artifice to keep the latter out of the administration than by employing them in foreign wars. They considered the plebeians as a wild breast, whom it behoved them to let loose upon their neighbours for fear they should devour their masters. Thus the greatest defect in the government of the Romans raised them to be conquerors. By being unhappy at home, they made themselves masters of the world, till at last their divisions sank them to slavery.

The government of England will never rise to so exalted a pitch of glory, nor will its end be so fatal. The English are not fired with the splendid folly of making conquests, but would only prevent their neighbours from conquering. They are not only jealous of their own liberty, but even of that of other nations.

Petes Down Hamilton, 10-3 To Open OLA Senior Season

Hamilton Tigers, OLA senior "A" champions last season, were jolted hard here last night as the Petes turned them back 10-3 to open the gutted-stick season in Miller Bowl before a big and enthusiastic crowd. The champs, who open at home Monday against St. Catharines, expected to take this tilt handily, but were outclassed and outbumped all the way as the Petes looked impressive in their 1950 debut.

IN ON FIVE—Arn Dugan was in one five goals, scoring two and aiding on three more, as the Petes surprised Hamilton Tigers here last night, winning 10-3 to open the OLA senior "A" season.

While play was rugged and the checking close and stiff all the way, it was generally clean, with the eight penalties evenly divided. All were minors, but for a misconduct to Dugan for arguing with the referee in the first quarter. The initial inning was even and scoreless, but the Petes drove hard in a smart second period showing to rack up an 8-2 lead, and they had a 2-1 margin in the tight third stanza. Hamilton pressed all through the fourth frame, but couldn't get the ball by Goalie Ralph Speck, who turned in a whale of an effort this contest.

Softened Them

The husky local defence had a lot to do with keeping the Tigers shooting from out apiece. They bounced them hard at every opportunity, big Pup Curtin looking solid in every heat. Joe Nolan, Jim Kinna, Jerry Fitzgerald and others tossed the torso freely and threw the champions off their stride repeatedly as they tore in. The local forwards all went well, checking closely and breaking fast to go in close for their shots when in possession. The Tigers kept plugging and were dangerous plenty of times, but only in their desperation try in the fourth did they hold an edge on play.

Arn Dugan was the leading sniper for the Creighton crew with five points, two of them goals and the rest assists. Bob Thorpe counted three times in a fine effort also, while Jerry Fitzgerald had two neat markers and helped on another. Don Ashbee hitting the mark once and aiding on two more, Jim Kinna and Dootch Vitarelli got singletons, and Russ Buchanan had an assist. The rest worked hard, too. Stu Scott scored two for Hamilton and Jack Dorney got the other, all solo efforts. McDonald, Scott, McKenzie and Dorney were most prominent for the visitors.

Official Opening

Following a welcoming address to the fans by Paul Irwin, president of the Petes' club, Mayor Max Swanston officially opened the OLA season here with a brief speech and a face-off of the ball. The crowd was quite large for an opening game, and the fans made a lot of racket throughout, everyone going home happy after the speedy tussle.

Hamilton: Goal, Favell; defence, McKenzie and Edmonds; centre, Doyle; wings, Grainger and McDonald; rover, Scott; alternates, Hogan Shortridge, Dorney, Evans, Capula, Guthro and Love.

Petes: Goal, Speck; defence, Nolan and Fitzgerald; centre, Creighton; wings, Ashbee and Dugan; rover, Thorpe; alternates, Curtin, Kinna, Lewis, R. Breakspear, Buchanan, Magee and Vitarelli.

Referees, F. Bain and L. Vipond.

Red Wings Crush Montreal In 13-3 Victory

By The Associated Press

Rochester Red Wings, who haven't won an International League pennant since 1940, are roaring along in high gear today.

Johnny Keane's relentless crew stormed to its seventh straight triumph Friday night as it trounced the pace-setting Montreal Royals 13-3 to pull up to within a half-game of the groggy Royals.

The victory was Rochester's second straight over Montreal in the four-game series.

George Copeland throttled Montreal on six hits and lost his shutout in the ninth with his own error a contributing factor.

Don Richmond homered with one on in the first to start the Wings off. Hal Rice clouted a three-run homer and Del Wilber one with the bases empty in the second-inning surge.

Baltimore Orioles took over fourth place from Jersey City by beating the Giants 5-3 on a three-run pinch-hit homer by Clyde Kluttz in the eighth inning.

Norman Fox, who relieved Ford Smith in the fifth, yielded Kluttze's game-winning blow. Karl Drews, second Baltimore pitcher, was the winner.

Buffalo Bisons scored four runs in the ninth inning with none out to overcome Toronto Maple Leafs 9-8. Coaker Triplett singled with the bases loaded to climax the rally.

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Danny Brown has been chosen as the full-time coach for the Peterborough Minor Baseball Association this year. The senior Petes of the Viaduct Major League promised to appoint a player of the club to tutor the PMBA-ers as part of the agreement with the city if lights were installed at Riverside. They also promised to raise $15,000 themselves and to repay the rest of the cost over a period of years. Brown is the classy shortstop with the club last season and this, a college student from Buffalo. He is a clean-living and likeable chap, who not only knows his ball but plays it in starry style. As soon as he is free from school next month, he will be on full-time duty here for the summer.

* * * * * *

The time is probably coming ere long when minor hockey here, also, will have a paid coach on the job six days or evenings a week. Senior lacrosse set the style a couple of years ago in getting Jack Foote, and they now have a capable head coach in Jerry Fitzgerald. Baseball is following suit, and it might be that hockey will be next. Some sports give the kids a start in school, games like rugby, softball and soccer. Good coaching is important in developing the youngsters in athletics and keeping them under proper control, and both lacrosse and baseball senior officials are on the right track.

Two Tussles On Tap

A couple of ball games on tap today in Riverside Park, if the weather is okay. Toronto Staffords of the Viaduct Loop made their debut there at three against the Petes, these teams apparently being well-matched according to the standing to date. Doug Plunkett is expected to hurl for the homesters in this senior struggle. The intermediate Petes make their home bow at 6.30 p.m. against Whitby, a Lakeshore League intermediate "A" fixture. Don't know who will do the flinging for the local squad. Port Hope is here next Wednesday eve. Senior Petes hit the road the first half of next week, playing in New Toronto on Monday and travelling to Viaduct Park on Thursday to tackle Staffords.

* * * * * *

Some 3,000 paying lacrosse fans last season often groaned when seeing some of the lighter Petes knocked about by husky OLA opponents in senior "A" play. But the faithful won't need to worry unduly this semester, not if last night's opening contest is any criterion. Led by big Pup Curtin, the husky home defence bounced Hamilton Tigers around just like they didn't know the Tigers are provincial champions. Had 'em rather bashful about trying to go in too close on goal for shots, though they did rally in the fourth to pepper Ralph Speck plenty. And he was plenty good in every inning as the Creighton crew racked up a nice 10-3 win before a goodly gallery. The Mayor officially opened proceedings.

Brawny And Brainy

Yes, the Petes have the weight this year, plus lots of speed and lacrosse savvy. Fitzgerald is a smart lacrosser, and so is Don Ashbee. The B.C. boys are shaping up well, also, and Joe Nolan is a worker. But then, the others from last year are looking swell so far—in the exhibition with Huntsville and last night's fray. Arn Dugan was hot to lead the scoring parade, whilst Bob Thorpe is cool and tricky as ever. Lewis, Magee, Creighton, Vitarelli and Bob Breakspear hustled all the way, also. A good team showing, in fact. Tigers expected to take a fairly easy win here to open their season Monday at home, and they were a surprised and disappointed bunch at the finish. Slightly bruised, as well.

Girls' softball got off to a good start yester gloaming in the Bowl over east. Official opening ceremony before a pretty fair crowd and two interesting jousts served up. With Doris McFadden flinging fine ball, Ashby's hit hard and fielded well to beat CGE 9-3. The Electrics will go much better again, and it promises to be a well-balanced loop this season. Westclox won their opener from Marines by a 14-7 count, and it's nice to see such former stars as Norma Kennedy (nee Strickland) and Isabel (Tommy) Bullock opposing each other once more. Games there Monday: Woollens vs. Ashby's at seven, followed by CGE against the Marines.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Changes in the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League were made official Friday as managing directors of the Maple Leaf Gardens approved recommendations made a month ago by managing director Conn Smythe.

Coach Clarence (Hap) Day of the NHL club now is assistant general manager to Smythe. New coach is Joe Primeau, former Leaf star and manager of Toronto amateur Marlboros.

As assistant general manager, Day "will take part of the load off my shoulders," said Smythe. "Day will be our minister of supply. He will be directly responsible for the results attained by all our minor league clubs and will keep a supply of players flowing to the Leafs. Primeau will have complete charge of the Leafs. Both men will report directly to me."

Coaching plans throughout the rest of the Leafs' organization will be completed by Day said Smythe indicating the men he named when first he announced the executive shuffle on April 28 still hold the inside track. On that basis Tommy Anderson would appear headed by Pittsburgh, while Bobby Davidson and Flash Hollett are in line to coach the senior and junior Marlboros.

Cuban Kid Gavilan snapped his losing slump Friday night with a lop-sided 10-round decision over Georgie Small of Brooklyn at New York's Madison Square Garden. Gavilan weighed 151¾, Small 158¾.

Ford Frick, president of the National League, said Friday at New York he had rejected a Chicago protest of a game played with the Giants in New York last Thursday. The Giants won 10-4.

The protest was over a balk called against Chicago pitcher Walt Dubiel. The Giants had men on second and third with one out and Henry Thompson at bat. Dubiel intended to pass Thompson intentionally. Umpire Lou Warneke called a balk because the pitcher did not make the one-second stop.

Frick ruled that there can be no protest against an umpire's judgment. He added that on a set position a pitcher must make his stop no matter what the situation.

Sam Snead soared to a two over par 72 Friday but that was still good enough to give him a 36-hole total of 136 and undisputed lead in the $15,000 Colonial invitation golf tournament at Fort Worth, Tex.

Skip Alexander, Knoxville, Tenn., co-leader with Snead at the end of the first round, shot a 74 today for third place.

Ed Oliver, Seattle, Wash., turned in a 71 for second place and a 139 total, one stroke better than Alexander.

Clockers Win As CGE Lose To Start Loop

Westclox defeated Outboard Marines 14-7, and Ashby's won 9-3 over CGE last evening in the East City Bowl as the Girls' Softball League was officially opened. Mayor Max Swanston, Ald. Jim Gillespie and league past president Bill Bennett took part in the opening ceremony. Both were keen contests before a good-sized crowd in the first lasses' twin bill of the season.

Ashby's played heads-up ball, with D. Callan outstanding with two feature catches. CGE didn't look at peak form, and M. Hodgson deserved a better fate, as errors hurt. M. Batley went good afield and B. McMahon saved a couple of hits with fast fielding. Doris McFadden hurled four-hit ball for the victors and fanned five, getting excellent support. Ashby's hit the apple hard and often. E. McFadden led her side at bat with four bingles in six tries. M. Batley got two of the CGE four hits, one being a homer. Teams:

Ashby's—E. McFadden, 3b; J. Reynolds, c; D. Callan, lf; L. Jordan, ss M. Stewart, rf; M. Freeman, 1b; G. Dracup, cf; B. Callan, 2b; D. McFadden, p.

CGE—M. Batley, cf; R. Boyce, 3b E. Boyce, ss; M. Boyce, lf; G. Atkins, c; N. Shearer, rf; T. DeCarlo, rf B. McMahon, 1b; D. Jackson, 2b; M. Hodgson, p.

A Little Loose

The ather game was interesting, too, though a little loose, as both sides showed opening-game jitters in spot. Both the Clockers and Marines played somewhat below form, with the hitting and fielding fairly even. H. White started on Marines' mound with P. Williams and later N. Kennedy taking over on the slab. M. Downer went the route for Westclox, and Isabel Bullock got into the game as a fielder. Not too many strikeouts were chalked up on either side. B. Morrow led the winners at the plate with five hits in six attempts, and M. Hawthorne's two for four included a homer. J. McIntyre and J. Vass looked good defensively for this team. E. Whittaker had two for three to top Marines at bat. M. Hill and B. Behan turned in some nifty fielding. Teams:

Marines—B. Ayotte, cf A. LaPointe, 2b; M. Behan, ss; E. Mantle, 3b; M. Hill 1b S. Wakeford, c; M. Walling, lf E. Whittaker, lf; C. Rowan, rf; H. White, p; P. Williams, p; N. Kennedy, p.

Westclox— A. Anderson, cf; B. Morrow, ss; J. Vass, 3b; M. Hawthorne, c; B. Anderson, 2b; J. Hardy, rf; J. McIntyre, 1b; H. Portelance, lf; I. Bullock, lf; M. Downer, p.

Held To Tie

LINDSAY, May 27 (CP) — Young Bill McTavish came up with a three hit pitching effort and struck out 10 men as Oshawa Transporters held Lindsay Merchants to a 3-3 tie in twilight Lakeshore game here Friday night. Lindsay took a 3-0 lead in the fourth but Oshawa tied it up on triples by Ted O'Connor and Grabby Joskowski. Junior West held the Transporters to four hits until relieved by veteran Lloyd Tamblyn.

HE'S BOMBER NOW—As Winnipeg Blue Bomber president Ralph Misener, left, and Coach Frank Larson look on, former New York Yankee Tom Casey signs to do his footballing this fall with the Winnipeg entry in the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Casey is the second import signed by the Bombers, the first being Buddy Tinsley, ex-tackle with the Los Angeles Dons.

Dick Wakefield Takes Chandler's Advice, Reports To Oakland Team

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 27—(AP)—Outfielder Dick Wakefield said Friday night he was leaving for Oakland, Calif., "within 48 hours" to join the Pacific Coast League club there.

The major league's problem child, who has said for weeks he wouldn't step down to the minors changed his mind Friday after baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler talked to him.

After that telephone interview Wakefield said:

"Chandler has been wonderful to me. He has given me some very sound advice. The chances are I might take his advice."

A few hours later, at his Ann Arbor home, the former University of Michigan star and Detroit Tiger bonus player told reporters he was packing his bags to head west.

New York Yankees, who bought Wakefield from the Tigers and tried a few weeks ago to trade him to Chicago's White Sox in a deal that didn't go off, sold his contract to Oakland.

Wakefield appealed to Chandler and the commissioner advised him to accept the sale.

White Sox Fire Onslow As Chicago Bows To Yanks

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Firing of Jack Onslow as manager of Chicago White Sox and the vigorous shake-up of Philadelphia Athletics' high command has the baseball world buzzing today.

Even New York Yankees' nine-game victory streak and the sizzling pace of Brooklyn Dodgers are overshadowed by the managerial changes.

Onslow's ousting came as no surprise. Jack's name had been on the wall since last fall because of a feud with the White Sox front office.

When Onslow heard the news he said "They won't second guess me any more. As far as I'm concerned Lane (general manager Frank Lane) can manage the team and Comiskey (vice-president Charles A. Comiskey) can coach at third base—or any place else he so desires." That tells the story.

Johnny (Red) Corriden, former Brooklyn and Yankee coach and minor league pilot, was moved up from coach to manager for the rest of the season.

More Complicated

The new deal at Philadelphia is more complicated. Manager and club president Connie Mack, now 87, named Jimmy Dykes assistant manager and Mickey Cochrane general manager of the club. Both former Athletic greats were working for Connie as coaches.

While Dykes and Cochrane moved up, Connie's son, Earl, who has been running the club as assistant manager, became chief player scout. He is to leave "immediately" in search of new talent.

Both the White Sox and A's have been bitter disappointments so far. The Sox are last, 14½ games behind the leaders and the A's are six, 13 games out.

Onslow's firing wasn't announced until after the Sox' 2-1 loss to Cleveland. The Philadelphia changes were released before they were beaten 2-0 by the Yankees.

Al Rosen's eighth-inning double ruined Onslow's departure Friday night as Chicago manager. Rosen's hit produced both Cleveland runs to give Bobby Feller a decision over rookie Bob Cain.

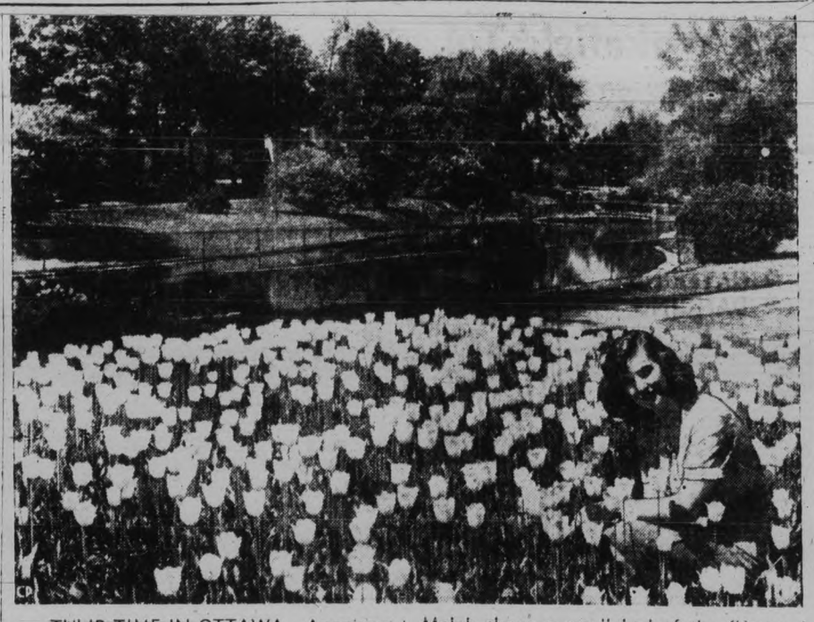
Casey Stengel brought in Joe Page for the second day in a row when the A's threatened in the ninth. Page replaced Eddie Lopat and threw one ball. Pete Suder lifted the pitch to centrefield to end the game.

Hal Newhouser showed no traces of his shoulder trouble in his second route-going job against St. Louis Browns. Hal gave the Browns six hits, riding home with a 11-2 victory, it was the first half of a scheduled twi-night doubleheader, but the second game was rained out.

Boston Red Sox and Washington were not scheduled.

Tries Out Banta

Burt Shotton tried his Brooklyn relief pitcher, Jack Banta, as a starter and came up with a complete game victory, 5-1, over Boston and Johnny Sain, a six-time winner.



Despite their winning spurt, the Dodgers are unable to shake off the Phillies who remained one game back by whipping New York, 3-2. Robin Roberts struck out 11 Giants en route to his sixth victory.

Roy Smalley was the difference between Chicago and Pittsburgh Friday night. The Cub shortstop hit a bases-loaded home run in the fourth inning to give the Cubs a 4-0 victory.

Kenny Raffensberger, always rough for St. Louis, let down the Cardinals with six hits while Cincinnati banged out a 9-4 edge.

Melchiors Have Silver Wedding

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 27.—(AP).—Jolly, white-haired Lauritz Melchior and his vivacious blonde "Kleinchen" (little one) celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Friday night with champagne, caviar and a cake. And they offered this advice for marital success:

"Understand each other's problem."

Kleinchen follows the formula to the extent of handling all her husband's business. He consults her about everything.

"That's our recipe for happiness," said Melchior. "When it is something she knows more about, she decides. When I know more about a situation, then I decide. Neither of us is boss all the time. It's a 50-50 thing."

Constant Companion

Mrs. Melchior, a foot shorter than her hulking husband, gave up her acting career after they married in Copenhagen in 1925. Her reason: "We would be separated by our different careers—and what kind of a marriage is that?" Since then she has accompanied him everywhere, except on his big game hunts.

The opera singer enjoys telling about meeting his wife, and no wonder:

"I was studying Wagner in Munich. Kleinchen was studying as an actress in a studio nearby. She did her own stunt work and one day she had to bail out of an airplane in a parachute. I heard a big commotion in my garden and ran out to find her caught in a tree. I didn't even know it was a girl until I had untangled her.

At First Sight

"I guess it was love at first sight. We had a date that evening."

She debunked the common belief that opera stars are temperamental and denied that her husband is hard to live with. "They aren't all like that," she said, adding with a sigh, "Thank goodness."

She had only one semblance of a complant to make: Lauritz sings in the shower. But loud.

"However, I don't mind," she confessed.

Slichter Advocates Lowering U.S. Tariffs

TORONTO, May 27 (CP)—Dr Sumner H. Slichter, Harvard University economist, Friday advocated a lowering of United States tariffs, regardless of what other countries do.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, he stated:

"I don't think it is in American interests to bargain in tariffs; I think we should make unilateral reductions.

"We are giving to the world about $5,000,000,000 in goods more than we are getting; I think it is in our interest to raise our imports by $5,000,000,000 as fast as possible.

Dr. Slichter's tariff comments were made in the course of an address on the economies of the United States and Canada.

Long Week-End

OTTAWA, May 27 — (CP). — Senators took a long week-end Friday. The Senate was adjourned until Tuesday at 3 p.m. Next Wednesday Senators will go to the House of Commons at 3 p.m. for a joint meeting of both Houses which will be addressed by Liaquat Ali Khan, Prime Minister of Pakistan.

FOR VALOR

The Victoria Cross was instituted by Queen Victoria at the close of the Crimean Campaign in 1856.

Howe Has Confidence Exports To U.S. Rising

TORONTO, May 27 (CP) — Trade Minister Howe Friday night expressed confidence that recent increases in exports to the United States will be further improved in the future.

Addressing the annual dinner of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, he gave two reasons for this belief.

"One is the fact that Canada is bringing into production new resources which are bound to find a ready sale in the United States, such as titanium, iron ore and so forth. The other reason is the new American attitude regarding imports."

He instanced certain hampering practices which have been rectified and the customs simplification bill now before Congress.

Garson Will Examine Photostat Of Letter

OTTAWA, May 27 (CP)—Justice-Minister Garson said Friday in the Commons he will examine a newspaper photostat of a letter purportedly written to an unidentified Montrealer by the Canadian Youth Peace Movement and linking that movement with Communists.

His attention was drawn to the letter by E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) who said that it had appeared in Friday's Montreal Gazette.

It contained, said Mr. Fulton, evidence of the methods being used and the pressure applied to persuade people by force to join the Communist party. He asked if Mr. Garson would examine the letter and make a statement as to what steps are being taken to combat that kind of Communist influence.

Mr. Garson said he would be glad to examine the letter and make a statement if necessary.

Foresters Victors

Foresters beat Bell Telephone 9-4 in their Civic Softball League tilt with Boyce having 10 strike-outs and Ferguson 9 in a good scrap. The winners got eight hits to seven for the losers, and the fielding was pretty much on a par. Foresters scored two runs in the first and third, one in the second and fourth in the sixth, while Bell counted all four in the seventh.

Teams:

Bell: Greatrix, lf; James, c; Jamieson, 2b; Ackford, 3b; Gillespie, 1b; Conway, ss; Reynolds, ss; Boyce, p; Tushingham, cf; McClure, rf.

Foresters: Daniels, 2b; Walling, 3b; Ferguson, p; Tyndall, ss; Humphries, cf; Collins, c; Hobson, lf; Roberts, 1b; Dewar, rf; C. Tyndall, rf.

Umpires, Hempstead and Castle.

Peewee Tilt Close

In the peewee game at Miller Bowl last night, played between periods of the senior lacrosse match, Petes took a 3-2 decision over the Tigers. Pace got one for the Tigers in the first with Roberts and Kelly aiding. In the second, F. Roberts scored from R. Jay, but Petes got it back L. Hunt from B. O'Neill. The Petes tallied twice in the third, C. Coons scoring both, with Hawthorne helping on one, and T. Davis on another. There was but one penalty.

Off-Record Talk

OTTAWA, May 27 — (CP). — Members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association held an off-the-record talk with Finance Minister Abbott Friday. The minister, appearing before the annual association convention, discussed with delegates some of the problems relating to the publishing of weekly newspapers in small centres.

Anti-Dumping Fruit Ban Goes

OTTAWA, May 27 (CP)—An automatic anti-dumping regulation, used by Canada during the last 20 years against the import of low-priced United States fresh fruits and vegetables, will be withdrawn June 1, it was learned Friday night.

The law is incorporated in Section 43 of the Customs Tariff and allows customs officials to place an arbitrary "fair value for duty" on American produce when American commodities come into Canada at prices which range lower than those for the same products grown in Canada.

Withdrawal of this section results from Canada-United States negotiations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

It is indicated that the new specific rates for lettuce, cucumbers and asparagus are sufficiently high to bring the government approximately the same amount of revenue it obtained under the old system. However, how the rates will work out in future time alone will tell.

It is indicated, also, that if the new system works out to Canada's advantage, the matter will be brought up again for renegotiation at some future round of tariff negotiations.

Head For Home

LONDON, May 27.—(CP).—Parliament adjourned today for the Whitsuntide recess, and members made a bee-line for home. From now on until the House of Commons re-assembles June 13, the legislators will try to relax a little.

Norwood Enters Team In Trent Valley League

NORWOOD, May 27 (ENS) — Norwood has entered a juvenile baseball team in the Trent Valley League this year, which consists of the following teams: Marmora, Havelock and Campbellford. The boys made a good showing last year and will swing into action against Havelock on June 2nd. THE PEOPLE'S DECISION

The verdict of the people again favors the London Life. Canadians last year in purchasing the largest amount of life insurance on record, bought more from the London Life than from any other company—one-seventh of the total.

The London Life maintains a strong financial position, furnishes low cost insurance, and has developed a staff of capable representatives to serve the needs of its policyholders and the public.

PETERBOROUGH LOCK WANTED...

WAGE CUTS — UNEMPLOYMENT

SPEED UP OF PRODUCTION AND PROFITS

In 1949 Peterborough Lock CUT our wages by 4.6 cents an hour.

In 1949 the Company laid off about 30 workers. Many of these workers were laid off without any regard for their long years of service.

When our negotiations for a new contract began almost 9 months ago the Company said to us in writing:

"There shall be a substantial decrease on all hourly and piecework rates. This decrease shall also be reflected in the minimum starting rates for both male and female employees.

"Both the number and the amount of automatic increases shall be reduced. In future, these will be dependent upon the skill and ability shown by the employee."

VACATIONS

Over 30 of us have more than 20 years' service with the Company, yet the Company wanted to take away the vacation time our Union has won for us on the basis of 3 weeks after 20 years' service.

NIGHT-SHIFT BONUS

The Company wanted to reduce our Night-Shift Bonus from 8 cents an hour to 5 cents.

JOB PROTECTION

The Company wanted to strip the older employees of their job protection. The Company proposed changes in the Contract giving them the power to toss long service workers out on to the street while keeping younger workers in the plant under speed-up production.

PROFITS UP

These demands for a worsening in our living standards were made after the Company had increased their prices by 10%.

Like every other Company, Peterborough Lock has been riding high on profits while fighting against any improvement in wages and conditions from their employees.

Here is the proof:

At the time of this 10% increase in prices the Company reported they were doing $125,000 worth of business a month.

The 10% increase meant another $12,500 a month to the Company, out of which they paid $4,500 in wage increases and still added $8,000 a month to their sales.

In nine months of negotiations the Company has never shown the slightest concern for the welfare of their workers and their families.

The Company's one concern has been to keep their high profits rolling in out of the sweat of their workers and the pockets of the public.

DECISION TO STRIKE

Faced with this attitude of the Company we modified our contract proposals to the following:

Reduce hours by 2½ while maintaining take home pay.

Better job protection for long service workers.

We made every attempt to avoid a strike, while the Company tried to provoke us at every opportunity.

Finally, our members voted 9 to 1 by secret ballot to take strike action. In a final effort at reaching a settlement we proposed the above terms.

The Company did not even formally answer our proposal.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Company has tried to turn public opinion against us by saying that our wages are as high as $59.00-$77.00 for men and $43.00-$49.00 for women.

We wish these figures were true, because if they were we wouldn't be out on strike. We would be prepared to go back to work under a contract that guaranteed these wages to every one of us.

OPEN STRIKE BREAKING

Now the Company is openly trying to break our picket line in order to drive us back to lower wages and worsened working conditions.

The Company has issued an open call to strike breakers in order to open their plant without giving one thing to their workers.

If Company-inspired violence takes place on our picket line, you, our friends and fellow workers, must understand who will be responsible for it.

THE THIN EDGE OF THE WEDGE

The Lock Strike is actually the thin edge of the wedge to split and try to break the Union that has contributed so much to our community by raising wages, bringing job security and better working conditions.

On behalf of every Company in Peterborough the Lock Management has challenged the unity of organized labor in order to open the way for general wage cuts, speed-up and layoffs.

These are the reasons that our strike is as much your responsibility as it is ours.

Your wages, your working conditions and your jobs are at stake on our picket line.

Our Union has appealed to the Ontario Department of Labor to step in to try to settle the strike.

The only effort the Company has made is to call for strike breakers to enter the plant.

We ask you to continue and increase the support you have shown to our members since the first day when we came out on strike four weeks ago.

Mercy Underlies Message To Israel By Prophet Micah

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

We have seen how the prophet Micah simplified the definition of religion, in his famous saying, "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

We might think of that as the climax, the highest point in the seven chapters of his prophecy that have come down to us. But there is something higher. The real climax is in the closing verses of the prophecy, Micah 7:18-20, in which Micah describes the pardoning grace of God.

Could God require mercy of man without being merciful Himself? That would be contrary to all right and all logic. God is not only merciful, says Micah, but He delights in mercy.

That highest note in the Hebrew prophecies should never be missed, or forgotten. They rebuked evil with such sternness that a hasty and unintelligent scanning of their messages might incline us to regard them as harsh and pessimistic. But beneath it all was the note of mercy, the message concerning God's continued call, and His willingness to forgive all iniquities.

Reconciliation was the theme of the prophets. They often pictured the forgetfulness of God and rebelliousness of Israel in terms of gloom, but it was never in terms of despair. Always there was the note of hope.

Paul, a Christian thoroughly versed in the Hebrew scriptures, was to write (in Romans 8:24) that "we are saved by hope." It is interesting to take a concordance and see how much the New Testament has to say about hope.

It is a theme to which Paul, especially, returns again and again. Faith is the motive power of salvation; as love is the great and true issue of salvation (see I Corinthians 13), but hope is its condition and its beginning. Without hope faith can never become operative and effective, and love can never appear. Complete despair means the complete death of the soul.

Here, then, is the climax of Micah's message: "Who is a God like unto Thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of His heritage? He retaineth not His anger forever, because He delighteth in mercy. He will turn again. He will have compassion upon us; He will subdue our iniquities; and Thou wilt cast all our sins into the depths of the sea."

That is a better place for them than in our hearts and lives.

Jesus Is Lord Is Rock Of Religion Of Christianity

By The REV. E. R. JAMES

Paul said: believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved. Acts 16:31

A familiar Scripture yet many a reader will find of spiritual help. In every generation many have found it difficult to say that "Jesus is Lord" which is the rock of the religion of Christ.

Modern scholarship has given us the gift of "the historic sense." It means that we are able to throw our minds back to another age and see things from their stand-point, such a study should give you inspiration as you ponder on this well known passage; "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

The speaker is Paul, a Jew, born in the city of Tarsus of Hebrew parentage, being both a Jew and a Roman citizen, which he valued highly. His father sent him to the most famous Jewish school in Jerusalem to "sit at the feet of Gamaliel." He is an intellectual giant able to appeal to the Jewish and Greek thought. As a Jew he believed in Jehovah to be the one living God. Lest other of his race might think that he had absorbed Greek thought he became a Pharisee, which deepened his faith in Jehovah. No one could doubt his faith. Such is his spiritual background. He believed in the one living God and yet insists that men must also believe in the Lord Jesus Christ. Let us ponder upon these important words.

Jesus means Joshua, Saviour. "Thou shalt call his name Jesus for he shall save his people."

Christ means the Messiah, the anointed of God. The term is entirely Jewish. Christ is the Greek translation of the word. It means one who is anointed by God with spiritual gifts to enable him to save his people. It is the fulfilling of the ancient prophecy: "The spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him; the spirit of wisdom and understanding; the spirit of counsel and might; the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the Lord" Isaiah 11:1. The Jews looked for the Messiah with these qualifications to enable him to defeat the Romans and deliver his people from the Roman yoke. But he was to be a man; a real man.

About three hundred years before Christ the Rabbis began to translate the Hebrew Scriptures into Greek, for those Jews who could not speak Hebrew. This translation was called the Septuagint, the seventy. When they came to translate the name of Jehovah they decided upon the Greek word for Lord. The Greek word Lord meant God. Paul taught that Jesus is Lord, which was the block of stumbling. He was giving Jesus the value of God which is the Christian truth. God revealed Himself to man through Jesus the Christ. The Christian religion calls for a personal devotion to a spiritual person Jesus Christ, the Son of God in a mysterious sense of the word.

These are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God. And that believing ye might life in His name.

8 PCVS Girls Receive Athletic Letters

Eight girls, whose activity in sports during this year and last brought honor to the Peterborough collegiate, were presented Friday at the senior assembly with school letters. The girls, Betty Jaquith, Carol Raper, Joan Krogh, Peggy Estlick, Mary Craw, Jane Tivy, Lois Hutchinson and Nancy Mason, received the awards for their part in school sports, especially basketball.

J. C. Rutherford, teacher advisor to the Students' Council, paid tribute to the girls and congratulated them on bringing honor to the school. He added that the selection was made by Miss Doreen Pemberton and Miss Eva Scott.

The girls, introduced to the student body by Miss Pemberton, were presented with the letters by principal C. S. Browne.

History Prizes Given Students

Prizes were presented two PCVS Grade 10 students Friday by the Jeanette Scott Chapter of the IODE for essays on the history of early Peterborough. The students were Miss. Dianne Cullen and Miss Lorrie Mann.

Mrs. Harry Northrop, regent, who was assisted by Mrs. J. S. Weir in making the presentation told the students that, as the chapter was named after the first white baby born in Peterborough, Jeanette Scott, daughter of Adam Scott, the members felt they would like to share in the city's centennial celebrations. With Dr. Eldon P. Ray of the history department of the collegiate the chapter decided to award prizes for the essays on local history. Dr. Ray's Grade 10 classes were assigned the project as part of the year's studies. More than 200 essays were written and 12 were chosen by Dr. Ray for selection of winners by the chapter.

Frantic Groom Properly 'Tied' By His Friends

Many a young man has been warned against marriage, but few as drastically as a young grooms-to-be, an employee of the Outboard Marine, was Friday.

Some of his "friends" captured him and locked a chain around his neck with a padlock—tight. Then they threw away the key. The frantic groom tried everything to free himself, but without success. Finally he drove downtown to a locksmith who took about five minutes to pick the lock.

However, the warning was to no avail and the young man undeterred, is going through with the marriage.

No Overlapping In Research Ottawa Claims

OTTAWA, May 27 — (CP). — George McIlraith, Parliamentary Assistant to Trade Minister Howe, said Friday in the Commons that there is no overlapping in the research projects carried out by the National Research Council, provincial bodies and universities.

He made the statement before the Commons gave third reading to a Bill providing for the appointment of an additional vice-president to the National Research Council.

Mr. McIlraith told J. M. Macdonnell (PC-Toronto Greenwood) that the National Research Council does not undertake any work without the advice of the Advisory Council, made up of leading Canadian scientists. They include representatives of provincial bodies and of universities.

G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) wanted to know what precautions have been taken to provide safe-keeping for radium needles used in the NRC's laboratory on Sussex Street. He recalled that a few months ago a number of radioactive needles were stolen form a building at the rear of the laboratory.

Mr. McIlraith said the needles since recovered, were stolen by a burglar who forced his way into the building. The whole question of finding a better spot for the needles had been investigated at the time, but he did not know the outcome.

Has 20 Rods Tackle Aplenty But No Fishing

LINDSAY, May 27.—There is one man in Bobcaygeon who has a collection of more than 20 fishing rods and two or three boxes of tackle but doesn't have time to go fishing.

In fact, Ray Simpson, the game warden at Bobcaygeon, is one of the busiest men in town. Since the fishing season opened about two weeks ago, Mr. Simpson has been kept busy checking up on fishermen in the Bobcaygeon-Buckhorn district.

Within a few days charges will be laid against 28 fishermen for keeping undersize fish or catching more than allowed. The limit for trout is five per day per man.

A road-block was set up Wednesday by Mr. Simpson on the Old Oregon Trail. Thirty lake trout were seized from one car by the game warden and charges are pending against three Peterborough men.

The fishermen, according to Mr. Simpson, "are keeping too many small fish." He warns that if they keep on there won't be any fish left in the lakes.

Everything possible is being done to stop people from keeping undersize fish or more than the limit, Mr. Simpson said, explaining that all fish and fishing equipment are confiscated for either offence.

Visitors See Hall First So Make Impression Good

The Oxford Dictionary, a much respected source of information, says a hall is the "entrance-passage of a house." This cold expression of fact, unfortunately serves as the pattern for many of today's homebuilders. Those unimaginative people accept the hall only as an evil necessity.

Actually the front hall is the antechamber to your private world; and more people see this part of the interior of your home than any other. Here it is that you greet your friends when they call, and linger while hats and coats are stowed away. Here it is that you greet favorite relatives, or the doctor, the minister, or the boss and his wife. An indelible impression of you and your home life is registered in the mind of each visitor as he crosses your threshold. It matters not at all if the home is humble or regal, the hall should express hospitality.

Let us examine some of the basic characteristics of the average hall. There is the important front door; an archway, and frequently one or more inside doors leading to other rooms, and the clothes closet. In homes with more than one floor the stairway very often rises from the front hall.

In reviewing just these few characteristics it is apparent that the average hall is broken by numerous openings in a restricted area. This at once gives a lead to the thoughtful homebuilder—the hall needs the best millwork the owner can afford, because doors, trim, and stairway are the principal features.

Few people realize that the style of entrance is as important to consider from the inside as it is from the outside. Not only is a fine front door an exterior asset, it serves as a prime decorative factor in your hall.

Make Walls Gay

Appropriate hardware of good quality is another matter to consider. And since the actual wall area is very small, most homebuilders can "go to town" with the finest wallpaper. It's lots of fun selecting when you know the sky is the limit. Make your choice gayer and more decorative than the living room.

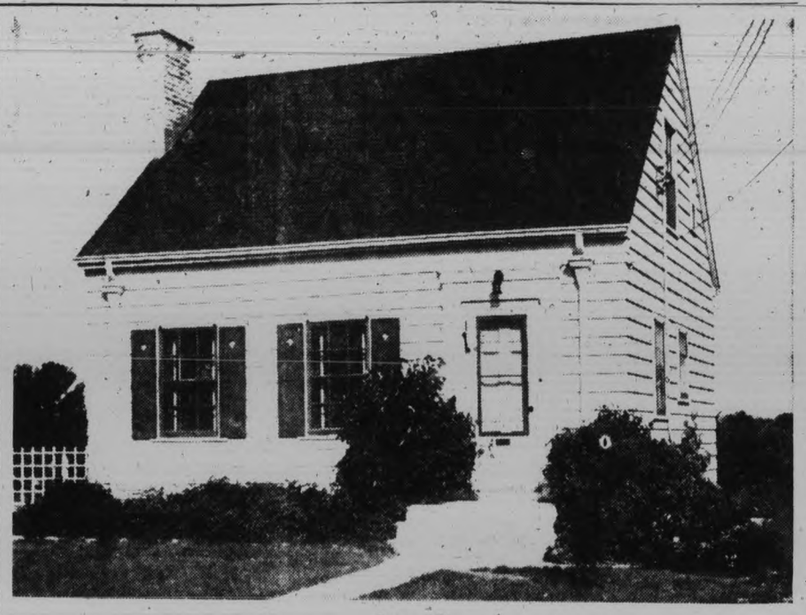
Panelling is often very effective in the hall, whether it is done in the formal manner with exotic hardwoods, or informally in natural knotty pine.

Treatment of the floor depends on individual taste and style of house. The choice of material runs all the way from linoleum and tile, through the various hardwoods, to the Colonial-style, random-width planks of soft wood.

When you have given your hall the consideration it deserves, it will speak for itself. What it will say to those who enter will be sweet music to your ears.

Plan Furniture Well

Have you ever attended a friendly gathering in a home where the conversation has been handicapped by poor furniture planning . . . where the party has broken down into small groups of twos and threes simply because furiture placement has made it impossible for the party to get together as one group. If you've been the host or hostess to such a gathering where conversation dragged then maybe a new arrangement of your furniture is the answer.



Obviously you can't expect conversation to hum if a scattered furniture arrangement is such that conversation must be carried on by shouting from one end of the room to another. Rather, an arrangement should be reached grouping seating to one focal area . . . such as with a corner arrangement of chesterfields on adjacent walls with a low table to separate directly in the corner. Pieces need not necessarily match, but should be chosen primarily for comfort.

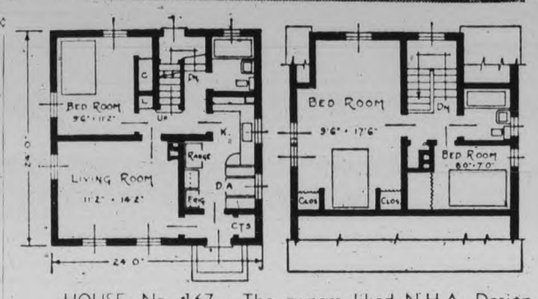
Another point that must be borne in mind is the desirability of having all seating facilities at the same height. Many people feel a psychological let-down when forced to look up to the people they are talking to and if they aren't feeling perfectly at ease, both bodily and mentally . . . neither are they at ease with their conversation. Footstools are pretty handy things in their place but they can't be expected to replace a comfortable chair.

Use Light Chairs

While most of your seating accommodation may be composed of heavy pieces of furniture, it is advisable to have one or two pull-up chairs to add additional accommodation to the conversation circle, but make sure they also offer a reasonable degree of comfort too.

Finally, a cautionary word about lighting. No doubt you remember some of the Hollywood versions of the "third degree" . . . where the perspiring victim cowered hyptonically under a brilliant white blaze of electric light. Your guests can be expected to react in similar fashion if they are forced to sit under a too brilliant lamp, so be sure to keep this in mind when deciding on their type and placement. Lighting must be adequate but inoffensively subdued where conversation is to flourish.

Won't Express Any Opinion



OTTAWA, May 27 (CP)—A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC Board of Governors, said Thursday before the Commons Committee on Radio Broadcasting that he has no opinion to express on the "unionization" of news services.

The question was raised by R. R. Knight (CCF-Saskatoon) who referred to certification of the American Newspaper Guild as bargaining agent for employees of The Canadian Press and its subsidiary, Press News Ltd.

Mr. Knight asked if the CBC would continue to take service from The Canadian Press if the news agency and press news were convicted of unfair labor practices and thus became what labor unions would consider "scab services."

Ralph Maybank (L-Winnipeg South Centre), chairman of the committee, suggested that Mr. Knight should not press the question because it was based on a hypothetical case.

Mr. Knight did not press the matter after Mr. Dunton indicated that the case would be considered if and when it arose in the light of CBC's contract with CP.

HOUSE, No. 167.—The owners liked N.H.A. Design 501 very much, but they decided that they needed a little more space to provide for a larger master bedroom, as well as an upstairs bathroom. To achieve this, they decided to build a larger dormer at the rear, which is indicated in the second floor plan shown here. The centre chimney was enlarged and moved to the exterior wall of the living room to provide for a fireplace. The side wall window in the living room was moved forward from the position shown in the first floor plan. For a little economy house this plan has much to offer. Notice there are three bedrooms, two baths, a good little kitchen with dining facilities, and a living room which, though not large, is well proportioned and bright. Closet space is ample, although the deep, narrow closet in the downstairs bedroom is not recommended for convenience. For further information, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Fire Stops Requisite In Good House Building

When studs have been cut to provide an opening, the studs on either side of the opening should be doubled. It is good practice to cut the additional stud so that the top comes under the header as shown in Figure 1.

One of the reasons for doubling studs at openings is to provide ample nailing surface for sheathing and finishing materials. As in the case of a doorway, doubling would also offer a more solid suport when the door is slammed.

It should be remembered, however, that in all types of construction, cost is a very important factor. The method that produces the best results at a minimum of cost is the one that should be used. Because of the long flue-like spaces between the studs, fire stops are necessary to prevent the rapid spread of the flames in case of fire. Fire stops are obstructions placed at and midway between each floor level to prevent the spread of fire from one floor to another. They are also provided over partitions to prevent fire from passing through the floors and across the building.

The obstructions are usually made of 2-inch lumber as shown in Figure 2. Although masonry is sometimes used, it is practicable only in certain places.

Warkworth WA Meets

WARKWORTH, May 27. — (ENS).— The Women's Association of St. Paul's United church met in the Sunday school room on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Clarence Massey and Mrs. George Walker had charge of the devotional period. The scripture reading was read by Mrs. C. Massey and a reading by Mrs. G. Walker was followed by prayer. A reading was given by Mrs. Jesse Mitchell. An interesting talk was heard by Mrs. Smale about her trip to Texas, while visiting her son and family there.

The president, Mrs. Shaw, took charge of the business meeting. Mrs. Frank Bowen will be the hostess for the next meeting, and the program committee will be Mrs. J. Mitchell and Mrs. A. Peterson.

A social period was enjoyed while lunch was served by the hostess and lunch committee.

MEMBERS OF THE EAST GERMAN POLICE FORCE, which the Allies charge is a German military force, march with their trained dogs through the Wilhelmstrasse in Berlin's Russian sector. The United States, Great Britain and France have sent protests to Moscow saying Russia has broken its post-war pledges by establishing a police force in Eastern Germany with "the character of an army" and have called upon the USSR to prove peaceful intentions by disbanding the force.

Battle Of Ideas Graduates Told

GUELPH, May 27 (CP)—Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto Friday told members of the graduating class at Toronto Veterinary College that they will help form the ranks in what he called "the battle of ideas."

"We are up against not only the threat of force from Russia," he said. "We are confronted above all by Russian claims that Communism holds the greatest good for the greatest number. In the battle of ideas, an idea can be conquered only by a better idea that can work.

"If the people of Canada, of the United Kingdom, of the United States and of the other democracies have a positive, active and effective faith in individual freedom as opposed to totalitarian tyranny, then we can gird ourselves and enthuse others for the winning of the cold war and we can make clear to the USSR the futility of armed conflict.

"The study of history shows us the red thread of conflict from the beginning of the records of our past between tyranny and freedom and between anarchy and liberty. International issues of 1950 are merely new forms of old issues."

Declares Reds Have New Bomb

NEW YORK, May 27 —(AP)— The London editor who claimed knowledge of Russia's first atomic explosion now says he has reports that the Russians have tested a new type atomic bomb stronger than anything tried out thus far by the United States.

Kenneth de Courcy, editor of a Private News Letter, said in a statement here Thursday:

"The reports reaching us persist that Russia has exploded some kind of bomb many times more powerful than the type of atomic bomb used by the Western powers."

De Courcy said the information was based on reports from observers he did not name.

King's Wedding Gift To King

200 YEARS OLD is the gold and blue pattern of the dinner service for 36 chosen by the King of England as wedding gift for the King of Thailand (Siam). Named the Royal Lily pattern, the design was also chosen by George III of England when he visited the Royal Worcester Porcelain Company's potteries in 1788. Top: Craftsman William Ashley applies the gold decoration. Left: Surrounded by many examples of the Royal Worcester Company's work in its stock room in England, Buyer Ross, from Canada, inspects one of the plates. With him (further from camera) is Sales Director Milne. Big buyers of English china are the United States and Canada. Last year's purchases totalled over six million dollars.

Regiment Chapter Of IODE Retiring Standard

At the close of a Sunday afternoon service in St. John's Anglican Church, which commences at three o'clock, the former standard of the 57th Regiment Chapter, IODE, will be laid away and the Chapter will begin use of the new standard presented by Mrs. A. W. Turner, retired Municipal Chapter Regent and member of the Chapter.

When the Regimental Chapter of IODE was formed in March 1912, the members received their flag as a gift from sergeants of the old 57th Regiment. It has been in continuous use at the monthly meetings ever since and has inspired the members to many undertakings in connection with the local regiment over intervening years.

Among varied duties, the Chapter has pledged itself to keep alive in reverent memory, gratitude and respect for those early sacrifices. To this end, it is rededicated annually in a short service held at the IODE granite memorial at the cemetery, in memory of all fallen heroes, just prior to each Decoration Day.

The embroidered "Battle Honors" which are super-imposed upon the regimental colors, are yet another token of the love and esteem in which the old regiment was held. When the glorious colors of the 57th Regiment are deposited on Sunday afternoon, in St. John's Church, immediately before the retirement of the above mentioned IODE standard, the moment will be fraught with deep significance for those officers and men of the old unit, and for their wives who still are members of the IODE chapter.

With mixed feeling of pride, loyalty, and some sorrow, they will watch their colors received for all time, into the safe-keeping, and hallowed atmosphere of the church.

The first Women's Art Association was formed in Toronto in 1887. A number were organized during intervening years, but now there are only five in Ontario, with Peterborough the second largest, next to Hamilton. Local interest has been maintained and increased and this branch is the only one to have study clubs. Mrs. Seaton explained there are five vigorous groups within the Association through which appreciation of art and study of art is advanced.

She advised that the present project is helping to start a children's art centre at the Public Library. This month a beautiful oil painting was presented to the new Civic Hospital and it will be hung in the entrance hall.

Mrs. Seaton reviewed the life of a former resident of this city, Miss Catherine Wallace, now in Santa Cruz, California, who is the only Canadian woman to receive membership in the Societe Nationale des Boux Arts. Exhibitions of her sculptory have been seen here and the Art Association owns two fine pieces, bronze and plaster, and several of her water colorings. She was the honored woman at the celebration of the 40th anniversary and her name will live in the new street, Wallace Drive.

Expressing the Soroptimists' appreciation that an association is fostering art and culture in this city, Miss Helen Gerrard thanked Mrs. Seaton.

President Mrs. May Thompson presided for the meeting. She announced the annual garden party will be held on Wednesday afternoon, June 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Miller, 161 Douro St.

Fairbairn-Bushey Nuptials Held At Parry Sound

A wedding of interest here took place in Parry Sound St. James United church last Saturday, when Laura I. Bushey, graduate of Peterborough Civic Hospital, and Roy E. A. Fairbairn pledged vows. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bushey of Parry Sound. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fairbairn of Peterobrough.

The Rev. H. C. Harris conducted the ceremony. Mrs. Wm. Osborne was organist and Miss Viola Ruebottom was soloist. The church was decorated with spring flowers and the guests' seats were marked with pussy willows and daffodils.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory moire gown in ballerina style, with a sweetheart neckline. Her fingertip veil of tulle was arranged on a tiny cap of ivory moire held in place by carnations. She carried a bouquet of red Talisman roses and sweet peas, tied with white satin.

Miss Louise Bushey, maid of honor for her sister, wore a cherry red nylon dress and light grey headdress. Her flowers were white carnations.

Mr. Clare Fairbairn of Peterborough, was groomsman and ushers were Ralph Tracy of Parry Sound and William Blaby of Peterborough.

A reception was held at the church parlors. The bride's mother received guests wearing a pearl grey dress with navy accessories. The groom's mother wore navy with dusk rose and navy accessories. Both had corsages of pink carnations.

The couple left for the United States to spend their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a navy and white dress with grey accessories and wearing a corsage of pink Talisman roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairbairn will live in Toronto.

Married Couples Advised To Retain Social Contacts

Dorothy Dix

One of the mistakes that a great many young married couples make is in going too domestic as soon as they are married. They resign from all their clubs. They drop out of their old circle and drift away from all their friends. They give up all of their sports and amusements and narrow their world down to their work and their homes.

They even account it unto themselves for righteousness that they never go to parties or play golf or dance, and that they are always in bed by 11 o'clock and never seek any diversion wilder than a neighborhood movie or wheeling Junior out in his pram on Sunday afternoons.

The newlyweds may feel that they are sufficient unto themselves, and that they desire no society but each other's, but this is as unwholesome for them as if they tried to live upon an exclusive diet of one sort of food. We need variety in our mental menus as well as our physical ones. Otherwise we get fed up on even the daintiest fare and lose our appetite for it.

See Too Much of Each Other

The greatest menace to matrimony is that husbands and wives see too much of each other, anyway. They bore each other because they get overdoses of each other's company. They know all of each other's opinions by heart. They have heard all of each other's jokes and stories and reminiscences over and over until they feel as if they will scream if they have to listen to them one more time. Most families spend their evenings sitting up in a silence so thick you cut it with a knife because they have simply talked out.

And this state of affairs is intensified if the husband and wife deliberately cut themselves off from association with other people and retire like hermits into the home cave. They are simply asking for trouble. For human nature being what it is, and especially modern human nature being what it is, ever seeking a thrill, how can any man and woman even expect to keep each other interested for thirty or forty years by a solo performance? Without any outside help. Without any break in the monotony of routine.

As a matter of fact, it can't be done. We have to get away from those we love to get a perspective on their charms. We have to toil to entertain a dull dinner partner to realize how interesting and intelligent our own husbands and wives are, and how good it is to have someone to talk to who can catch a joke on the fly. It is the going away from home that makes us know how dear home is. Hence the young couple who wish to make a success of their marriage should recognize that it is just as important to step out now and then as it is to stay in most of the time.

And certainly it is narrowing to people to confine their interests and activities to the four walls of their home. It begets in them that selfishness expressed by the old man who prayed for the safety of "me and my wife, and my son John and his wife, us four and no more," and who didn't care what happened to the balance of the world, provided their well-being was assured.

Need Stimulation of Others

We need to open our doors to others and to go through other people's doors; we need to make other people's joys and sorrows our own. And we need the stimulation that comes from association with those who are more intelligent than we are, and to brighten our wits by rubbing them up against sharper minds. No people are so self-centered, so opinionated, so self-satisfied as those who live just to themselves.

Naturally the chief value of contact with our fellow creatures is spiritual, but the practical value is also inestimable, and these the young couple miss who retire from the world upon their marriage. People do things for us to advance our interest because they like us that they would not do for us because it is our due, nor to save our lives. Half the business of the world is done over teacups and cocktail glasses and on the golf links. We go to Jones' shop not because his goods are better but because he belongs to the same club we do. We send for Dr. Smith when we are ill because his wife made herself so agreeable to us at some party. We take our lawsuits to Brown because we play golf with him. And so on and so on.

And we pass over Perkins and Jimson and Gray just because they and their wives never go anywhere or do anything and we have never met them.

And finally those husbands and wives who have just lived for each other and made of their homes a little heaven in which they were content to stay, are so likely to be the victims of the most terrible tragedy that can be woven of the woof and warp of death. For if one is taken, the other is left absolutely desolate, with no friends to turn to, nowhere to go, no resources left. His or her all is gone.

So, newlyweds, be warned. Be domestic, but not too domestic. Keep the home fires burning, but don't nail yourself too closely to your own hearthstone. The more outside interests you have the more interesting you will be inside.

LITTLE IODINE by JIMMY HATLO

Janice Crary, 2 Youngest In YW Pageant

For a few days some 250 children of varying ages are romping in the Brock Ballroom where crowds are usually older and not quite so active. They are going through the final rehearsals for the annual YWCA Pagent to be presented Tuesday evening with about 150 others in the cast.

Tiniest and youngest performer is two-year-old Janice Crary, who, with Michele Price, three and a half years but not much bigger, is to lead the opening grand march. Later they will be seen among the baby butterflies in the "Enchanted Garden," wearing pastel hued ballet costumes.

There will also be baby fairies flitting about, golden jewel bearers, colorful boy and girl peasants, black and grotesque spirits, rose maidens and elves as the ballet story "The Enchanted Princess" unfolds. The part of Prince Charming is played by Miss Sally Weiss and Miss Melva Lee Doxsee is the princess.

Gymnasts will give a revue of their year's work in military wand drills, medau eurythmics, skipping, pattern routines and club swinging.

Miss Caroline Littlefield has done the story and choreography, designed the costumes and evolved the routines. Behind-the-scenes workers have been directed by committees working under joint conveners, Mrs. Wm. Ovens and Mrs. C. B. Neal.

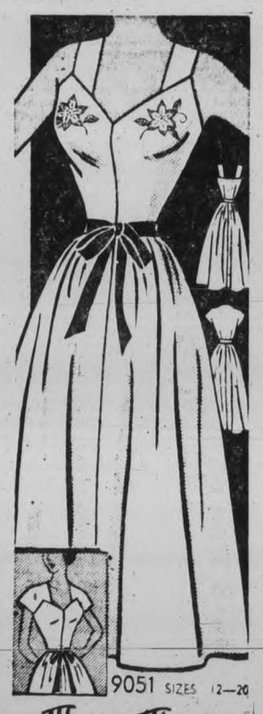
Local Girls Joining Tour Of 5 European Countries

Europe on the instalment plan—that is what a plan of the National Council of the Canadian YWCA has arranged for some 25 girls from the Dominion. Miss Hazel Wilson and Miss Marion Pogue of Peterborough will be among the lucky tourists sailing from New York on June 1st. Also the former's sister, Miss Gladys Wilson of Toronto.

The tour has been arranged, not only as a holiday trip, but also as part of a great educational project designed to acquaint the young women with the people of other countries and with the work of their association abroad.

Heading up the tour will be a Dutch girl, Miss Elise Klaasen, who came to this country three years ago for advanced study, and remained to join the staff of the Hamilton YWCA where she is now program director. Miss Klaansen's knowledge of Europe and her ability to speak several foreign languages fluently will be a tremendous asset to the touring Canadians. The girls however are not wholly unprepared for their venture, as they have been studying French, European politics and geography during the winter months in their YWCA clubs.

Instalment Payments



In order to encourage the girls to plan for this first European tour ever to be sponsored by the Canadian YWCA, the National Council office in Toronto has been accepting instalment payments all winter, so that before they ever start the girls are assured of their passage over on the Queen Elizabeth from New York and returning by the Ascania from Liverpool to Montreal. In addition, for a total of $840, their travel and living expenses in Europe, their baggage transfer and even their tips are taken care of.

Miss Klaasen and the Canadian girls will be joined in New York by two YWCA members from Trinidad before sailing for Southampton. On arrival they will go to London to spend six busy days sightseeing. Next they'll cross to Holland where they will be received by the mayor of Miss Klaasen's home town of Zwolle. Then on to Paris for more sightseeing, and it is rumoured, a visit to the Follies several YWCA groups and participate in Y functions. Next comes Switzerland where the Canadians will be joined by Swiss girls for a trip up the famed Jungfrau. Two days will be spent in Geneva where the World headquarters of the Young Womens' Christian Association is located. Miss Marion Royce, a Toronto woman, who is on the World's staff, will entertain at a "Fondue" party. This is a special Swiss meal corresponding to the Swedish smorgaasbord in character.

Returning to England the tour will continue by bus to Oxford, then up through the Burns country and back to Liverpool to sail for home on the Ascania July 13th.

The idea of a YWCA European tour originated with the girls themselves. It grew out of discussions on international relations at the Association's first National Assembly three years ago, where picked girls from local Y clubs across Canada met to study Association methods in preparation for later leadership either as volunteers or staff members. The girls felt that if they could meet their contemporaries in other countries and see the YWCA in action abroad it would give them an understanding they could not have otherwise, and provide a sound basis for future living.

Sodality At Home Closes Season Appoint Officers

Annual "At Home," held in the auditorium of Mount St. Joseph, brough the activities of St. Peter's Senior Sodality to a successful conclusion. Before a shrine erected to the honor of the patroness of the sodality, the Blessed Virgin Mary, and in a setting of pink snapdragons and carnations, Miss Helen Strano, the prefect of the Sodality directed proceedings. After the recitation of the office of the Blessed Virgin, Miss Pat Eggleton, secretary, gave her report. Miss Mamie Sullivan then presented a detailed financial report.

Miss Loretta Lorenz reported for the Eucharistic committee and presented Miss Lamoyne Cook, who gave a paper on "Catholicity." Miss Grace Schriazza of the Apostolic committee gave her paper on "Sermons". Miss Joan Rodger reported for Good Literature committee and presented Miss Jean Rutherford who spoke on "Preparation for Catholic Family Life." Miss Ella Foley reported for the social committee and presented Miss Anne Quinn speaking on "You Can Change the World." Miss Margaret Caravaggie of Our Lady's spoke on "Mary and the Love That Serves." Miss Mary McTeague, publicity committee, spoke on "The Sodality of Our Lady."

Two delightful numbers "Bring Flowers of the Rarest" and Queen of the Family Rosary" were presented by the Junior Sodality Choral Group which included Misses Lillian O'Neill, Betty Szammers, Adele Sheehy, Marie Maloney, Frances Ryan, Mary Rutherford, Doris Laton, Betty Strano, and Margaret Torpey. Miss Helen Hajnik interpreted Gounod's "Ave Maria" with Anne Szammers as piano accompanist.

Honorary guest, spiritual director Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. P. Butler, pointed out the need for trained leaders for the first cell or group of the Catholic action movement. From now until the Sodality opens in the fall, a few sodalists who have shown an interested enthusiasm for this new work, will penetrate into the basic fundamentals of the CA.

Because of this tremendous undertaking the executive deemed it wisest to appoint the sodality officers rather than hold open voting. The new central council is as follows: Prefect, Miss Helen Strano; Vice Prefect, Miss Helen Hajnik; Secretary, Miss Pat Eggleton; Treasurer, Miss Doreen Dugan; Chairmen, and co-chairmen for the various committees are: Apostolic, Miss Joan Hickey, Miss Anne Quinn; Good Liturature, Miss Jean O'Brien, Miss Teresa Doran; Eucharistic, Miss Mamie Sullivan, Miss Agnes Sullivan; Our Lady's, Miss Mary McTeague, Miss Ann Szammers; Publicity, Miss Jerene Doris, Miss Louise O'Connell; Social, Miss Margaret Handley, Miss Margaret Gorman.

White snapdragons and deep blue carnations made up the unusual and picturesque arrangement which centred the tea table on lace cloth surrounded by lighted tapers. Tea was poured by Mrs. Stafford Sullivan and Mrs. E. F. Eggleton; Mrs. J. C. Rutherford and Mrs. H. T. Hickey. Those serving included Misses Teresa Doran, Helen Cummings, Auldine Munroe, Mary Schriazza, Agnes Sullivan, Ella Foley and Anne Quinne.

5000 bushels of wheat stored at his store waiting the completion of the mill by June 1.

As soon as the mills were in operation, they were offered for sale by the Government, and purchased by John Hall and Moore Lee, who ran them in partnership for several years. Peter Robinson in a letter to the Treasury on Dec. 5, 1829, said that he had advanced £270 to "defray the expense of building a mill at Peterborough, to be paid out of the sale," and that the mills had cost £2500. To these mills from remote parts of the district north of Rice Lake came the settlers' oxcarts laden high with wheat, rye, oats and corn to be ground for a percentage by the miller or to be sold to Bethune, in exchange for the cloth, candles, utensils, seed, molasses, tea, spices and other essentials which could not be produced at home.

First Bridge.

The bridge mentioned above was an added favour provided by the government. It was built by Perry, the mill contractor, and completed in 1827, a wooden bridge occupying much the same position as its concrete descendant. It rested on three triangular piers of stone, each with point facing upstream to resist the force of winter ice and spring floods. (The plan of this bridge is preserved in the City Clerk's office). The bridge was swept away, however, in the spring floods of 1828, and for several years, until a steel bridge was built, people either used rowboats to ferry across the river, or waded it in shallow seasons.

It was a boom-time for the builders of mills, dams and bridges, the period from 1825 to 1830. By 1825 John Deyell, one of the first settlers on the Monaghan-Cavan boundary, had built a small mill on the site of Millbrook. Adam Scott, who gave up the mill at Peterborough in 1827 (which was later operated by John Brown), tried farming near Port Hope for two years, he then moved his 6 motherless children to Cavan, purchased a lot with mill-privilege and built a sawmill and gristmill, aided by his 16-year-old son Adam Jr. Nearby settlers turned out to build a corduroy road to the millsite at Cedar Valley (also called Slabtown) a mile west of Highway 28 north of the Millbrook turn. Adam Scott, sr. died Feb. 7, 1835 and lies in an unmarked grave in a little pioneer cemetery on the farm of Allan Mann of Bridgenorth. The Cavan mill was later purchased by W. Needler, and a year ago it still stood, deserted and tumbling, as the only memorial of a true pioneer.

County Mills.

In Emily on the site of Omemee, in 1825 William Cottingham built a mill on the Pigeon River, with two millstones cut nearby, and the next year a store was opened beside it. A few miles west of Ops, William Purdy (an American) and his sons Jesse and Hazard in 1827 secured a Government contract to put up a mill on the site of Lindsay, in return for 400 acres of land and $600 in cash. By September 1828 the dam and sawmill were ready, but the dam broke in the spring flood of 1829. Next year the gristmill was completed and a village began to grow up around it. According to Kirkconnell's history, when John Huston was surveying the townsite in 1834 one of his men named Lindsay died on the job, and his name was given to the village. To the east in Smith township, Jacob Brumwell, soon after telling the Governor of their need for a gristmill, built a small frame one on his lot 15, concession 3, where a creek flowed into the Otonabee above Peterborough. Like Scott's mill it ran irregularly, and was abandoned when the Government mill at Peterborough began operations. In 1828 Francis Young, an emigrant, built a sawmill farther north in Smith on the rapids between Clear and Katchewanook Lakes.

In Otonabee, Dr. John Gilchrist of Cobourg erected mills in 1825 on the Indian River (called the Squaknagossippi Creek then) where Keene now stands. To get waterpower, a flume half a mile long was dug by the neighboring settlers. The gristmill had one run of stones and the sawmill one upright saw, but they were extremely useful to the community. Keeler's sawmill and gristmill in Asphodel on the site of Norwood, completed in the summer of 1825, have already been mentioned. In 1826 a bridge was built by the government across the Trent just above the mile-long rapids, at a shallow point, but unfortunately it was washed away by the spring floods of 1827. A second more substantial bridge was built that summer, and the village of Hastings developed on the spot, straddling the river between Asphodel and Percy Townships.

The name of James Crooks is linked to Hastings. In 1810 he had purchased for £200 a block of 850 acres in northern Percy just south of the rapids. Then in 1824 he was granted lot 4, concession 8, Asphodel, on the north shore on condition that he build a gristmill within 18 months. To improve his millsite he acquired the east half of lot 4, concession 7 in the next year, but not until 1829-30 was his small gristmill completed with an adequate wingdam out into the rapids to provide power for his waterwheel. It is said that this mill ground only a bushel or two of grain before breaking down; we will learn more of the Crooks project at Hastings in a later article.

Campbellford Club Entertains Norwood

CAMPBELLFORD, May 27 — (ENS)—The Young Adults' Club of St. John's United Church were hosts to the 50-50 Club of Norwood United Church at the regular monthly meeting held on Thursday evening. Ruth Thompson, president of the Campbellford club welcomed the visitors, their pastor, Rev. E. E. Pugsley, and their president, Bob Garden.

The devotional period was taken by Barbara Steel and Pearl McComb, with Elaine Watson at the piano. Mrs. Don Bennett gave a vocal solo.

The decision to close the local club's activities until fall with a picnic in June met with approval, particularly in view of the kind offer of Mrs. Don Bennett of the use of her cottage at Crow Bay for the event.

Henry Oliver took over the chair for the program which consisted of a solo by Isobel Wallace with Elaine Watson at the piano, a violin and piano number by Gearold and Donald Young, and a recitation by Ruth Holmes.

Guest speaker was Roy Barnum, local druggist, who was introduced by Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith. Mr. Barnum discussed the drug business.

Henry Oliver expressed his thanks to the speaker on behalf of the club. Eunice Sayers was in charge of a period of games which followed.

Bob Garden expressed the thanks of the visitors to the Campbellford club, to which Mrs. Ruth Thompson replied. Mr. Garden promised to arrange a renewal of the fellowship between the two clubs through an invitation to Norwood in the fall.

Ranger Charges Fires Were Deliberately Set

HALIFAX, May 27 (CP)—R. T. MacCabe, forest ranger directing 300 weary fire fighters battling a forest blaze five miles southwest of Truro, N.S., said today some of the fires in the area had been "deliberately set."

The fires have burned over 2,000 acres of second growth and slash and the ranger said they are out of control and only rain can extinguish them. RCMP officers are investigating.

The largest fire which broke out Thursday night has cut a swath three miles long and a mile wide and is moving in a northerly direction.

The forest ranger said the fires had been set after three separate fires broke out in the area south of Truro Friday. Mr. MacCabe said the wind was not blowing in the direction of the new outbreaks and they could not have started from embers from the first and largest fire.

Overdue Aircraft Now Reported Safe

RIMOUSKI, Que., May 27 (CP) —A Grumann Mallard aircraft owned by K. C. Irving of Saint John, N. B., reported overdue on Friday on a flight from Rimouski to Quebec, is safe at St. Leonard, N. B.

Rimouski airport officials said they have been in touch with the private plane since it landed on the Saint John River at St. Leonard after flying there from Rimouski.

The call at St. Leonard was made because the plane had business there but its take-off for Quebec was delayed by mechanical trouble.

The RCAF at Halifax, who sent out a bomber to search for the plane when it was reported overdue, originally identified it as an Imperial Oil Company aircraft. Company officials at Toronto said, however, al of their aircraft were safe.

Teachers Help Fund

MONTREAL, May 27.—(CP).—To provide a personal contribution from Quebec teachers to Manitoba colleagues who have lost homes, furnishings and belongings in flood stricken areas, an appeal has been issued by the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec. The money donated by the Quebec teachers will be turned over to the Manitoba Teachers' Society to aid relief and rehabilitation.

Costly Entertainment

FAIRBORN, O., May 27 (AP) —James A. Ryan, 31, father of four small children, tried to erect his own television aerial Friday. It cost his wife's life as well as his own. He tried to raise the aerial pole to slip one end into brackets he had fastened to the house. The aerial hit a 12,000-volt power line. The shock killed Ryan. His wife, Lois, 26, ran from the house toward him. She stumbled against a fence on which the aerial fell. She too was electrocuted.

Flood Relief Show Popular

TORONTO, May 27 (CP) — From the tightly-packed seats of Maple Leaf Gardens Friday night went out a mighty appeal for relief for the Manitoba flood sufferers.

Official attendance of 14,907 paid $25,336 for the opportunity to applaud a star-spangled show that was broadcast over Canadian and United States radio networks involving 729 stations. All radio listeners were urged to contribute to the flood fund.

All receipts at the Gardens also went to the fund. All performers donated their services. No one could estimate the total that would result.

The show had Jack Carson, Hollywood movie star and native of Carman, Man., as master of ceremonies. It had the Toronto Symphony Orchestra under Sir Ernest MacMillan and Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians orchestra, donated by the American Musicians' Union, and a host of others.

Trial Postponed

NAPANEE, May 27—(CP)—Trial of James Fosbraey, charged with murder in the stabbing death of his wife last November, Friday was postponed again until June 12. The hearing had been scheduled for Monday next and it appeared that some jurors might not receive notice of postponement in time.

Thrift Taught Carrier Boys Much More Saving Money

Canada's junior merchants—the newspaperboys—are continuing Canada's system of free enterprise.

"They are learning constantly by practical everyday experience, the working of the system, and the responsibilities and the rewards of it," James Fraser, manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, told his audience in an Examiner broadcast this week.

"Naturally," said Mr. Fraser, "it all depends on the individual—that's the beauty of our system. If carrier boys work hard and if they are determined to save their money and make something of themselves when they are older, then being a newspaper carrier can very well be the building-stone on which to erect a sound business career during their adult life.

"We, at the Chamber of Commerce, are in constant touch with merchants and businessmen, large and small, and we know that the experienced newspaper carrier are getting today, can prove invaluable to them in the years to come."

Mr. Fraser also stressed the value of the thriftiness learned by carrier boys. He said there were so many ways in which money can be spent foolishly, "that it seems to me thrift means more than just saving money and spending wisely."

To parents of newspaperboys Mr. Fraser said, You have every reason in the world to be proud of them and of the work they are doing."

Course in Citizenship

Peterborough businessman, Arthur H. Lewis, told his audience he believed being a newspaper boy was "practical training—you might almost say it's a course in becoming a good Canadian".

Representing the newspaperboys on the program were Jack Cupoli and Jack Pierson. Jack Pierson is one of six Pierson boys carrying The Examiner.

Mr. Lewis went on to say he believed "our children must learn thoroughly the workings of a democracy.

"There is surely no doubt that our Canadian newspaper carriers are being given a wonderful opportunity. They are learning today what many a man has to learn for himself ten years later."

"They are getting a head start in life," said Mr. Lewis. "If they are willing, honest, and determined to do a good job, they will find personal success, and they will also succeed as Canadians."

Gets Final Reading

OTTAWA, May 27 — (CP) — The Commons on Friday gave third and final reading to a series of amendments which will bring Canada's Aeronautics Act up to date. The changes, studied in committee stage Friday, already have passed the Senate.

Union Requests Certification

TORONTO, May 27 (CP)—The Independent Canadian Brotherhood of Seamen has applied for certification to represent employees of Quebec and Ontario steamships line.

Union organizer Bus Nuttall said Friday 65 per cent of the crews on company vessels are paid-up members of the brotherhood.

The company signed an agreement with the Seafarers' International Union (AFL) this spring, although the union was not certified.

Mr. Nuttall said the agreement with the SIU is illegal and was made without approval of the crews.

The brotherhood also announced it is organizing among crews of Paterson Steamship Lines, which has signed agreements with the SIU without certification.

The Canadian Brotherhood of Seamen was formed last year and is headed by former officials of the allegedly Communist-dominated Canadian Seamen's Union. They said the CSU was no longer capable of doing a job for seamen.

To the Citizens of Peterborough:

THE LOCK STRIKE is A Community Responsibility

Thousands of Peterborough citizens have signed the Lock Workers' Petition or given donations of cash or food to the strikers and their families.

This support has come readily to the Lock workers, because they are striking against an anti-union Company that wants to cut their wages, lay off without regard to length of service and to speed up the remaining workers to maintain their high profits.

Our UE members in Peterborough are fully in sympathy and support of the Lock strikers.

We know that without their fighting spirit organized labor would have suffered a set-back in every plant in town, that would mean unemployment, reduced earnings and the sweat-shop conditions of the '30's.

We urge all of our fellow workers and fellow citizens to continue their generous support of the Lock Workers.

Each Saturday, until their strike is won, the Lock Workers will take up a food collection throughout the city.

We urge you all to give generously, as we are doing, to the Lock Strikers and their families.

Together we can help to shorten the Strike at Lock and win a settlement that will give better conditions and security to Lock Workers and their families.

Teen-Agers Give Variety Show

NORWOOD, May 27 (ENS)—The Havelock "Teen-Town Revue" presented a variety amateur show in the Norwood Town Hall, Monday evening. It was sponsored by the Norwood Teen-Town.

The mixed choir, under the direction of Mr. Herbert Caskey, opened the program with the singing of "Come to the Fair."

The Viennese waltz was followed by a tap dance by Elaine Graham. Marie Cosgrove in red and white costumes, Lois McKay then sang a solo "Come Sing To Me." Jack Southward crooned "Oh You Beautiful Doll" to Brenda Lucas, and a mock radio program entitled "The Slap-Happy Gang," was well received. A graceful waltz number performed by Bob Hill and Beverly Bennett was enjoyed.

A one-act play, "The Registered Letter," was given by Shirley Holdcroft, Maxine Seabrook, Bob Hill and Jack Southward. Beulah Ellis sang "The Johnson Rag," accompanied by a group of prettily-costumed tap dancers. Joan Graham, Nanty Curtis and Eleanor Scott in black faces presented an amusing performance of "Chattanooga Shoe-Shine Boy." Bob J. Hill of Norwood presented a juggling act with tennis rackets, soccer balls, and a bayonet and a cone of fire; Brenda Lucas and Helen Robinson, two majorettes, tapped to an Irish tune. An old tyme orchestra featured Barbara Brooks, Beulah Ellis, Virginia Ellis, Gordon Bales.

The Rich Maharajah of Magadore and his harem was portrayed with Maxine Seabrook as the Maharajah who wished to learn to dance, while six harem girls gesticulated the Graham and Bennett sisters sang "The world is waiting for the sunrise." The choir closed the concert with "The surrey with the fringe on top" and "Oklahoma."

The Norwood Teen-Agers served a lunch to the cast and a short dance followed. Pianists were Shirley Bennett and Patricia Belt.

Big Geological Survey Launched By Canada

OTTAWA, May 27 (CP)—Canada this year is launching the biggest geological survey program in her history. A total of 83 parties have been assigned for field work that will institute surveys in all 10 provinces, the mines department announced Thursday.

The wide-ranging program will include mapping areas in the Northwest Territories, the Yukon and the 10 provinces, examination of areas believed favorable for the accumulation of oil, gas and coal and geophysical survey of ore-bearing bodies.

The program for Ontario:

Extensive investigations will be made to aid the search for oil in Southern Ontario and in the vicinity of Niagara. Groundwater supply in the St. Lawrence waterway area will be studied and geological structures in the vicinity of Tweed will be mapped. Investigations will be made in Western Ontario and the Hastings district into the occurrences of rare minerals and non-metallic deposits.

Welch Leaves Prison Wants To Forget

KINGSTON, May 27 (CP)—Joseph Vernon Welch, of Aylmer and Toronto, whose 10-year sentence for manslaughter following the death of his wife, was quashed by the Supreme Court of Canada May 15, was released from Kingston penitentiary Friday and was met at the prison gates by members of his family. He was discharged at 11 a.m., and left by car for Toronto immediately.

"I want to forget about the whole thing," he told a reporter. "These last three years are worse than a nightmare. All I want to do now is settle down to live a normal life once again."

When asked whether or not he was going to seek redress from his imprisonment, he reiterated that he "wanted to forget the whole thing."

Charge U.S. Pilot Damages Plane Bound For Rome In Dispute On Ownership

Florida Flier Releases Air Brake Pressure Just Before Takeoff Time, Company Files Charges, Will Be Tried

MONTREAL, May 29—(CP)—James Vinson, 29, an American pilot, was charged today with damaging an airplane in what his attorney indicated was a dispute over ownership. Vinson, whose address was given only as Florida, was charged with releasing the air brake pressure just before takeoff time Sunday of a plane bound for Rome with 52 passengers making a Holy Year trip. Curtiss-Reid Flying Service, Ltd., laid the charge. The company claimed that Vinson's action caused $57 damage. The plane took off after a routine, pre-flight inspection revealed the damage.

Defence Attorney Joseph Cohen, who said he represented Ocean Air Trade Ways of Wildwood, NJ, said Vinson was acting on instructions of his company and, in any case, did something required by law every six months.

Preliminary hearing was set for June 6.

The charge said that Vinson acted in order to prevent or delay the plane's departure.

Mr. Cohen said the plane belonged to Ocean Air Trade Ways, which had leased it to Curtiss-Reid, but that the contract had expired May 20 and had not been renewed.

In spite of this, he said, Curtiss-Reid made preparations for the takeoff. He said proceedings will be taken immediately by the American company to regain possession of the plane.

Alexander Stelker, representing the local Curtiss-Reid Company, said the plane was bought by Curtiss-Reid and was registered as a Canadian-owned plane.

He claimed Vinson was trespassing on the plane and deliberately tampering with it.

Build 85-Mile Pipeline From Buffalo, Will Cost Six Million

Estimate Construction At 18 Months Routed Around Niagara, Changeover In Gas Equipment Likely

TORONTO, May 29—(CP)—Consumers' Gas Company today announced plans for an 85-mile pipeline from Buffalo to Toronto to bring Texas natural gas to this area. Estimated cost of the project is $6,000,000. E. J. Tucker, general manager of Consumer's Gas, said the 85-mile pipeline will be started as soon as the United States Federal Power Commission gives its approval. Consumers' Gas has 180,000 customers, Mr. Tucker said. They should be receiving natural gas from Texas by way of the proposed pipeline within "two to three years."

Twenty-inch pipe would be laid four feet underground along the Buffalo-Toronto route. Construction would take about 18 months.

Around Niagara

Tentative plans call for routing the pipeline around the Niagara Peninsula, skirting most major cities and towns but passing close to Hamilton. By skirting large communities, cost of construction can be kept down, as it will be unnecessary to tunnel under city streets and bypass buildings.

However, provision will be made to link the communities to the pipeline if they desire service. Such participation would reduce the capital cost of building the pipeline to Toronto.

It is not yet known if property leases will be involved.

Natural gas burns twice as hotly as the gas now being delivered through Toronto mains. Its use will require a changeover of all gas-burning equipment in the city.

The pipeline will be built by a new company to be formed to own and operate it from the Niagara river to the western limit of the Toronto company's marketing area.

Some 4,000 Toronto homes now are heated by gas furnaces and there are 6,500 industrial or commercial users.

Berlin Battle Turns Out A Big Parade

BERLIN, May 29—(AP)—The much-publicized "Battle For Berlin" turned out Sunday to be just another big Communist parade—not the threatened putsch the West had girded itself to meet.

The demonstration, which recalled days of Hitler's goose-stepping legions, had its significant undertones, however.

The West proved itself ready to meet any Red putsch and not be moved out of the city by Russian threats.

The east proved it had laid the groundwork for an automaton state in East Germany, firmly in the Communist grip, by pouring out 500,000 youths to pay homage to Russia.

There was no Communist storming of the west sectors, as first threatened last February.

Neither was the Red outpouring in the east sector any flabby affair.

Tens of Thousands

Up the Wilhelmstrasse, past the rubble that marks the end of Hitler's Reich, into Unter Den Linden where the Kaiser's legions and later the Nazi hoards used to march, came the blue-shirted youths by the tens of thousands.

Hour after hour they marched, through rain and sun, chanting the hymns of hate against the west and praise for Communist Russia.

Sandwiched in with the marching youngsters were 10,000 members of the East Zone police force which western officials

Winnipeg Banks Without Alarms

WINNIPEG, May 29 (CP)—Now they tell us.

City banks were without burglar alarms for ten days while Winnipeg battled the floods.

J. W. Ellinthorpe, city signals engineer, said the trouble developed when Manitoba government telephone cables got soaked.

"Repairs have been made and the system is back in operation," he said.

Major battle waged by the signals engineers was to keep the city's fire alarm system working. As cables became wet and grounded the system in far-flung sections, the 18 engineers strung temporary lines to carry emergency power to the boxes.

Want To Muzzle British Weatherman

WESTON-SUPER-MARE, England, May 29 (AP)—If this seaside resort has its way, Britain's weatherman is going to be muzzled.

J. G. Brenner, chairman of the city's seafront amusement concessions, said today he would seek an injunction against bad weather broadcasts by the BBC before holidays because they're bad for business.

"Sunday's broadcast forecast a dull, cold and showery day," he complained. "As it was, we had 12 hours of sunshine and no rain. These forecasts do untold harm to hundreds of small traders and to seaside towns generally and, in my opinion, keep away thousands of visitors."

Red Still Dropping Flood Almost Over

WINNIPEG, May 29 (CP)—A few lonely sentinels today watched the Red river's receding watermark on Greater Winnipeg's sandbag dikes. For most of the city, the worst flood in a century was almost a thing of the past.

The huge volunteer-services machine—which at the height of the menace had thrown 60,000 men into a round-the-clock drudgery to save Winnipeg and nearby St. Boniface from destruction—was fast breaking up.

The Red is still several feet above the 18-foot flood stage. At 1:30 a.m. CDT its level was 26.7 feet, down 3.6 feet from the May 19 crest of 30.3. Bright, warm weather and drying winds had accelerated the recession.

Pay For Assassination

TEL AVIV, Israel, May 29 (AP)—Israel says she will pay $54,628 damages in connection with Count Folke Bernadotte's assassination and pledges continued search for his killers. The UN Palestine mediator was slain in the Jewish-held sector of Jerusalem Sept. 17, 1948.

Bilateral Pact On Wheat Will Be Ended

LONDON, May 29 (Reuters)—Canada and Britain have agreed to end the system of bilateral wheat agreements between them, which has been so strongly criticized in the United States, wheat experts in London said today.

The decision, which experts believe the governments took in the London discussions last week between British officials and C. D. Howe, Canadian Trade Minister, is not expected to be made known until next week.

Under it Canada and Britain will have no firm bulk contract for Canadian wheat after the current four-year agreement expires July 31 experts believe.

Compete In Market

Canada would simply compete for Britain's market for dollar wheat within the price limits of the International Wheat Agreement for next season. These limits are a maximum of $1.98 and a minimum of $1.43 a bushel.

Grain experts thought that Canada might capture the whole of British markets for dollar-wheat. This season the United States got a small part of it. But this would be done in open competition, instead of by a bilateral pact.

It was believed that the British officials told Howe that Britain expected to need between 100,000,000 and 120,000,000 bushels of dollar-wheat during the 12 months starting August 1.

Believe Canada Engaged In Big Anti-Spy Drive

OTTAWA, May 29—(CP)—Indications today are that Canada is engaged with Britain and the United States in an anti-espionage drive whose pace hasn't been matched since the celebrated spy trials of 1946. There are signs that it may blow wide open at any time. But it is all submerged and curtained off. Nobody in Ottawa is talking.

Officials are so firm and steadfast in their determination not to talk that they simply redouble conjecture that Canada may soon see a revival of the 1946 prosecutions.

The latest indication is a London press report that one Canadian will be among those swept up in a three-nation swoop on a Communist atomic spy network.

There is no comment here. Nobody would talk.

But the silence and the cautious approach to parliamentary questions about security screenings and anti-espionage activity combine to invite conjecture.

May Have Evidence

In fact, it is not impossible that the Mounties already have the evidence that could warrant the reopening of at least one of the 1946 trials that ended in acquittal.

It is the notebook seized in 1946 from one of those later acquitted. In it was found the name of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, the German-born British atomic scientist now serving 14 years imprisonment as a spy for Russia.

Under the sweeping Official Secrets Act, basis of the prosecutions, that fact alone would establish a presumption of guilt against the owner of the notebook unless he could explain the presence of Fuchs's to the satisfaction of officials on a jury.

Handshake Ends Highland Feud

INVERARY, Argyll, Scotland, May 29 (Reuters)—A handshake between a kilted highland chieftain and an elderly Scot in tweeds has ended a 258-year-old clan feud.

Since the Campbells treacherously fell upon their inveterate enemies, the Macdonalds, in the midnight massacre of Glencoe in 1692, there has been hate between the clans.

But Saturday night the Duke of Argyll, chief of Clan Campbell, held out the hand of friendship to 73-year-old John Macdonald, direct descendant of the massacred branch of the clan, at the Duke's ancient castle here.

The rift was healed—later Macdonald said—"The Duke is a fine fellow."

Thieves Get $2,000 From Toronto Hotel

TORONTO, May 29 (CP)—Thieves escaped with $2,000 from the Orchard Park Hotel early today after tying up watchman Tony Martyniuk, 43. Police said most of the money was in small denomination bills.

Martyniuk said the thieves appeared to be headed by a short, chunky masked man wearing a sport shirt and a milkman's hat.

The watchman said the masked man told him:

"Keep quiet and you won't get hurt."

Martyniuk said the man threw a coat over his head and tied his legs with cord. Then he could hear other men smashing open the safe.

Police said the thieves entered by a rear door. John Ross, day chef, released Martyniuk when he arrived for work.

Scores Flee Blazing Skating Rink

MONTREAL, May 29—(CP)—Scores of roller skaters scrambled out of the old Colliseum still wearing skates Sunday night as a fast-spreading blaze engulfed the wooden structure within minutes.

No casualties were reported.

The dome-roofed building, also used for secondary boxing and wrestling matches, went up like a torch and only a small part housing offices was saved.

Three alarms were rung at 10-minute intervals and several ambulances converged on the scene in case of casualties.

Loss of the 50-year-old building, said to be the oldest rink in Canada, was estimated at more than $200,000.

See Flames in Verdun

Flames that leaped 100 feet in the air at the height of the blaze were seen by people as far as suburban Verdun, more than two miles west.

The Coliseum is on Guy Street below Dorchester, in the west-central part of the city. Thousands of Montrealers taking advantage of warm weather jammed streets near the structure and hampered the work of firemen.

Fernand Jacqueline, 26, last person to leave the rink, said "another minute and we would all have perished."

Jacqueline went through the front door in such a hurry he forgot he still had on skates. He fell down the front steps, injured his hands and tore his trousers.

The fire was brought in check after an hour although smoke still drifted from the debris long afterwards.

Police Battle Berserk Cow

TORONTO, May 29 — (CP) — Police hauled up heavy artillery—a riot gun—to win a battle with a berserk crow Saturday.

But it was a Humane Society inspector's .410-calibre shotgun which dispatched the bird.

A shot from the riot gun got another crow by mistake.

The action took place in a cemetery — as funerals passed slowly by.

Mount Pleasant cemetery echoed with shots—and with the bird's defiant caw-caw-caw — during a two-hour battle.

The big, black bird whose mate has set up housekeeping in a cemetery tree, had caused trouble for a week. Saturday it made at least six dive-bombing attacks on humans.

Women had their hats knocked off. A bald man suffered a scalp cut from the crow's sharp beak. One cemetery employee fought off the bird three times.

G.M. Contracts With I.U.E. For Five Years

DETROIT, May 29 — (AP) — General Motors Coporation now has contracts insuring five years of industrial peace with 267,000 production and electrical workers.

The automobile industry's biggest producer signed an agreement Saturday with the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO), which has a membership of 32,000.

GM and the IUE patterned the pact on a contract announced five days earlier by the corporation and the United Auto Workers (CIO), representing 235,000.

Both five-year agreements, which cannot be reopened, cover:

1. A funded plan to pay $100-a-month, including social security, to employees retiring with 25 years' service. The pensions will go up if social security payments are boosted by Congress.

2. A four-cent hourly wage boost effective today and an additional four cents each year the duration of the contracts.

3. Continuation of the cost-of-living plan, by which wages are adjusted quarterly according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index.

4. Increased life insurance, sickness and accidents benefits and a GM promise to pay half of each worker's hospital and urgical coverage.

The contract with the IUE packed a modified union shop agreement, included in the GM-UAW pact.

The new contract was approved unanimously by the IUE General Motors conference.

The IUE, formed after the CIO ousted the United Electrical Workers' Union last fall, won bargaining rights in GM plants Feb. 28.

Find New Clue In Plane Blast

LONDON, May 29 (Reuters)—Scotland Yard today was investigating the mystery explosion aboard a British Viking Airliner five weeks ago which ripped out part of the tail fuselage.

Britain's top crime-prevention organization flew Superintendent William Rudkin to Paris during the week-end to follow up a new clue in the unsolved blast of April 13.

The plane, operated by British European Airways and carrying 27 passengers and a crew of five, limped back to Northolt Airport, London, after the explosion which occurred over the English Channel. No one was killed but the stewardess was injured.

A Scotland Yard spokesman declined to give any information as to the clue being followed up in France.

Holds 26 Plane Passengers At Gunpoint During Trip

FRESNO, Calif., May 29 (AP)—A 26-yaer-old United States Air Force veteran Sunday held 26 airline passengers at gunpoint for nearly half an hour on a flight from Los Angeles to Oakland, the sheriff's office here reported.

It was the week-end's second such incident in the coast area.

Deputies arrested John O'Reilly soon after the California Central Airlines plane landed at Fresno airport. He was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Officers said O'Reilly evidently "went berserk" shortly after the plane took off from Los Angeles. His 22-year-old German wife and eight-month-old son were among the passengers.

Joseph N. Nuccitelli, pilot of the ship, told deputies he tried to pacify O'Reilly after receiving a call for help from Stewardess Joan Herron.

The man became belligerent, Nuccitelli recounted, accused one of the passengers of smuggling dope, smashed out windows of the plane "to let in some fresh air," then pulled a gun.

The pilot told how he ducked back into the cabin, locked the door and radioed the field at Fresno for help. When the plane landed 25 minutes later, deputies coaxed O'Reilly out of the plane and took him to jail for psychiatric examination.

On Saturday, a suicide-bent psychoneurotic patient threatened a military transport plane with 24 persons aboard when he jettisoned the craft's emergency door 200 miles off the California coast.

The falling door was swooped up by the airstream of the C-54 Skymaster and slammed into the plane's horizontal tail structure.

The unnamed patient was tackled by fellow patient-passengers as he prepared to dive into the sea after pulling the release handle that jettisoned the door. The ship landed safely.

Police Now Halting Musselman Orgies

MUSSELMAN'S LAKE, Ont., May 29 (CP) — Police Chief Richard Mulholland said today that he and his officers put down a weekend outbreak of teen-age rowdyism and drunkenness in this resort area 25 miles north of Toronto.

He added that from now on, every car visiting the area during weekends will be searched for liquor.

He said 30 youths, members of two separate gangs, took part in the disturbance. Three were charged with having liquor in an illegal place.

The chief said that drinking in parked automobiles and mixed drinking parties in rented cabins Saturday night reached such proportions that "a truck could have been filled with confiscated liquor if more officers had been available for duty."

British Steamer Runs Blockade To Shanghai

HONG KONG, May 29 (Reuters)—The British steamer Mausang arrived at Shanghai from Hong Kong today after running the Chinese Nationalist blockade.

It was understood the voyage was without incident.

The Mausang is the first ship to enter blockaded Shanghai since the Nationalist withdrew from their Chusan Island base guarding the Yangtse entrance, two weeks ago.

Slowdown On Socialism Labor Election Feature

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—The Labor party is getting set for a new election drive featuring a slowdown on Socialism.

Two secret conferences in the last 10 days have picked out two salient efforts to win the favor of the voters, say informed sources in the Labor Government.

The first is beamed at the British housewife.

Labor's new deal will mean lower prices for fruit, vegetables and fish which now are largely free of price control. This is part of their chief plan for attempting to show that Socialism can mean a shilling in the purse for the least person in the country as well as a grandiose plan for public ownership of industry.

Plans once laid for state control of food distribution have been shelved, however. In its place will come a plan to shake up the distribution system and try to reduce the wide spread between "farm prices and store prices. A system of municipal markets, based on the grower-to-consumer idea, is likely to be advocated.

The second decision is to shelve plans for more excursions into public ownership of industry.

The iron and steel industry for which parliament already has approved state ownership will be taken over on schedule next year.

But from now on, the government intends to concentrate on making the state-owned industries work more efficietly so they can turn out more goods at lower cost.

After a thorough examination of the feeling which swung sharply towards the Conservatives in last February's election, Labor policy-makers are convinced these two things are what the

Donnybrook Brings Arrest, $282 Fines

BRANTFORD, May 29 (CP)—A Thursday night "donnybrook" in a beverage room here which resulted in the arrest of six men today cost five of them a total of $282 in fines, costs and repair of damage.

Three were convicted of wilful damage of $84 to a beer cooler from flying salt shakers, cash trays and glasses. Five were convicted of creating a disturbance, bringing fines and costs of $17.50 each and one was assessed $12.50 for assaulting the proprieor, John Shedler.

UAW Orders Strike On June 5

Will Resume Talks On Chrysler Pension and Contract

WINDSOR, Ont., May 29 — (CP)—A strike deadline at 10 a.m. June 5 faces negotiators of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Ltd., and United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) scheduled to resume talks today on union pension and contract demands.

Strike action was approved at a general meeting Sunday of some 3,000 of the 3,600 members of Local 195, U.A.W., in Chrysler's three Windsor plants. A union statement said that 98 per cent of those voting agreed to stop work June 5 "or sooner" unless an agreement is reached.

George Burt, Canadian U.A.W. director, told the meeting the union will seek continuous negotiations today until the strike deadline in an effort to settle the long-standing dispute.

In recent negotiations, Mr. Burt said, the company refused a compromise "package offer" by the union, equivalent to a 10-cent-an-hour increase. The union will now revert to its previous demands, he said.

Chief among these are a $100-a-month pension plan, company-paid ond funded, and a comprehensive company-paid health and insurance plan. The union also seeks three weeks' paid vacations and other contract changes.

$12 Assessment

Sunday's meeting was told that a $12 assessment would be levied on each of the 50,000 UAW members in Canada in the event of a strike. Both company and employees are now recovering from a 10-week layoff, caused by a strike caused stoppage of assembly-line parts from the United States. Production was resumed here early this month.

Mr. Burt said top Chrysler officials would enter negotiations to replace what he termed "lesser officials . . . who had no say in policy."

Talks toward a new contract began a year ago. The majority report of a conciliation board, dealing with union pension requests, has been before the company and union for three weeks.

It recommends settlement on a $55 monthly pension, based on the recent UAW agreement with Ford Motor Company of Canada. As an alternative the report suggests a $100 pension, in which company and employees would pay for the extra $45.

100 Rescued In Hospital Fire

LONDON, May 29.—(Reuters).—Women knelt in the streets and prayed as nurses and firemen Saturday carried more than 100 patients to safety from a fire in Brompton Hospital in Kensington, in which a doctor and a nurse died.

The fire, which broke out in an X-ray room after an explosion in the basement of the hospital, spread rapidly through the ground floor.

Firemen wearing oxygen masks fought blazing chemicals and X-ray film.

They confined the fire to one section of the hospital and brought it under control in an hour.

Three women cooks, trapped in a kitchen, escaped on to a roof. People in the streets screamed to them not to jump and women [illegible] for their safety. Firemen rescued them with escape ladders.

The charred bodies of Dr. Gerald Channel and nurse Evelyn Mary Roberts, found in the operating theatre, were brought out later by firemen.

Troublemakers Keep Police Busy At Lindsay

LINDSAY, May 29 — Persons who broke into Lindsay CPR station and freight shed Friday night or early Saturday morning got nothing for their trouble, says a CPR spokesman.

Police Chief A. Webster reports that sometime during the night, both station and freight shed were entered, and thoroughly ransacked.

It was learned from a railroad spokesman that entry to the station had been gained by jimmying a window, and at the freight shed a pane of glass had been smashed and the lock slipped. Nothing was missing, says this spokesman, but he adds that considerable damage was done.

Lindsay is apparently in the throes of a minor crime wave, as police report that several other incidents have taken place during the past two or three days.

Swipe Cash, Play Hookey

Three boys, aged seven, nine and ten years of age, walked into the office of the Cockshutt Implement Co. office here, while the manager was out, says Chief Webster. When they walked out again they had $15 which they removed from the till.

The boys were picked up when they played hookey from school and appeared to have too much spending money, says the chief. The case is being handled by Const. McCartney, and Mr Gordon Pepper of the Children's Aid.

Police received a report Saturday that the crank belonging to lock gates above Lindsay St. bridge was missing, a well as a scow moored nearby. They say they have learned that the scow was found further up the river, near the Knitters Limited plant.

The police warn that swimming privileges at the locks will be withdrawn unless there is reasonable behavior there.

Another incident occurred Friday evening when someone ripped ignition wires from at truck standing in the Baldwin coal yards.

Mrs. Dolan, 33 St. Patrick St. reported to police Saturday that a neighbour had seen two men open the door of a car parked in front of her house and remove two blankets from it. The theft is reported to have occurred about 3 a.m.

claim is the nucleus of an East German army.

Tanned, rugged, and obviously army-disciplined in their dark blue uniforms and black jackboots, they looked to be carbon-copies of the Wehrmacht forces of a few years ago.

The marchers would burst into a frenzy of cheering as they passed the reviewing stand, where German and Russian Communist leaders stood.

It was impossible to know how deeply the Soviet hate-the-west propaganda had sunk into the youngsters' minds.

There was no doubt of one fact however. All were automatons firmly in the grip of their Communist leaders. They cheered when they were supposed to and did as they were told, without question, if not with enthusiasm.

Report Elections Quiet In Korea

SEOUL, May 29 (AP) — The little republic of Korea, born of the turmoil of the Second World War and a hot spot in the Asian cold war since, today wound up a quiet (for Korea) campaign for tomorrow's national elections.

Six deaths, three kidnappings, four cases of arson and about 500 arrests have been reported. Among those clamped in jail were 42 candidates and 178 electioneers. The main charge was violation of elections laws.

This calm compared to the bloody elections of two years ago. Then some 800 were killed or wounded in the campaign. Another 100 casualties were added election day.

On the block tomorrow are the 210 seats in the National Assembly sought by 2,156 candidates. Actually, the power of President Syngman Rhee also is at stake.

Propellers of the two right-side engines were dented and the right wingtip and belly of the plane damaged.

General Petroleum attracted considerable attention in the firmer western oil list. Leading issues like Calgary and Edmonton, Atlantic Oil and Foothills sagged under pressure of realizing today. National Petroleum, a standout in recent sessions, also slumped.

Low-priced gold stocks continued trading at the rapid rate of last week's markets. Omega Mines had a moderate gain and Amalgamated Larder and Donald were also active. Several of the previous week's penny leaders weakened slightly as traders took profits. Leading junior producers dipped from opening firmness.

Court Reserves Judgement

Magistrate W. R. Philp KC reserved judgment in police court today in the trial of William Brick, Haultain, charged with shooting a rifle at his step-daughter Betty Brick and Harry Rowe Apsley, May 1.

Representing Brick, W. B. Gordon, offered no defence but argued the court could not rely on the evidence of Betty Brick, the only person who testified Brick shot the gun.

Mr. Gordon said the 16-year-od girl had not taken the oath before giving evidence and in the witness box had exhibited almost hatred toward her step-father.

"If Brick did shoot the rifle, said Mr. Gordon, "he was only trying to scare off Betty Brick from going with Rowe."

In evidence given Friday, Betty Brick said she had lived in 41-year-old Rowe's home "doing housework and helping Mrs. Rowe" for about six months. Rowe testified he paid Betty $10 a week, but hadn't paid her every week.

Betty Brick told the court she knew Brick objected strongly to her living at Rowe's house. The night of the shooting there had been some discussion of the matter with Rowe who had driven the Bricks to Young's Point and back for supper.

After Rowe had gone and got into his truck to go home, Brick had challenged him to come out and fight. He had turned into the highway when Brick, said his step-daughter, appeared on the verandah with a rifle and pointed it at Rowe's truck.

"Don't shoot, "I'll go out to him" Betty said to Brick. At the truck, she told Rowe, "He's going to shoot us."

Rowe ordered her into the truck. As she was getting in the rifle went off. The bullet ripped through the running board at Betty's feet and lodged in the muffler.

They drove away and spent the night in the cabin of the truck after reporting the affair to Provincial Police Constable Bert Howden.

Cadogan Sees Cold War For Long Time

MONTREAL, May 29 — (CP) — Sir Alexander Cadogan, Britain's delegate to the United Nations, predicted today that it may take "generations" to put an end to the world's cold war, but he could conceive of only victory for the free nations.

"Except no early or easy solution," he told a McGill University convocation audience in a speech prepared for delivery. "It may take generations to reach the goal and maybe even your generation will not look upon it."

But in time, he said, "if you remain firm in your faith and true to the dictates of your conscience and your heart, you will gain in strength and know that the battle is to be won at the last."

Sir Alexander, who received an honorary Doctorate of Laws degree at today's ceremonies, said that while the cold war is being waged, there are two dangers which threaten the free peoples—a danger of "fatalistic despair" and a danger of "too easy optimism."

"Have your ideals and inspirations," he told the McGill graduates, "but apply to them the test of what is possible at this time."

At Disadvantage

There is the complaint, he added, and "in some sense true" that free nations are at a disadvantage that they are on the defensive with the initiative to choose the place and time of attack in the hands of the aggressor nations.

Because they may like jungle troops exposed at any moment to sudden attack from unexpected quarters, the free nations should do all they can to provide themselves with defence against attack, Sir Alexander said.

"But it does not follow that they have no means of counteraction. I need hardly say that I do not wish to suggest that the free nations should take a leaf out of the aggressor's book and resort to what is sometimes called a "preventive war."

There was another way of winning the struggle and this was by "capturing men's minds." If the free nations could put their house in order, labor to develop new resources and see that they are distributed justly, "then it may be that we shall convert others by the teaching of hard facts which cannot ever be suppressed and that these others may refuse longer to live under the tyranny that now oppresses them."

P.C.'S Re-Elect Officers Hear Goodfellow

CAMPBELLFORD, May 29 — (ENS) — The Progressive Conservative Association of Campbellford held their annual meeting in the Parish Hall on Friday evening. President R. J. Locke presided over the meeting, and handed over the chair to Ernest Irwin, president of the Seymour Township Progressive Conservative Association, who carried out the election of officers.

Secretary Arthur K. Loucks read the minutes of the last meeting, held on February 18, 1949.

Earl Drope, sent his regrets, that he was not able to attend the meeting, and his kindest regards to the Campbellford Association.

In the election of officers, Ralph J. Locke was re-elected as president; Arthur K. Loucks, secretary and C. H. Davidson, treasurer. The ward chairmen are, Ward 1, George Moore, Ward 2, Free Clark, Ward 3, Walter Burgiss, and Ward 4, Harold Smith.

Plan New Units

Mr. Locke thanked the association for the confidence they had shown in re-electing him president, even though before the voteing began, he asked that a younger man, and one who had more time to give to the job, be chosen. He said he would do all in his power for the party and for Mr. Goodfellow. He said he is going to try to organize a ladies' association and representatives from Toronto will be on hand to present the charter. About 52% of the voters in this area are women ,and as government affects women in some cases to a greater extent than it does the men, he believed the women should take an active interest in their government. A young peoples' association may also be formed at a later date.

Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, in his address, agreed with Mr. Locke's idea about women voters. He said he believed the women took their politics more seriously than the men. In order to keep responsible government, at the high level it has reached today in Canada, we must keep all parties alive, said Mr. Goodfellow. He warned against playing "petty politics" and "party politics" to extremes in these present times.

Free Enterprise

"The Progressive Conservatives are a free enterprise party, and the majority of people in Ontario have shown they are in favour of such a government", said Mr. Goodfellow. "It is necessary for government to do things for the people that they cannot hope to do individually", he said.

Mr. Goodfellow, who was born in this district and has been a Member of Parliament for the past seven years, said he would always have aw arm spot in his heart for Campbellford and Seymour, and appreciated the support he could always rely upon from its people. He said his philosophy is to use common sense in dealing with governmental matters, and to do those things he believes to be just and right. "It is a good thing to make mistakes", he said "We all make them, and can profit by them".

Old Age Pensions are not a social measure, Mr. Goodfellow claimed, and neither are Family Allowance. He has pressed the Federal Government to give pensions to everyone over a qualifying age. The present system is obsolete and outmoded, and does not encourage persons to save for their declining years. He is not in favour of a contributory system. It would take some 20 years to make it operative, he said, and administrative costs would make it prohibitive.

President Ralph Locke thanked Mr. Goodfellow for his interesting talk, and also thanked Mrs. Wm. Tatham for the lunch she and her group of ladies served at the close of the meeting.

Mr. Ernest Irwin, president of the Seymour East association, spoke a few words at the close of the meeting, after which the group enjoyed an informal chat with their elected representative.

POSITION IN DOUBT—C. B. Wade, former professor at Queen's University, Kingston, is one of the leading figures in the Glace Bay United Mine Workers (CCL) District 26 Union dispute. Wade was fired as research and educational director of the union May 19 by President Freeman Jenkins in what was described as a move to oust "Communist influence," was ordered reinstated by the executive board of the union. Jenkins, however, is standing by his original ruling.

Deny Connection In Two Slayings

NASSAU, Bahamas, May 29 (AP)—Nassau police reiterated Saturday that they have no knowledge of any connection between the slaying of Betty Renner and the killing of Sir Harry Oakes in 1943.

Both cases are officially unsolved.

The denial followed publication of a copyrighted story in the New York Daily News saying the Federal Bureau of Investigation has uncovered a major clue linking Miss Renner's death with that of the eccentric Canadian millionaire.

In Washington, an FBI spokesman disclaimed any knowledge of the reported development, and said the FBI has no jurisdiction to conduct an investigation in the Bahamas.

The United States State Department also said it has no information on the matter.

Miss Renner, a 37-year-old Washington, D.C., lawyer, was strangled and beaten to death while vacationing here last April. Her partly nude body was found wedged in an open well near a pine forest.

Sir Harry Oakes' son-in-law, Count Alfred de Marigny, was acquitted of slaying the mining magnate after a sensational trial during which de Marigny's wife, the former Nancy Oakes, testified in his defence. The Oakes-de Marigny marriage was annulled recently.

The chase started when one of the cottagers spotted Mowat on the beach wearing an allegedly stolen sport shirt.

Sees Conditions In Poland Better Than '49

(Editor's Note: Daniel de Luce, Pulitzer-prize-winning roving reporter of The Associated Press, has just returned to his post in Berlin after a weeks visit behind the Iron Curtain in Poland. Here is a summary of his observations.)

By DANIEL DE LUCE

WARSAW, May 27 (AP) — A gorgeous blonde on the Warsaw stage is worth her weight in zoltys—100,000 a month, to be exact.

Poland—People's Poland, the Communists dub it—makes a great to-do of abolishing all classes except the proletariat.

Somehow, though, there's still a gulf between Tilly, the typist with her humdrum job in a state-owned trust, and the dazzling first lady of a state-owned theatre.

A stage star, drawing a monthly pay cheque of 100,000 zlotys (about $275) for infusing drama with Socialistic significance, is twice as well paid as a cabinet minister ($137). She's also five times richer than Tilly ($55).

One million Polish women more or less like Tilly, belong to Poland's Communist-controlled trade unions, although most of them aren't Communists.

Never Strike

Counting men, these unions total 3,500,000 members. Like unions in Russia, they never strike against their chief employer, the state.

Three tiny strikes occurred in all of Poland last year. Strangely enough, they were directed in each case by the Communist Agricultural Workers' Union against a church estate.

Another feature of people's Poland is that women are required to assert their "labor equality" with men. As in Russia, this means women become bricklayers, tractor drivers, lathe operators, pick-and-shovelers, and other heavy workers.

The state is hurriedly constructing more nurseries so that more women can share in labor equality. The program is timely. Poland's birth rate is the highest in 50 years, her marriage rate the highest in history, and her death rate the lowest ever.

On the whole, people in Poland have somewhat more to eat and wear this year than last, and national housing and industry are making visible progress. Everybody is hard at work without any "false glitter of capitalism."

Children's Service, St. Paul's, Marmora

MARMORA, May 29—(ENS)—Deloro Sunday School held its second annual church parade to St. Paul's attending the morning service on Sunday. In lieu of the morning session, members of St. Paul's Sunday School also attended. Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie, Mrs. L. R. Rundle and Mrs. R. Frost composed a trio which rendered "Dear Land of Home". The rector's theme was "Contentment."

Municipal Bd. Favors Sewage Plant Bylaw

COBOURG, May 29 — (ENS)—Cobourg's sewage rental by-law, enacted for the purpose of financing the major cost of the new sewage disposal plant, has been given favourable consideration by the Ontario Municipal Board.

There was no opposition to the by-law in principle but at the public hearing, the Park Theatre asked for a revision of the rate charged in view of the water used in the air conditioning system. This will be adjusted later. Some residents of Elgin St. asked for clarification of the terms of the by-law and were informed that as they did not have sewers there would be no surcharge on their water bills.

Approximately $338,400 in debentures is being financed on the basis of a yearly surcharge on the water rate of $60,000 and $8,000 on the general rate. Surcharge on water rate is apportioned on a scale which depends on the classification of the consumer, whether domestic or a large user of water. In this way everyone using the sewage disposal plant is chaged instead of the whole burden going on the taxpayer.

The town council is now awaiting notice of the formal approval of the Board.

Reuther Lists Long-Range Policy For UAW

DETROIT, May 29 (AP)—Walter Reuther Saturday outlined a long-range policy for his CIO United Automobile Workers, including a guaranteed annual wage, to achieve a "dynamic, expanding, full-employment economy" in the United States.

The fiery chief of the UAW at a press conference was jubilant over the five-year contract signed May 23 with General Motors Corporation. He called it a "billion-dollar contract." It provides at least $100-a-month pensions including social security, and an annual wage boost.

"A guaranteed annual wage is the next objective of our union," Reuther said.

Other union objectives included:

1. Pensions for workers of $200 a month, including social security, within the next 10 years.
2. Extending the provisions of the GM contract to smaller companies in the industry "able to carry the load."
3. An expanding economy, with pressure on the steel industry and government action as a last resort, to assure ample supplies of steel for the country.
4. A fundamental realignment of political forces in the United States with labor and farmers as the "basic core" of the Democratic party.

Reluctant To Leave

COBOURG, May 29 — (ENS)—The two car ferries which have been sold to a firm planning to scrap them, are still tied up in the harbour. It was expected that car ferry Ont. No. 2 would tow her sister ship out of port last week but both are still at their moorings and the exact date of their departure has not been announced.

Dr. James MacDougall Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, May 29 (CP)—Dr. James B. MacDougall, 79, former assistant chief inspector of public and separate schools in Ontario, died Sunday at his home here. He retired in 1948 after 35 years service with the Ontario Department of Education.

Dr. MacDougall originated the "school on wheels," travelling classes which serve the small stations and sidings of Northern and Western Ontario to look after the education of children in isolated districts. He also introduced correspondence courses for isolated and crippled children.

A native of Scotland, he received his early education in Almonte High School, Perth Model School and Ottawa Normal and graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, in 1896. He had been principal of the model school at North Bay and first resident inspector of public schools for Northern Ontario.

He was the author of several books including "Two Thousand Miles of Gold," the story of Canadian mining, and others.

Surviving are his widow and a daughter.

...I WAS KING"

This week in The Standard the Duke of Windsor tells of the solemn family gathering at the bedside of his dying father. At five minutes to midnight, death beckoned, and at the instant of this profound event, the Queen Mother kissed her son's hand . . . a gesture that stunned him into the realization that he was King.

How Long Can Farm Subsidies Continue?

Two small news items from the United States last week should be of considerable interest both to citizens of that country and to Canadians. Both dealt with agricultural subsidization, and the governments of both countries are presently committed to programs of purchasing agricultural products to keep them off the markets and keep prices up. The sums spent for this purpose in the United States seem fantastic, even for so immensely wealthy a nation; those spent in Canada seem less fantastic, although by no means insignificant.

• • •

One of the items referred to in the foregoing reported that the U.S. Government is spending at the rate of a million dollars a day to purchase butter, cheese and powdered milk alone. The other reported that the same government was spending more in subsidizing the peanut-growing industry than it was on atomic research. And these, of course, are but two branches of the agricultural industry; others are also subsidized, at an annual cost which will be counted in billions.

• • •

Whether or not they approve of subsidies in principle, most citizens of Canada and the United States are probably reconciled to some attempt to assure farmers a purchasing power which will allow them to operate profitably. This reconciliation may prove unwise—and some economic authorities and other authorities are certain that it will. In their opinion, both governments are building up for a crash of tremendous dimensions, unless the programs of subsidization are first checked and then reduced. We are afraid this opinion is very soundly based.

• • •

There appears to be something unreal and unjust about policies which insist on purchasing goods which may be stored, to keep prices up, and on purchasing perishable commodities and letting them rot, for the same purpose. The food index is responsible for far the greater part of the increased cost of living for the average consumer, and that part is not going to drop while prices are artificially supported, until the day comes when the artificial subsidy structure collapses. And such a collapse could mean an economic and financial mess from which a nation would take a long time to recover. It will be deplorable if this happens, perhaps even tragic—and the more so when even a gradual return to a free competitive market in the agricultural industry could seemingly prevent it.

The Death Of The Mind

The divinity professor at McGill, Dr. Douglas Wilson, said something which needs to be remembered at a graduation of students from Stanstead College last week. This is the nub of his speech:

"On graduation from school or university many young people like you have been able to read and understand philosophy, understand a serious novel or the meaning of a poem. But then they let their minds die or deteriorate and today all they read is Popeye.

"The most fatal mistake you can make is to believe that tonight means the cessation of mental work and study. Don't point to any degree you have acquired and claim, 25 years from now, that you are educated if you have allowed your mind to die in the meantime."

Dead or dying minds are a nuisance and a danger, wherever they are found, but they are most dangerous in those who have university degrees and who are, for that reason, considered to have better powers of reason and a better degree of cultivation than most people. To keep the mind active, and to improve its scope, is not easy work. The pursuit of a profession or a business is not in itself enough to achieve that end. The best university training can do no more than teach a man to use what wits it has pleased God to give him; if he does not choose to use his wits the university polish is quickly rusted away.

We have a slight tendency in this country to be degree-worshippers. Obvious though the truth is, it must be said again and again that a degree is of no value in itself; it is merely a sign that a man has received a particular sort of training. If he neglects that training for five years after leaving the university, he might as well not have gone there in the first place. As Dr. Wilson says, it is only by continually exercising the mind that it can be kept in working condition. The exercised university mind is one of the country's most valuable assets; the dead mind is a melancholy reminder of wasted time and wasted money.

University "Red Witch Hunt"

Canada's Parliament has lately decided not to imposal a legal ban against Communists. It is a sensible decision. Legislation against doctrines is almost impossible to enforce without barbarous methods known in recent times in Germany and Russia. Such legislation tends to endanger the freedom of people not put under the ban, and to encourage fanaticism and shibolleths. The extent to which red-baiting has become a despicable game in the United States is not wanted in Canada.

Anti-Communist activity in the United States has reached a crisis in California, and, sadly, in the universities of that state. The witch-hunt for "reds" in the universities has not had spectacular results; one Communist has been found out and evicted from the state college, and an elderly spinster who was a part-time pianist for girls' gymnasium classes has been denounced.

The governing body of the University of California ordered every member of the staff publicly to swear an anti-Communist oath or resign. Politicans cheered the order, but the majority of the professors dissented vigorously. They argued that if university teachers had to submit to political tests imposed by non-academic regents, future university freedom would be imperilled. Further, a convinced Communist would not balk at swearing a non-Communist oath, and so there would be no value to the taking of the oath. When the professors threatened to resign in a body, a compromise was arranged. Staff members who felt that they should not take the oath have been given the opportunity to put their cases before a commission of eminent professors. Junior members of the university staff are prepared to take the oath. "It is a vicious political assault on academic freedom," one of them said, "but with the present anti-Communist hysteria and a wife and two small children to support, I cannot risk opposition which might cost me my job and prevent me from getting another one."

Not all Americans and university governors are as obsessed with the Red ogre as Californians are. The exclusive, rich women's university of Mills College has appealed against political interference in academic life, and states the case with proper emphasis on the possible results. "The growing tension between the U.S.A. and the Soviet Union is creating a state of public opinion which threatens the tradition of freedom in teaching, public discussion and research. In combatting a foreign totalitarianism, we Americans are in peril of becoming like our enemies and of building in our land a society which is intolerant of criticism or deviation. Between such a regime and Communism, there would be little to choose."

We in Canada never want to be forced into such a choice; and it is healthy for the United States that the anti-Communist fanaticism has not yet closed the mouths and minds of its educated people.

Garbage On The Verges

Our county roads are now looking their prettiest. It is a shock, therefore, to round a pleasant bend and see and smell that the side of the road has been used as a garbage dump for a household. These unsightly blotches and germ-breeding heaps, should not be allowed. The haphazard dumping of garbage in some roadside field, or on the road's verges, is unnecessary. Villages and towns have dumps, usually properly placed and periodically burnt over. Well-run farm houses have their own systems of disposing of tin cans and other litter. Country residents have rightly complained about these messes; others using the road as a pleasant avenue are affronted by them. A few careless or indifferent people should not be allowed to blight otherwise pleasant scenes. The practice can be stopped by appealing to offenders' sense of decency. If they are so indecent as not to have any such senses, let the law pounce on them.

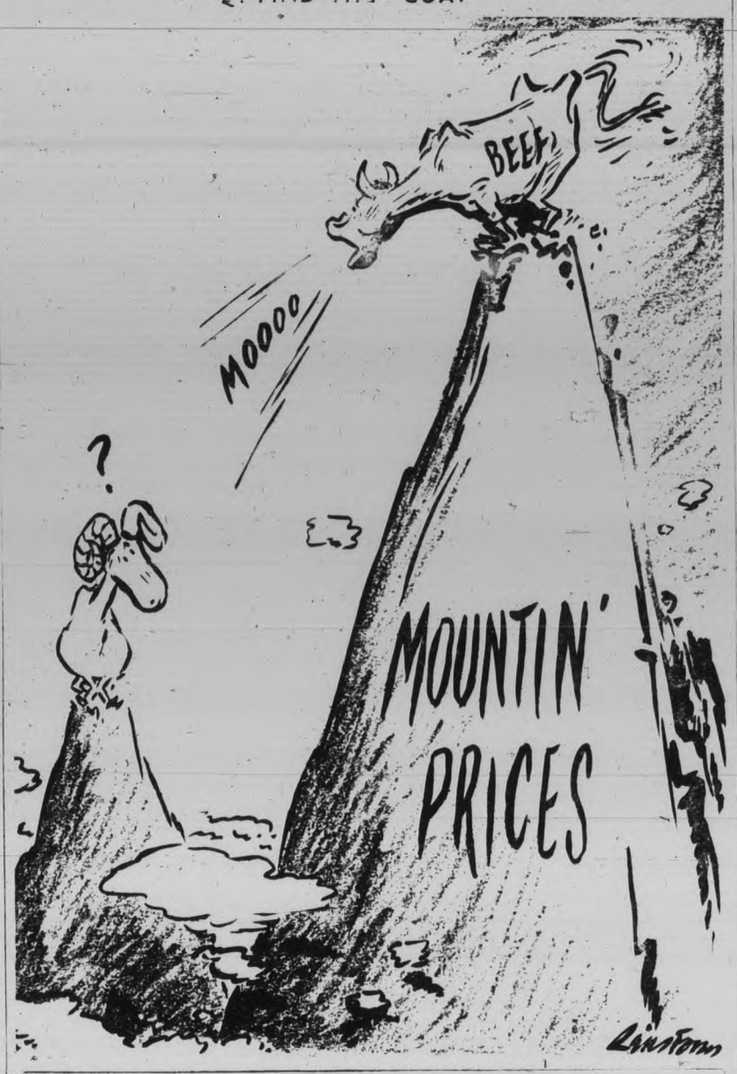
Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

AN interesting concert was broadcast recently by the B.B.C. consisting entirely of compositions by royal composers. It included the song, "Pastime with good company" by Henry VIII, no mean composer, "Crux Fidelis" by King John of Portugal, a work by Albert Prince Consort and a march for bagpipes written by the present Duke of Windsor. Throughout the ages the cause of music has been forwarded by the patronage of the powers that be, and when that patronage turns into active participation music has flourished. In England Henry V wrote a very fine Sanctus which has survived, and later on Queen Elizabeth was a capable performer on the Virginals (an early form of harpsichord)—fit instrument for the Virgin Queen. The Stuarts and Hanoverians were not particularly interested in music, and in any case the Hanoverians preferred German music. This lack of interest did as much as anything else to discourage native composers in the eighteenth century. The result of this and other causes was that England, once known as a "nest of singing birds", went through a very lean period, musically speaking, from about 1680 to 1890. It is true that the lamp of native music was still kept burning in the Cathedrals, but apart from this somewhat restricted sphere the Italians and Germans had no serious rivals in England. In France, on the other hand, music was recognized as one of the indispensible adjuncts of royalty, and the French Opera developed (though not without opposition) in its own characteristic way. But it was in Germany and Italy, split up as they were at that time into innumerable petty principalities, each with its own Court, that music flourished most of all. Each of these petty princes vied with one another to present a most magnificent and impressive appearance to the outside world. This naturally included an opera house, a Court chapel and an orchestra. Under the semi-feudal conditions still prevailing, the musicians were usually treated as servants: in many cases they did double duty as footmen or lackeys in addition to their musical duties. Even composers like Haydn, with an international reputation in their own lifetime, were content to sit "below the salt", but these conditions were irksome to the more independent-minded composers. Besides this, the French Revolution seriously undermined the position of the old landed aristocracy. The composer then exchanged the secure tenure and irksome restrictions of the old regime for the greater freedom and more precarious economic position under his new master, the musical public of the larger cities. Nowadays in those parts of the world where the monarchical system has survived the shocks of the past fifty years royal patronage of music is still a potent factor in setting the fashion. It may be of interest to know that the King, though not a great music-lover himself, sang as a treble in the choir of the Royal Naval College, when he was a cadet. The Queen is a keen concert-goer, and the two Princesses are both amateur pianists. They received instructions from Dr. Harris of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and he wrote a charming little suite of easy pieces for four hands that he dedicated to them.



◇ ◇ ◇

APROPOS of nothing in particular, I wonder why it is that the odd-numbered symphonies of Beethoven are so popular, while the others are comparatively seldom played. And why, Oh why, is a little piece of his always called the "Minuet in G"? Beethoven wrote several minuets in this key, but the title has been monopolized by one. Chopin wrote ten Polonaises, of which two are played to death and the rest (including the lovely Polonaise-Fantaisie) are most unjustly neglected. As for "Handel's Largo" it is a misnomer. The word "Largo" is only an indication of speed and signifies a slow, broad pace. Handel used this indication countless times. The correct title is "Ombra mai fu", from the opera "Serse". In the opera Serse, or to give him his name in English, Xerxes, comes across a pleasant tree, and after singing this celebrated aria decides to rest in its shade. It is a mystery why such a common-place episode should have inspired Handel to write such a lovely tune, but strange are the workings of genius. The truth is that Handel was so full of music that even the feeblest libretto inspired him to write fine music. Handel's operas are hardly ever performed now. The libretti are stilted and dreary and conform to conventions that were becoming outworn even in Handel's day. A few of the best arias, such as the "Largo" and "Lascia ch'io pianga" have been salvaged, but there is still plenty of scope for enterprising musicians to delve into the scores of these operas and bring out forgotten masterpieces of song.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Summer Examinations in music are perilously near, and candidates are feverishly striving to put the last polish on their work. Some await the day calmly; others may be feeling a little worried. The following hints, based on practical experience, may be of use. In the practical examination do not allow yourself to get flustered through over-anxiety. Take your time. Make sure that the seat is the right height for you and the right distance away from the keyboard, if you are a pianist. When you are ready to start make up your mind that you are going right through. In this way many false starts could be avoided. Listen to the examiner; if he asks you to play the scale of G sharp minor melodic form and you play the harmonic form he is apt to be annoyed, especially if he is behind schedule, and he may not give you an opportunity of rectifying the error! Keep your pace steady; there is nearly always a tendency to play faster in examinations, and this may cause a break-down. In sight-reading be sure to grasp the implications of the time signature and the key signature. It is as well to look through the whole extract before starting, making a mental note of the note-patterns, accidentals, changes of clef and so on. In paper work give yourself at least three minutes to read through the whole paper first. You may not be called upon to answer all the questions. Decide which questions you will attempt, and then allot yourself a certain amount of time for each question. Be sure and answer the question set. Write carefully and legibly, and place the notes fair and square on the line or in the space. When you have finished writing you should revise what you have written, second thoughts are often best. Besides that you may be able to weed out one or two careless errors.

Letters To The Editor

STERILE, GODLESS MARGARINE

Sir: Senator Hayden had more wisdom than wit in his remark, 'The closer you get to the cow the better your chances of exemption'; but what he should have said was, 'the closer you get to the cow the better your chances of living'. The cow, and of course the steer, recompense the soil for what they eat. But like a marriage in name only,—margarine takes without giving, no recompense, no compensation—sterility, Godless.

The pun on milking the government is pure irony — for he has felt that he (the farmer) is the one who is milked—when he sells he supports or helps support the city, and when he buys the same, to say nothing of taxes. He is also a consumer, buys back his products in refined form and many eat margarine—more fool is he. And when bad weather strikes (as last year) he must buy feed for his pigs, cows and poultry, and how they eat.

Ideally a Christian country and city should live spiritually and physically in a commensurate way always considering the others benefit or detriment in every undertaking — no specialists allowed, at least not recognized—with a common ground everyone is on his toes to make the most of himself, a bricklayer has as much honour as an artist or writer or singer—it is not culture that counts it is the heart, kindness and consideration. With everyone willing and anxious to work the only need for socialization will be for the sick, accidents, old age, with growing wisdom and understanding these will decrease.

SIMPLE SIMON

KNOWS PUBLIC WILL WELCOME INCREASED TAXES

Sir: I have read in your paper a good deal lately about the old age pensions and I must say I have enjoyed the articles. I do feel greatly for the old people that are getting such a small amount. Consider, sir, the cost of living for these people; one wonders how they exist. If they have no home and have to board they have not enough to live on; $40.00 for 30 days or 31 days. I find that the average rate for board is $12.00 to $14.00 a week in Peterborough and you will see if they have no home they have to get a room and eke out a most miserable existence. I am, sir, of opinion that old age pensions should begin at 65 without the means test and be raised so that the poor pensioner can finish his days with less worries and wonder whether this government pittance will last until they get their next cheque. There is a saying man's allotted span is 3 score years and ten. Why wait until they are ready for the grave and give it then? We all know the cost and know that the public will glady contribute by taxation or be asked to contribute out of their earnings a sum set by the government to pay for this. We should not have to ask the younger generation to keep their people until they are 70 as they have all they can do to raise their own families and keep above water.

I trust our local member in Ottawa will press this and give it his closest consideration. We hear and read a lot about men being retired at 65. What are they to do if they live to 70? Charity I suppose. Yet we read at the same time members of Senate allowed to stay until they are 75. Not fair to the public. I have also read that the railroads do not take on anyone after 42 years of age, yet they saw fit to engage Mr. Gordon at 47 years and a big salary.

Now Mr. M.P., you voted yourself $2,000.00, make the old age pensioners happy by increasing the pension a little and at 65 years, and I hope all churches and their flocks will send a resolution to the government to consider this very urgent necessity for pension and not charity.

Please sign me, yours sincerely,

(From the Authorized Version)

And Samson went down to Timnath, and saw a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines. (Judg. 14: 1.)

And it came to pass afterward, that he loved a woman in the valley of Sorek, whose name was Delilah. And the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said unto her, Entice him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and by what means we may prevail against him, that we may prevail to afflict him: and we will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of silver. And Delilah said to Samson, Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth, and wherewith thou mightest be found to afflict thee. And Samson said unto her, If they bind me with seven green withs that were never dried, then shall I be weak, and be as another man. Then the lord of the Philistines brought up to her seven green withs which had not been dried, and she bound him with them.

Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber. And she said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he brake the withs, as a thread of tow is broken when it toucheth the fire. So his strength was not known. And Delilah said unto Samson, Behold, thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound.

And it came to pass, when she pressed him daily with her words, and urged him so that his soul was vexed unto death; that he told her all his heart, and said unto her, There hath not come a razor upon mine head; for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb: if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man. And she made him sleep upon her knees; and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head; and she began to afflict him, and his strength went from him.

And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and said, I will go out as at other times before, and shake myself. And he wist not that the Lord was departed from him. (Judg. 16: 4-10, 16, 17, 19, 20.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The doctor rushed out of his study. "Get my bag at once!" he shouted.

"Why, Dad?" asked his daughter. "What's the matter?"

"Some fellow just phoned he can't live without me," gasped the doctor, reaching for his hat.

His daughter breathed a sigh of relief. "Just a moment," she said, quietly, "I think that call was for me!"

"Mrs. Cohen," said Mrs. Nathan, "what's the trouble? You look worried."

"Yes, yes," sighed Mrs. Cohen. "My husband is always sick."

"Your husband is just a hypochondriac," said Mrs. Nathan. "He isn't sick. He just thinks he's sick. Take no notice of his complaints and watch him get well."

A month later the two women met again. Mrs. Cohen looked even more worried.

"Your husband no better?" asked the friend.

"Worse," said Mrs. Cohen. "He thinks he's dead."

Rigid Race Segregation Planned By South African Government

By GEORGE ASCHMAN

CAPETOWN, South Africa, May 29 (AP).—Fearful of mounting racial tensions which have broken out in bloody riots, the South African Government plans a system of race segregation more rigid than any yet attempted.

This policy is called apartheid. Its aim bluntly is to maintain white supremacy at all costs and to prevent the non-whites, who outnumber the Europeans four to one, from ever gaining political domination.

The instrument designed to bring this about is the group areas bill now before Parliament. Apartheid was one of the planks of the Nationalist party of Prime Minister Malan in the 1948 elections which brought the party to power.

The party is opposed to any interbreeding between the European and non-European races, "and favors the territorial, political, residential, and, as far as possible, industrial separation of European and non-Europeans."

Ugly Problem

Here are the four main race groups that enter into South Africa's bewildering and ugly problem:

The whites who include Africans-speaking people of Dutch and German descent and people of the English-speaking race. In race terminology they are referred to as Europeans. They number 2,500,000 and possess full political and commercial rights.

The colored people, are people of mixed blood—white, Hottentot, Mozambique, Madagascar and Malayan. They number 1,000,000.

The Africans or Bantu (generally referred to in South Africa as natives) who number 8,000,000.

The Asiatics, mostly descendants of Indians who emigrated to South Africa in the last century. They are mostly confined to Natal and number about 300,000.

About 40 per cent of the natives live in what is known as native reserves or territories where they eke out a poor living on impoverished land.

The rest of the natives are employed as laborers on the white men's farms, as gold-and-diamond-mine workers, on the railways, in heavy industry and in a variety of unskilled jobs.

Except in the Cape Province, the natives enjoy no political rights, are mostly illiterate, and are entirely segregated from the white people.

Restricted Franchise

In the Cape Province, the natives enjoy a restricted franchise, enabling them to send three elected white members to the Senate. The government proposes to deprive them of their present privilege of electing white Assemblymen, leaving four white Senators to speak for them.

The natives travel in separate railway coaches, have their own churches and schools, and live in their own townships or villages.

The Group Areas Bill aims to make their separation from the whites more complete. It sets aside areas where only natives, colored people or whites can live.

For the colored people, the apartheid plan also is a bitter pill. They have enjoyed more rights and privileges than the natives. They have a higher standard of living, greater education and express a strong moral claim on the white man, who 200 to 300 years ago was responsibleu for the coming into being of these people of mixed blood.

Many of the colored people pass over as whites as the years go by. The plan before Parliament is to establish a national register on a race basis, with identity cards and photographs to be carried by adults of all races.

Bride-To-Be Will Be Boss Flynn Declares

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 29 (AP)—Errol Flynn says his bride-to-be, Princess Irene Ghika, will be the boss of the family—"At first anyway."

Starting work on a new picture, the famed swashbucker announced he will marry the Romanian nobfewoman in September in Paris. "At least she's making plans to get married then," he said.

So she'll be the boss of the family?

Flynn laughed: "Sure, women have to be boss—at first, anyway."

He added: "The Romanians have a good custom. The girls bring their husbands a dot (dowery). She'll sign over all her insurance papers and so forth to me."

Hollywood their Home

The pair will live in Hollywood, but Flynn has no plans to build a new house. She has never been here before and she thinks the place is fabulous.

"I've tried to warn her about the pitfalls, but she just shrugs her shoulders. She doesn't scare easily."

But does she understand the meaning of "pitfalls"? "Oh, yes, she looked it up in her Romanian- French- English dictionary."

He said he met his fiancee at a party in Paris about 1½ years ago. "She was sitting alone in a dark corner when I spotted her," he related, "it was a very normal meeting. It wasn't love at first sight or anything like that."

Capsule Reviews

"In a Lovely Place" (Columbia) shows Humphrey Bogart as a movie writer with a split personality. Some days he's happy as a lark and others he goes around slugging people. This provides rather gloomy entertainment, but it is absorbing most of the time. At any rate, it's unpredictable. Gloria Grahame plays the girl who tries to figure Bogart out, and she again impresses as one of the better young actresses.

"The Golden Twenties" (March of Times) is an extensive treatment of that era of wonderful nonsense. It should prove fascinating to the younger set and will bring back painful and pleasant memories to their elders.

Put Cards On Homes Against Jehovah Sect

HULL, Que., May 29 (CP)—Printed cards, bearing the statement that "Witnesses of Jehovah are not allowed on these premises" soon will appear above the doorbells of hundreds of homes in this western Quebec city.

The cards are the creation of Rodrique Bedard, Hull recorder and acting secretary of the Hull Knights of Columbus, Roman Catholic service organization, which is sponsoring the distribution of the cards as a move to discourage the Jehovah Witnesses from gaining entrance into Hull homes.

The cards are being distributed free of charge from the Knights of Columbus headquarters and in a brief ceremony Friday the first card was presented to Mayor Alphonse Mousette. General distribution now is under way.

2 Million Opium Addicts Serious Problem In Iran

By LEOPOLD HERMAN

TEHRAN, Iran, May 29 (Reuters)—Powerful sections of public opinion in Iran again are pressing the government to take more vigorous action against the consumption and illegal cultivation of opium, the "scourge of Iran."

There are sme 2,000,000 opium addict in Iran today. It has been estimated that some 100,000 of them die every year as a direct result of habitually taking the drug while another 50,000 commit suicide.

One expert calculated recently that opium addiction costs the country some 500,000 man-hours and millions of rials (about 30 rials to the dollar) every 24 hours.

But to stamp out the opeium habit, enforce the ban against illegal cultivation and suppress smuggling activities will be no easy task.

Government Monopoly

Opium is a government monopoly and is expected to net the government $5,500,000 during the current year.

Since the establishment of the monopoly in 1928, poppy-growing and selling has been illegal except under government supervision. Nevertheless, hundreds of thousands of peasants and tribesmen all over the country continue to grow poppies.

The size of the country, the value of the crop and the widespread addiction to the drug make effective control impossible without drastic and far-reaching measures.

Prohibit Growth

In the spring of 1946, the government published a decree prohibiting the consumption and cultivation of opium.

As the poppy seed was already in the ground, however, and as it was a government-monopoly crop, it was not totally destroyed. But only four tons were collected that year instead of the usual 400.

The government lost money and so in the following year some 200 tons were collected.

Last year, the government decided to collect the crop, which was delivered under special safeguards penalizing the growers if they didn't deliver the agreed quantity. But this did not prevent growers from secretly producing a larger acreage which they kept for themselves.

Plunkett Throws a No-Hitter As Petes Blank Staffords 8-0

Pitching brilliant no-hit ball here Saturday, 21-year-old Doug Plunkett whitewashed Toronto Staffords 8-0 before a small crowd in Riverside Park. The husky righthand hurler, in great form for so early in the season, was never in trouble as he methodically mowed down the opposition. He struck out 11 and walked but two, those two and three others — through errors—being the only Staffords to reach first. But one got to second.

It was the fourth victory in five starts for the Petes in the Viaduct Major League, and the third loss in five frays for the visitors. Cool, cloudy weather kept down the crowd, but those present saw the Petes turn in a fine display in all departments, despite three bobbles. Staffords were shaky in the field and two of the Petes' runs were unearned.

Blasted Out

Walt Severmuk started for Staffs but was blasted out in the sixth. He gave a run in the fourth when Menzies singled, moved up on Brown's sacrifice and tallied on an error at short. In the sixth, Wilson was hit by a pitch, Menzies singled, Brown beat out a bunt, Estlick walked, two scored on a wild pitch and Plunkett singled. Severmuk got the derrick and Red Johnston, a lefty, took over. Lowrey got a single before the fire was put out and the score was 5-0. Wilson's single and two errors gave the Murphyites one in the seventh and they added a pair in the eighth on singles by Lowrey and Dalton, with Garvey's long triple.

Lowrey and Plunkett led the hitters with two for four each. Menzies got two in five and Garvey a three-bagger to left centre. Estlick drove in two runs. None of the visitors reached third, and three were thrown out trying to steal second, Menzies and Garvey having twin killings. Staffords had one right to third, early in the contest.

Lakefield Victors

Lakefield Royals, a midget OASA entry, outslugged East City Braves 24-21 in an exhibition joust at the Bowl on Saturday. Play was loose with the hitting heavier, with Lakefield bunching blows better than the home juniors. John Burger and W. Hill pulled off nice catches for Royals, while Scriver, Bacon and Pammett went well for the Braves.

Jack Whitney had five for five at bat for the victors, one a triple as Don Henry got two triples, a double and single. Bud McIlmoyle hit a three-bagger and two singles. Pammett led the losers with five for one, one a triple, as Scriver and Reynolds clouted homers. Bacon got two triples. Rae Todd pitched well but had shaky support, fanning six and walking three. Bigford of the Braves had speed but poor control, fanning four and issuing five walks. Pammett took over in the eighth. These teams play at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Lakefield.

THE PAYOFF—Piloted by Chris Rogers, McGill came up with a driving finish Saturday to win the 91st running of the King's Plate at Toronto's Woodbine Park. McGill, owned by Vince Sheridan, took the lead in the stretch and won handily over Sir Strome, who took second. Unionville, from the Hatch stables, was third. McGill covered the 1⅛ mile distance in 1.52 2/5 and paid $6.20 to win.

McGill Takes King's Plate, Proves Good Buy

By JACK SULLIVAN.

TORONTO, May 29 (CP). — McGill, as any Canadian horse follower knows, won the historic $15,000-added King's Plate on Saturday. But behind it is a story that started 12 years ago when a three-year-old named Bunty Lawless, owned by Toronto hotel owner Willie Morrissey, captured the Canadian racing classic.

Mixed in with the story are a few ironic touches, many of them woven into the plot this spring when wealthy Vince Sheridan of Toronto parted with $17,500 cash for the bay-coated McGill. Added characters are Edward Plunket Taylor of Toronto and 25-year-old jockey Chris Rogers who left his native Toronto for the greener pastures around New York tracks.

The punch line adds up to the fact that McGill could have gone to the post flying Taylor's colors, giving the well-known sportsman-financier his second straight Plate victory. Instead he has a record of one winner and a non-starter in two years.

After Bunty Lawless' 1938 Plate triumph, Morrissey retired him to stud, and he has sired two subsequent winners—Epic, owned by Taylor and ridden by Rogers last year, and McGill, bred by Taylor but sold to Mrs. Frank Dougherty of New York, who in turn sold it to Sheridan this spring.

Let Him Go

Taylor let McGill go and based his hopes for two straight this year on Bonvivant, 6-to-1 second favorite in the winter books. Chris Rogers was to be the jockey, but Bonvivant went wrong about three weeks ago, leaving Taylor without a starter and Rogers a free agent.

Conditions of the race stipulate all entries must be the property of a British subject resident in Canada, ruling American-born Mrs. Dougherty out of the picture. She turned down three bids by Canadians for the Canadian-foaled McGill but could not resist Sheridan's $17,500 offer.

Sheridan immediately sought the services of Jackey Rogers, and the moves gave him his first triumph in the 91-year-old classic. It was Rogers' second straight.

It was a close decision, the shining black colt nosing out E. P. Richards' Sir Strome in a driving last-furlong finish over the mile-and-a-furlong Woodbine Park course before 35,000 yelling fans. Unionville, owned by Carr Hatch of Toronto, was third, about two lengths in the rear, and Medalofreedom, stablemate of Sir Strome, was fourth.

Peterborough Golf

The handicap committee axe will be coming down shortly and sharply on Bert Cutmore, president of the Peterborough Golf Club, as he shot six under par net over the weekend to win the second flight for the second week in a row, 88-24-64. Fred Hallowell, the big hotel man, took the first flight with 80-10-70. Pup Curtin will be chopped up by the handicappers for shooting 98-32-66 to win the third flight for the second straight week.

There was a big turnout Saturday and Sunday, and the scores keep improving. Gord Harrison, popular pro, was hotter than a fire chief's future on Sunday, shooting a sizzling 71 with 15 pars, a birdie and two bogies. He lost a ball on the 17th and then birdied the hole with his provisional.

Won't Strip Title

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Quite a few years ago—would it be maybe 25?—some rather good shows came to town. Legitimate theatre, that is. Played at the old Grand Opera House down George St. a couple blocks below Charlotte. As a kid we occasionally could dig up two bits for a seat in the "gods" (second balcony up, just under the stars) to see the odd show. Never missed the "Dumbells", a breezy performance made up of a wartime cast touring the country for some years. Morley and Al Plunkett, Red and the rest. Yeah, they were fun. The Plunketts were popular when they trod the boards. Young Doug Plunkett wasn't born then.

* * * * * *

The same Doug was quite prominent Saturday in Riverside Park as he pitched a no-hitter for the Petes. Shut out Toronto Staffords 8-0 as 11 went down on strikes. Morley's son turned in quite a chore for his second and the Petes' fourth win in the five starts made by the team in the Viaduct Major Ball Loop. Cool, dark weather kept down the crowd, but absentee fans missed a nifty showing. How often do you see a no-hit hurling job? Doug is a husky righthander with plenty of speed, a neat change-up and a sharp hook. His control has improved plenty this season, and he had Staffs eating out of his hand all afternoon.

* * * * * *

They're Really Clicking

Rest of the men o' Murphy did their part, too, reaching two Toronto twirlers for 11 bingles, including Garvey's triple, as they earned six of the eight runs. Couple bad errors by Staffs added to the count, along with a two-run wild pitch. Menzies and Garvey were sharp at picking off would-be base stealers and the team—despite three miscues—went well. The Petes are really dishing up dandy ball for May, but they will run into the odd reverse, naturally. Twould be nice to knock off the loop-leading New Torontos on the latter's diamond tonight. Plunkett, Lowrey and Menzies led the clouters Saturday. Al is punching a lot of hits down by third base to his opposite field.

* * * * * *

Let's see what's on tap this week. Senior lacrossers go to Weston tomorrow and have Mimico here Friday. Senior ball Petes go to New Toronto this eve and play Staffords in Toronto Thursday, with a home tilt here Saturday. Girls' softball tonight at the Bowl has Woollens meeting Ashby's at seven, followed by CGE vs. Marines. Wednesday, they have Westclox 'gainst Woollens and Ashby's tackling Marines. Men's softball there tomorrow is: Orphans vs. UEW, and then Mutuals vs. East City. Intermediate Petes of the baseballic variety have a twilight tilt with Port Hope in Riverside on Wednesday. That's part of the weekly sports picture in this bailiwick.

Limited To One Bingle

A guy named Gord Sutton from Whitby was hot Saturday in the park by the river as he threw a one-hitter in seven frames to beat the intermediate Petes 10-0 in a Lakeshore Loop ball tilt. Fanned 12, which is nice going in a short game. Don Conway got the lone Peterborough hit, a two-bagger which pushed Brian Wade on by an error—to the hot corner, but he succumbed there. Wade and Thompson shared the pitching for the young edition of the Petes and they ran into some hitting trouble, besides getting shaky support in the field. Tyson (he might be old Ty's son, at that) led Whitby at bat with a triple and single in three. Port Hope plays Petes here on Wednesday p.m.

* * * * * *

Minor lacrossers do some drilling this week. Barney Dundas having an open workout for the bantams at 6.30 p.m. tomorrow. Jim Kinna will handle the combined midget and juvenile practice at seven Wednesday e'en in Miller Bowl. The juniors and seniors have a practice game at seven Thursday night, Lou Vitarelli looking after the Juniors. It might be that one junior and one intermediate team will be picked from the three dozen or so juniors and over-age chaps now working out. Senior standing has Brampton atop the heap so far with two wins and no losses, while Owen Sound, St. Kitts and the Petes are tied for second slot with one victory each, none of the other teams having broken into the win list—no "e" on that win, please—as yet.

Locals Blanked By Whitby In One-Hit Fray

Gord Sutton's one-hit pitching chore for Whitby Saturday spoilt the Peterborough intermediates' debut in Riverside Park. The Merchants backed Sutton's pitching with a powerhouse of hitters to blank the locals 10-0. Don Conway's double to left field in the third was the only hit donated to the local club by Sutton. He whiffed the third strike past 12 Peterborough batters, two in the fourth and the three men in the fifth.

Peterborough troubled Sutton only twice in the seven-inning nightcap. The first came in the third when Conway doubled shoving Brian Wade, who was on due to an error, to third. Don Pagett lined to L. Yuill at third who caught Wade for a double play.

Dies On Second

The second bit of trouble for Sutton was in the last of the seventh when Fitzgerald squeezed on by an error. A wild pitch allowed him to skip to second where he froze.

Brian Wade ran into trouble with the first man to face him, L. Yuill. He whacked a triple into deep right field and scored later on a pass ball for the first run. Again in the third L. Yuill led a blast against the locals with a single followed by two errors for two more runs. In the fourth a hit and an error combined for two runs to make the score 5-0. Wade survived the fifth but a double by McCloskey, a hit batter and an error were good for the sixth and seventh Whitby runs in the sixth.

Bill Thompson relieved Wade in the seventh but was unable to stem the Whitby attack. Two triples and two walks were good for the three runs to make the final score 10-0.

Tyson, at second for Whitby, led the Merchants with a single and a triple in three times at bat, while L. Yuill had a single in four times. Wade allowed only four hits in his six innings on the mound but Petes kicked in five errors. Thompson allowed two hits in his one inning duration.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

It wasn't Brobklyn Dodgers' calibre baseball but the 12,296 Montreal fans who turned out to see Canada's two National Hockey League teams cavort on the diamond were happy Sunday as Montreal Canadiens edged Toronto Maple Leafs 13-12.

The entire gate of $6,210 went to the Rimouski, Que., fire relief fund. As the hockey stars cavorted on the field, the fans revelled in the show as much as if a world championship had been at stake. Foul balls that landed in the stands were tossed back and one avaricious fan who pocketed his prize was unmercifully booed.

The game had some thrilling moments with the lead see-sawing back and forth. In the ninth inning, little Normie Dussault, Canadiens left winger in the winter, fanned winger Wild Bill Ezinicki for the final out while the Leafs had the tying run on third.

Dussault Also

Dussault also won himself a wrist watch in a race of approximately 100 yards. Three players from each team participated and Canadiens came in 1-2-3. Doug. Harvey and Ken Reardon, a pair of defencemen, finished second and third ahead of Leaf youngsters Bob Hassard, Danny Lewicki and Sid Smith.

Big-name players in hockey and up and coming youngsters from minor and junior teams of the two clubs saw action.

Rudy Migay of the Leafs supplied the only home run, a booming drive over the right field fence.

Big Bill Durnan, ace goalie of Montreal who played shortstop Sunday, could get only a double off a drive that bounced off the left-field fence at the 350-foot mark.

President George Slater of the Quebec Senior Hockey League was returned to office for the 14th consecutive year at the 13th annual meeting of the body at Montreal Saturday.

At Fort Worth, Tex., Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., golf's leading man, Sunday added another choice trophy to his bulging collection as he snapped up $3,000 for winning the $15,000 Colonial national invitation tournament. He finished with 277 for the 72 holes—three under par.

Big Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., closed out with a 70 to win second money of $2,000 with a 72-hole total of 280. He did it as Ed Oliver of Seattle, Wash., who was second at the end of the third round Saturday, faltered badly, taking a 74 to wind up with 283 and a tie with Cary Middlecoff of Ormond Beach, Calif., for fifth place.

Next Move's claim to the three year-old filly championship was solidified Saturday at Belmont Park when she won the $50,000-added coaching club American Oaks in the fastest time ever for the 34-year-old, 1⅜-mile classic.

She was timed in 2:15 4-5, a full second faster than War Plumage's 2:16 4-5 in 1939. The track record of 2:14 1-5 was set in 1920 by Man O'War.

She drew off to a length victory over Hal Price Headley's Aegina, who finished four lengths ahead of Ogden Phipp's Busanda.

Wish Me Well and Wild Heiress won the first two races at the opening of the River Downs racing meeting Saturday at Cincinnati to provide a rally double payoff of $2,489.40.

Track officials said only two $2 tickets were sold on the combination.

Wish Me Well paid $50.40 to win the first race and Wild Heiress paid $38.40 in the second.

HOFF BOWS TO WALCOTT

MANNHEIM, Germany, May 29—(AP). — Hein Ten Hoff, the towering German, gained rather than lost prestige in dropping a 10-round decision to Jersey Joe Walcott. Ten Hoff was so pleased with his showing in the bout Sunday night that he said he expects an invitation to go to the United States and maybe earn a shot at the heavyweight title.

Mistake Costly To Giants Lose 3 Games To Phillies

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Make one mistake against those hustlin' fightin' Phillies and it's your finish.

Ask the harried Leo Durocher or any of his luckless New York Giants. They'll tell you they should have won all four weekend games from Eddie Sawyer's boys. But Philadelphia won three to New York's one.

As a result, the Phillies wrested the National League leadership from Brooklyn Dodgers. Deadlocked before Sunday's games, the Phils divided a pair with the Giants, while Boston was beating the Brooks 4-1, to take undisputed possession of first place by half a game.

The Phils won Sunday's 11-inning opener because they were quick to take advantage of a lapse by the opposition. Primarily because they played errorless ball, the Giants won the nightcap 3-1 to end a seven-game losing skein.

Costly Error

Sunday an error by outfielder Don Mueller set up the Phils' winning runs.

The score was tied 2-2 as the Phils came to bat in Sunday's 11th inning. Dick Sisler walked, and when Whitman singled to right, Mueller let the ball get away from him. Sisler scored the winning run.

Detroit saved the New York Yankees' American League lead to two games by whipping St. Louis Browns 6-2 and 2-1 while Philadelphia Athletics were halving a twin bill with the Yanks. The A's came up with four runs in their final inning to win the second game 6-5 after New York had won the opener 6-3.

Washington shoved Boston into third place in the American League with a 7-6 triumph over the Red Sox. Cleveland and Chicago swapped shutouts, Steve Gromek blanking the White Sox 7-0 after Bill Wight had stifled the Indians 2-0 in the the opener.

Take Doubleheader

Chicago Cubs took both ends of a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 6-0 and 5-1, to sweep their four-game National League series. The third-place St. Louis Cardinals whipped Cincinnati Reds 6-2 and 7-2 to climb within 1½ games of the top.

The home run played a big role for the Cards. After four-baggers by Tommy Glaviano and Enos Slaughter had been instrumental in winning the opener for St. Louis, catcher Joe Garagiola hit a grand-slam homer off Ewell Blackwell in the first inning to give the Cards more than they needed to win the second game. Southpaws Al Brazle and Max Lanier each won his third game for St. Louis.

Chicago pitchers Johnny Schmitz and Bob Rush turned in nifty mound jobs, holding the punchless Pirates to one run in 18 innings. Schmitz not only blanked the Bucs on five hits, but walloped a double and single to drive in four runs.

Down Dodgers

Warren Spahn and Bob Elliott combined to down the Dodgers. Spahn permitted only five hits for his sixth victory. Elliott drove in all four Boston runs with a home run and two singles.

Fred Hutchinson and Dizzy Trout pitched the Tigers to their double victory over the Browns. Trout hurled a five-hitter in his first start. It was his single that scored Bob Swift with the run that proved the margin of victory in the second game.

Joe Page was both hero and goat for the Yankees. The sterling relief hurler pitched two hitless innings to protect a lead for starter Vic Raschi in the first game. He was blasted for home runs by pinch-hitter Billy Hitchcock and Bob Dillinger to blow a three-run lead for starter Fred Sanford in the nightcap. Dillinger helped Carl Scheib gain his first trimuph bl blasting two doubles and a single in addition to his homer.

Wings Wallop Royals 15-1, Leading League

By The Associated Press.

An epidemic of pennant fever is spreading throughout Rochester, NY.

The cause of all the fervor is the terrific performance of Manager Johnny Keane's Rochester Red Wings, who are setting a torrid pace in the International League race.

Rochester, which has not been blessed with a pennant since 1940, is hepped up. Its beloved Wings are riding the crest of a nine-game winning streak and enjoying a 1½-game first-place margin.

The Wings rode to the top by blasting the erstwhile standard-bearers, Montreal Royals, in four straight games. They applied the coup de grace Sunday by trouncing the Royals 15-1.

Young Tom Poholsky scattered nine hits while his rampaging mates banged out 18. Hal Rice paced the victorious assault by driving in four runs and scoring three on a pair of home runs and a single.

Miss Opportunity

Syracuse Chiefs missed an opportunity to take over second place by splitting a double-header with Springfield Cubs. The Chiefs won the opener 8-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Bud Byerly, but dropped the nightcap 10-0.

Warren Hacker limited the Chiefs to three singles in the second game while his mates pounded out 11 safeties including home runs by Bob Thurman, Jack Walleasa and Ben Taylor. Carden Gillenwater and Al Rubeling homered for the Chiefs in the first game.

Jersey City Giants and Baltimore Orioles, and Toronto Maple Leafs and Buffalo Bisons also divided doubleheaders.

Baltimore turned back the Giants, 11-1, but lost the finale 6-5. Buffalo trounced Toronto 12-2 after the Leafs took the opener 9-7.

Russ Bauers scattered 10 Giant hits, including a homer by Stan Jok, in winning his first game for Baltimore.

Win Nightcap

The Giants won the nightcap in the ninth when Vern Taylor walked Marvin Blaylock with the bases leaded to break a 5-5 tie.

Toronto piled up an 8-0 lead against Buffalo, but almost blew the game as the Bisons charged back with three in the fifth and four more in the ninth before Ken Trinkle quelled the rally.

Cle mHausman had easy sail-Clen Hausman had easy sail-scored eight runs after two were out in the second inning. The big uprising was featured by home runs by Charley Wilhelm, Hank Biasatti and Gene Markland.

CBC Predicts Five-Year Deficit On TV

OTTAWA, May 29 (CP)—The CBC expects that it will pile up deficits during the first five years of operations in the field of television, the Commons committee on radio broadcasting was told Friday.

A. D. Dunton, CBC chairman, said he believed that by the end of five years revenues would be sufficient to balance expenditures.

The CBC has been authorized to construct one television station in Montreal and one in Toronto. It is hoped to start operation by Sept. 1, 1951.

It was estimated that the operating costs of the Montreal and Toronto stations would total $1,500,000 in the first year; $2,175,000 in the second year; $2,825,000 in the third year, and $3,000,000 in the fourth year.

A $4,500,000 loan obtained from the government last year to cover the initial cost of television likely will be used on capital expenditures and installations.

Mr. Dunton estimated that another loan of $5,500,000 may have to be obtained from the government to help cover operating costs in the first few years.

Production Centres

Mr. Dunton said the Montreal and Toronto stations will serve as production centres which will be able to provide television service to stations in other parts of the country through the use of kinescope recordings.

He did not envisage a trans-Canada network as an early development.

He believed it would be better to establish television transmitters in various parts of the country and service them with recordings from production centres. Later the transmitters could be joined in a network either through micro-wave radio lengths.

50 Countries Look At Aviation Problems

By JAMES J. STREBIG

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP).—About 50 countries will take a new look at some old problems when the International Civil Aviation Organization opens its fourth assembly at Montreal Tuesday.

Proposals for a global agreement on commercial flying rights and for a world company to own and operate with international air routes will be up again. There is little likelihood of action on either issue.

Most of the three weeks' work will deal with questions of lesser scope and more immediate importance. Control non-scheduled air carriers flying internationally; rules for amending the formal pact under which I.C.A.O. exists; technical standards for aircraft.

Russia, along with other United Nations countries which are not I.C.A.O. members, has been invited to send observers. Russia usually has done so, but its observers have not taken part in discussions.

58 Members

The Assembly completes the third year of the permanent air body formed as a result of the world aviation conference at Chicago in 1944. Membership reached 58 countries this month with the admission of Iran and Indonesia.

A global agreement has been an illusive goal since Chicago. All attempts to write a pact for commercial freedom of the air for commercial fliers have stumbled over formulae for restricting competition. The prospect is that this Assembly will agree only to study the idea further and fix a date for full consideration.

One thing will be completely new for I.C.A.O. this year—Canada's big international aviation building. It will be dedicated during the Assembly. The building is the headquarters both for I.C.A.O. and the International Air Transport Association, representing almost all of the world's airlines.

Double Tragedy

WOODLAND, Wash., May 29—(AP)—Mrs. Charles Wampler learned Friday that her daughter, Mrs. Herman Rudy, had just died in a hospital. Grief-stricken, she drove out to a road project to tell her husband, a construction laborer. She arrived on the job to be told that her husband's truck had just been caught in a cave-in. He, too, was dead.

Labor Champion Dies

DETROIT, May 29—(AP)—Representative John Lesinski (Dem., Mich.) one of labor's champions in the United States Congress, died suddenly early Saturday. He was 65. The veteran congressman, who had served nine successive terms in the house died of a heart attack at his home in suburban Dearborn.

Alexander Visits

RIMOUSKI, Que., May 29 (CP)—Governor-General Lord Alexander Sunday visited the fire-ravaged section of this lower St. Lawrence city and told reporters afterwards in a brief conference that he was reminded of "an English town after an air bombing."

2 Women Hurt In Collision West Of Cavan

Two women—one of them from Peterborough—are in Civic Hospital after a two-car collision Sunday afternoon on Highway TA two and a quarter miles west of Cavan.

Seventeen - year - old Joanne Sheehan, Stewart St., is the more seriously injured. Hospital authorities early today described her condition as "fair." She sustained cuts on the head, a leg injury and possibly a broken pelvis bone.

A passenger in the other car, Mrs. Alan Dudman, 32, Port Credit, sustained a fractured vertebra. Her condition is said to be "satisfactory."

George Hansene, New Romaine St., was driver of the eastbound car in which Miss Sheehan and another friend—Marion Marks of Parnell St.—were passengers.

Car Skidded

"We were just out for a quiet Sunday drive," Mr. Hansene told the Examiner. "We weren't going very fast but somehow I lost control of the car." It skidded sideways on the highway.

The oncoming car of Alan Dudman, husband of the less seriously injured woman, struck it on the left side, the main impact being toward the rear. And the Hansene car was knocked over on its side in the ditch.

"I don't know how we got out of it alive," said Mr. Hansene.

Hansene received a few cuts on his forehead and Miss Marks escaped without injury. Miss Sheehan, a quiller at the Colonial Weaving Co., was removed to hospital by ambulance as was Mrs. Dudman.

Dr. J. W. Wright of Millbrook attended the injured at the scene of the accident.

Provincial Constable T. H. Fitzpatrick and George Henderson investigated.

BOTTLE-FED BLACK SQUIRREL kitten, named Peter, was found and brought to the Provincial Police Headquarters by Louis Ellis, 11, of Park St., two weeks ago. Corporal Lloyd McClure took Peter under his ample wing and his daughter Doreen (above) fed him with an eye-dropper. Peter has now reached the bottle-feeding stage and worries everyone in the family for handouts of nuts. He will be sent to the Filtration Park Zoo as a permanent fixture this week.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

W. J. Charlton Widely Mourned

A very large funeral was held today in Lakefield for the late William Charles Charlton, who died on Friday following a lingering illness in his 78th year. The Rev. W. H. Tonge, of Lakefield United Church, assisted by the Rev. Willard Day, of the Church on the Rock, Burleigh, officiated. Pall-bearers, all village business associates, were Percy Darling, Elwood Northey, Judson Hull, Edward Millage, Frank Payne and Thomas McKerchar. Flower-bearers were H. M. Wannamaker, Wallace Shearer, Robert Leahy, Herbert Abbott, Basil, Ivan and Goldie Drain, William Morris, Bruce Charlton, G. G. Counsel and James Gifford. Burial was at Lakefield Cemetery.

Mr. Charlton was well-known throughout the surrounding country district in his earlier days when he was engaged in custom threshing. Forty years ago he bought the Hull grist mill and operated it until 1912 when he purchased the coal, feed, grain and milling business from George Cornish. He was joined in the business by his nephew, Kenneth Morris, in 1943, who will continue to operate it. For the past 30 years Mr. Charlton has been on the Lakefield Hydro Board, for several terms as chairman. He was a former member of the Douro township council and belonged to the Masonic Order, Clementi Lodge 313, Peterborough Valley Branch of the Scottish Rite, Lodge 358 IOOF, and to the Orange Order.

Admission Price At 50 Cents For Grandstand

Admission to the grandstand at Peterborough Exhibition this year will be 50 cents for adults, and for children 25c at night and 15c in the afternoon.

The directors had instructed the secretary-manager, G. A. Gillespie, to get information about the tariffs at other shows. Some of them were:

Lindsay: at the gate, 35c adults, 25c children; grandstand: adults 35c, children 25; and 400 chair seats at an additional 25c.

London: 50c adults and 25c children; advance sale three for one dollar; grandstand, 7,000 seats, all reserved at $1.50, $1.25 and $1.

Belleville: children under 12 years free; adults 35c at the gate; in the grandstand adults 50c children 25c.

Oshawa: children 10c to stand and also at gate; 35c for adults admission and 35c grandstand.

Toronto C.N.E.: admission 40c and 15c for children; grandstand evening 50c to $2.

The public is paying 60c to get into a lacrosse game and another 60c to see baseball, it was said at the directors' meeting Friday night.

Peterborough charged last year: adults 35c at the gate and 35c at the stand.

"I still think we should charge 35c," said Hugh Stewart, chairman.

Harold Rehill pointed to the 50-cent grandstand charge at Belleville and said: "Our grandstand show is at least 300 per cent better than theirs."

Mr. Gillespie remarked that Lindsay grandstand attractions have never equalled the Peterborough performance.

"I'm moving that we charge adults 50c at the stand," said Alex Huston, and Mrs. G. K. Fraser seconded it.

A motion by Don Milburn and Clare Collins gives the Lions Club any date they want during the first two weeks in July. The club is arranging for a Lucky Lott spectacle.

After that affair and a circus on July 24 no other amusement features will be accepted unless it might be something arranged by the centennial committee.

$100 For Flood Victims Proceeds of Band Concert

More than $100 was raised for the mayor's Manitoba relief fund Sunday night by the Peterborough Citizens' Band and the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. The organizations combined to produce a concert in the Summer Gardens, which the management donated free-of-charge. The band, playing its first concert this year under Bandmaster Walter Parnall, offered a program of marches, hymns, popular tunes and novelty numbers for an audience of 800 people.

The barber shop society provided two quartets, the Four Hoarsemen and the Lift Lock City Four, and its 20-male voice choir. The choir sang unaccompanied and also sang the hymn, Abide With Me, and the selection, Stout-hearted Men by Sigmund Romberg, which were played by the band.

Examiner Fund

To the Examiner's Fund there was added today $43.16 for a total of $2,871.13 with the following contributions being received:

Dr. and Mrs. G. Stewart Cameron, Stewart St., $20.00; Wilbert H. Bell, Water St., $5.00; S. M. Wallace, Park St., $10.00; Mrs. R. Dyer, Stewart St., $3.16; M. Wood, Simcoe St., $3.00; F. Cheyne, No. 3 Peterborough, $2.00.

Car Rolls Into Ditch On Bancroft Road

A car rolled over on its side into a 10-foot ditch when the driver, 19-year-old Harry Yelland, 133 Dublin Street, turned too quickly to make a turn driving over a sharp knoll on the Bancroft road about midnight on Saturday.

No one was in the car with the youth and he was unhurt, but about $125 damage was done to the left side of the car.

Provincial Constable Bert Howden, who investigated, said there was no shoulder to the road at that point and it drops straight down from the edge of the road.

Red Cross Practise Disaster Relief

Peterborough's Red Cross unit disaster division, will have its first public practice tonight at 8 p.m. in the Exhibition Grounds.

Tonight's practice is the result of a national Red Cross plan to localize disaster service. Panel trucks have been borrowed to serve as ambulances, and Red Cross workers will practice on Boy Scouts who will act as accident victims.

Gets Minimum Of 3 Months For Liquor Bottle

A three month sentence was imposed on Charles Graham, 23, of RR 7, Peterborough, when he pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of having liquor in a place other than his residence, his second offence on that charge within a year.

The sentence was the minimum allowed under that section of the Liquor Control Act. The section provides a minimum penalty of $50 fine and costs for a second offence drunk. A man who is convicted under the same section, of first, drunkenness, and secondly having liquor in an illegal place is almost always given the minimum of $50 fine and costs.

Graham was arrested walking on the street with a part bottle of whiskey in his pocket. He had been drinking but was not drunk.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Hannah. And he leaves a sister Mrs. Peter McPhail, Kitchener.

Mr. Hannah was born in Bethany and was educated there. He lived a lifetime in the district.

2 Youths In Court On Vagrancy Charge

Two youths, Fred Bebee, 18, of 122 Hilliard St., and Kenneth Dawson, 19, of 585 Harvey St., pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy in police court today and were fined $5 and costs each.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said they had been discovered in a car about midnight Sunday. They ran when a policeman approached, but were caught a little later hiding in some bushes nearby. They couldn't give a satisfactory explanation to police.

Bebee said he did not get along well at home and was going to spend the night in the car. His friend had agreed to stay out the night with him.

They both said they intended to go to Hamilton to where there were jobs for them.

1912 Picture Shows Colors Being Presented

Ald. Hurrell Dodds showed the Examiner today a picture of the presentation to the 57th Regiment in 1912 of the colors which were placed Sunday in St. John's Anglican church.

The photograph was taken at Nichols Oval 38 years ago. The central group in the function of presentation were: Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P. and Mrs. Stratton; Col. H. A. Rogers, postmaster and officer commanding the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons; his brother, Col. J. Z. Rogers, who was head of the Peterborough Canoe Co. and O. C. of the 57th Regt., Lord Dundonald, military adviser to the Canadian government, and Mrs. Robert Hamilton.

The colors were made by the Daughters of the Empire and presented by Mrs. Hamilton, who was the wife of the Hon. Robert Hamilton. Their home was at Auburn, the northerly section of Ashburnham. Major Archie Hamilton of the S.D. & G. Regiment, is a grandson.

The fashions of the time, in 1912, as reflected in the dresses of the two ladies, appear mid-Victorian, rather than early Georgian (V).

Ald. Dodds was interested in the picture, taken by a photographer named White, as a member of the color party that day.

3 Girls Escape Toronto Home

Three juvenile girls who escaped from St. Faith's Lodge in Toronto Saturday night were picked up by city police at Reid St. and Parkhill Rd. shortly before 7 a.m. today as they were starting to hitch hike north.

The police had been informed of the three, aged 13 and 14, hitch hiking into Peterborough early in the morning.

They stayed the rest of the night with some relatives of one of the girls and started out first thing today. They were believed heading north to Haliburton where one of the girls said her mother was working.

After they were picked up by Constable John Morrow and Dennis Traynor, the girls' school was contacted and it was learned they were escapees. They are being held here until someone is sent from Toronto to collect them.

Hold Funeral Service For Mrs. Nora Clarke

The Rev. G. F. Sullivan officiated at the funeral service held today at Sacred Heart Church for Mrs. Nora Clarke. She died Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Bero, 247 Belgravia Ave., Toronto.

The funeral was held from the Duffus Funeral Home to the church, then to St. Peter's Cemetery where the Rev. Dr. F. M. Grant recited the graveside prayers. Pallbearers for the funeral were: Marie Clarke, Jack Martell, Thomas Donoghue, Edward Bero, Leo McCarrity and Emmett McCarrity.

Rangers' Colors Paraded For Last Time To St. John's Freedom of City Bestowed

To the accompaniment of bugles, drums and marching feet the old colors of the 57th Battalion, Peterborough Rangers, Sunday afternoon passed through the streets of Peterborough—probably for the last time. This martial display was the preliminary to depositing the colors in St. John's church where they will be hung for safekeeping. The 50th Heavy Anti-Aircraft Reg't RCA, (Prince of Wales Rangers) perpetuates the following units: 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, 2nd Battalion CEF, 93rd Battalion CEF and 247 Battalion CEF, The Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, 4th Bn. Canadian Machine Gun Corps, and the Prince of Wales Rangers (MG).

For more than 50 years in times of peace Peterborough's military tradition has been centred in the 57th Battalion Peterborough Rangers. This battalion bore all Battalion CEF (1914-18) and was the battle honors of the famed 2nd closely identified with the Middlesex Regiment of the British Army.

Subsequent reorganization of the Canadian army caused the Rangers to become a heavy anti-aircraft regiment. An artillery unit does not have military colors "but centres its esprit de corps on the quality and perfect efficiency of its artillery pieces."

Freedom of the City

Hence Sunday's military ceremony. For the occasion Mayor Max J. Swanston declared it a special day for the people of Peterborough to join with the regiment in observing its long local military tradition.

And he conferred the freedom of the city on the officers and men.

This stand of colors was presented to the regiment on Victoria Day, 1904, on behalf of the ladies of the town and the 1868 colors were saluted for the last time. The two stands are now in St. John's.

The Rev. W. J. Gilling officiated at the service in his capacity as chaplain. After presentation of arms the color party handed over their colors and they were taken to the altar by Mr. Gilling.

Tribute to Women

In his sermon Mr. Gilling paid tribute to the women of Peterborough who made the original presentation.

"It is even more fitting that some of the women present represent the IODE; for the Chapter named in honor of the 57th Regiment gave the battle-honors which are emblazoned on the regimental color."

At the close of the men's ceremony, the IODE Chapter retired their old standard, originally received as a 1912 gift from the sergeants of the old 57th Regiment. They will begin use of the new standard presented by Mrs. A. W. Turner, retired Municipal Chapter Regent and member of the Chapter.

History of Colors

Mr. Gilling traced the history of the "colors". In contrast to medieval times the color of the 16th century unit was not the distinction of one man "but the symbol of the corporate life and unity of the regiment, and thus the new color ceremonial implied the same allegiance to an impersonal regimental spirit which it has retained ever since."

"The old soldier rallied to the colors as a matter of habit in the confusion of battle," Mr. Gilling explained. "The capture or loss of colors has always been considered a special event, glorious or the reverse, in the history of a regiment."

Frederick the Great and Napoleon always attached the highest importance to the maintainance at all costs of the regimental colors.

In the British army colors are usually left in garrison churches for safe keeping. They are carried by all guards battalions, battalions of infantry of the line but not by the artillery or rifle regiments.

Each battalion, said Mr. Gilling, has two colors: the King's with the unit's battle honors and the Regimental with various devices.

Christian Message

On the spiritual side of address Mr. Gilling posed the question: "Has the Church, has Christianity anything to say?"

Christianity has nothing to offer as slick and arrogant as the programs of either the right or the left in world political movements. It is not a program and not a panacea.

"Christianity does no claim to make the world safe for democracy or safe for merely selfish ends. It points men and women to the true end of living. It tells men and women what they are."

Besides Lt.-Col. M. E. Clarke, OC 50th HAA Regiment, RCA, there were a number of other officers at one time associated with the old regiment.

Three Accidents On Week-End Hospital Cases

Three falls—one from a car and another from a broken swing—were responsible for three people being admitted to Civic Hospital over the week-end.

Randall Walters, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Walters of Bailieboro, fell from his father's car Sunday night and sustained head cuts.

His condition today is "good."

With two other children he was playing in the back sat of his father's car. He pushed open the door by turning the handle and fell onto the road.

Ten-year-old Grace Lightowlers of RR 3 Havelock fractured her right elbow when her swing broke and she fell heavily to the ground.

On her way to church Sunday morning Mrs. Eugene Jackson, Donegal St., fell and strained a ligament in her leg. She is still in hospital.

WA Attends Church When Speaker Is Mrs. C. Searle

About 50 members of St. James' United Church WA on Sunday attended the morning church service in a body when they had as special speaker Mrs. Clayton Searle of Sarnia.

Mrs. Searle chose as her theme "What is that in thine hand?" from the fourth chapter of Exodus, the story dealing with the charge God gave to Moses many years ago. Flowers on the altar were in memory of WA members who have died during the year.

"I suffered a lot from a dull ache in the back of my neck which sometimes lasted three days; could not eat a meal without bloating and having shortness of breath; and was very irregular as well.

"Nothing I took seemed much help until I tried Sarnak. By the time I had taken my first bottle of Sarnak, I began to feel like a girl again, relieved of stomach upsets and that tired-out feeling. Sarnak also relieved a kidney condition I had suffered with for a long time.

MRS. H. HOLMES

DOROTHY DIX

Ruining Children's Lives By Overindulgent Parents

DEAR MISS DIX—What can a grandmother do who sees two fine and lovable grandchildren being utterly ruined in their rearing? The children are never made to obey or to treat their parents or any one else with even common politeness. No restraints whatever are laid upon them. Are the young parents of today too lazy to put themselves out a little to rear their children properly? I thank Heaven daily that I don't have to live in the house with these children, much as I love them.

Dorothy Dix

PERPLEXED GRANDMOTHER

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER— There is nothing that you can do in the matter, because if parents have not enough sense of responsibility to rear their children properly, no one can substitute for them or undo the harm that they have done. No one can interfere until the hard hand of the law gives the children the discipline and teaches them the obedience that their fathers and mothers should have inculcated in them in the cradle.

Unpardonable Sin

Whatever the reason that parents spoil children, they commit against them the unpardonable sin because they wreck their lives in the very beginning. It seems a cruel thing to say, but it is nothing less than the solemn, awful truth that almost every man and woman who is a failure in the world, almost every criminal, almost every unhappy man and woman is the result of some mother's spoiling.

The patterns of our lives are set before we are 3 years old. Our parents determine by the way they rear us just what sort of men and women we are going to make. And it is a cruel and a terrible thing they do to us when they doom us to go through life handicapped by faults that they should have corrected in our infancy.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a widower of 36. I have a little boy of 8 and have been advised by well-meaning friends that I should remarry for the sake of the boy, as he is at an age when he especially needs a mother. I am hopelessly and helplessly in love with a girl of 22. Do you think that the difference in our ages is too great for her happiness? I love her so unselfishly that I put her good before my own. There is a woman of my own age who I feel sure would marry me if I asked her, but the only reason I could see for marrying her would be that she would make a good mother for my boy.

ANSWER — Whether fourteen years is too great a difference between the ages of a husband and wife depends altogether upon the temperament of the man and woman. If you are young for your age; if you enjoy going about and doing things, and if the girl is old for her age; if she is sedate and serious-minded, then the matter of years is not to be considered.

But if you are old and settled in all of your habits, and if the girl is gay and high-spirited and pleasure-loving, then the difference between your ages is entirely too great.

Of course, in marrying, a widower should primarily consider his child's advantage, but because a woman is 36 does not necessarily insure her being a better stepmother than the one of 22. Is this girl fond of children? Does the child take to her, because children, like dogs, have a sure instinct about those who really love them. Will she be willing to stay at home and make a home for him instead of always gadding about? Watch how she handles the child and you can get a line on her qualifications for a step-mother.

But, anyway, don't marry the middle-aged woman whom you don't love, under any conditions. That will make all three of you miserable.

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband comes to the table every morning unwashed, uncombed and unshaven. I have talked to him about it, but he does not seem to see that he is losing my respect and endangering the happiness of our marriage. When I look at him across the breakfast table I wish I was a thousand miles away.

NEAT WIFE.

ANSWER — Men know how much importance they put upon their wives being easy on the eyes. It is strange that they do not realize that women, who put so much stress upon appearances, are even more offended by having to look upon a slovenly man.

But how you are to make your husband feel that you are worth dressing up for of a morning, I don't know. You might give him a dose of his own medicine and come to the table with your hair in curl papers and cold cream on your face and, if he objects, tell him that if he will doll himself up for breakfast, you will, too.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel — And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 35¢ at any druggists.

What's Right

You telephone friends, intending to suggest that you stop in to see them that evening, and find out that they already have guests.

WRONG: Say "We had planned to stop by to see you, but since you have guests we'll make it some other time."

RIGHT: Realize that if you put it that way they will have to urge you to stop by. Just say that you will come by another night, or ask them to stop by and see you soon.

Raw Fruits Low in Calories Excellent For Desserts

By MARY MOORE

A foolproof method for me to shed a few extra pounds which, without fail, built up during the winter, is to walk to the office every morning (1½ miles) and to eat one-half grapefruit for dessert for dinner instead of the fruit-butter-flour-sugar dessert I would serve ordinarily to my family.

I tell you this because one of our readers asked me to print some low calorie desserts. Low calorie desserts are raw friuts and do not need printing—they just need eating. That is my answer. A made dessert inevitably contains sugar,—and usually butter.

If you are serious enough about this reducing regime to serve yourself one-half grapefruit, or a sliced orange, or a ripe banana, or a lovely fresh imported pear, or Canadian apple, or a dish of ripe strawberries without sugar, or some unsweetened shredded fresh pineapple, then you will reduce your weight.

I find breakfasts and lunches can be controlled with comparative ease for I am too occupied with other matters at those times to give them much attention.

But by dinner time at night I can throw all of my careful resolutions to the wind and snap at a hard crust on sight—or snarl my way through that hour before dinner. But each day, if I manage to keep the crust used up and all cake hidden, I can just skin by with a couple of cups of tea at four o'clock,—no sugar though, dash it.

I am giving you a fresh fruit salad plate arrangement that is dependable both for popularity and to base other fruit combinations on:

Fruit Salad Plate

On a plate about the size of a breakfast plate (larger than a tea plate (arrange 4 or 5 small cups of lettuce. In centre of plate place a mould of cottage cheese mixed with chopped chives.

In the first cup place 3 or 4 oranges or grapefruit sections or half slices; in second cup arrange little wedges of fresh or canned pineapple; in third cup arrange 3 or 4 large slices strawberries (or when in season sweet cheeries with stems on); in fourth cup place quarters of canned or fresh pears or lengthwise quarters of bananas, spread with mayonnaise and stuck or sprinkled with nuts, preferably shredded almonds; in a fifth cup, when in season, watermelon or cantaloupe balls are attractive and delicious. If you use any fruit that is likely to discolor (like bananas or apples or pears) it should be dipped in lemon juice or spread with mayonnaise.

With this salad pass cream mayonnaise for the members of the family who are not reducing and make it as follows:

Cream Mayonnaise

Combine homemade or ready-made mayonnaise half and half with very heavy whipped cream (measure this proportion before cream is whipped) and flavor with 1 tablespoon canned pineaple juice. This is delicious on almost any fruit salad.

Rhubarb and Pineapple Cup

(This is a compromise, for it is sweet enough to satisfy the family but nourishing enough to displease hungry reducers. I like it—but I'm queer I'm told.)

Three-quarters to 1 lb. rhubarb cut in ½ inch pieces, but unpeeled, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup canned or fresh pineapple shredded or cubed. Bring the rhubarb, water and sugar to simmering point and turn off heat, if electric, as this will finish the cooking; if gas, cook just long enough to make rhubarb tender but not broken. Add the pineapple, just before serving and give it one stir. This amount will serve 6.

The above dish may be varied by adding, besides the pineapple sliced strawberries, when dish is cold. This is especially attractive and not too overly nourishing if served with unfrosted angel food cake.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I appreciate your food column in our paper every week. Please send me a recipe (a good rich one) for cream pie filling, also a calorie chart. Thank you in advance, Mrs. A. J: M.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER:

Rich Cream Pie Filling

Three tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1-3 to ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup cold cream, 2 cups scalded whole milk, 3 egg yolks, 3 tablespoons butter, 2-3 teaspoon vanilla. Mix together the flour, cornstarch, salt and sugar. Add the chilled cream and mix to a smooth paste. Gradually stir into it the scalded milk and cook, stirring, over boiling water until the mixture is thick and all taste of raw starch disappears. Beat the yolks and pour a little of the hot mixture over them stirring, then return all to the filling in double boiler and cook 2 more minutes stirring. Remove from heat and add butter and vanilla and cool a little before pouring into pie shell. Cover with meringue made by beating the left-over whites until stiff then beating in 6 tablespoons sugar until meringue will stand in peaks. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla. Bake in slow oven until meringue is golden.

I have sent the calorie chart.

QUESTION: I was at a meeting where we were discussing food and one of the ladies said she made what they called in England Toad-in-a-hole and it was made with Yorkshire pudding with sausages baked in it. We love Yorkshire pudding but we think we have to have a roast of pork or beef to have it with. Would you tell me how to make this dish I mention. Thanking you, Terry.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: (to Terry)

English people know this dish well,—and don't let anybody tell you it is the poor man's Sunday dinner either. It may be—but the flavor cannot be excelled by many foods.

◇ ◇ ◇

Toad-in-a-Hole (Yorkshire Pudding with Sausages)

In medium size bowl put ½ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk and 2 eggs and start beating with rotary beater and beat until thoroughly mixed. Let stand at least ½ hour. Melt 2 or 4 tablespoons dripping in hot oven of 475 deg. Fahr. and when pan is smoking hot pour into it the prepared Yorkshire pudding. Drop link sausages into the pudding and place in oven of 475 deg. Fahr. Bake at this heat throughout when pudding will puff up very high and brown quickly and sausages will be cooked through by the time pudding is puffed and set and brown. Cut into squares to serve being sure a sausage is in each serving. One-half pound sausages may be made to go a long way in this dish—and with the use of 2 eggs and 1 cup milk this provides an adequate protein, serving for a family dinner. This amount serves four.

If you like a stodgy Yorkshire pudding add 1 cup flour and 1½ cups milk.

Special Purpose Menus

By MARY MOORE

NOTE: If all types of meat are considered this month's prices of meat in Canada are the highest on record.

In planning these menus I have kept this in mind—yea, verily, I have to, for I'm a pore workin' gal, m'self.

Low Calorie Dinner

Broiled pickerel fillets with lemon (4 oz. 200 cal.)
Sliced boiled new asparagus and carrots
(With 1 teaspoon butter to 4 oz. 30 to 35 cal.)
Shredded cabbage and tomato salad (with 1 teaspoon boiled dressing 25 cal.)
Shredded pineapple (unsweetened 6 oz. 90 cal.)
Clear coffee

High Calorie Dinner

Scrambled eggs on sardine toast
Asparagus casserole au gratin (see notes)
Tomato, celery and lettuce salad with mayonnaise
Apple pie (from canned apple flakes) coffee

One-Burner Dinner

Grapefruit and orange juice
Scrambled eggs with sliced weiners on toast
Potato and celery salad
Strawberry shortcake (using Bakers' sponge cake) Coffee

Directions

It is the recipe for Asparagus au Gratin that I would like you to try: (This is a good way to use up the stalks just below the tips, —for I like to serve the tips just barely cooked, and chilled, on vegetable salads). Boil cut up stalks until barely tender. Place a layer of asparagus in buttered baking dish, then a few slices of hard cooked eggs (use 2 eggs to serve 6) (and if desired a few chopped olives). Repeat. Cover with 1½ cups medium white sauce, for each 1 lb. asparagus, top this with half and half mixture crumbs and grated old cheese and bake until heated through and a delicate brown.

In the juvenile preliminaries Bob Findlay took Jimmy Smillie 21-7 and 24-22 and Ken Warner took Ken Vogelsang 21-11 and 21-17 to enter the quarter finals. Peter Jones managed to survive the quarter finals taking Bob Naish two straight, 21-18 and 21-10 while Bob Findlay won from Ken Warner 21-7 twice and Lorne Hale edged Clark Hamen in three games, 21-13, 17-21, and 22-20.

Peter Jones entered the finals with two successive wins over Bob Findlay 21-8 and 21-6. Hale entered the finals by virtue of 21-6 and 21-12 wins. With two straight wins again, 21-8 and 21-15, Lorne Hale copped the championships.

Doug Ash drew a preliminary event with Bob Keiler to enter the semi-finals with 21-9 and 21-18 victories. Jim Heffernan took two games from Jack Boorman 21-8 and 21-5 to enter the final round. Ash had trouble with David Cuffe in the other semi-final. He took the first game handily 21-7 but Cuffe rallied in the second game to win 21-19. With the score 17-19 for Cuffe in the deciding game Ash drove through with four points to win 21-19.

In the final round of the intermediate play Ash won the championship from Heffernan with 21-12 and 21-9 victories.

Challenges Duplessis To Call An Election

JOLIETTE, Que., May 29 (CP)—Provincial Liberal Leader Georges Emile Lapalme Sunday challenged Premier Duplessis to call a general election and accused the Union Nationale leader of "political pettiness."

Speaking at a rally to thank the people of Joliette for having launched him on a political career in 1945, Mr. Lapalme promised that the Liberal party will fight Mr. Duplessis "every inch of the way."

Mr. Lapalme, member of the House of Commons for Joliette-Montcalm - L'Assomption, was elected leader of the provincial Liberals May 20, succeeding George Marler of Montreal. In Montreal Saturday, Mr. Lapalme said he would resign his federal seat "at the earliest possible opportunity." He said it would be impossible to represent properly "a county of more than 40,000 electors and at the same time actively take charge of the provincial Liberal party."

Dunkerque Evacuated 10 Yrs. Ago Described In New British Book

LONDON, May 29.—(Reuters)—Just 10 years ago there took place the "miracle of Dunkerque"—the evacuation of more than 335,000 British and French soldiers across the English channel when Hitler swept through the Low Countries and France.

The story has been brought to life again by two men who were in it—Lt.-Col. Ewan Butler and Maj. J. Selby Bradford, authors of the newly-published book, "Keep the Memory Green."

The book, put together by professional writers, adds fresh facts to a narrative already a legend, and reminds the western world—and Britain in particular—of the need to keep prepared.

Lacking in equipment, the British army found strength, however, in a good spirit and worthy leadership.

Viscount Gort, commander-in-chief, set an example among his officers for austerity living. Only once, says the book, did he feel his officers really needed a drink—the day the Belgian army capitulated after weeks of furious fighting.

"Bright news, hugh?" said Lord Gort that day, coming on a little party of depressed staff officers in their headquarters at Arras, in Northeastern France.

Need Some Champagne

"Belgians given up, French fallen back on our right. Bad—bad, I think we'd all better have a glass of champagne."

Paying tribute to Lord Gort's qualities, the authors recall his brief statement when he was ordered back to Britain from the Dunkerque beaches: "We shall meet them again and this time victory will be ours."

The grim retreat to the beaches had its lighter moments.

At Lille the British expeditionary force's liquor supplies for a whole year were dumped in the river. Passing troops were invited to take all they could carry, but the troop-carrying trucks were too full.

"By God," observed an onlooker dismally as he gazed into the ditry water, "those poor ruddy fish are going to have a permanent hangover for the rest of their lives."

Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club defeated Toronto Parkdale by a score of 93 for eight wickets to 25 in exhibition play. Previously, the visitors had defeated Upper Canada, Ridley College, and Brantford, losing only to St. Andrew's.

Batting first, Parkdale fared badly. Four wickets were down for nine runs and the final was 25. Booth took three to seven, F. Dyer three to two, B. Roberts two to 11, and R. Rollwagon also shared in the attack. They were supported by fine work in the field, Cotton making a sensational catch on Goodridge, picking up and throws were good.

Technically, the locals won by nine wickets but, by agreement, play continued to the usual time. Roberts repeated the form shown in his 89 against Grove on May 24, and was top scorer with 31. Christian Science The Discovery Which Solves Today's Problems

A lecture on Christian Science entitled, Christian Science: The Discovery Which Solves Today's Problems, was given in the PCVS auditorium on Sunday afternoon by Will B. Davis, CSB, of Chicago, Illinois. Mr. Davis is a member of the Board of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. He was introduced by Mrs. Mary Moffatt.

The lecturer spoke in part as follows:

I am sure if any of us here were asked to answer the question, "What is the greatest need of mankind in these days?" that after some thoughtful consideration and discussion we would all reach the conclusion that our greatest need is to gain a more comprehensive understanding of God.

The entire history of the human race shows plainly that envy and selfishness have been the underlying cause of most of the world's troubles. Basically, the reason mortals look to material sources or to the material possessions of others for their supply is that they are ignorant of the unlimited good which God is constantly giving to all of His children. Without the fear that there may not be enough to go around, there would never be any reason for covetousness. This fear emanates from ignorance of the true source or Principle of all good, ignorance of God and of His abundant provision for all of His children.

I presume that many in the audience have not studied, or even read, the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. When you do, and I hope it will be soon, you will notice at once that the teachings of Christian Science are a radical departure from ordinary materialistic thinking. When one accepts the Scripture concept of God as Love, Spirit, or Mind, it is logical to conclude that the entire creation of Spirit must be spiritual.

The world says that man is matter, subject to disease and eventually to decrepitude and death. But the glad message of Christian Science is that man is spiritual, the son of God, and that this real man necessarily expresses the attributes of his Father-Mother God.

Perhaps someone is thinking but how can I refuse to see the poverty, unhappiness, disease, disaster, selfishness, sorrow, and sin which are evident everywhere? To say that such material evidence is not true and to insist that such things have no basis, or fundamental principle, may seem unreasonable, until one begins to learn through Christian Science of the illusive nature of all that is not God-created.

An Unprecedented Discovery

The truth about God and His relationship to His spiritual universe, including the real man, has always been true. It was through understanding this truth that Jesus was able instantaneously to restore to normalcy those who were sick, sinning, dying, or even dead. This He did, as the Bible clearly tells us, and without the use of drugs or other material remedies.

The truth that spiritual man has forever been God's image and likeness, and is therefore perfect, was the basis of the healing works of Christ Jesus. That the same understanding of the healing Christ may be utilized today was not realized until Mrs. Eddy discovered the Science of Christianity. The way in which this discovery came about is familiar to many in this audience. But just as Paul never tired of telling of his awakening from spiritual, as well as material, blindness, so we as Christian Scientists never tire of reviewing the facts which led to the discovery of the method of healing which was used by our Master and which has brought immeasurable blessings to us.

Thousands of Axis Dead Unburied In Desert Sands

By EDWARD POLLAK

CAIRO, May 29.—(AP)—Thousands of Italian and German dead of the battle of El Alamein still lie unburied, lost in the shifting western desert sands, Count Paolo Caccia Dominioni, Italian war graves commissioner, says the bodies of at least 12,000 Italians killed in the famed desert battle in 1942 have not been found.

"German dead unaccounted for are probably fewer," he said in an interview. "The Germans in the battle were concentrated in the coastal area, where the search is easier."

Caccia Dominioni, an architect, is an Italian resident of Egypt. A veteran of the First World War he commanded an Italian shock battalion at El Alamein. Cacia Dominioni's job is to build and supervise maintenance of Italian war cemeteries in the El Alamein area. He is also in charge of the search for missing bodies.

The German War Graves Commissioner is Professor Ottokar Pauer, a teacher of chemistry at Alexandria University. They work closely with the British War Graves Commission.

Intimate Knowledge

Caccia Dominioni's frequent trips to El Alamein have given him an intimate knowledge of the battlefield. El Alamein has changed in eight years, he said:

"The wrecks that covered the barren desert have, in great part, been removed. Only the charred and twisted carcasses of tanks, guns and planes, scattered here and there, mark the scene of the great battle."

But some 300 square miles of the area still are mined, and two Bedouins (desert nomads) were blasted to pieces recently.

Caccia Dominioni said some 8,000 British and Allied, and 9,650 Axis dead rest in war cemeteries along the coast.

Keeps in Contact

Caccia Dominioni claims he is one of the few survivors of the battle who can locate the secret headquarters from which Field Marshal Rommel, "the desert fox," directed the El Alamein battle. This, he said, was a big foxhole right west of Gazala, on the coast.

Caccia Dominioni said that for a long time to come El Alamein battlefield will yield bodies of soldiers who disappeared in this crucial battle of the Second World War.

Request Lewis To Intervene

GLACE BAY, N.S., May 29 (CP)—The big Caledonia local of United Mine Workers (CCL) district 26 voted Sunday night to ask International President John L. Lewis to intervene in a dispute centring around District President Freeman Jenkins.

The local wants Mr. Lewis to order new nominations for all district locals which nominated Bob Stewart to contest presidential elections next month.

Jenkins last week declared Stewart ineligible for office, thus automatically retaining the president's position by acclamation.

Caledonia local—of which Stewart is secretary—also decided to urge the district board to meet again on the matter.

Tom Ling, international vice-president, told Sunday's meeting that Jenkins had refused to consider any proposal which would have enabled Stewart to contest the June 13 elections.

"When the Ump called '3 STRIKES' he could have meant me

"I remember how I'd looked forward to that game . . . how I'd prayed for just one afternoon's relief from miserable, sluggish, half-sick feelings. But even before I started for the park, I felt 'all in'. When the Ump called the first 'Out', he could have been looking right at me.

"But on the way home I saw Kruschen Salts displayed in a drug store window. Next morning I took my first small dose of Kruschen. Right from the first, it quickly brought me the relief I needed. Now I'm regular with Kruschen . . . enjoying my meals again . . . and every day, I'm 'right in there pitching'!"

If bad digestion, "irregularity" and that worn-out, listless feeling have '3 strikes' on you—try a little Kruschen Salts with your morning fruit juice, tea or coffee. Childbirth Much Safer Today For Mother And Baby—Doctors

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE.

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—There are 14 reasons why childbirth is safer today for mother and baby than 10 to 20 years ago.

The reasons were cited by doctors attending the recent international and fourth American congress on obstetrics and gynecology here.

They give main weight to five advances, which you might guess at:

1. Antibiotics. These wonder drugs, developed during or since the war, give better control of infections.

2. Blood banks. Blood is available to combat haemorrhages and shock. Fibrinogen, a product from blood, is an ever newer lifesaver in haemorrhage.

3. Better and safer methods of long-lasting anaesthesia.

4. Growth of pre-natal clinics, and more women going to their doctors early in pregnancy. This means better health care before delivery, and more warnings of possible troubles ahead.

Using Hospitals

5. About 85 per cent of births now occur in hospitals, where new life-savers or emergency measures are more readily available. Only 25 to 30 years ago, most deliveries were at home.

Other reasons can be equally important.

Physicians now have better methods of detecting threatened miscarriages, with loss of the unborn baby and danger to the mother.

They also have X-ray methods of measuring the size of the unborn baby's head in comparison with the size of the mother's bony pelvis. They are warned beforehand of difficult labor, or of the need to take the baby by Caesarian operation. The forewarning means less use of forceps, with danger of injury to baby and mother.

German measles is recognized now as one cause of deformed infants, if women contract the disease early in pregnancy.

Can Be Predicted

The RH-factor in blood has been discovered as a cause of still-births and of infant deaths after birth from a battle in the blood stream. RH difficulties can be predicted, and a baby can be given a new supply of safe bood if he is born with RH-positive sensitized blood.

Surgical and obstetrical skills have grown with the years.

More attention is paid to repairing, right after birth, childbirth injuries to the mother that can cause complications in later years.

And finally, there is far more success now in helping childless couples have babies. The childless couple has twice as good a chance of overcoming sterility now as 20 years ago.

Since 1930, the yearly death rate among mothers at child birth had been reduced by more than two-thirds. The infant death rate has been cut 50 per cent.

Income Tax Appeal Granted

OTTAWA, May 29 (CP)—The income tax appeal board ruled Saturday that business firms may claim deduction for income tax purposes on losses suffered in a previous year, even if the firm's business premises are moved to a completely different location.

The ruling was made in a judgment made public today in which the board allowed the appeal of Roy Hoffman of Calmar and Barrhead, Alta., regarding his 1946 income tax assessment.

Evidence showed that the appellant operated a retail hardware business in Calmar, Alta., that was destroyed by fire in 1945. A loss of 1945 operations and the following year was forced to transfer the business to Barrhead, Alta., where premises were available.

In his 1946 income tax return Mr. Hoffman claimed for losses suffered in 1945. The revenue department disallowed the deduction claiming that, to qualify, the firm would have to operate in exactly the same location as in 1945 and with the same clientele.

The board allowed the appeal from the department's ruling. The amount of deductions involved was not disclosed.

Postal Workers Ask Union Rights

KITCHENER, May 29 (CP)—The Ontario Convention of the Canadian Postal Employees Association Sunday unanimously approved a resolution demanding that postal workers be given full union rights and privileges under the Federal Labor Code.

The resolution said "Public servants" who thus forego the rights and privileges carefully safeguarded for private employees by trade unionism and collective bargaining, become wards of the state and are, in general, underprivileged citizens."

The convention also went on record in favor of a five-day 40-hour week for all postal workers, with time and a half for overtime. It said there should be no days off in lieu of pay as currently practiced, and asked double time for Sundays and statutory holidays.

On wage scales, one delegate said, wages for postal employees have increased only 40 per cent since 1939, according to government figures, while the general wage scale has increased 80 per cent.

Important Progress Made In Strengthening Allies At Atlantic Talks–Pearson

Very Useful and Successful Conference Held In London, Canadians Told; Not Committed To Europe Commercially

NEW YORK, May 30—(CP)—L. B. Pearson said today on his arrival here from London that important progress was made in strengthening the North Atlantic community through the recent meeting of the Atlantic Council. Canada's External Affairs Minister arrived aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth after a 23-day visit to Britain. He expected to return to Ottawa today by train or plane. He will report to the Cabinet today or tomorrow on his talks overseas and to the House of Commons "at the first opportunity."

"It was a very useful meeting and I think a very successful meeting," Pearson said of the four-day discussions among the 12 Atlantic Pact powers, ending May 18.

"At the meeting we made further important progress in building up the North Atlantic community."

Sense Of Relief

Commenting on the weekend youth march in East Berlin, Pearson said everyone must feel a certain sense of relief that there was no distrubance of the peace.

The firm stand taken by the Western Allies before the event, he said, probably had a lot to do with the relatively quiet way it came off.

Pearson was asked whether Canada's projected participation in the organization for European economic co-operation would commit Canada to Europe commercifully. He replied that the Dominion would not be committed by participation in OEEC.

Some action already has been taken to translate into reality the resolutions taken by the Atlantic council, Pearson said. A permanent group had been set up to continue talks among pact members between regular sessions. Canada's member of the permanent group would be appointed later.

Some work had been done on the military side of co-ordination but not much had been accomplished yet on the economic side.

Fuel Storage Warehouse Swept By Flames, Blaze Now Under Control

8,400 Gallon Tank Car On Rail Siding Burns Like Giant Firecracker; Report Smoke Seen 30 Miles Away

NORTH BAY, May 30—(CP)—Fire and explosion today swept an Imperial Oil Company fuel storage warehouse and for a time threatened the western sections of the city. Imperial Oil officials at the company's head office in Toronto said initial estimates by their men at the scene placed damage at $150,000. Earlier unofficial reports were that the loss might reach $500,000. The ruined building still blazed fiercely early this afternoon, several hours after fire broke out among the highly-combustible materials. But firemen said at noon that they considered the blaze under control.

A column of steel-gray smoke mushroomed 2,000 feet into the air over the plant on the shore of Lake Nipissing and hung like a huge blanket over this city of 20,000. The smoke could be seen for 30 miles.

Cause Unknown

Cause of the outbreak, which was fed by a huge store of gasoline, industrial oils and rubber tires, could not be determined immediately. Fifteen workers dashed to safety as the flames spread with lightning speed.

Scores of residents fled from nearby dwellings as the area on the city's western outskirts shook from the explosion of drums of gasoline and naphtha. The blaze was considered one of the most spectacular in the city's history.

The fire is believed to have started near the barrel-washing room in the rear part of the 200-foot-long warehouse building on Harriet Street. It was first noticed by two warehouse workers, Howard Caverly and Bill Morris.

"It just came 'poof'," Caverly told a reporter. "I looked up and there was the fire."

Blazing Fiercely

The fire spread through the plant like a flaming blanket. Within five minutes, it had taken solid hold on the entire building. Flames were roaring through the whole structure by the time firemen arrived. Water for the hoselines had to be pumped several hundred feet.

19-Gun Salute For Pakistan Prime Minister

OTTAWA, May 30 (CP)—Pakistan's Prime Minister, Liequat Ali Khan, flew into Ottawa today to an elaborate formal welcome.

Attired in a western coat and western clothes, but wearing a black Jinnah cap, Liaquat Ali Khan stepped from a large Dakota aircraft flying the Canadian ensign and the Pakistan flag as a 19-gun artillery salute roared out.

First to greet he and his wife was Prime Minister St. Laurent. Others welcoming them included Mrs. C. D. Howe, wife of Canada's trade minister, and Maj.-Gen. Letson, representing the governor-general, Viscount Alexander.

Guests Of Alexander

After being introduced to a member of other government and civic officials, including Mayor E. A. Bourque of Ottawa, the visitors were driven to Government House, where they will be the guests of the Governor-General and Lady Alexander.

In the afternoon the prime minister and the Begum will attend a press conference. Tonight they will be guests of honor at a state dinner at Government House.

Tomorrow the prime minister will interview Mr. St. Laurent and members of the cabinet. Wednesday afternoon he will address members of the Senate and Commons in the House of Commons chamber.

Thursday the Pakistan prime minister will address a luncheon given in his honor by the Ottawa Canadian Club.

Army Planned To Evacuate 40,000 A Day

WINNIPEG, May 30 (CP) — Forty thousand persons a day would have been moved out of Greater Winnipeg by rail if the Red river flood had forced general evacuation of the city.

That was the pace set by the army in its "blackboy" evacuation operation, made public today.

At least 200,000 persons would have been moved out of the metropolitan area within five days, Brig. R. E. A. Morton, the army's flood commander, told his daily press conference.

Until today the evacuation scheme, drafted by a military-civilian committee under Brig. R. S. (Dick) Malone of Winnipeg was known vaguely as the "if" plan. It was shelved May 26 when the Red's drop from flood crest was well started.

Official Code Name

This morning the Army announced the official code name for the operation was "blackboy."

"That was the name used in England in 1940 for the emergency plan to halt a possible German invasion," said Maj. G. W. Graham of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, one of the Blackboy planners.

"It seems to be a good name for a disaster plan. It's been used twice and the plan hasn't been needed."

Blackboy would have gone into effect if the river reached 32.5 feet.

Blood Donations Fail, Boy Dies

BELLEVILLE, May 30—Oliver Plane, 8, died in hospital here Monday afternoon, despite the aid of blood donors who came from points as far as Picton and Napanee.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Plane of Cannifton, was injured when hit by a car as he and his pal, Jim Latchford, went to a store for candy. Driver of the car was D. F. MacAvoy, 28, of Belleville.

At hospital here a call was sent out for blood donors to supply type O, RH negative for the boy.

Only four were found with the right type. Their aid was not enough to save the boy's life. He had received a broken leg; fractured pelvis, internal injuries, cuts to face and scalp and possible broken hip.

Prov. Constable E. L. C. Smith investigated.

Say Fire Conditions Improved In Ontario

TORONTO, May 30 (CP)—Improved fire conditions in Ontario today resulted in lifting the travel ban in the Algonquin Park area, the Lands Department announced today.

While 757 additional men are still fighting 23 fires throughout the province, all are reported in the "control" stage.

An RCAF helicopter, used in the Sudbury district to land men on isolated fire lines, has returned to its base in Trenton.

The machine made forestry history. In addition to ferrying men, it carried complete pumping equipment and sprayed water on the fire lines while hovering above the blaze.

Intelligence Chiefs Silent On Fuchs

LONDON, May 30 — (AP) — British and American intelligence chiefs today clamped a tight curtain of secrecy over their investigation of the activities here and in the United States of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, convicted atom spy.

They continued through the Whitsun holiday with their questioning of Fuchs about his connection with other agents through whom he allegedly funnelled atom secrets to Russia. But all inquiries about their work was answered by "no comment."

None would say whether they had again questioned Dr. Fuchs in an old Wormwood Scrubs prison, where he is serving a 14-year prison sentence.

Truman Asks Over Billion To Arm 14 Lands

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—President Truman is expected to ask Congress this week for about $1,225,000,000 to finance United States arm shipments to 14 countries.

The State Department and Budget Bureau have recommended this amount as necessary to bolster American policy in the cold war. The money would be for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Truman is scheduled to submit the request to Congress Thursday.

The sum is slightly less than the $1,238,600,000 appropriated by Congress last year for arms shipments to 13 friendly powers.

About $1,000,000,000 would go for American military supplies to nine Atlantic-pact countries — Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Norway, Denmark and Portugal.

The remainder would be earmarked for arms aid to Greece, Turkey, Iran, Korea and the Philippines.

Portugal is being included for the first time among the Atlantic-pact recipients. Officials said small amounts of naval and air force equipment would be sent to the Portuguese to help protect Portugal's strategic coastline and the important Azores air bases.

Most of the funds during the first year went for shipments of available weapons needed to meet urgent deficiencies in the various armed forces.

Try Bank Holdup

MONTREAL, May 30—(CP)—A bank holdup attempt of a Provincial bank was reported today at St. Catherine and Dorion streets in the eastern section of Montreal. Police headquarters had no immediate details.

Trooping of Colors June 5 To Be Performed By RCAF

OTTAWA, May 30—(CP)—For the first time in its history the R.C.A.F. will perform the full ceremonial trooping of the color on June 5—the King's birthday. The occasion will be the presentation by Canada's Governor-General of colors for use by the R.C.A.F. on ceremonial occasions. More than 400 Air Force personnel will take part in the trooping, to be held on Parliament Hill.

Two pennants, both approved by the King, will be presented—a King's color and an R.C.A.F. color. Both will be carried by a color guard.

The King's color is a square Union Jack edged on three sides by a wide tasselled fringe of red and gold. In the centre of the St. George's Cross are two circles of gold, one within the other. Between them are the words "Royal Canadian Air Force." Within the inner circle is the royal cipher in gold. The central devices are surmounted by the imperial crown, and the staff carries at its head a golden crown on which stands a lion.

Special Band

The RCAF color is a square of azure blue, tasselled on the edges in blue and gold. In the centre is embroidered the air force badge and in each of the four corners is a gold maple leaf.

Taking part in the ceremony will be a band composed of the central band from Ottawa and the training command band from Trenton, an escort squadron of 225, a color party of 10 and boundary guards.

The colors will be retained at air force headquarters for ceremonial occasions within the Ottawa area. Duplicate sets will be presented to training command headquarters, Edmonton.

Both the King's color and the RCAF color will be carried on such occasions as the King's birthday, Air Force Day and Battle of Britain Sunday.

Burt Withdraws From UAW Talks

WINDSOR, May 30 (CP) — George Burt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), said today he has withdrawn from negotiating between Local 195 of the union and Chrysler Corporation of Canada until top officials of the company agree to take part in discussions.

Union and company representatives met this morning to discuss union demands for pensions, health and social security and contract changes.

Mr. Burt said he would not take part in negotiations until E. C. Row, general manager of Chrysler of Canada, agreed to meet the union group.

"I am not going to meet with the lesser officials," Mr. Burt said. "Our experience has been they have no say in policy."

Wolves Howl Outside Cabin

TIMMINS, May 30 — (CP) — Four boys, the eldest 13, spent Sunday night in a lonely cabin 30 miles north of here—as wolves howled hungrily outside.

The lads—Ross Fuller, 10; his brother, Donald, 9; Louis Holmes, 13, and Buddy Tomick, 12—were missing since early Sunday. Police-led searchers found them late Monday, fishing on lonely Kamiscotia Lake.

They set out Sunday from their homes to hike to Sandy Falls, five miles away. They changed their minds and took the Kamiscotia road instead.

The Tomick boy said they spent the night in a cabin owned by his grandfather. There was plenty of food.

The Fuller brothers said they didn't get much sleep, though, because of the wolves. Some candy thrown out a window had attracted the beasts.

"They gnawed away at the candy all night and made a terrific racket," said Louis Holmes, "but we weren't scared."

Drought Averted

COLOMBO, Ceylon, May 30—(Reuters) — Torrential monsoon rains have killed six persons and injured scores of others—but averted a serious drought threatening Colombo and other centres. The rain broke electric cables, uprooted trees and started landslides. A boulder falling on a train derailed several coaches, injuring three passengers.

Red-Led Japs Attack 4 U.S. Soldiers

TOKYO, May 30 (AP)—Communist-led Japanese today attacked four United States soldiers in the first public fight of the Allied occupation.

The battle touched off other skirmishes as American military police cracked down on instigators. At least eight Japanese were arrested.

Demonstrators, gathered for a Communist Labor rally, showered American military observers with rocks. One soldier was knocked down.

One witness said the incident began when members of a Communist youth group snatched a notebook from a Japanese plain-clothesman who was taking notes on speeches.

The Americans attempted to recover the notebook. One of the soldiers was hit and struck back. The crowd, in surly mood, threw rocks at the Americans who forced their way into the clear.

Use Clubs

American military police moved into the crowd as it entered Hibaya Park for a second rally. They arrested at least three Japanese who put up stiff resistance. Clubs and fists swung freely.

Another Japanese was pulled out of a marching column when he shouted an anti-American slogan as he passed the military police. Other Japanese tried to prevent the arrest. The Americans quickly fought clear of a hostile circle of shouting, pushing demonstrators.

M.P.s picked up two more Japanese who tried to help their friend escape. Later the Red demonstrators sent a delegation to nearby Marunouchi police station to demand their release. Two leaders were arrested.

Chiang Says Formosa Safe From Invasion

TAIPEI, Formosa, May 30 — (AP)—Chiang Kai-shek said today Formosa is safe from immediate Chinese Communist invasion unless Russia gives the Reds "extensive help."

Nationalist China's president said at a press conference that Formosa's "defensive strength is steadily growing." He said the withdrawal from Hainan added 60,000 troops and retreat from Chushan 150,000.

The question was raised by one correspondent's remark that "reliable reports" quoted US military attaches as predicting a Red invasion attempt about mid-July with the fall of Formosa "not unlikely."

Small Raids Mar Election

SEOUL, Korea, May 30 (AP)—Small-scale terrorist raids and isolated acts of violence erupted today as South Koreans voted for a new national assembly.

But the major disruptions promised by Communist North Korea in broadcasts did not materialize. Police officials said pre-election crackdowns on about 500 suspects had left Communist elements leaderless.

Between 6,000,000 and 8,000,000 voters were to cast ballots to fill the 210 seats in the South Korean republic's single house. Last-minute withdrawals cut the number of candidates to 2,144, representing 15 parties. More than two-thirds were listed as Independents.

Treasure Hunters Digging For Famous Silver Cache

GOLDTHWAITE, Tex., May 30 —(AP)—Treasure hunters are digging again for tons of silver and gold which legend says lies hidden in a tunnel-pocked mountain in Central Texas.

This time they are professional hunters with modern equipment. They are boring and probing under dry pond, which nestles on top of the mountain three miles northeast of here.

The nameless mountain is the site of a gold and silver mine worked by the Spaniards when Texas was part of Mexico and under Spanish rule.

Legend—backed by some evidence—is that the Spaniards were forced to flee the mine in 1762 because of an Indian uprising. They were supposed to have hastily stored 500 jack loads (150,000 pounds) of pure silver taken from the famous Lost Bowie mine, and 10 burro loads of gold, weighing 3,000 pounds.

The silver would be worth about $13,000,000 now, and the gold about $1,500,000.

The newest hunters are two professionals and three college students. They have formed a partnership. The professionals, J. S. Fisher and Jr. R. Latham of Del Rio, Tex., are at the site with modern equipments and have staked out a location. The students will join them when their classes end.

In 1901 a foreigner came here with a map which he said he bought from a Mexican. The foreigner looked for three oak trees which formed a triangle—one of which had a copper spike driven into it. He couldn't find them.

397 Death Toll In U.S. Over 4-Day Holiday

CHICAGO, May 30—(CP)—Violent deaths edged close to the 400 mark today as the four-day United States Memorial Day weekend reached its peak. With today's count yet to come, the accidental deaths were expected to surpass last year's three-day Memorial Day weekend toll of 413.

Traffic was the biggest killer. Mishaps on the highway killed 258 persons. Fifty-five persons lost their lives by drowning as millions flocked to lakes and resorts in the season's biggest outpouring. Another 84 were killed in miscellaneous accidents — fires, airplane crashes, explosions, falls and other mishaps.

The traffic toll was expected to exceed the total of 290 predicted by the National Safety Council for the four-day period. The count started at 6 p.m. local time Friday and will end at midnight tonight.

Soviet Offers To Negotiate Wheat Pact With West

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 30. —(AP).—A Soviet offer to negotiate an agreement for the large-scale supply of Russian grain to Western Europe was published here today by the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe.

Professor Gunnar Myrdal of Sweden, the commission's executive secretary, suggested in November that a grain agreement should be negotiated between East and West Europe to break the post-war stagnation of trade between the two areas.

The Soviet reply, made public by Myrdal today, said the proposal had been "favorably received by the Government of the USSR."

Soviet delegates would "in due course" take part in a European grain conference under the commission's auspices, the reply said.

Myrdal has been touring European capitals, including Moscow, during recent weeks and discussed his proposals with senior Government officials.

Western officials, he told a press conference, "were on the whole favorable to the proposed approach for changing the depressing stalemate."

The proposed agreement would include long-term purchase commitments by the West, with upper and lower price limits and minimum quantity commitments. In return, the western countries would permit the proceeds from the sale of the eastern supplies to be used for purchases selected from an agreed list of western products, free of export controls.

Myrdal said the east-west trade deadlock had been largely caused by a Soviet refusal to provide information on potential exports and a simultaneous western refusal to relax export controls on strategic industrial products.

Acheson Says U.S. Won't Veto Red China

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(AP) —State Secretary Dean Acheson is reported to have assured Trygve Lie that the United States will not use the veto to keep Communist China out of the United Nations.

This restatement of American policy appeared today to have been the principal development in the meetings held by Lie, UN secretary-general, with President Truman and Acheson.

Diplomats familiar with the substance of Monday's "confidential chats" indicated they produced little in the way of definite understandings promising to ease cold war tensions. Lie, however, was left with a free hand to continue his efforts to find a way out of the UN deadlock.

Toronto Council Passes Clause Forbidding Discrimination In Business

New By-Law Will Apply To People Licensed By The City, Mayor McCallum Urges Clause Be Adopted

TORONTO, May 30—(CP)—A long step towards outlawing racial and religious discrimination in businesses licensed by the city has been taken by city council. A new by-law incorporating an anti-discrimination clause will be presented at next meeting of council June 12. Monday night council adopted unanimously a motion by Alderman William Allen that the clause be inserted in city-issued licences. Adoption came after a four-hour debate on the hottest moral issue to come before council since recent stormy sessions on Sunday sports. The debate, mainly concerned with whether discrimination in business can be curbed by law, followed a recommendation by the five-man Board of Control that Alderman Allen's motion be thrown out.

The board took the stand that education rather than legislation is the way to stamp out discrimination. The alderman, defending his own motion, declared that tolerance could be achieved by a combination of legislation and education.

Mayor Supports Clause

Mayor Hiram McCallum, who came in at the end of the discussion, urged that the clause be adopted. He told council it had to pass the motion or be subject to widespread criticism.

The anti-discrimination clause will apply to persons operating public garages, barber shops or hairdressing establishments; profit-making lending libraries, pet shops; stores selling milk or cream and swimming pools or baths run for profit. It may also apply to pawnshop owners and masseurs.

Toronto's Police Commission several years ago added a no-discrimination rider to many of the licences it was empowered to grant.

In Monday night's debate Alderman Roy Belyea said that business men were concerned about discrimination yet didn't want to be classed as pious hypocrites.

"... In supporting Alderman Allen's motion, I do so in the hope that we will not have a second Dresden in Toronto."

Boys Will Climb Water Tower

"We've already spent a lot of money on Civic Hospital, but we don't get any credit for it," said Gordon Matthews, figuratively pointing toward the new Civic Hospital at the meeting of the Utilities Commission Monday afternoon.

"In the first place we gave them $50,000 toward the building fund, we've spent another $50,000 out there, and we still have to put in the electric light standards."

The two other Commissioners, George A. Macdonald and Fred Hills, nodded assent to the chairman's passing reference to the co-operation of the Utilities in the progress of the hospital construction.

The lighting of the hospital grounds is one remaining job, and putting up a factory fence around the base of the water tower transpires as another.

The six-foot reach from the ground to the bottom of the iron ladder leading to the top of the tower did not deter boys from climbing up to the altitudinous platform for a bird's eye view of the scene at the opening of the hospital May 20.

Discussing insurance Monday, Mr. Matthews remembered the tower episode and the adventuring boys, and enquired: "If a boy fell off the tank tower, are we covered?"

That is a detail to be anticipated in the insurance policy that is being written by Mr. Charles Ray.

Ross Dobbin, Utilities manager, reported that factory fence material, including the barb wire trim, will be set up around the food of the tower "as soon as we can get in there."

"You can't move anything in yet. Harry Beatty had to haul transformers in on a stoneboat."

"I hope you will get the fence up as soon as you can," Mr. Matthews said. "You might also take another foot off the bottom of the ladder."

It is now six feet from the ground, but that does not deter enterprising boys.

"They stand on each other's backs," Mr. Dobbin said.

Utilities Commission Plans Expense Sheet

Utilities Commission is drafting an expense sheet. Details of form were left Monday to Howard Clegg, accountant. He was advised to apply to the Hydro-Electric Commission for one of their blanks as a guide or model.

Reporters and probably commerical travellers have been known to refer to them as swindle sheets. Presumably there are to be lines for railway fares, hotel bills, gasoline, oil and so on. And there should also be a slot for "miscellaneous".

No particular circumstance has recommended the expense sheet. It is intended as a convenience in accounting for necessary trips on the business of the Commission.

Index Cards Taken From Filing Cabinet

A thief, believed by police to be a crackpot, broke into the offices of the Children's Aid Society Monday night and stole a whole series of index cards from a filing cabinet.

As far as was known, nothing but these small reference cards was taken. No files were found missing and money which had been left in some of the drawers was untouched.

The thief had broken in by pulling open an air vent and crawling through the opening into a washroom.

Using probably a screwdriver, the thief tried prying open several filing cabinets and finally succeeded in getting into a drawer in which the keys to all the drawers were kept.

In an attempt to hide his method of entry, the thief pulled the air vent back in place and went out through the main door.

Detective Sergeant W. A. Clarke and Sergeant William Aggas, identification officer, investigated.

Unable To Agree On How To Curb Drunk Driving

OTTAWA, May 30 (CP)—Justice Minister Garson indicated in the Commons Monday that the Federal government and the provinces have reached no final agreement on how the Criminal Code should be amended to curb drunken driving.

Replying to opposition requests for heavier penalties, Mr. Garson said the Federal government and the provinces have had the matter "under the most careful consideration" for many months.

He spoke during study of a bill making a series of minor amendments to the Code and said he would not be in order to deal with the drunken driving question.

"When the time comes, I am quite prepared to debate this very issue for just as long as any member of the opposition wishes to debate it," he said. He would give reasons why amendments were not being introduced at this time.

The debate on drunken driving was started by John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre), who said that 600 or more persons are killed each year on Canadian highways by drunken drivers. Murder was regarded as a "terrible crime" yet

Industrial Stocks In Moderate Demand

TORONTO, May 30 (CP)—Industrial stocks were in moderate demand and pushed into new high price territory as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today. A wide list of market leaders chalked up gains ranging from fractions to more than a point.

Papers, utilities and steels paced the industrial upturn. Donnacona sold at a new high at 20 in papers and Dominion Foundries touched a new top in steels. Massey-Harris bounded ahead to 28¼ in brisk trading in agricultures.

Low-priced gold stocks were at a comparative standstill. Senior producers were slightly lower while Pickle Crow moved against a downward trend in junior producers.

Western oils showed signs of giving ground to heavy profit-taking sales on a three-day advance into the highest average price territory in 13 years.

Base metals brightened from recent easiness following news of an increase in the price of zinc. Gains about doubled losses.

Bobcaygeon Driver's License Suspended

Pleading guilty to a charge of careless driving in police court today, Robert Thompson, Bobcaygeon, was fined $50 and costs and his driver's license was suspended four months.

A second charge of drunk driving was withdrawn. Provincial Constable Charles W. Tutton told the court Thompson had run his $2,000 truck off the highway breaking off nine guide posts and crashed into a gully about a tenth of a mile south of Burleigh Falls on Highway 28 May 4.

The truck was a total wreck. All four wheels had been sheared off.

Earlier in the day city police had taken the keys of his truck from Thompson for about three hours because he had been drinking. They gave the keys back to him and told him to go home.

Apparently, said Constable Tutton, Thompson had been unable to straighten out after negotiating an S turn while driving north on the highway.

"It's difficult to understand", commented Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, "how the truck could be ruined and the driver escape serious damage."

Fuel Storage

An 8,400-gallon tank car on a CNR siding in front of the warehouse was being emptied when the fire started. Workmen, beavert an explosion but the car fore they fled, opened valves to could not be moved to safety because the flames were shooting across the siding.

Heat and flames from the burning warehouse touched off the nearly-full tank car. A spout of fire 20 feet long gushed from the top of the car and one observer said the load of fuel burned like "the biggest Roman candle in the world."

Meanwhile, the fire surged into storerooms loaded with barrels of petroleum products.

Barrels Explode

Tremendous plumes of pink, red and blue flame shot sky-high as the barrels exploded. Some containers, lying on their side when they blew up, thrust searing tongues like flame-thrower blasts through the sides of the building.

A northerly wind saved huge storage tanks at the rear of the property from destruction. The 10 tanks contained nearly 120,000 gallons of gasoline.

For a time, police and firemen feared that these main storage tanks would explode and shower flaming gasoline over the adjoining section of the city. But the wind carried the flames to the south and away from the big tanks.

While the threat of a mammoth explosion hung over the area, residents mindful of the recent holocausts in the Quebec communities of Rimouski and Cabano dashed from their homes under a sky darkened by the smoke.

Blasts Heard Miles

The explosions that rocked the area could be heard for miles. One resident said:

"It sounds just like the 24th of May and there are great clouds of heavy black smoke settling over the city."

The house nearest to the storage depot was less than 50 yards from the scene of the outbreak. The Imperial Oil office and two more adjacent oil company properties, Shell and McColl-Frontenac, also were threatened.

Minutes after the fire broke out, it had spread to a brush patch and was burning along a railway right-of-way.

Water Turns To Stem

Virtually every piece of fire-fighting equipment in this area was pressed into service. Firemen soaked adjacent properties to keep them from catching fire. Provincial and city police set up road blocks to bar spectators from within half a mile of the blaze.

When firefighters turned hoselines on the burning tanks, the heat was so intense that the water just turned to steam.

One nearby plant contained large tanks of liquid cooking gas.

All buildings at the Imperial Oil plant appeared to be aflame.

Tongues of fire licked hundreds of feet into the air.

The flames blocked passage of a freight train. It had to stand on the tracks about a mile from the centre of North Bay.

Deplores Give-Away Prices Employed Recently By Democratic Countries

Breakdown of International Currencies Upsets World Farming Balance, Cold War Has Adverse Repercussions

SALTSJOBADEN, Sweden, May 30—(CP)—H. H. Hannam Monday deplored the methods employed by some democratic countries of moving farm surpluses into certain areas at "give-away prices." Without naming the "give-away" countries, Mr. Hannam said such a procedure was just as detrimental to the local economy as it would be to unload an army of workers into a community which otherwise had a stable labor force.

Mr. Hannam spoke as President of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers as the farm representatives of some 25 nations gathered here for their fourth international farm conference. Mr. Hannam also is president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, an organization representing some 400,000 Canadian farmers.

In a speech prepared for delivery, Mr. Hannan also criticized the lack of progress made by the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations.

Currency Breakdown

A brief glance at the position of agriculture in national economies and in the international realm showed:

1. The "deplorable" effects of international trade in farm producers of the virtual breakdown of general convertibility of currencies.

2. Trade within Europe, upset by the cold war, has "adverse repercussions" internationally, "on top of which there is the well-founded foreboding as to what will happen at the end of the Marshall Plan."

3. There was no effective international machinery to cushion the impact of national price-support programs for farm products.

4. Surpluses had reached the "burdensome" stage in some countries and were threatening to do so in others. The temptation to unload them at any price was posing a threat to normal international trade. All producers, whether in surplus producing or importing countries, stood to lose heavily in any "orgy of competitive dumping."

SMALL HOLDINGS

Of the total number of agricultural holdings in Britain, 79 per cent are of 100 acres or less.

ALLAN B. HARLE, son of Mrs. R. B. Harle, 336 Rubidge St., received the B.Sc. (Physical education) at McGill University at the end of the spring term. He served with the Royal Canadian Air Force during the war as a fighter pilot and is a former P.C.V.S. student.

Champion Pickerel Betters 23 Pounds

TORONTO, May 30 (CP)—Up in the Moon river, in the Parry Sound district 140 miles north of here, there's a world record to be had for the hooking.

Pete McGillen, outdoors editor of the Telegram, says that Ontario Lands Department employees, stripping pickerel in the Moon river, weighed the biggest pickerel yet. It was 23½ pounds—1¼ pounds heavier than the world record.

The fish was returned alive and uninjured to the water.

Port Hope Man Sues Hydro Claims $25,000

COBOURG, May 30 (ENS) — Main case on the non-jury docket of Supreme Court which opened Monday before Mr. Justice Smily, is the $25,000 damage action brought by Harry Glober of Port Hope against the Hydro Electric. Two cases were on the list, one of them being settled. Three divorce cases were disposed of Monday afternoon and a start was made on the Glober vs. HEPC action. This action is expected to last three days.

Mr. Glober claims that on August 17, 1948, while cleaning a chimney with an iron pipe, one end touched a high tension wire which he alleges crossed his property. There were no warning signs to indicate that they were high voltage he said. He seeks $1,820 for loss of wages from his furniture business and tourist cabins and future loss estimated at $21,367.84, plus medical expenses. Plaintiff is represented by Malcolm Robb of Belleville.

The defence, while not admitting that their lines trespassed, claimed that the negligence of the plaintiff was responsible for his accident. Haines and Haines of Toronto are solicitors for the Hydro.

Decrees-nisi were granted in the divorce action brought by Gloria K. Linderman of Bewdley against James Linderman of Toronto; Robert Dunn of Port Hope township against Ruby Dunn of Whitby, and Nellie Poirrit of Winnipeg against George Poirrit of Trenton.

Right-of-way Action

An action based on a right-of-way is the claim brought by Michael Freeman of Port Hope and Phyllis Micks of Campbellford against Elizabeth Ann Cooper, Arthur Oswald and Victor Morton of Hope township and the Ontario Lumber Co. of Toronto. Plaintiff seeks a declaration as to the proper location of the right-of-way and those entitled to use it, plus $500 damages.

Dawson Beebe of Hope township is the plaintiff in an action brought against Benson Beebe of Hope township, Helen Beebe of Oshawa and Lorenzo Beebe of Oshawa, being a dispute over a promissory note.

Myra Moncrief of Port Hope, in her action against John L. Moncrief of Burnaby, B. C., seeks possession of a separation agreement made in May of 1949, plus alimony.

Fany M. Levigne of Hope township vs. Gerald Levigne of Hope township, is a contested divorce action.

Says Poachers Have Field Day

SUDBURY, May 30 — Sam Osborne, chairman of the Algonquin zone of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, told a zone meeting Sunday that poachers in the Sudbury district were "having a field day". Osborne blamed the Department of Lands and Forests for not replacing three game wardens who left the department this spring.

Osborne said part of a moose carcase had been found near Cartier, speckled trout had been dynamited near Chelmsford, wanton spearing of fish was district-wide, and many illegal shipments of fish were going through.

"These matters are not even investigated, for there is not an adequate staff to do it," Osborne said. "Every poacher knows the Sudbury office is without a man in the field, and they are having a field day."

The federation passed a resolution to be presented to Lands Minister Scott in which "political interference" with game wardens was decried. K. S. Clark of Copper Cliff said the new appointments were held up while department officials look for some means of gaining control over those wardens who were bothering them.

"The worst kind of political rot is going on," Clark declared.

Teletype Men Vote On UP Proposals

NEW YORK, May 30—(AP)—The United Press has offered 265 striking teletype and maintenance men a proposal to end a 29-day walkout, and the union voted on it Monday.

The company agreed to drop its demand for an open shop and to reinstate the union shop in UP bureaus across the United States.

The UP also offered a $2.21-a-week wage increase plus $2 a month to help defray the cost of employees' hospitalization and surgical insurance.

William L. Allen, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union (AFL), said the strikers' vote on the proposal probably will be complete by tonight.

Commons Enjoys Trip To Brockville

OTTAWA, May 30 (CP) — The Commons was told, Monday, how much a group of members had enjoyed a weekend visit to Brockville.

W. F. Carroll (L. Inverness-Richmond) said he had enjoyed the trip from "every viewpoint." He had gained first hand knowledge of one of the beauty spots of Ontario. The members had visited several industries and what had caught the imagination was the cleanliness of the plants both inside and out.

He extended his thanks to George Fulford (L. Leeds), who sponsored the trip, and to others who had entertained the members.

W. D. Wylie (SC, Medicine Hat) and Clarie Gillis (CCF, Cape Breton South) also expressed their appreciation.

Find Rolls-Royce Factories Vital In Defence

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

To many a person Rolls-Royce may still be simply the name of a luxury car he can scarcely hope to own.

It is that, of course, but it is also the name of the engines which powered the Spitfires, Mosquitos, Mustangs, Lancasters, of wartime—altogether 21 plane types from single-seater fighters to four-engined bombers and transports.

Before that it was the name of more than half the engines which flew in the First World War.

In the years between it was the first engine to take a plane across the Atlantic non-stop. It was the dramatic story of research, engineering and experimentation which came up in the pick of time with the Spitfire and Hurricane power plants which in 1940 saved Britain, and so, probably, the free world.

What is the story of this concern which is so tied up with Western defence — which today has its name on hundreds of commercial aircraft flying in every part of the world, including the Atlantic with Trans-Canada Air Lines, and the Pacific with Canadian Pacific Airlines?

Must Be Screened

If you visit Britain to find the answer you are not likely to be taken around Rolls-Royce, Ltd. But if you are, as were a group of Canadian writers recently, you will first be "screened" to make sure you are a satisfactory person, and even then some things won't likely be shown you.

They are that old wartime word "security," and you are asked to keep your eyes straight ahead.

But you will see that Rolls-Royce is staggered in great plants from the Midlands of England to Glasgow, Scotland — covering about 100 acres in all, employing some 25,000 people, and ready for immediate expansion should there be cause.

Great Plants

There is, for instance, the plant at Derby where aero-engines are made, a nearby research establishment. There is Hucknall in Nottinghamshire where engines are put through actual flying tests. There is Crewe where cars are built; and Glasgow where engines are overhauled.

There are engines of all kinds —present-day pistons, and the jets and turbo-jets of the future.

Once, during the war, the company said it needed a credit "without interference" for the development of a tank engine. Lord Beaverbrook replied:

"British Government has given you an open credit of £1,000,000 —this is a certificate of character and reputation without precedent or equal."

Sues For Divorce

LOS ANGELES, May 30 (AP) —John H. Grant, accused of trying to kill his wife and children by planting a bomb on an airliner was sued for divorce Monday. Grant is awaiting trial for attempted murder. Mrs. Betty Grant, 26, charged her 32-year-old husband with adultery and extreme cruelty. She asks custody of their two children.

"THANK YOU, BRITAIN"—In a letter to Prime Minister Attlee, Winnipeg's Mayor Grant Coulter says "thank you" for the load of relief supplies brought to Winnipeg May 27 by a British Stratocruiser. The Bundles from Britain, destined for the relief of those made destitute by the flooding Red River, were the first of $310,000 worth of aid donated by British residents to Manitoba. The plane left on its 4,000-mile return trip Saturday.

Warns Some Drinkers 'Tread Dangerously'

CAMPBELLFORD, May 30 — (ENS)—Dr. C. A. Bright was guest speaker at the Rotary Club meeting Monday in the Parish Hall. Dr. Bright spoke about the effects of alcohol on the nervous system. He told of the various stages of drunkenness in an alcoholic's return to a child-like level.

"Many persons abuse the use of alcohol because it is so commonly used and do not realize the dangerous ground on which they are treading", said Dr. Bright. He outlined the differences between the normal and the abnormal drinker.

Dr. W. W. Baker moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and President Charles Calver also thanked Dr. Bright on behalf of the club.

A number of members of the local club are going to Bigwin Inn on Thursday to take part in the Rotary conference to be held there.

Rotarian Bill Hogle gave a report on some concrete plans that have been made for the Manitoba and Rimouski Relief Funds. The Rotary Club is going to act more or less as a central committee for all clubs and organizations which are raising money for these two disaster funds. The club is supporting a program which will be presented at a local theatre in the near future.

Will Retrace Old Fur Trail

VANCOUVER, Wash., May 30 —(AP). — The Rev. John W. Beard of Portland, Ore., left here Monday for Canada to retrace a 3,000-mile Hudson's Bay Company fur trail.

Beard, whose specialty is retracing historic routes of pioneer days, will be accompanied by Joe Kirkwood, 17, Hood River, Ore.

The journey will be by canoe, the same 17-foot cedar canoe that Beard earlier used to travel the length of the Columbia and Missouri Rivers. In another trip two years ago, Beard and his wife retraced by horseback the old Oregon Trail from Portland to Kansas.

The two will start this time in Jasper National Park in Western Alberta, travelling down the Saskatchewan River to The Pas, through Lake Winnipeg, Lake of the Woods, and Rainy Lake to Fort William.

Then they will canoe on the Ottawa River to Montreal and on to Riviere du Loup in Quebec, the birthplace of John McLoughlin, Hudson's Bay factor who was prominent in early Oregon history.

Beard, retired Presbyterian pastor, expects to complete the journey in late September.

Review Chances Easing Tension

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP) —President Truman and State Secretary Acheson Monday reviewed prospects of easing tensions of the cold war in conferences with Trygve Lie, United Nations Secretary-General. However, no immediate hint of progress was forthcoming.

Lie, just back from a peace-making mission to Moscow and other capitals, is seeking a way out of the current east-west deadlock in the UN over the admission of Communist China. The disagreement led to a walkout by the Soviet bloc.

With Acheson at his side, Truman had a 25-minute meeting with Lie at the White House.

Earlier, Acheson had a more protracted conference with the secretary-general at the State Department.

All put a "confidential" label on the talks.

Anomaly In Liquor Law Penalties

Yesterday a man was charged in Peterborough magistrate's court with illegal possession of liquor for the second time within the year. Actually, he had been discovered with part of a bottle of whisky in his pocket. He was not drunk. The minimum penalty was imposed: three months in jail. Although that seems to be a stiff minimum penalty, we are not here questioning the severity of the law, but the discrepancy between this penalty and that imposed for a second offence of drunkenness, under the same Act—the Liquor Control Act of Ontario. To be drunk in a public place seems to us a greater crime against society than to be found with a bottle. Yet the minimum penalty for a second offence of drunkenness within a year is a fifty dollar fine. Only if a person is found guilty of being drunk in a public place three times within the year is the minimum penalty a jail term (three months).

• • •

Here are the comparable minimum penalties under the Liquor Control Act: Drunkenness, first offence, $10 or ten days; second offence, $50 or one month. Illegal Possession, first offence, $10 or one month; second offence, three months. There are two remarkable discrepancies in severity—the penalty in default of paying a $10 fine for illegal possession is one month; in default of a $10 fine imposed for drunkenness it is ten days; secondly, the offender guilty twice of illegal possession has no option of a fine. He must go to jail for three months.

• • •

There is another oddity. A man who has been found guilty of drunkenness, and within the year is found guilty of illegal possession, is charged as a second offender under the Act, but the minimum penalty is the minimum penalty for the lesser charge of the two: fifty dollars or two months in jail.

The scale of minimum penalties for these offences seems to need revision.

Where Is Senate Reform Needed?

In our Third Column today we print an editorial from the Kingston Whig-Standard which says several things which badly needed saying about Senate reform. "Reform the Senate" has been a favourite—and safe—battlecry for Liberal and Conservative leaders for half a century: it is popular because it is easy to pretend that there is something undemocratic about a governing body which is not elected, and it is safe because it can always be put aside in favour of more pressing business. But fully three-quarters of everything that is said about Senate reform is nonsense.

Not that the Senate does not need reform. It might be wise to put a limitation on the age of Senators, or to make their appointments open to re-consideration every seven years. It would be a good thing if the Senate were spared the necessity to act as a divorce court for Quebec, which is too pious to support such a horror on its own soil. And it would be a good thing if some of the Senate's committee work were done right in the Senate Chamber, for then the public would have a chance to see what it is that the Senate really does. If the sixty-odd alterations which the Senate made in the Foreign Exchange Control Bill had been made public, the people of Canada would have had a chance to see how much bad legislation is spared them as a result of consideration in the second chamber.

The method of appointing Senators, is not altogether a bad one. Judges and K.C.'s are not chosen by elections; why should Senators be so chosen? In the U.S.A. we see the results of election-mania. Elections very readily become popularity contests, and so long as the Commons is elective the country is safeguarded against government by clique. The Senate's chief job is to protect the country against Commons carelessness and Cabinet enthusiasms. Any reform which is made in the Senate should strengthen its hand in that extremely important direction.

A Pension For A Nuisance

One of the things that we like about politics in democracies is that they are comparatively free from rancour. An instance of this is the decision of the British House of Commons to give a pension of £200 to Willie Gallacher, a leading Communist since 1920 and Communist member for West Fife from 1935 until his defeat in the last General Election. Willie is about seventy, he is sick, and he is on his uppers; out of a private fund Parliament has given him enough to keep him from want.

Now Willie Gallacher has been an infernal nuisance for the past thirty years. As a Communist M.P. he was obstructive, tiresome and insulting. It was his professed desire to destroy Parliament and all it stands for. There is no logical reason whatever why Parliament should give him anything or even send a wreath of red roses to his funeral.

But Willie is sick and in want, and his necessity is his only claim upon the attention of the institution which he encumbered for so long. And that claim has brought him the assistance which the Communist Party apparently has not seen fit to give him.

There is nothing really wrong with a country where Willie Gallacher can get a handout from Parliament. We do wonder, however, if a needy Conservative or Liberal or Labour man could have received the same kindly attention. There is a tendency in democracies to nurse the viper in the bosom and to permit the lamb to freeze.

Divided Germany

The Allied and Soviet world was at war with the whole Germany. Now Germany is partitioned. The Soviet Union has accepted East Germany as a puppet ally and possible friend. The western nations have given West Germany tokens of friendship and alliance. Now East and West, former allies against a common enemy, have halved the former enemy and taken the two parts into their respective antagonistic folds. But let it not be forgotten that the nation now separately received by the two power camps, was only ten years ago powerful and united. It is inconceivable that the two halves of the same family tree will forget their common nationality and put paternal Russia or paternal U.S.A. foremost in their hearts and plans. The German aim is to reunite Germany. Will they play off the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. to achieve that purpose?

Th Foreign Ministers of Britain, France and the U.S.A., who met last fortnight in London prior to the larger conference have officially declared that "peaceful reunification" of Germany remains "the ultimate object" of Western policy. But they have given notice, in diplomatic language, that they will not go to war to uphold the claim to German unity. On the other hand, they are not willing to see Germany Russified in order that it may become united. The West will permit the recovery of Germania irredenta only as an extension of the West German federal republic. United Germany is an ultimate western aim; and West Germany has been told that the immediate German aim cannot be union. The western powers will not allow themselves to be stewed in a pan-German pot.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A British firm has made a brief-case out of an elephant's ear. The ideal gift for the forgetful business man.

A Miss Nightingale has qualified as a nurse at a Windsor hospital. And with that name a special devotion to duty will be expected from her.

A cleric says that woman makes a fool of herself when she imitates man. Man, of course, doesn't have to imitate anybody.

A Swiss woman committed suicide recently because she could not master the English language. Our High School and university types have thus far kept their humiliation within reasonable bounds.

One of our Members of Parliament has described the Dean of Canterbury as "a hairy old goat." Ah, the exquisite wit and daring of our parliamentarians when, protected by privilege, they attack somebody who is not in the House to reply to them!

An article in the Ottawa Journal says that "Wolves mate once for life, are good parents, protective and kind; they are brave, intelligent and dignified animals." With a testimonial like this in his hand a wolf has only to put on pants to be invited to join the Chamber of Commerce.

The Old, Old Cry For Senate Reform

From THE KINGSTON-WHIG STANDARD

WHEN George Drew, Leader of the Opposition, and other members on that side of the House of Commons call ringingly for reform of the Senate, they raise a cry often heard during the past half century. They know they may do so safely, with little fear of hurtful criticism should they win to power and then fail themselves to reform the Senate, for that precedent has been firmly established. We are sure Mr. Drew and some of those who join him in crying reform know this, but for obvious reasons refrain from mentioning it, and we think the long record of Canadian political leaders who advocated reform of the Senate should be widely publicized.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE may begin the record with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, prior to the general election of 1896. At that time, he called for drastic reform at the Senate. When his party was elected to power in 1896, reform quickly became a forgotten issue, although there was a Conservative majority in the Senate. Incidentally, this Conservative majority, during the first years of the Laurier regime, rejected the Yukon Railway Bill, thus reserving for the Senate the right to kill a Governmental measure. And, as Prime Minister, Sir Wilfrid appointed Liberals to Senatorial vacancies.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIR Robert Borden was the next leader to advocate reform of the Senate—while in Opposition. Then he led the Conservative Party to victory in the famous reciprocity election of 1911. No subsequent effort was made to reform the Senate. The entire issue was ignored by the Government. And Sir Robert appointed Conservatives to Senatorial vacancies.

✧ ✧ ✧

MACKENZIE King was a strong advocate of Senate reform in his early days as leader of the Liberal Party. However, when he led that party into power in the general election of 1921, the precedent was again sustained. The issue of Senate reform was dropped. And Mr. King appointed Liberals to Senatorial vacancies.

✧ ✧ ✧

RICHARD Bedford Bennett, later Viscount Bennett, pleaded for reform of the Senate with characteristic fluency and vigour—while in Opposition. Then he led the Conservative triumph of 1930. History repeated itself—most emphatically. Mr. Bennett refrained from mentioning the matter of reform. And he appointed Conservatives to Senatorial vacancies. In fact, he set something of a record by appointing nineteen of them in one day, prior to the general election of 1935, in order to ensure a Conservative majority in that Chamber, no matter how the party fared at the polls.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE suggest that there would be very little risk in making a wager that if Mr. Drew led the Progressive Conservative party to power in the next general election, he and his supporters would forget about any reform measures for the Senate. And there would not be even a shadow of a risk in wagering that one reform urged—the appointment of members of the Opposition—would be dropped like the proverbial hot potato. Even if Mr. Drew were impractical enough to attempt it, the party would never allow it, and we believe Mr. Drew knows it well.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE do not contend the Senate is perfect, or that certain revisions of its constitution might not be found desirable in future. But most of the cries for reform heard in the Commons are merely attempts to make political capital. As such, they are quite legitimate, as long as Canadians generally are able to recognize them for what they really are. We believe Senator G. H. Ross of Calgary helped greatly toward such recognition and served the nation well on Thursday when he launched a formal move for reform of the House of Commons. The Liberal Senator from Calgary was joined in this campaign by the Progressive Conservative leader, Senator John T. Haig of Winnipeg, who described the Commons as a "merry-go-round" of talk.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT cannot be too strongly emphasized that the Senate is as much a part of the Canadian Parliament as the House of Commons. Indeed, as Senator Ross pointed out, it is a much more carefully constituted Chamber than the House, for the Fathers of Confederation were most painstaking in setting up the Senate, but took little time over the Commons. Because of their care, the Senate has made, and is making, an invaluable contribution to government in Canada, as a guardian of the rights of provinces and minorities and—to quote Senator Ross again—a body "less dependent on the fancies of the electorate" consequently with greater independence of action in dealing with legislation.

Edmonton's Growth

(Edmonton Journal)

Since early in the war, Edmonton's mid-summer census announcements have shown the population advances indicated in this tabulation of sample years:

Year	Population	Gain	Per cent. Gain
1942-43	105,536	9,813	10.2
1943-44	108,414	2,878	2.7
1947-48	126,609	8,068	6.8
1948-49	137,469	10,860	8.6

The huge gain recorded for 1942-43 resulted from the American "invasion." It was not approached until 1947-48 when oil development was beginning to boost the population, and this ultra-important factor produced a still higher record gain, as the table shows in the last census year. Another large advance is expected to be revealed by the current census, city officials anticipating around 150,000 as the total that will be announced this mid-summer. This would involve a gain of about 12,500 or approximately nine per cent., which would establish another record. In view of the growing influx of workers seeking employment in oil pipeline and refinery construction, however, that estimate may prove conservative.

SERENADING THE NEIGHBORS

Acheson Returns To Fight Smear Campaign

From NORA BELOFF
In Washington

IT is a tragic paradox now that Secretary Acheson has returned from Europe, where he has contributed so much to the Western cause in the cold war, his first and foremost task will be fight the spreading impression that he and his subordinates are "sold out" to the East.

These outlandish accusations that the State Department is shielding Communists in its midst started several weeks before the Secretary of State left for the London Conference. They have unquestionably grown in public credence during Acheson's absence. The author of the charges was Republican Senator Joe McCarthy who at intervals within the last couple of months has publicly and variously said there were 203, 59 and 87 card-carrying Communist Party members inside the State Department. In so doing he has effectively risen from the obscurity of a back-bencher to become today's most talked-of American.

At first his charges seemed to many seasoned and conservative Republicans a trifle wild; they chose to remain silent and non-committal. Within the last two or three weeks many of those who were keeping their ears to the ground before taking a public stand have plumped for McCarthy. They include several Republicans who are running for re-election this autumn and now believe this is a splendid way of discrediting Truman Democrats.

This conviction was first based on letters from voters. This week it had a boost from Dr. Gallup's public opinion poll. Pollsters asked a sample section of the American public whether they believed Senator McCarthy's charges did more harm than good, as President Truman himself has suggested, or more good than harm; twenty-nine per cent. thought them good; the rest didn't know. A poll was also taken of college-educated Americans; here forty-one agreed with Truman but forty-six thought the charges useful.

Repetition and colourful language rather than intrinsic proof has been the technique employed to smear the Secretary of State and his Department. So much mud has been slung that some of it couldn't fail to stick even though the current investigation of the charges by a special Senate sub-committee has not so far given hard backing to any of the McCarthy charges. Along with public allegations of Communism, there have been hints and allusions to sexual perversion and immorality among diplomatic and State Department officials. Though these are less often the subject of public oratory they are probably even more effective in the simultaneous whispering campaign directed against the same targets.

On the very evening Acheson left for his European mission, his antagonist Joe McCarthy got on to the radio with a speech of which the following phrases are typical: "The days of dilettante diplomacy are running out on Acheson and his fancy comrades of the Kremlin. Sugared phrases in a British accent are fine for Washington teas. But this isn't a tea party. Put some men with grass-roots common sense in charge of the State Department and watch America go."

Unhindered by severe libel laws which would prevent a similar campaign in Britain, the more slanderous the invective the bigger the headlines. Anyone who risks standing up in Acheson's defence also risks being "exposed" as part of the alleged Communist conspiracy; very few Congressmen have risked this electoral liability.

I understand that plans have already prepared for a counter-attack immediately Acheson returns to Washington. In a series of speeches by President Truman, Secretary Acheson and their advisors an appeal will be launched to the American people. They will be reminded of the imperative need to close their ranks and unite against external dangers, and will be warned that unless the Western democracies move steadily, confidently and collectively forward, the cold war threatens to turn into a hot one.

✧ ✧ ✧

Thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become vain? For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water. (Jer. 2: 5, 13.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts. (Isa. 55: 8, 9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Many, O Lord my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered. (Ps. 40: 5.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The big business man had died and gone to—well, not to Heaven. But hardly had he settled down for a nice long smoke when a hearty hand slapped him on the back, and into his ear boomed the voice of a persistent salesman who had pestered him on earth.

"Well, Mr. Smith," chortled the salesman, "I'm here for the appointment."

"What appointment?"

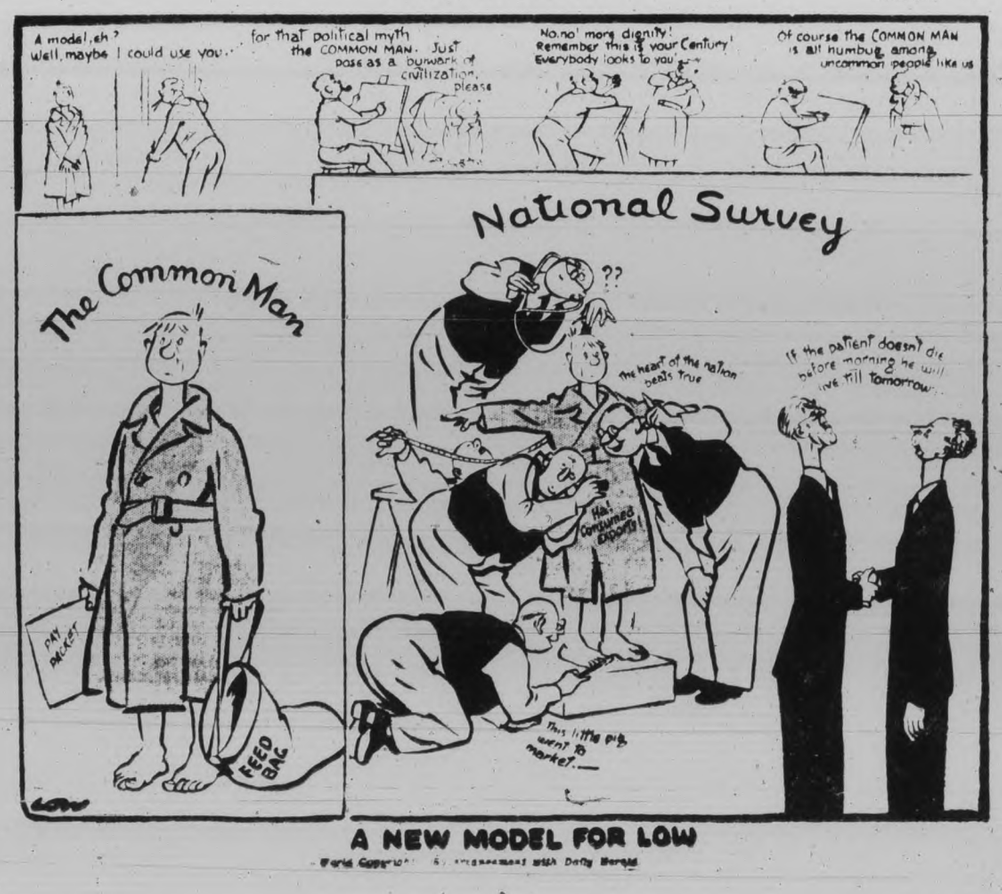
"Why don't you remember," the salesman went on. "Every time I entered your office on earth you told me you'd see me here."

✧ ✧ ✧

Nobody seemed to take much notice of Brown. He tried to get in a word now and then, but somebody with a stronger voice always took command of the conversation.

At last the talk turned on the subject of dogs, and Brown felt sure that his chance would come, for he owned a dog of which he was proud.

"There are some dogs," remarked Robinson, "that have more intelligence than their masters."



"That's quite right," said Brown. "I've got one like that."

✧ ✧ ✧

A beggar knocked unsuspectingly at the door of the village policeman. The door opened and, with head bent, the beggar started telling the tale.

"I didn't eat yesterday," he whined, "and I haven't eaten today." He raised his eyes and noticed blue-uniformed legs. "And," he ended, "I don't care a hang if I don't eat tomorrow either!"

New Toronto Defeats Petes By 5 to 1 In Eight Innings

New Toronto took over undisputed possession of top spot in the Viaduct Baseball League at home last night by beating the Petes 5-1 in a game called for darkness in the eighth inning. It was the second loss so far this season for the Petes in six starts and leaves them in a second-place tie with Toronto Aces. Dalton and Brown couldn't make the trip, and the infield was shifted around, with Al Clark back in diamond livery after an absence of several years.

The Petes came up with a rather poor showing this time, being unable to hit in the clutches—as 11 men were left stranded even though they outhit the winners 11 to 10. They were also wobbly in the infield and committed six errors to hand New Toronto two unearned runs. Cold weather and a rough infield added to their trouble, but a pitcher named Bouchard also bothered them some. He bore down in the pinches and had good backing most of the way. Bill Edger was slow warming up and he didn't get the support.

Led The Hitters

Valliere had a double and single in three to top the homesters at the plate. Hosking and Gorman clouting two for four each. Hosking and Kitchen hit triples. Dadson, Wilson and Stewart had two hits in four times each, and Dadson belted a long homer to centre for the Murphyites' lone counter. A twin killing by New Toronto and a running catch in deep left by Estlick were defensive features of a fair fray.

A walk to Hastings and a triple by Hosking in the first meant one run, and it was 2-0 in the third when Hosking singled, moved up on Kitchen's sacrifice, took third on a hit by Valliere and raced in on an out. They added a brace in the fifth on a triple by Kitchen, a two-bagger by Valliere, a steal and an error. Their last one came in the seventh on a miscue, single by Gastrell and a bingle by Gorman. Dadson's homer came with none aboard in the sixth.

The Petes left two and three runners on the paths in five of the innings, lacking that payoff clout before the third out. They kicked on a couple of decisions by the umpires, one when a double play wasn't counted and again when an out was called on a dropped foul tick.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Lloyd Percival, coach of Sports College, debunks the idea that an athlete needs a steak before a big game or meet to give him brawn and endurance. In a piece for Chatelaine he says: "Eat oranges and honey before the game. These foods give you energy and counteract fatigue acids in the stomach. After the game is over, have your big beef dinner." He advises teamwork in the family, with the parents and others encouraging a young athlete to have the right diet while in training. Pro clubs and college teams usually go in for training diet tables to start a season, and boxers in the big time have their food properly balanced before fights.

* * * * * *

Personally, we like meat and lots of it. A roast chicken stuffed with another one suits us fine. And we'll even eat meat for dessert if given any encouragement. However, we're not in training for any gruelling grind on gridiron, lacrosse pitch, ice surface or ball diamond. Most athletes realize the importance of not over-eating shortly before a game, saving their appetites for a battle with the steak after the contest is over. And it is a fact that oranges, honey and such seem to perk a person up for a time. Channel swimmers and trackmen often suck on a lump of sugar during competition. A French tennis star, Suzanne Lenglen, liked a lick of champagne before a match, though we doubt if that's practical.

Too Much And Too Late

In one of the senior "B" puck finals with Brantford last season, the Legionnaires left late on the long trip and arrived at a spot not too far from Brantford, ahead of Coach Jim Ellis. Hungry, they sat down and polished off hefty meals. The result was, that they were slow on the ice and took a sound thumping before they could get untracked. After that, they ate well in advance of game time on those trips. One has to agree with Lloyd's advice when it comes to eats, that is if one wants to make a real showing in sports. And also learn to relax every possible minute when not actually in the thick of the fight. Joe DiMaggio says he learned this lesson from Ty Cobb, saving every ounce of energy for the game itself.

* * * * * *

Following their 5-1 setback at New Toronto last eve, the Petes are tied with Toronto Aces for second spot in the Viaduct Loop, the New Torontos heading the pack. Men o' Murphy were short Dalton and Brown, and also a bit off their fine form of previous games. That cold lake breeze made it tough for Bill Edger to get warmed up and it numbed some players' fingers, too, as they were loose defensively. New Toronto clicked well in the box and hit in more timely fashion to earn the duke, this squad having dropped but one in seven starts. But the Petes feel they can take this team next meeting, and we agree. Wilson, Dadson and Stewart each had two hits in four tries, and Estlick pulled off a beautiful catch in deep left.

Quite A Close Squeak

Ashby's were lucky enough to eke out an 8-7 girls' softball win o'er Woollens at the Bowl yester gloaming. A good game with the victors coming through in the 10th on M. Freeman's homer after two were out. Ashby's have a good club, so that speaks well for the future of the young Woollens, who will improve as they go along. The other joust was rained out in the third with CGE riding high on a 4-0 lead over Marines. R. Boyce had four strikeouts up to that point, and the Electrics did not welcome the dew at all. They won an exhibition 5-4 in Cobourg a few days back. Games tomorrow: Westclox vs. Woollens, and Ashby's vs. Marines.

* * * * * *

It's off to Weston tonight for the Petes' lacrossers in senior "A" competition, with Mimico coming here for the Friday night fixture. The locals' win over Hamilton Tigers to open the schedule surprised a lot of folks around the circuit and their rivals will all be gunning for 'em now. We see where that husky gridder, Oneschuk, who was such a tower of strength for St. Kitts in their playoff here with PCVS last autumn, is playing the gutted-stick game now for the Athletics. In minor lacrosse, there's an open bantam drill at 6.30 tonight, while the midgets and juves go Wednesday at seven. Also, a practice game betwixt the juniors and seniors at seven Thursday eve.

* * * * * *

Down Sports' Rialto

Men's softball frays tonight in the Bowl, starting at seven: Orphans vs. UEW, and Mutuals vs. East City. Woollens and Canoe Co. won fastball frays last twilight. Mark St. and May's took school victories yester aft. Quakers play Rays tomorrow at Brinton, as Westclox meets Canoe Co. at Quaker. Don't forget the intermediate baseball tilt at 6.30 tomorrow night in Riverside, Port Hope playing the Petes. Equipment for the lights there has arrived and it won't be long now. Minor ballsters should be shaping up shortly for their season. Saw a couple of old Peterborough boys in New Toronto last p.m., Bill Moher and George Henry. Hastings plays the junior East City Braves at 8.30 p.m. Saturday in the Bowl. Petes have an Ontario Cup elimination with UEW on Saturday in King Edward Park at three; night games commence next week. UEW team treks to Ottawa on June 17. Many softballers still run outside that three-foot line when a play is being made at first. Lefty Bill Dadson's arm is improving and he'll be pitching again shortly. To be continued.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Dr. David F. Tracy, New York psychologist, said Monday at St. Louis he is severing his connection with St. Louis Browns.

Dr. Tracy was hired by the American League ball club last spring to boost the players' confidence and morale through the application of psychology. He was engaged after the Browns finished seventh last year. Today they are in last place.

Dr. Tracy blamed "lack of cooperation from the management" for his failure to help the club.

"It has been my experience during the last three months that I can do much for a ball club, and I would like to join another club," Dr. Tracy told reporters. "But I can accept a position only under the circumstances that I get better co-operation from the management."

Dr. Tracy said the club's officials would not let him speak to the players before a game "at any time after the start of the season." He believed that through these pre-game talks he could inspire each player to do his best and instil a winning spirit into the team as a whole.

Major league hockey's two Canadian rivals, Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens, will play a return baseball game at Toronto Sunday, June 11, with the entire gate receipts to go to the Manitoba Flood Relief fund.

Howie Meeker, Leafs' playing manager, said Monday his club had challenged Canadiens to a return game and Frank Selke, boss of the Habitants, quickly accepted. Canadiens edged Leafs 13-12 in a benefit game Sunday. The contest at Montreal attracted more than 12,000 spectators and raised more than $6,000 for the victims of a $20,000,000 fire at Rimouski, Que.

The return game will be played at Maple Leaf Stadium, home of the Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League, said Meeker. The Stadium has been donated free for the occasion.

Ted (The Slasher) Atkinson on Monday staged a spectacular one-man riding show at New York's Belmont Park, booting home five straight winners before he was beaten by a neck in the seventh race.

A bettor, parlaying a $2 wager on the 34-year-old Toronto jockey in the five races, would have cleaned up $19,161, plus a few pennies.

Counting his victory on Ethel Terry, his last mount Saturday, the string Monday gave Atkinson a stretch of six straight winners.

Racegoers recalled a similar two-day feat by Atkinson at Aqueduct in 1944. Atkinson rode winners in the last two races Sept. 15 and the first five the next day for a streak of seven.

Art Halliwell, president of the Ulster United soccer team in the National League has resigned, it was announced at Toronto Monday. No reason for his resignation was given and a successor has not yet been named.

St. Catharines Athletics took the measure of Hamilton Tigers 11-9 Monday night at Hamilton in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game. Tony D'Amico led the way for Athletics with three goals while Mary McKenzie netted a trio for the losers.

Woollens Drop Close One In 10th Frame

Ashby's edged out Woollens 8-7 in the 10th at the Bowl last night in a fine Girls' Softball League fixture, the only game played as rain washed out the CGE-Marines' tilt in the third with Electrics in front 4-0. Ashby's were lucky enough to defeat the much-improved Woollens' juniors, the latter failing to hit in the clutches in the close contest.

The winners were held to nine hits by L. Derry, who fanned five, as they themselves got 14 safeties off two Ashby pitchers. Passed balls also affected the score. M. Freeman got the winning home run in the 10th, she and B. Callan going well throughout. C. Ferguson and J. McIlwain shone for Woollens, the former banging out three home runs. E. McFadden had two hits for Ashby's, as L. Jordon and M. Freeman belted four-baggers. Teams:

Delay Plan To Raise Signing Age To 18

MONTREAL, May 30 (CP)—A proposal to raise the signing age for professional hockey players from 16 to 18 has been put off until the American League holds its annual meeting June 13, Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said today.

He said the decision was reached Monday during a closed meeting of four professional leagues—the NHL, AHL, Pacific Coast and United States.

All the leagues with the exception of the AHL favored the proposal but the decision must be unanimous, therefore it was laid over until June 13.

The NHL annual meeting takes place today.

Woollens Victorious Against Mt. Pleasant

Woollens won a 12-10 fast ball fray from Mount Pleasant last night at the Quaker diamond, scored a brace of runs each in the second and fifth frames, one each in the third and sixth, with six counting in a big fourth inning. The visitors were in the hunt all the way with three crossing the platter in the second, one each in the third, seventh and ninth, and two apiece in the fifth and eighth. They had a runner left on third at the end. Teams:

Pictured here are Tom and Joyce Harper and their pooch, in whose name the ticket was registered.

Hastings Triumphs

HASTINGS, May 30—(ENS)—Hastings Legion 106 defeated Stirling to open the Trent Valley League.

Both teams played tight ball, but Hastings had the edge in pitching and their hitting was more timely. West went the route for Hastings, giving up nine scattered hits and getting eight on strikes. He was given fine support and the team looked real good for their first appearance.

Smith started on the mound for Stirling, and after giving up a run in the first innings, settled away, and kept Legion off the score sheet until the fifth when they combined three hits and a walk for three more runs. Legion added one more in the seventh, and completed the scoring in the eighth with two more. Rogers relieved in the ninth and after giving up a hit to Scriver, set the next three batters down on strikes. Stirling play a return game in Hastings on Friday night to open the season here.

DON'T NEGLECT CUTS OR BRUISES

No matter how trifling a cut or bruise may seem to you, it should be given immediate first-aid treatment. This keeps out foreign matter and allows normal healing. Infection, in even minor wounds, can cause serious complications, lead to needless suffering and expense. Always keep a first-aid kit handy and know how to use it. Fightin' Phils Meet Brooks With Margin

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If anybody were to predict a couple of months ago that Philadelphia Phils would come into Brooklyn today as the National League leaders, he'd probably be regarded as nothing more than a Philly fanatic.

But here it is May 30, Memorial Day in the United States, and those fightin' Phils are sitting on the roof of the standings, enjoying a half-game margin on the defending champion Dodgers.

The amazing part of the Phillies' showing is that they've done it with a minimum of help from Russ Meyer and Ken Heintzelman, the two pitching mainstays of 1949's third-place outfit.

Responsible for the Phils's success are a pair of 23-year-old bonus players—Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons. Each has won six games while losing only two. Roberts won 12 games all last season while Simmons won only four.

The Phils now boast a mark of 22-13. They have the best road record of any club in the circuit with 12 victories against seven losses. The Dodgers have a 9-9 road rating.

Also Threatening

Also threatening are St. Louis Cardinals who can climb on the backs of the leaders with a twin triumph in Pittsburgh. The Cards trail the Phils by 1½ games. Rounding out the National League schedule, fourth-place Boston, three games off the pace, meets the seventh-place Giants at Braves field.

In the American League the inability of the Boston Red Sox to win sufficiently on the road is keeping them from the top rung. As the Red Sox prepared to face the front-running Yankees in New York in a doubleheader, Joe McCarthy's men showed only a 10-10 road record.

The Red Sox are in third place, three lengths behind the Yanks, because they're still almost unbeatable at home. They've won 14 of 20 at Fenway Park.

Tigers Best

The second-place Detroit Tigers are the best road club in the American League so far this season. While playing under .500 ball at home (7-8), the Benzals have won 14 of 17 away from home. The Yankees, boasting a two-game bulge on the Tigers, have a 14-4 mark on the road and a 10-6 record at home.

Detroit plays host to the fourth-place Cleveland Indians. The Tribe, three games over the .500 mark, are 5½ games off the pace.

In other American League doubleheaders, Bucky Harris' astonishing Washington Senators meet the Athletics in Philadelphia while St. Louis Browns are hosts to Chicago White Sox.

In the only big league game played Monday, Chicago White Sox came up with six runs in the last two innings to come from behind and outlast St. Louis Browns 12-8. Phil Masi, veteran White Sox catcher, drove in five runs with a single and triple.

Royals Trounce Buffalo 6-4

By The Associated Press

Montreal Royals must rate with the most spirited clubs in the International League.

After losing four straight games, and the league lead, to Rochester, the Royals bounced back Monday night to whip Buffalo 6-4. They failed to pick up any ground on Rochester, however, as the Red Wings blanked Toronto 2-0. As a result, Rochester, with a red-hot, 10-game winning streak, still tops Montreal by 1½ games.

At Buffalo, the Royals capitalized on rookie Lynn Lovenguth's wildness for four runs in the third inning, and the ball game.

Lovenguth issues three walks to load the bases and Lou Welaj capped the uprising with a three-run triple. Al Epperly, in relief, picked up his fifth victory.

Bill Reeder hurled five-hit ball against Toronto. The Rochester righthander walked three and struck out four. Hal Rice countered one of the Royals' tallies with a homer in the first inning, his seventh.

The Springfield-Jersey City, Syracuse-Baltimore tilts were rained out.

Only One Man Has Sailed Around N. America, Mountie Adventurous

By JOE MacSWEEN

HALIFAX, May 30. (CP)—There is just one man in the world who has sailed around the North American Continent. He is a Canadian Mountie, and he finished the job Monday.

Sgt. Frederick Sleigh Farrar gazed upon Polar bears and beautiful senoritas from the deck of the same vessel — the RCMP supply ship St. Roch. The small ship arrived here Monday to be the first in history to sail around North America.

She battered her way through the Northwest Passage—for many adventurous years the goal of sea-dogs—and then sailed southward to the Panama Canal. The trip took her from Halifax to Vancouver to Halifax.

The sergeant, as well as his commander and other members of the 15-man crew, regarded the whole thing as a routine voyage. The southern part was particularly tame. "It's much more exciting in the Arctic."

Commanding the St. Roch is Inspector K. W. N. Hall, Halifax, handsome, 40-year-old veteran of the Canadian Navy, who is planning another trip to northern waters within the next two months. All other crew members are Nova Scotians.

Want Pay

Their main interest when they arrived was "Where's my pay?" They were royally entertained at many ports on their southern trip, and "all this is sort of tough on the pocketbook of a Mountie."

Sgt. Farrar, 49, mate on the St. Roch, was born in Liverpool, England, and now makes his home in Ottawa. He is the only member of the crew who made the trip both ways—the others made only a one-way trip between Vancouver and Halifax.

The record of the 104-foot St. Roch is one of adventure. Built at Vancouver, she began her career serving the western Arctic. Frozen in during winter, her crew would become a land detachment and carry out long patrols among the Eskimos.

The St. Roch left Vancouver in 1940 and arrived here two years later, after spending more than 11 months fast in the Arctic. The east-west voyage through the ice wilderness started in July, 1944, from here and ended at the west coast in October of the same year —a fast trip because the ship encountered little solid ice.

After a period of Arctic patrols, the St. Roch sailed from Esquimalt, BC, for Halifax, this time by way of the Panama Canal—a trip that took only 41 days for the vessel with the sauces-like bottom, built for breaking ice.

More Adventurous

Although the last saga of the St. Roch story is the more apparently spectacular because it finishes the circumnavigation job, the earlier part was more adventurous, Sgt. Farrar said.

He spoke of blizzards, uncharted reefs, 24-hour daily soundings over jagged rocks and of being caught in ice. Sometimes the crew prepared to abandon ship when she seemed about to turn turtle or be crushed.

A veteran of the First World War and of the revolution in Russia, the Sergeant says: "Oh well, such is life. We see Polar Bears and lovely senoritas. You don't expect always to have a picnic when you go along with adventure."

Suggests Grants For Old Age

OTTAWA, May 30 — (CP). — A plan for care of Canada's aged through a system of outright annual grants to the provinces was suggested Monday to the Joint Parliamentary Committee on old-age security.

Dr. Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa welfare expert, told the committee it should not confine thinking on old-age security to strictly the Federal sphere.

She advised the committee not to "rush at solutions," said it was her belief no matter what sort of system was worked out there "will have to be a means test somewhere."

Then she came up with these ideas:

1—Make the qualifying age 65 years. Then on the basis of the latest census, pay each province an outright grant of $200 a year for every person 65 or over within its borders and leave old-age security up to the provinces.

2—Take a page from the legislation of Quebec and finance old-age security through a tax on alcoholic beverages and race track takings.

3—Possibly take immediate steps to put housing and health for the aged on the same basis as the Dominion - Provincial health plan and lift the old-age pension ceiling by perhaps $10.

drunken drivers killed five times as many persons as did murderers.

Too Many Acquittals

The minimum sentence for drunken driving was seven days and many of those accused were acquitted because it was difficult for the Crown to establish guilt. He urged that at least the "breath test" be inaugurated by Canada to facilitate the conviction of the guilty.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said he hoped that "serious consideration will be given to an amendment to the Criminal Code that will make the slaughter on a scale that is comparable with war casualties such a crime that it could really be dealt with."

The day brought these other developments:

1. Prime Minister St Laurent reporting on recent visits to fire-scarred Rimouski and Cabano, Que., said an estimated 3,000 persons were left homeless by the fires. Federal aid will be extended when extent of the damage has been determined.

2. In another division, members voted 93 to 33 against a Progressive Conservative motion for production of depositions and evidence taken before the income tax appeal board between an appellant identified as "Mr. C" and the revenue minister. The case involved an unidentified judge who appealed against assessment of income tax on $15,000 paid him as a Royal commissioner.

3. Three international conventions were ratified and third and final reading was given to bills amending the Customs Act, the Tariff Board Act and the National Parks Act.

In the Criminal-Code debate, Mr. Diefenbaker also suggested abolition of provisions under which a person who could not pay a fine was sent to jail. For those who were poor, this meant that a fine was a "passport to prison." The time had come for Canada to do away with that provision. As an alternative, he proposed that a system of "instalment" payment of fines be established.

He chided Mr. Garson for bringing in minor amendments when major changes were needed.

One of the amendments repealed a section which prohibited firearms and liquor in the neighborhood of public works. Mr. Garson said the section was obsolete and had not been used since 1928. Other sections of the Code had been found adequate to deal with the maintenance of peace in camps at public works projects.

Doesn't Want Repeal

Mr. Drew expressed belief that the section should not be repealed. The section could deal with the type of public works where one or two men could put hundreds or thousands of people out of work simply by sabotage of great producing enterprises. The sabotage of electrical plants would be one of the first acts of those who would seek to destroy the economy of the country.

Mr. Garson replied that the section had nothing to do with sabotage.

"The way of dealing with sabotage comes under an entirely different branch of the law, and on the proper occasion we shall be glad to go in great detail into the question of the provisions now available to prevent sabotage," said Mr. Garson.

Another amendment would do away with provisions requiring the re-registration of revolvers and pistols every five years. Mr. Garson said the RCMP had found the re-registration was expensive, involved a great deal of work and accomplished little. It now was possible to keep track of revolvers and pistols through permits persons were obliged to obtain for buying, selling, owning or carrying a weapon.

Too Much Authority

Dr. W. G. Blair (PC-Lanark) protested against a change that would give the justice of the peace authority to remand an accused 30 days for a sanity check. He said the justice should not have the authority to make such a demand unless competent medical men were called to testify on the condition of the accused.

Mr. Garson promised to give overnight consideration to the section.

One of the international conventions ratified dealt with labor and Labor Minister Mitchell explained that it called on each member country to maintain a free employment service.

Adopted by the international labor organization in 1948, the convention was aimed at ensuring the best possible organization of the labor market so that employees could obtain suitable employment and employers suitable workers. No legislation would be required to make the convention effective in Canada.

TORONTO, May 30 (CP) — Appeal of Mrs. Georgina Fisher, Toronto apartment house owner, against a $750 fine for breaches of rental control regulations was dismissed Monday and a more severe fine levied.

Terming the original fine entirely inadequate, County Court Judge Robert Forsyth increased the fine to $900 and costs.

Mrs. Fisher was fined for overcharging a total of $1,750 a year for rent on six apartments and for not applying to the prices board in fixing rents.

McDonald Point Out As Site Memorial Centre

McDonald Point Park was dismissed by the Board of Works Monday night as prospective site for the Memorial Community Centre.

City Engineer Chalmers reported that test holes showed that clay bottom in each was "quite a bit below the water level", and that concrete piles would have to be sunk if the Centre was to be built on that location.

The Chalmers comment was in brief: "It's not much better than the other place on the west side of George St., north of Rink St."

"That answers our question," said Ald. Adam Sands, moving that the Memorial Centre Committee be informed of the facts, and to the effect that McDonald's Point "is not a suitable location". Ald. E. C. Braund seconded it.

Mr. Chalmers reported that four test holes were put down on May 29. "In only one was clay found above the ground water level."

The lowest part of the property near one test hole was only four feet above the ground water level. Solid clay was found there about seven feet below the water level.

"Test holes A and B were excavated to ground water level, and soundings below this point found what appeared to be clay or hardpan at approximately five feet below the water level."

"I would say that we would need concrete piles, if the Centre went there," Mr. Chalmers commented.

Cost of piles on the neighboring property between Townsend and Rink Streets was regarded as prohibitive by both the Centre Committee and the Council, and for that reason they decided last winter to survey the park overlooking the lake.

Charge Of $30 For Laying Of Water Service

Charge will be $30 for new water services beginning July 1. This service means the laying of the connecting pipe from the water main to a residence.

A Utilities Commission resoution Monday increased this charge in the necessity of meeting higher costs in providing the public with water.

"All services outside the city, connected to new and old mains, will be laid at the charge of $30 net a year," was the phrasing of the resolution by G. A. Macdonald and Fred Hills, with G. S. Matthews presiding.

In the city, the rate applies only to connections to new mains.

Mr. Dobbin had proposed that the new charge take effect on June 1, but the Commission decided that the public should be given at least one month's notice.

The decision ensued from a report by Mr. Dobbin about water service west of Monaghan Road in the Orpington Road area, where a group of houses is planned.

"The estimated cost of mains and service for 23 new houses, plus 14 existing houses, is $13,500.

$18.75 a Year

At present, where we have to extend mains, we charge a minimum rate of $18.75 a year for a water service. At this rate the 37 consumers would pay a total of $693.75 a year.

To provide for interest on debentures and payment of principal, with some charge for water, we require an annual revenue equal to 10 p.c. of the cost, and the Ontario Municipal Board requires this charge too.

In this case, we are short $656.25 a year. If divided among 37 consumers this would add $17.75 a year to their bills.

Part of the cost of this extension is for an 8-inch main down Monaghan Road, which is larger than required for those consumers, but is needed for feeding other mains. There is the revenue received from water for public fire protection and there are other possible consumers."

The Orpington Road-Bruce St. mains were added to Mr. Dobbin's list of early work.

Labrador Can Make Canada One of Great Steel Nations

A declared opponent at the time of the confederation of Newfoundland with Canada, Gordon F. Higgins, OBE, KC, Progressive-Conservative member of Parliament for St. John's East, said he believed the union was "all for the best for both Newfoundland and Canada" at the third annual dinner of the Life Underwriters Association Monday.

He said he felt like the race horse who had been given a gallon of whiskey to help him win a race but lost. He was the happiest loser anyone had ever seen.

"We have brought no small contribution to Canada," Mr. Higgins said. He pointed out that Newfoundland was of the utmost strategic importance. "Whoever controls Newfoundland controls Canada."

Labrador and Newfoundland, the Gander and Goose Bay airports guarded the most important approaches to the North American Continent.

With the coming development of the gigantic iron ore deposits in Labrador, Canada may well become a steel nation. A giant pulp and paper industry brought to Canada much needed US dollars.

Newfoundland's people were no small part of the island's contribution to Canada, he pointed out. They lived a rigorous life in which at least 30 per cent. of the working men engaged in the fishing industry and developed a hardy and resourceful people.

Great Potentialities

He also said Newfoundland had great potential tourist possibilities, as yet virtually unexplored. Two hundred of the best salmon rivers in the world were on the island.

Briefly, Mr. Higgins outlined the history of "Britain's oldest colony," a title, he said, the island was still proud to bear even after Confederation had made her a province of Canada.

Shortly after John Cabot first sighted the island in 1497, while sailing for an English king, Newfoundland had its first settlement. In 1610, the first permanent colony was established by John Guy. St. John's, he pointed out, was the oldest city in the Western Hemisphere north of Mexico.

When Peterborough, now celebrating its 100th anniversary as an incorporated municipality, was nothing but a site for wigwams, St. John's was an old established city.

Fought For Canada

Newfoundlanders have done a lot of fighting both for Canada and for the British Commonwealth. A Newfoundland contingent saved Quebec in the War of 1812. Sailors from Newfoundland played an important part in the defeat of the Spanish Armada in 1588.

In 1832 the island established a representative assembly, and in 1855 she was granted responsible government.

When other parts of Canada were discussing Confederation for the first time, from 1864 to 1867, Newfoundlanders voted to stay out. However, in 1894, following a failure of the financial structure of the nation, overtures were made to join the Dominion, but the conditions offered were "too niggardly" and Newfoundland continued independently.

Mr. Higgins said he was one of the members of the convention which studied the possible future of Newfoundland as a province of Canada. He came out against Confederation; he would have liked to see the island adopt responsible government.

The one thing which swung Newfoundland toward Confederation, he said, was the family allowance. To many in Newfoundland the campaign for and against Confederation became known as the Battle of the Bulge.

Mr. Higgins was introduced by Kenneth Dalrymple and thanked by David Barton, first vice-president of the Toronto division of the Life Underwriters' Association.

Crandall Case Being Studied By Committee

Twenty-fifth meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada opened today at George St. United Church.

The case of the Rev. W. N. Crandall, Bethany minister who started the province's top theological wrangle, was referred to a special committee.

Rev. Crandall, who is attending the conference, refused to baptize children in his parish, declaring the Bible did not support the United Church's dictum on infant baptism.

The committee, which will also deal with two other ministers, meets this afternoon, and will give its recommendations Wednesday or Thursday.

The Rev. J. E. Anderson of Brighton, president of the conference, opened the sessions. Rev. A. M. Laverty chaplain of Queen's University, led the conference in prayer.

Then, the Rev. Anderson opened the conference, saying "... by the authority vested in me I hereby declare this court of the Bay of Quinte Conference open for the transaction of business."

Transfers Read

Lists of ministers transferred in and out of the conference, and of ministers who have died since the last court, were read by Rev. Alfred Poulter of Madoc and Rev. H. C. Wolfraim, conference secretary, of Almonte.

Two other ministers whose cases will appear before the special committee on ministerial relations are Rev. E. Donovan Jones, formerly of the Oshawa Presbytery, and Rev. Coyne L. Gifford, formerly of Belleville.

Rev. Jones is said to have been received into the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and Rev. Gifford is also believed to be preaching in a US Presbyterian Church.

When the case of the three ministers whose names may be stricken from the rolls of the conference came up, it was suggested by the Rev. G. A. Brown of Kingston that a special committee be selected to make recommendations.

The president appointed Rev. Brown chairman, and selected Rev. A. J. Neal, Oshawa, Mr. R. F. Downey, and Dr. James Semple of Peterborough, Mr. A. A. Martin, Belleville, president of the conference's lay association, and Rev. George Telford, Oshawa.

Rising in discussion, Rev. Crandall pointed out that the Peterborough Presbytery had recommended only that his resignation be asked for at the conference not that his name be stricken from the rolls.

Following the opening ceremonies, committees went to their respective rooms for discussion and preparation of reports which will be made throughout the conference, which lasts until Friday night.

Firemen's Claims Presented In Arbitration

Judge W. S. Lane of Picton presided Monday afternoon at an arbitration of claims of the Peterborough Fire Fighters' Union against the City Council. With him were C. L. Dubin, Toronto, nominee of the firemen, and Waldon Lawr, Toronto, who was proposed by the Council.

Controller W. K. Warrender, Hamilton lawyer, presented the case for the union, and T. J. Carley, KC, represented the Council.

Mr. Warrender is chairman of fire and jail committee of Hamilton Council, of which he has been a member seven years.

Ask Union Shop Clause

Firemen asked at the beginning of the year for an increase of $600 in salary for every member of the department, excepting Chief George Smith. They also ask for recognition of their bargaining committee as exclusive agent to bargain for all the men; three weeks' vacation with pay after 10 years' service instead of after 15 years. They also asked for a union shop clause, signifying that an employee should become a member of the local thirty days after he becomes employed on a permanent basis.

Mr. Warrender explained that this was different from the union shop practice which required union membership before beginning employment.

Firemen are working the 56-hour week, and the police department operates on the 44-hour week. Firemen asked for the salary increase on the basis of the rise in the price index of the last year, the advantage received by the policemen, as a comparable municipal group, the industrial wage level, and also for other costs outside the price index.

Comparisons Drawn

The first-class fireman in Peterborough after 3½ years of service received 85½c an hour, Mr. Warrender said, whereas the unskilled industrial worker received $1.02. This difference in wage did not allow for the hazards of the work of the fire fighter, and the fact that the industrial worker at $1.02 did not require any special skills.

Cost of living index as compared with 148.5 in January, 1948, was now 165.9. On that basis the fireman should receive an increase of at least $280 a year, Mr. Warrender argued.

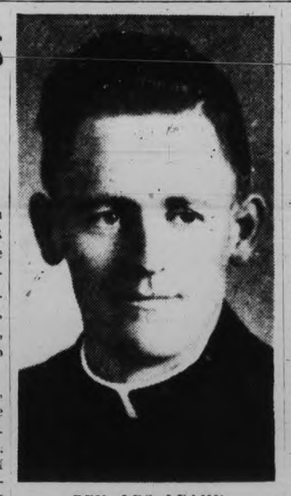
Mr. T. J. Carley said the policy of the City Council was to deal fairly with all its employees. The working week of the firemen at 56 hours was similar to most other cities in Ontario of comparable size, except Belleville and Kingston, in which the number of hours in the fire departments was 72. From 1941 to 1944, the firemen received a cost of living bonus which was incorporated in the salaries in 1944.

In further comparisons, Mr. Carley said the first-class fireman received $2,500 in 1949 as compared with $1,312 in 1937, the second-class fireman $2,400 last year against $1,218 in 1937; the third-class fireman $2,275 last year as compared with $1,148 in 1937.

"While we cannot say that the salaries have doubled in that time, the increase has been close to it," Mr. Carley said.

The pension plan which was voluntarily adopted by the Council, on the basis of 5 per cent of salaries with an equal amount contributed by the Council, was equivalent to an increase of $160 a year for first assistant chief, $135 for captains, and $125 a year for first-class men.

Mr. Carley said he did not wish to underrate the hazards of employment in the fire fighting service, but there were also hazards to the members of the Police Department.



As to occupational security, he said that industrial workers might be laid off when production and demand declined, but firemen were assured of steady employment with pensions at retirement. Mr. Carley also quoted the total appropriation of $33,439 to the Fire Department in 1937, of which $28,815 was for salaries; and in 1949 the total was $115,054, of which salaries accounted for $108,688.

He also mentioned that the Fire Department had a waiting list of 44 applicants at March 24 last, whereas the Police Department had to advertise for men, because they did not have enough names on file.

"I submit that the City Council has endeavored to deal fairly with its other employees, and that as compared with other cities comparable with Peterborough the conditions in our Fire Department stand up high in the list," Mr. Carley said.

Judge Lane, at the conclusion of the hearing, said the board would receive written argument if counsel wished to submit it.

Mayor Requested To Use Office To Settle Strike

A committee of employees of Peterborough Lock Company requested the Board of Works last night, comprising the whole Council, to authorize Mayor Swanston to seek intervention of Hon. Charles Daley, Provincial Minister of Labor, in an effort to arrive at a settlement of the strike.

Mayor Swanston said today he would telephone the Minister on Wednesday.

The resolution of the Board of Works instructed City Clerk Outram to write Romeo Leonard, president of UE Local 527, that its recommendations to the Council at the next meeting June 6 included authority to Mayor Swanston to confer with the Minister of Labor about the serious economic consequences to the community of Peterborough resulting from the present strike at Peterborough Lock Company.

Speakers for the deputation of nine men were Harold Collins, Percy Hughes, Mr. Leonard, president of the Union, and Jeff Hurley.

Mr. Leonard said the Hon. Mr. Daley was in Montreal attending a convention until Wednesday or Thursday with his Deputy Minister J. B. Metzler, and Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer.

Mr. Collins said the committee was simply asking the Council to exercise its good offices in an effort to bring about settlement, and thereby to join with the Ministerial Association, the Roman Catholic clergy and with hundreds of other citizens in a petition asking for the mediation of the Labor Department.

Oshawa Pavers Get Contract For $149,995

Acceptance of the $149,995.50 tender of W. B. Bennett Paving Co. of Oshawa for the city's paving program this year was recommended to the council Monday night by the board of works.

Two other bids were received, one from Law Construction Co. at $174,736 and another from Warren Paving Co. at $168,757.30.

The 1949 contract was carried out by Warren Paving, who set up means of eliminating dust and smoke nuisance at their mixing plant at Auburn.

Acceptance of the Bennett tender was moved by Alderman Sands and Anglesey, "if the figures are found satisfactory when checked by City Engineer Chalmers."

"Are we going to do the whole program?" Mayor Swanston asked. "You had a lot of opposition from residents of two of the streets on which paving is planned for this year."

His Worship remarked that the protest from Rogers St. at the time of the sitting of the Ontario Municipal Board here was made largely in the information of prospective lay-offs at Western Clock Company.

"But, the men who spoke to the board did not want to make any reference to that likelihood in advance of a statement of the company," His Worship said.

"It seems rather late now to talk of changing the program," Ald. Gillespie said.

"It might be time to consider paying for paving by the city as a whole," Ald. Herb Young suggested.

Other sentiment on the side of the taxpayer charged with frontage rates for paving was expressed, but in the end the committee let the Sands-Anglesey motion go on to the council.

Millions In U.K. Read Story About "Helicopter Dean"

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, May 30 (CP)—Not many Britons ordinarily pay much attention to the doings of academic personalities, but during the last week millions have read about the "Helicopter Dean." This bustling Oxford don who can't wait on slower transport is Dr. John Lowe, a 51-year-old Canadian born in Calgary, who left the University of Toronto's divinity chair a decade ago to become Dean of Christ Church, Oxford and later Vice-Chancellor of Oxford University.

When word got around the university campus last week that the Dean couldn't spare the time to travel by train to address a banquet in Cornwall and had called in a helicopter, the students decided to make a "rag" of the occasion.

They turned out in a weird assortment of costumes. A "Greek Poet" in flowing robes and laurel wreath recited a specially-written ode and the students sang, to the parody of the hymn: "Love, He Come With Cloud Descending," as the helicopter settled down among Oxford spires.

Discuss Controversy

While this merriment was going on, the newspapers chronicled a controversy arising from one of Dr. Lowe's speeches a few days before. The Dean had said the suicide rate among college students is rising.

There is an increasing tendency among students to worry themselves into "anxiety states," Dr. Lowe said. As a result, the rate of self-destruction among university men was relatively higher than in other groups.

Taking issue with the Oxford don, Sir John Stopford, vice-chancellor of Manchester University, expressed surprise at the statement and said: "I would dissociate myself at once from that."

But Dr. D. W. Logan, principal of London University, agreed that students nowadays are more anxious about their future. Professor G. C. Field of Bristol University thought women were not as generally greatly affected by anxiety as men.

Rule Manslaughter

Kathryn Grayson Gets Big Acting Chance

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, May 30 (AP).—Kathryn Grayson is a girl with a mind of her own. Slated to smoke her first cigarette on the screen, she rebelled.

"I don't smoke," she said. "I never have, and I can see no reason why I should on the screen. The cigarette companies can sue me for this, but they can't convince me there is any good reason for smoking."

Though she is sticking to her no-smoking edict, she gets a change of pace in other ways in her new film, "Grounds for Marriage." It is the first time in years she has not been the subject of a big costume musical in color.

"I get a real chance to act," said Miss Grayson. "It is up to me to make the most of it."

Hope and Crosby

Bob Hope is really serious about wanting to escape his current air sponsor. Insiders report he may even stay off the radio next season if he does not get his freedom.

Bing Crosby's final show was a nifty. He brought back excerpts from his best programs of the year. This might be a good idea for other shows—presenting their best of the year as a kind of encore at the final curtain.

Capsule Review

"Sunset Boulevard" (Par) is a bitter tale of the other side of Hollywood—the fall from fame. It may shatter illusions about Hollywood life, but it remains a sharp and fascinating document. Gloria Swanson, as the faded movie queen, gives a startling performance and is virtually a cinch for the next Oscar. Bill Holden gives a polished job in a hard role. Erich Von Stroheim and Nancy Olson are also excellent. A standout film.

CLEANING UP—As lood waters recede, city firemen David Berry and Fred Franklin turn the hose on street debris in the flooded Riverview district of Winnipeg. Similar scenes are common throughout Greater Winnipeg as the emphasis switches from battling the Red River to the cleaning-up job.

Council Appeals

TORONTO, May 30 (CP)—City Council decided Monday to join the Retail Gasoline Association in appealing a magistrate's ruling which upset the city by-law for early-Sunday closing of service stations. Magistrate Walter W. McKeown, contending city council had no right to delegate certain licensing authority to the chief constable, ruled recently that the whole by-law therefore was ultra vires of council.

Denies Using Newsprint To Restrict Press Power

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, May 30—(CP)—The Labor government says it just isn't true that newsprint is being used to restrict the power of the press. "I have always resisted any idea that newsprint should be used for censorship purposes," the House of Commons was told by Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade.

Wilson spoke after J. Rodgers, Conservative member for Sevenoaks, said that [illegible] the present seven-page average size of national daily newspapers will be reduced to six pages.

"It is said to reflect that our newspapers today are among the smallest in the world," Rodgers said.

"Of all the countries in Europe, only one—Germany behind the Iron Curtain—is worse off than us."

Dishonor Contracts

Rodgers said that Britain three times since the war had dishonored newsprint contracts with Canada. Wilson replied that the government had decided only the previous week to authorize the Newsprint Supply Company, which distributes newsprint in Britain, to import 25,000 tons from Canada in the scond half of 1950.

It is understood here that F. P. Bishop, general manager of the Newsprint Supply Company, is going to Canada shortly to negotiate contracts.

Belated Concession

Rodgers said the government's decision to authorize a limited import of Canadian newsprint, [illegible] previously announcing that none would be purchased, represented a "belated" concession.

Financial circles put it more bluntly. The financial editor of the Star, which generally supports the government, said the government's idea had been to get all its requirements in Scandinavia for soft currency, instead of Canada for dollars.

But Britain's planners have found "that the Swedes and Finns want dollars, too," the paper said. "As a results the planners have already been forced to go back to Canada for 25,000 tons of newsprint."

Price Heads UNAC

TORONTO, May 30 (CP)—Major Vincent Price of Toronto, was elected president of the United Nations Association in Canada at the UNAC anual meeting here last week. He succeeds Dr. Sidney Smith, also of Toronto.

Wants To Start New Calendar Beginning 1950

This is the Year One.

You can believe it or not, but if you do, odds are that you are a member of the World Calendar ...ation. A member of this ...tion, Arthur J. Hills, of Toronto, told the Rotary Club on Monday of the new calendar's advantages.

This year forms the basis for the world calendar, he said, and therefore, 1950 is Year Number One.

"The great thing is that it is regular," said Mr. Hills. Each quarter has 91 days, and every day in the month falls on the same date it did the year before. What he meant to say, he added, was that the first Monday in January would always be January 2 and so forth, providing the world calendar was accepted.

The first month of each quarter would have 31 days, and the two subsequent months would have 30 each. At the end of the year, to make up 365, he said, there would be a world holiday—World Day—which would fall on the day between December 30 and January 1.

Come Leap Year, there would be another world holiday—Leap Year Day, which would fall on the day between June 30 and July 1. These world holidays, called "stabilizing days," would not be named Monday or Sunday or Tuesday, but just World Day and Leap Year Day.

Lost Ten Days

Touching on the history of our present calendar, the Gregorian calendar, Mr. Hills said it was changed back in the middle ages to allow for ten days lost somewhere between then and the time Julius Caesar set up the first regular calendar — the Julian Calendar.

But the Gregorian calendar suffered under Mr. Hills' touch. He said we have 14 different kinds of years. That is, a regular year could start on any of seven different weekdays, and every four years, Leap Year would throw us out of stride again.

The advantages of this world calendar, said Mr. Hills, was that the year had identical quarters, each month had 26 working days, and there would be no mixup as to holidays like Thanksgiving, which are normally proclaimed every year.

Fix Holiday Dates

Such holidays would receive a definite date, and they would not be getting misplaced all the time.

After his speech, Mr. Hills handed out a small booklet, which listed a number of advantages he did not mention in his speech.

The booklet points out how advantageous it would be for government to start its fiscal year on the same day and date every year, and for industry to have simplified planning for industrial programs and compiling of statistics.

Elimination of yearly timetable making by railroads and other forms of transportation would result in savings and would release men for other jobs.

Blast Wrecks House

DETROIT, May 30 (AP) — An explosion Monday night levelled a two-storey brick house on Detroit's west side, killing two children and critically injuring the mother of one. The dead are Stanley Gatny, Jr., 8, and his cousin, Laura Anders, eight months. The mother, Dorothy Anders, 21, was described as in a "dying" condition. Officers are checking the possibility of gas.

AMERICAN SINGER Dianne Adrian, accused in England's House of Lords of singing "leering lyrics" that drew big crowds and took dollars out of England, visited Parliament to protest. Miss Adrian said she noted the "lordly leers" of several peers when she attempted to confront Lord Cherwell and demand an apology for his "referring to my midriff lightly."

Fail To Change Customs Act

OTTAWA, May 30 (CP)—Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) tried unsuccessfully in the Commons Monday to have the government retain in the Customs Act provisions for appeal from some decisions of the minister of national revenue.

The move came before members adopted a bill making a number of technical changes in the Customs Act. Also adopted was a complementary measure making minor changes in the Tariff Act.

Mr. Fleming said the changes in the Customs Act would abolish appeals to the Tariff Board from decisions of the revenue minister.

James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, said it still will be possible to appeal from departmental rulings on tariff matters. But it had been decided to abolish the right to appeal against decisions made by the minister after consultation with the cabinet. To allow appeals against such decisions placed the Tariff Board in an "impossible position."

Storms Blitz Texas

GREENVILLE, Tex., May 30 (AP)—Wrecking winds, a small tornado, hail, driving rains and a brilliant lightning display slammed across north and east Texas Monday night, causing one death. The heaviest damage apparently was at Greenville and nearby villages. Where trees toppled, crops were damaged, and barns and outbuildings bowled over.

To Arm Malaya

KUALA, LUMPUR, Malaya, May 30 (AP)—John Strachey, Britain's Secretary of War, said Monday his government will send Malaya more armor to bolster its war against Communist guerrillas. He is here to visit British troops in the field.

Col. Stoopnagle Dies In Boston, Heart Condition

BOSTON, May 30. (AP)—Chase Taylor, 52, known to radio and screen as "Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle," died Monday in hospital. The comedian had been under treatment for a cardiac condition.

Prior to his illness, he had been in Puerto Rico writing scripts for the Duffy's Tavern radio show. He returned to his South Norwalk, Conn., home about six weeks ago and entered hospital for treatment of a heart ailment.

"Col. Stoopnagle" came into being because a storm once disrupted the Columbia Broadcasting Company network facilities.

Taylor, who had made the mistake of going into the stockbrokerage business in 1929, then decided to try out as a production man for radio station WMAK in Buffalo, NY.

Fills In Gap

One day in October, 1930, a gale disrupted the CBS wires to the station and on short notice, Taylor and Bud Hulick, a WMAK announcer, filled in a 15-minute gap.

Thus "Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle was born during a storm," as Taylor put it later.

Between 1931 and 1937 the pair were heard over the CBS network, the NBC Red network, and the NBC Blue network. In 1936-37, they were on Town Hall Tonight and The Minute Men.

The Taylor-Hulick partnership dissolved in 1937.

Hulick became a master of ceremonies and actor, Taylor a comedian. He was featured over the Yankee network on Town Hall Varieties in 1938. In 1939-40 he was quizmaster in the Quixie Doodle Contest over the Mutual network.

For the next seven years he was heard on several summer replacement shows. He made numerous guest appearances on radio shows, one of the latest on NBC's Duffy's Tavern Feb. 23, 1950.

Taylor wrote several magazine pieces and a number of humorous books. His Daffynitions included such gems as:

"Gasoline is stuff that if you don't use good in your car, it doesn't run as well as if."

Had Inventions

His inventions included an alarm clock with half a bell to wake only one person in a room; a goldfish bowl surrounded by postcards so the fish would think they were going somewhere.

In his first book, You Wouldn't Know Me From Adam (1944), he suggested fantastic games for every occasion. The next year he teamed with Lawrence Lariar to write Father Goosenagle, a book of humorous verse.

Taylor also wrote My Tale Is Twisted (1946), a series of fables; and My Back To The Soil (1947), in which he discoursed on farming theories.

Official Holiday

OTTAWA, May 30 (CP)—The Secretary of State Monday night said that June 5, the day on which the King's birthday is officially observed, will be declared a Federal holiday. Since the observance is one proclaimed annually and not fixed by statute, it will not be mandatory to observe the King's birthday as a holiday in the provinces or municipalities. Each of the municipalities can treat the day as it sees fit.

Contract Talks Been Delayed

WINDSOR, May 30 (CP) — Pension and contract talks between the Chrysler Corporation of Canada and United Automobile Workers (CIO) did not take place Monday as scheduled.

But with a strike deadline of June 5 facing them, top company and union representatives will probably meet today, although no meeting has definitely been set, George Burt, Canadian UAW director said.

Both parties have indicated their desire to reach agreement on the union's demands before June 5 deadline set for the 3,600 members of Local 195, UAW to walk off their jobs in Chrysler's three Windsor plants.

Mr. Burt said one point remains to be settled before negotiations resume. He said the company does not want to include Sam Kain, head of the local's negotiating committee, in the contract talks. Apart from this there was "no trouble" in meeting the company.

The union is seeking a company-paid and funded pension scheme of $100 monthly for retiring workers, a company-paid health and insurance scheme and contract changes.

30,000 Homes Collapse

TEHERAN, Iran, May 30 (AP) —Some 30,000 mud houses and shops collapsed during a flood in Meshed, East Iran, Monday, according to reports reaching here. No casualties were reported. Following 80 hours of heavy rain, flood waters eight inches deep entered the city which has a population of 170,000. Fifteen prisoners escaped from the prison during the flood.

Gardeners Told Mix Colors Well

A demonstration of how to obtain the most satisfactory results in gardening by choosing varieties of colors, was shown to the Peterborough Horticultural Society on Monday at the YWCA by Mrs. Thelma Boucher of Kingston, a leading amateur horticulturalist in this part of Ontario.

While showing slides of beautiful effects which she has obtained in her garden by selecting attractive color combinations, Mrs. Boucher made helpful comments and suggestions.

She showed pictures of spring, summer and autumn flowers and also flowering shrubs and cactus house plants which provide winter decoration.

Her slides also included some colorful scenes of Mexico, England and Scotland.

Mrs. Boucher explained the advantages of mulching, a practice she used extensively in her country garden. By placing leaves and straw around the roots of plants, she was able to protect the soil ... being dried out by the sun. ... as not the tidiest method of ...rdening, but for the country it was useful and served as a protection.

After Mrs. Boucher's departure —she travelled to Ottawa the same evening—Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, who was chairman of the meeting, conducted a discussion among the members.

The use of sulphur was discussed fully. Mrs. Fraser said she used it for nearly every purpose instead of using insecticides. Other speakers spoke of its advantages as a method of protecting leaves from discoloring.

Rutherford Twins Return Home After 62 Years

Sixty-two years after they left Peterborough, John and Joseph Rutherford are coming back for a visit.

The twin brothers, who celebrated their 75th birthday recently, are the younger brothers of Percy E. Rutherford, local retired real estate agent.

At the age of 14 they went with their parents to Grafton, North Dakota, and there helped to settle Walsh county. They built farms side by side in the Red River valley there and prospered.

Now retired, they still keep their farms neat and clean. In their time they served on the Board of Education and were members of the community elevator board of directors.

Joseph married in 1899 and had four children. His wife died in 1931 and in 1948 he married the sister of his brother's wife. John was married in 1904 and became the father of 11 children, nine of whom are still living.

The twins had come from a large family. There were 10 children, eight of them boys. They were born on a South Monaghan farm in 1875.

This week they are motoring to Peterborough to visit their brother and see how much the boyhood home has changed.

Jean Wagar Mission Circle members were entertained at the home of their president, Miss Gladys Langton, Monday night.

Worship service for the evening was in keeping with the "Empire Day" theme and was conducted by Mrs. Grace Sampson, who referred to Queen Victoria as one who stood for all that's best in life and Christianity. Sweet Hour of Prayer was sung by Miss Langton. Selections from Proverbs were read by several girls and the service closed with prayer by Miss M. Bowers.

The study book was presented in a two-fold synopsis with many interesting and informative details. The first part was ably presented by Miss Lillian Hayes and the second, by Miss Ethel Menzies.

As guest speaker, Mrs. Arnold Noftall, Presbyterial literature secretary, brought a challenging message to encourage the girls toward further missionary reading. She suggested purposes to be kept in mind when reading, and urged members to compete in the reading course.

Missionary books read during the past month were recorded by Miss Shirley Potts, literature secretary, and fine book reviews were given by Miss Lillian Hayes and Mrs. R. Booth.

During the business session, Mrs. G. Martin reported from a recent meeting when plans were made for the fall Mission Circle Rally, which will be held in George St. United Church. It was decided to contribute the usual fee toward a delegate from this Rally, to be sent to the W.M.S. School for Leaders.

June meeting of the circle will take the form of a weiner roast at Lock 22, when the Rev. F. W. Craik will be the speaker.

The evening's program was closed with prayer by Mr. Craik and dainty refreshments were served by Misses Gladys Langton and Jean Hammond.

Dominion-Wide Representation Women's Councils

LONDON, Ont., May 30 (CP)—Representing more people in Canada—500,000 women — than any other convention held in London this year, the National Council of Women opened its week-long sessions in the London Public Library Monday.

Delegates came by train, plane and car from many parts of Canada. Women from Truro, N.S., met others from Kamloops, B.C., and large and small centres in provinces between the two were represented. They will enter discussions on topics related to the every day life of Canadian families, including national and community plannin, economics, health and welfare and education.

It was announced that three Ontario women will attend a four-week course in alcohol studies at Yale University, New Haven, Conn., in July under a scholarship plan sponsored by the Provincial Council of Women of Ontario.

They are Miss D. V. Mullan, Toronto; Evelyn B. Moulton, Kingston, and Muriel Milligan, Hamilton.

The plan originated with the council's desire for a studied scientific approach to the problem of alcoholism. Choice of applicants was made by a panel at Yale.

MR. AND MRS. W. MURRAY METCALFE

Metcalfe-Aldsworth Union

The marriage of Mr. Walter Murray Metcalfe, BASc., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Metcalfe of Warsaw, to Betty Doreen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Aldsworth of Oshawa, took place in the Simcoe Street United Church at Oshawa, the Rev. John K. Moffat officiating. Organist Mr. R. G. Geen played softly throughout the ceremony and accompanied Mrs. John McNab who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the bride entered and "Because" at the signing of the register.

The bride wore a gown of blush slipper satin, fashioned on princess lines, the graceful skirt flowing into a train, completed with a bolero of Chantilly lace designed with high neckline and long sheath sleeves and fastened with tiny buttons. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was gathered to a headdress of blush satin and lilies of the valley and she carried a cascade of the same flowers with mauve orchids.

Given in marriage by her father, she was attended by Mrs. Robert Luke of Toronto as matron of honor and Miss Dorothy McDonald of Oshawa as bridesmaid. Turquoise corded taffeta with boleros of matching Chantilly lace frocked the attendants in similar fashion to the bride and they carried nosegays of sweet peas and they wore bandeaux of the taffeta with clusters of the same flowers.

Mr. William Cane of Oshawa was groomsman and ushers were Alvin Cox of Oshawa and Gerald Bryett of Peterborough.

Receiving afterward in the Jubilee Pavilion at Oshawa-on-the-Lake, the bride's mother wore a gown of Queen's blue faille, with pink floral hat and corsage of deep pink roses. The groom's mother who assisted was wearing toast brown faille with a beige flower-trimmed straw hat and corsage of talisman roses.

The bridal couple went on a trip to Ottawa, Montreal and other eastern points, the bride travelling in a grey floral crepe dress, navy coat and grey and pink accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Metcalfe will live in Peterborough.

Mrs. G. Falkner in her report stated that the League had completed their 11th year in the Well Baby Clinic work. Each week one member goes to each of the four clinics and spends between two and a half and three hours there weighing babies and marking charts.

Mrs. J. A. Dewart of the visiting committee made a report of the number of families visited and the subsequent help of milk, cod liver oil and in some cases clothing and bedding being provided for the children.

Higgins Says Liberals Feel Some Kind of Superior Race

Addressing more than 100 women, gathered in the Empress Kawartha Room, Monday afternoon, Mr. Gordon Higgins, M.P., of Newfoundland, told of the main impression made on him by the government of Canada since coming to Ottawa to represent the 10th province.

"I am struck by the attitude of the Liberal members who seem to feel they are some kind of superior race and that they rule by divine right," he said. As an example of their attitude he quoted from Prime Minister St. Laurent's speech at Toronto on March 25, "There is no alternative to the Liberal party."

The Conservative member declared he feels there is no doubt the Liberals are now making a real attempt to set up a dictatorship in a democratic country. "They have 240 press agents employed only to glorify their party," he said. "Hitler in his heyday had no better propaganda organization."

"This country deserves something better than the eywash the Liberals are giving us and it is up to the women to get out defeating propaganda," he said. The feeling that the women can be depended on for this sort of work he explained in the fact that women manned all polling booths in Newfoundland during the last election. "We take our politics the hard way there", he went on and related some amusing incidents.

Mr. Higgins, a member of the first delegation at Ottawa to discuss confederation, though he opposed it at that time, gave a resume of progress in Canada since the original confederation was completed, having been visualized by Sir John A. MacDonald. He further stated that Conservatives have been in power for 40 years and the Liberals for 42 years since.

In conclusion he said, "The choice in the next election will be between seeing that Canada becomes the greatest country in th world and the Liberal party."

Mr. Higgins was introduced by Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. and thanked by the Hon. H. R. Scott, M.P.P.

Mrs. J. Cridland, president of Peterborough Women's Conservative Association, presided for the meeting and was given permission to waive all business formality in favor of the speaker.

Afterward, all present were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Fraser and the Hon. H. R. Scott and Mrs. Scott for afternoon tea and a social hour.

Dedicating Chapel To War 2 Men Sunday, June 4

A memorial service in the chapel of the new Civic Hospital is to be an impressive ceremony taking place next Sunday afternoon, June 4, at three o'clock. The arrangements are being made by Peterborough Branch of the Silver Cross Women of Canada, which has installed a memorial scroll with 412 names, three pews, a kneeling rail, a lectern and a beautiful memorial window embodying "Christ's Comforter."

Dedication of the chapel to the memory of men who died while serving in navy, army and air force during the last world war will be made by the Rev. Walter J. Gilling. Taking part also, as representatives of each service branch will be Lieut. Commander John B. Raine, Lieut. Colonel M. E. Clarke, ED, and Flying Officer Norman Crook, DFC, while Trumpet Sgt. C. A. Gallagher will sound the Last Post and Reveille. These men have been selected because of their service overseas throughout the war period.

Mayor M. J. Swanston is to open the service with an address, and music will be by the Coventry Singers of Peterborough.

Mrs. J. Patte is chairman of the memorial committee with Mrs. B. W. Harvey, president of the Chapter, and Mrs. B. D. Hall, vice president, assisting.

European Threats Causing Women's Increased Interest

MONTREAL, May 30 —(CP)— Canadian women are displaying an increasing interest in developments within the British Commonwealth, the IODE convention was told today.

The convener of empire study for the patriotic organization told the order's annual meeting that interest in the program had developed since the end of the war as a definite project.

She attributed this in part to the fact that more members realized the particular advantages which empire study had to offer in the way of adult education by a short method.

"The long continued political and economic disturbances in the European and Far Eastern countries with their attendant threat of cold war and aggressions have made us conscious of the part which the people of Canada must play in these so rapidly changing conditions."

Even Canada's newest province is feeling the impact of the IODE. It was reported Monday that the order's first Canadian chapter had been organized in St. John's though no delegate from Newfoundland was attending—some 2,300 new Canadians this year received the royal blue and gold-bordered "welcome" cards which the IODE has given all foreign-born upon naturalization during the past 25 years.

The convener of immigration and Canadianization reported immigration in Canada during 1949 totalled 95,200 persons, 25 per cent less than in 1948. The greatest decrease was in the number of British immigrants, which dropped 50 per cent. She reported 4,000 Canadians returned from the United States during the year.

Mrs. K. I. R. Drope of Toronto, national post-war services convener, Monday night received a life membership in the national chapter — the IODE's highest award. Mrs. Drope is a vice-president of the national chapter.

MISS CARMEL POOSE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Poose, Ottawa, and granddaughter of Mrs. W. C. O'Brien, Wolsley St., who recently received the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Carleton College, Ottawa.

Canadian Girls In Health Show At London Arena

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON.—(CP).—Twenty-five Canadian members of the Women's League of Health and Beauty gave "a splendid show" at the 20th birthday display staged recently by the league at London's Wembley arena.

Only a small contingent of the 1,500 participants, the Canadians were "outstanding for their perfect unity" and friendly congratulations followed.

All are from Toronto or Hamilton. A mother-and-daughter team is Mrs. Eve and Miss Shirley Kelcey of Toronto.

For some it's the first visit here. For others—like war bride Barbara Peterson of Toronto—it's a reunion with family, friends and places.

It's Barbara's first trip to Britain since she sailed for Canada in 1946 and the only cloud on her excited happiness is the fact that her husband and two children are not with her.

"The thing I've noticed most is the cold," Barbara told The Canadian Press. "We've all been frozen since we arrived. We're just sort of getting warmed up now. The houses back home are much warmer.

Quick Change

"Listen to 'the Canadian' talking," she added with a smile. "When I first went to Canada, I often caught myself thinking, 'we don't do things that way in Britain.' Now I find myself thinking, 'gee, we don't do things that way back home'."

The girls are unanimous about the good time they are having in Britain. Special entertainments were arranged for them from their arrival, May 5, until May 17.

Most return June 15 but at least two are staying longer.—Con Colpus and Cathy Cleather, both of Toronto.

Con, a kindergarten teacher, will remain until August on a "supply" basis. Unable to arrange a trip on the usual exchange basis, she thought this a fine opportunity to get the same experience.

On supply, she teaches at any school requiring relief, or extra, kindergarten teachers, and she hopes to see several British schools in this way.

Cathy, a 21-year-old actress, will spend a year in repertory here. She already has spent three years in stock in Montreal.

Cathy's father's family is well-known in British theatrical circles and Miss Cleather hopes for a chance with the BBC as well as a "good part" on the local stage.

DOROTHY DIX

Persistent Memory Remains Of Girl's Worthless Lover

DEAR MISS DIX: A young man is in love with me who is everything that a man should be, kind, considerate, dependable, honorable, upright and well-to-do, but with all of these good qualities I do not love him. I have tried hard enough, but my efforts have been useless. Five years ago I fell in love with a man who really cared nothing for me, took me out only when he had nothing else to do, who lied to me and stood me up repeatedly, but it did not matter. I took anything just to be with him now and then. Four years have passed since we last met, but he is still in my mind and heart.

Dorothy Dix

Shall I marry this fine fellow who loves me dearly, knowing I will be a dutiful wife, will give him respect, admiration and everything else marriage demands of a wife—except love? Can marriage be a success with love only on one side?

WONDERING.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No. Never. Especially when one of the parties to the marriage loves some one else. For between the husband and wife there will stand forever the shadowy ghost of the old romance that will keep them ever really coming together in the oneness that alone makes marriage a success.

New Love No Solution

There is no truth in the old superstition that a new love automatically kills an old love. Nothing of the kind happens. On the contrary, the very fact that the beloved one is beyond reach, the fact that he or she is forbidden fruit, makes him or her more alluring. That person becomes a memory, something that can never be destroyed because it exists only in the imagination. Always those who marry without love will be contrasting this paragon of their dreams with the imperfect human being to whom they are married.

Nothing is more thrilling than to be loved by one you love. Nothing is so boring as to be loved by one you do not love. Nothing gets on the nerves like having to pretend to emotions you do not feel, like having to summon up a joyous smile for some one of whom you are tired to death, like having to remember to be tender and affectionate. Nothing else is so wearisome as the continual society of those who love you so much that they always want to be with you and whom you care for so little that you would be glad never to see them again.

So I would earnestly advise you not to marry one man while loving another. The good man deserves a better fate than a wife who merely tolerates him.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a nice capable wife and we get along better than the average. Our only trouble is over our children, aged 6 and 3, who have to be occasionally punished when they are naughty. When their mother does this I never interfere, but when I punish them they rush to her and she clasps them to her breast and cuddles them and tells them how brainless and cruel-hearted and mean Daddy is. This cuts me to the bone, as I love my children and want their affection and feel that it is most unjust of their mother to plant such thoughts in their minds. Is there anything I can do about it?—F.

ANSWER: Very little, unless your wife has enough intelligence to be brought to see the error of her ways and realize that not only is she hurting you, but she is doing the children an irreparable wrong. And it is a pretty hopeless thing to try to get a mother to use her brains instead of her heart where her children are concerned.

Why women who have plenty of sense and good judgment about matters use none at all of either in dealing with their children is a mystery that nobody can explain. It just is. The stupidest woman in the world can see that any business would be bound to go to smash if the two partners pulled different ways, if one undermined the authority of the other all the time, if one deliberately prejudiced the employees against the other and countermanded the other's orders.

Raising children properly in these days is a hard job and one that takes a man and a woman, working together and backing each other up, to pull off. Neither one can do it alone.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: In a marriage where both the husband and the wife are not intensely in love, which should have the greater love in order that the marriage should be a success? OFFICE FORCE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course, the ideal marriage is one in which both the man and the woman are deeply in love with each other. Perhaps it seldom happens that a married couple love equally. The French have a proverb for this which says that in marriage one loves and the other permits himself or herself to be loved.

Some contend that in such a case the man should love more because all the circumstances of his life, his ambitions, his career, his absorption in other interests tend to draw him away from his wife and make sentiment a secondary consideration.

But I think that the wife should love more, because love means more to a woman than it ever does to a man, and it is more important to her to be wrapped up in her affection for her husband than it is for him to be deeply enamoured of her.

Hawara-Kasula

A pretty wedding took place at the Lady of the Harvest Church in Keene when Ingrid Kasula became the bride of Walter Michael Hawara, son of Mrs. Fred Hawara and the late Frederick Hawara.

The Rev. Fr. J. McCarney officiated. The bride was given in marriage by Mr. R. A. Zberanowsky and wore a gown of white blush satin, with lace trim. It was fashioned with long tight-fitting sleeves and the train, with a lace ruffle, was caught with lily of the valley sprigs at the bottom. She wore a finger-tip veil, Queen Anne headdress and carried a cascade of red roses.

Mrs. Emil Hawara was bridesmaid and wore a blue nylon net gown and matching gloves. Her headdress was a pink picture hat with blue ostrich feathers and she carried a bouquet of deep pink roses.

The groom was attended by his young brother Emil Hawara. Ushers were Julie Kilchelski and Mike Destanko.

A reception was held at the groom's home following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawara left later on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the United States. The bride was wearing a blue dress, grey topcoat and accessories. On their return the couple will live at 674 Reid St.

Criticize Canada's Attempt To Make Most of 2 Worlds

MONTREAL, May 30—(CP)—With a friendly nod toward Canada's newest province, nearly 1,000 delegates to the Golden Jubilee Convention of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire got down to work here Monday.

The five-day annual meeting of the Dominion's large patriotic organization opened Saturday night with Viscount Alexander the governor-general, Lady Alexander, and Prime Minister St. Laurent addressing the delegates from most parts of the country.

On Sunday, delegates attended a service of thanksgiving and dedication.

Much of Monday's business was concerned with the presentation of reports.

Mrs. J. D. Detwiler of London, Ont., education secretary, criticized Canada for "trying to ride two horses" in an attempt to "make the most" of both the British and American worlds. She said the situation was hardly conducive to an atmosphere in which a healthy patriotism could thrive.

Mrs. Detwiler said that judging from books used in the schools, Canadian educationists had "studiously avoided" giving children an opportunity to form attachment for either Canada or empire.

So far instead of building a national allegiance Canadians only had succeeded in building up provincial allegiances.

The educational secretary reported that during the year the IODE spent $132,605 on its dominion-wide education projects.

In her report as convener of empire correspondence, Ethel Raymond of Brantford said that through the order's pen-pal program some 4,000 Canadian children developed overseas friendships during the last year. They wrote letters to new friends in countries as far away as England, Scotland, Wales, New Zealand, Australia and the British West Indies. Miss Raymond cited woodcraft, photography, ship-modelling, nature study and stamp-collecting as the chief interests which drew the children into correspondence. Ontario led the field in establishing new friendship links. During the year 2,000 letters were sent under the program. Saskatchewan followed with 533; Manitoba with 395; Alberta 153; Quebec 197; Nova Scotia 90.

Mrs. F. W. Bates of Toronto reported that membership now has reached 31,130 in Canada, an increase of 70 over last year. The national organizing secretary said she was hopeful that a chapter soon would be organized in Newfoundland. She said the I. O. D. E. now has 920 chapters in Canada, a decrease of one from the 1948-49 period. "We must take our place in world affairs and be ever on the alert to put forth our best effort to preserve the principles we cherish," she declared.

Mrs. J. G. Sprugge of Toronto, national secretary, outlined work done in the last year. Her report showed that the affiliated daughters of the British Empire in the United States had reported its membership extending to 33 States and to Hawaii, an increase of one state over last year.

6—In Memoriams

EDWARDS— In loving memory of Eleanor Mae Edwards who passed away, May 31st, 1945.
Remembrance is a golden chain.
Death tries to break but all in vain.
To have, to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart
The years may wipe out many things
But htis they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days.
When we were all together.
—Ever remembered by Mom, Daddy and brothers Gerald and Douglas.

EDWARDS—In loving memory of Eleanor Mae Edwards, who passed away May 31st, 1945.
The memory of her dear wee ways
Will linger with us all our days.
Sweetest flower, too sweet to stay.
God took her home to show us the way.
—Ever remembered by Grandpa and Grandma McFarland.

GRAHAM—In loving memory of Mrs. George Graham, who died May 29, 1942.
And while she lies in peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by husband and family.

Struck Other On Face In Argument, Fined

Pleading guilty in police court today of a charge of causing a disturbance by fighting, Lloyd Smith, 21, of 341 Gilchrist St., was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC.

Smith hit J. H. Vernor, 320 Roswell Ave., in the face with his fist in a downtown restaurant.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw told the court Smith was becounded by Vernor, a total stranger who gave him a bowl of soup. After eating the soup Smith hit his benefactor, "biting the hand which fed him."

I didn't ask nobody for nothing," Smith said.

Asked for a reason for the blow, Smith said, "We got arguing, that's all."

Young Germans Trek Home, No Incidents

BERLIN, May 30 (AP)—Weary young Germans marched home today by the hundreds of thousands from the Russian sector's Communist rally, leaving Berlin to worry about its next crisis in the cold war.

The dispersal of 500,000 Communist-controlled "Free German Youth" got under way with the same military precision that they had shown in parading last Sunday up the rainswept Unter Den Linden amid red banners and cheers for Stalin.

The six-day program of ideological indoctrination — almost like mass hypnosis—produced its final slogan Monday when East Germany's Communist Premier, Otto Grotewohl, shouted to torchlight processions in mid-city:

"Our youth will one day tear down all zonal barriers and restore the unity of Germany."

But the top slogan of all, repeated time and again by youthful German lips, was:

"We will fight alongside the Soviet Union."

"For peace," they added.

Both Claim Victory

Both sides in this east-west propaganda outpost claimed a victory last Sunday. Then the 500,000 paraded but the previously threatened invasion of allied-occupied West Berlin failed to materialize.

The official Soviet organ, Taegliche Rundschau, claimed Germany's younger generation had been decisively won over to the "International Peace Movement" sponsored by the Soviet Union and had been alienated from the "western imperialist war-mongers."

The anti-Communist Daily Telegraf said "Berlin showed anew its determination to defend its freedom against all threats."

Second-guessers among allied officials wondered privately whether the west had fumbled a great chance to disillusion many Communist youths about Soviet political myths.

Too Slow

Arrayed to repel a violent invasion which never came, western authorities were unable to shift their tactics quickly to open up the allied sectors so that large groups of the curious unarmed eastern youths could see the true situation in West Berlin.

A few hundred of the blue-shirted youngsters who surreptitiously visited West Berlin said that Communism yet was no more than skin deep among East Germany's youth despite continual political lecturing.

But they said they could not help but be impressed by the ceaseless barrage of Soviet press reports about misery, unemployment, social injustice and warlike preparations in the western countries.

Mrs. John Cridland Elected Chairman

Following a luncheon given Monday at the Empress Hotel by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, a short meeting of the Women's Advisory Committee of the East Centre District, Progressive Conservative Association, was held.

Mrs. John Cridland of Peterborough was elected the new chairman. She succeeds Mrs. Ira Lowe of Ida (Durham County) who has been chairman the past two years and gave an account of excellent stewardship in that time. Mrs. Cridland is the president of the Peterborough Women's Progressive Conservative Association.

Mrs. R. J. Meggs of Gore's Landing (Northumberland County) past chairman, presided at the election. Others present on this occasion were Mrs. Clayton Hodgson of Haliburton; Mrs. E. F. Moore of Lindsay; Mrs. J. W. Heyland of Bowmanville; Miss Noreen Fraser, and the special guest of the day, Mr. Gordon Higgins, MP, of Newfoundland.

Just Romance is not enough!

Although true romance is one of the exclusive attributes of the family circle, romance in itself is not enough. Hundreds of small realistic problems arise each day and harmony in home life depends upon right and equitable solutions.

In family problems as elsewhere, financial security is an aid to clear thinking. And clear thinking helps to harmonious solutions. How importantly financial security contributes to a tranquil household, and tends to preserve even the romantic in living!

Reunion Held By AA Battery

BELLEVILLE, May 30. — They fought the guns again and fought them hard. They lived and relived the battles fought overseas when they established a record for "kills" against Goering and Luftwaffe.

Nearly 200 ex-members of the 32nd Light Anti-Aircraft Battery, member unit of the 4th Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment, held their first reunion since the cessation of hostilities in Belleville on Saturday and Sunday.

Officially Welcomed

Popular commanding officer of the battery, former Major Jack Cousins, who later commanded the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment, RCA (ALI), was greeted by the men who served under him in England and the continent. The official welcome of the city was tendered the ex-gunners by His Worship Mayor Jack Allin, with county greetings extended by Mr. Elmer Sandercock, MLA, Hastings West. Brief addresses were given by Col. Cousins, Mayor Allin and Mr. Sandercock at the banquet held on Saturday night.

"The best battery that ever brought down an enemy aircraft" was the tribute paid to his men by Col. Cousins. He recalled several incidents that occurred during training and in action, and many humorous and serious stories were recounted. Col. Cousins was afforded a vociferous reception.

A Visiting Mayor

The mayor of Pontypool, John Payne, veteran of two wars and former resident of Pontypool, Ont., was given a warm welcome by his former buddies. It was recalled that ex-Gunner Payne was a deputy-reeve of Manvers at the time he enlisted, and while overseas paid a visit to Pontypool, Wales. The mayor of that city extended the freedom of the community to Payne and the town in general turned out to give the "Canadian mayor" a royal reception.

90,000 Workers Strike

BRUSSELS, May 30 (Reuters)—Ninety thousand Belgian textile workers went on strike today for higher wages. A union official said the stoppage was "almost general" throughout the Belgian textile industry. About 10,000 workers want their wages raised to a minimum of 16 Belgian francs (about 32 cents) an hour.

Hope Blockade Has Been Lifted

HONG KONG, May 30 (AP)—The steamship Mausang eased into Shanghai harbor Monday, raising hopes among shipping firms that the Chinese Nationalist blockade of that port crumbled with the Nationalist withdrawal from Chushan.

Several shipping lines immediately called for cargoes to Shanghai.

A report to the Royal Navy here confirmed the arrival but gave no details.

Only one other vessel is known to have reached the big northern port this year. That was the little coastal steamer Elsie Moller.

Because of its size, the 3,372-ton Mausang would have had to use the deep south channel of the Yangtze river. The 476-ton Elsie Moller was able to use the north channel, which the Nationalists delayed in mining.

Until they withdrew May 16 from Chushan, 100 miles southeast of Shanghai, the Nationalists maintained a tight blockade from that island base.

Porter Gets Report On 2 Police Officers

TORONTO, May 30 (CP)—Attorney-General Porter Monday received a report on investigation of charges that two Ontario Provincial Police officers "molested" seven citizens at Bradford about 40 miles north of here.

Details of the report—by Arthur Moss, deputy commissioner of the provincial force—were not divulged. He heard 22 witnesses following the complain of a Toronto choir that Cpl. David Adair and Constable Harry Spalding were "abusive" and "reeked with liquor."

Begin Drive For Prorogation

OTTAWA, May 30 (CP)—The Commons decided Monday to begin a prorogation drive Thursday. The opposition unsuccessfully sought to delay start of the drive for a week. Many members hope parliament will finish work June 30.

Members vote 104 to 30 against a CCF motion that would have delayed a three-sittings-a-day schedule until June 8. They adopted "on division"—without a formal vote—a government motion setting next Thursday, June 1, as the date for the start of the prorogation drive.

As a result members will sit from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. five days a week. They now sit from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. On Wednesdays they sit from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The Social Credit and Progressive Conservative parties split on the vote. Most of the Progressive Conservatives and the Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-MacLeod) sided with the CCF. Other Social Crediters and Karl Homuth (PC-Waterloo South), Joseph Harris (PC-Toronto Danforth), G. S. White (PC-Hastings-Peterborough) and George Tustin (PC-Prince Edward-Lennox) voted with the government.

Mission Band Meets

MILLBROOK, May 30 (ENS)—St. Andrew's Mission Band met in the Sunday schoolroom on Thursday afternoon, with the president, Alice Hawkins, in the chair. After the secretary's report, given by Dorothy Ball, Janet Hobbs, the treasurer, gave her report.

The candles on the worship centre were lighted by Milburn Hawkins. Mrs. Arnold Fallis gave the scripture reading and Mrs. H. Ouelette told the story of a new Canadian. During the activity period the children made small paper umbrellas under the direction of Mrs. Fallis. Glenn Fallis, the host, passed cookies.

Delegates Sail For Ottawa Press Parley

By E. S. JOHNSON

LIVERPOOL, May 30—(CP)—An imposing delegation of the commonwealth's topflight newspapermen, many accompanied by their wives, sailed for Canada tonight on the liner Empress of Scotland. They were bound for the seventh Imperial Press Conference which opens at Ottawa in mid-June.

Altogether 64 delegates, representing far-flung units of the commonwealth, are converging on the Dominion where the first overseas meeting of the Imperial Conference was held in 1920.

The contingent of 52 which sailed tonight included representatives of all groups of the United Kingdom's press, news agencies and periodical publications. They will be joined by the leader of the United Kingdom delegation, Col. J. J. Astor, principal proprietor of the London Times and president of the Empire Press Union. He left Britain earlier to receive an honorary degree from McGill University at Montreal.

Also in the party are Sir Keith Murdoch and W. H. Flather, respective heads of the delegations from Australia and South Africa. India is represented by six delegates, while the others come from New Zealand, Singapore and Gibraltar.

Lone Woman Delegate

The Hon. Mabel Strickland, proprietor of the Times of Malta, is the lone woman delegate.

Accompanying the party are Campbell Moodie, information officer of the Canadian government in London, and Brig. R. S. Johnson of the Colonial Office.

Their number will be increased by delegations from the West Indies; the Bahamas, Bermuda and others who are flying via Vancouver from Australia, New Zealand and the Far East.

Prominent publishers from the United States will be invited to attend the conference.

After the opening ceremonies conference delegates will tackle a heavy agenda touching on commonwealth and world problems, with "freedom of the press" the principal theme of the discussion.

Principles of Freedom

Commenting on this subject, the Empire Press Union annual report said:

"It may be that from these joint sessions there will emerge an agreed declaration on principles of press freedom by the English-language press of the world that may prove to be a new and strong defence for what now is the distinguishing mark of any tolerable social system—liberty of expressions limited only by existing law."

Sir Harry Brittain, founder and honorary life member of the Empire Press Union, expressed confidence that the deliberations of the conference would be as memorable and useful as any of its predecessors.

Forget Conservation Jolliffe Upset

TORONTO, May 30 (CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF leader said Monday night that the fact that conservation is not on the agenda for the forthcoming dominion-provincial conference "is an amazing and disastrous omission."

"It means—unless it is corrected—that we in our turn in Ontario will have floods as great or greater in their devastation than that of the Red river valley," said Mr. Jolliffe in a speech over the provincial network of the CBC.

His party and the legislature's conservation committee representing all parties, held that the federal government "should pay a fair share, such as 37½ per cent, of the cost of necessary works for flood control, the reforestation of large areas and the control of lake shore erosion."

Farmer Loses Purebred Cattle In $10,000 Fire

FENELON FALLS, May 30.—A large barn on the farm of Randolph Junkin, three miles southeast of Fenelon Falls, was gutted by fire of unknown origin early Sunday morning.

Lost in the blaze, which could be seen from Dunsford across the lake, were 11 head of cattle, including a valuable Hereford bull and five other purebred cattle.

A new mower, cultivator, seeder, two wagons, three sets of sleighs, an electric separator, a horse rake and several other pieces of equipment were destroyed along with 1,000 feet of lumber stored in the barn. Total loss is estimated at over $10,000. The barn and contents were partly covered by insurance.

First noticed by Jack Junkin, a son, the fire had gained considerable headway near the top of the barn when discovered. Running from the house Jack managed to save a truck parked near the burning structure.

Although on fire, the truck was driven away and the flames extinguished. By that time the fire was so hot is was impossible to get close enough to open the barn doors.

The efforts of two Bobcaygeon youths returning from Fenelon at the time of the fire are credited with saving a henhouse a short distance from the barn. In fighting the blaze the two lads, Roy Pogue and Jack Henderson, used their own clothes to beat out the flames on the side of the building.

The Fenelon Falls fire brigade arrived on the scene in time to prevent the flames from spreading to other buildings nearby. The heat of the fire was so great that firefighters were unable to use the water from a well about 30 feet from the barn and water had to be obtained from a well at the house some distance away.

The ruins were still smoldering late Sunday evening as a small Jersey calf with the hair singed on its back was wandering around the yard. The small animal escaped from the barn by bolting through a burning doorway.

NO ONE WOULD SUSPECT that a fortune in silver lies a few feet under this mass of rubble (Top) in London. It's a bombed-out safe-deposit building and in its subterranean strong rooms a lively market in antique silverware does a rushing business. It has become a top attraction for American visitors, because devaluation of the pound makes British antique silver a "good buy", and no duty is asked on items made before 1830. One of the dealers (Lower) checks his display. The market sprang up when one dealer, whose shop was destroyed by bombs, began using the vault as a show room. He found the experiment a success and others followed.

Discover Relics Of 15th Century

LINDSAY, May 30—The site of an ancient Huron village, thought by three University of Toronto archeologists to date back to the year 1400, was determined last week near Coboconk. The location of the village is Indian Point, jutting out into Balsam lake, on the property of Charles Shield.

Interest in the Point, long said to have been an Indian camping ground, increased when the archaeologists arrived in the village. With the aid of maps they had no difficulty in discovering the site of the settlement, which they estimated to have been established 400 years before Champlain set foot there on his exploration expedition.

Mr. Emerson, one of the University party expressed the hope that they would be able to set up camp near the site, to house students from the University who would help with excavations. They plan to commence this work about the middle of June.

Odd relics of Indian lore have been discovered on the point from time to time, and the residents of the village and community are looking forward with mounting interest, and conjecturing as to just what will be unearthed where once stood a village of an ancient Huron tribe. Moore's Hill, just north of Coboconk, and now the property of Mr. Bert Smith, has been referred to as the battlefield of the Indians, who are thought to have fought there on many occasions. Another ancient Indian encampment site is located in the Rumney Settlement, where Indian pipes and other relics have been found from time to time.

10,000 Pro-Red Youths Flocking Home Defy, Stone German Police

Irate West Germans Pummell 2,000 Reds Tear-Off Shirts at Helmstedt; Anti-Communists Win Fisticuff Fights

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 31 (AP)—Violence avoided in Berlin's huge Communist Whitsun rally threatened along West Germany's borders today as more than 10,000 pro-Red youths flocked home from the East. At Luebeck, police were stoned as 7,000 blue-shirted members of the Communist-led free German youth refused to take medical examinations ordered by western frontier guards.

Two thousand more of their fellow-travellers from Berlin continued home shirtless from Helmstedt, far to the southwest, where irate west Germans Tuesday night pummelled them and stripped them of their blue uniform shirts after the youths started singing the Communist internationale.

At the border outside Helmstedt today 600 more youths defied police attempts to inspect their luggage and pushed their way into the town, but submitted to baggage inspection by strengthened police forces at the railway station. Communist pamphlets were confiscated.

Club-swinging police saved one of the youths from about 10 townspeople who grabbed him and ripped off his Communist medals before police dispersed them. Civilians booed lustily as the fresh batch of Blue Shirts entered the town.

Illegal Entry

At Helmstedt West German police said 200 Blue Shirts tried to cross the border illegally early today. They were arrested and then released to move on to their homes.

All are en route to homes in Western Germany after attending the Communist - called youth demonstrations Sunday in Red-controlled East Berlin. The Berlin rallies went off without any violence.

The Blue Shirts at Luebeck massed along the roads to the half-mile-long No Man's Land between the borders of the Russian and British zones, debated but orderly. Police said a few hotheads threw stones at West German border police Tuesday night. One policeman was injured but order was restored.

Inquiry Ended Into Problems Of Transport

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP)—The Royal Commission on Transportation today completed its inquiry into Canada's national transport problems.

Almost exactly a year from the opening of its hearing the three-man body under Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon concluded the reception of evidence and arguments and adjourned to prepare its report.

The commission began hearings at Winnipeg a year ago tomorrow. Since then it has travelled to both coasts. Today's sitting was its 137th.

Final argument today came from the governments of Alberta, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Alberta told the commissioners that she is not asking federal help in meeting its share of freight costs under existing rate levels.

J. J. Frawley, Alberta counsel, suggested however that the application of a new freight-rate increase might bring about the necessity for a transportation subsidy to balance up additional costs that might be added to the western provinces in relation to Ontario and Quebec.

Speedy Trial For 8 Japanese

TOKYO, May 31 — (AP) — Eight Japanese accused of assaulting United States troops during a Communist rally Tuesday were brought to a speedy trial today before an occupation court.

The Japanese pleaded innocent to charges of assault and disobeying occupation orders. They face prison terms up to 10 years and fines up to $208.

Prosecutors said an effort would be made to complete the trial before nightfall.

Tuesday's incident was the first violent outbreak of the occupation against the American troops.

Shipping In Soo Area Due For Big Surprise

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 31 (CP)—Shipping in the Soo locks will get a rude surprise sometime in June. "Aggressor" troops of the U. S. Fifth Army will try to capture the locks and sabotage shipping.

Michigan National Guardsmen, the Air Force and the Coast Guard will defend the canal area.

Lt.-Gen. Stephen Chamberlain, Fifth Army commander, would not reveal the exact date of the raid. That's a surprise for the defenders. He said the exercise is designed to acquaint his troops with the terrain of the Soo area.

National Guardsmen in the area will be called out to protect the locks until reinforcements arrive.

Popular U.S. Envoy Will Leave Canada

OTTAWA, May 31 — (CP) — Julian F. Harrington, popular United States embassy minister will leave here this summer to take up a diplomatic appointment.

An official said Tuesday that Mr. Harrington, member of the embassy staff for the last three years, will be succeeded by Don Carroll Bliss, a career officer in the U.S. diplomatic service.

Mr. Harrington's new appointment has not yet been announced.

Fire Cause Unknown

NORTH BAY, May 31. — (CP)—Cause has still not been determined in Tuesday's $150,000 fire which wiped out the storage warehouse of the Imperial Oil Company here in a spectacular three-hour blaze. An investigation by company investigators is continuing today. Full extent of the damage is also unknown.

Collective Force Against Reds Need–Acheson

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson told Congress today that the growing power of Russia can only be met by organizing the military might of the west into "balanced collective forces." He appealed to Congress to support such a course.

Reporting on his recent cold war strategy talks in London, Acheson said the Western powers have reached "another time of decision" in which they must either strengthen their North Atlantic Treaty and Western European partnerships or risk falling backward into "total failure."

The 12 Atlantic Treaty foreign ministers, including himself, Acheson disclosed, did not say anything at London which indicated "any immediate threat of war." They were concerned rather to meet a Russian threat which "will exist unless we act now to prepare our defences against aggression."

Acheson spoke in the Library of Congress at a meeting to which all House of Representatives and Senate members were invited.

Work For The Whole

The creation of "a balanced collective force" would mean that each of the 12 Atlantic Treaty powers would build up troops and arms according to the needs of the whole alliance rather than strictly for its own defensive needs.

Discussing costs, Acheson said that "a very large economic and financial effort" is needed to meet what he called "a dangerous situation."

"The work of the North Atlantic Treaty organization in the first year of its existence has shown that the task of defence is so large, its cost in labor and material resources so high, and the problem of security so invisible that only a combined effort will be adequate." He added:

"The job can not be done unless we do our full part which includes the provisions of mutual defence assistance."

City Council Gives Driver Job Back

BEBINGTON, Cheshire, England, May 31 (AP)—The City Council took pity today on Sidney Cooper and gave him back the job he lost for driving his garbage truck in Queen Elizabeth's procession.

Cooper fell from grace May 3 when he manoeuvred his bright orange garbage truck into the procession only three cars behind the Queen as she passed through here on her way to Birkenhead for a ship-launching ceremony.

Friends sent a petition signed by more than 1,000 persons to Buckingham Palace asking the Queen to intervene on Cooper's behalf. They received a formal acknowledgment, but the council said there was no Royal request to put Cooper back on the job he had held for 17 years.

Nova Scotia's Fire Roars Along Unchecked

HALIFAX, May 31 (CP) — Nova Scotia's forest fire swerved eastward today and roared along unchecked on an eight-mile front.

Leaders of some 1,000 volunteer fire-fighters called for more equipment as the blaze headed toward the villages of Dean and Upper Musquodoboit, in the eastern part of Halifax county. The settlements were not in immediate danger.

Forest officials returning from the fire-front declare only rain can stop the blaze, being fed by tinder-dry spruce. One dwelling and several barns and logging camps already have been destroyed, as well as thousands of acres of timberland.

Police Tips Foiling Raids–Chief

Mayor Has Disclosed Six Syndicates Operating In Toronto

TORONTO, May 31.—(CP).—Police Chief John Chisholm hinted today that some Toronto police officers may tip off gamblers when raids are impending.

He made the suggestion in an interview today concerning disclosure Tuesday night by Mayor professional gambling syndicates are operating in the Greater Tor- Hiram McCallum that at least six onto area.

Another development today was a charge by the mayor that Ontario government officials have ignored city protests against issuance of provincial charters to clubs known to be controlled by professional gambling syndicates.

Attorney-General Porter said he knew of no case in which a charter was granted under such circumstances, but that he would investigate.

"A complaint often made against the police in gambling raids is that there has been a tip-off," chief Chisholm said. "If the person issuing an order for search or his immediate associates, are in any way sympathetic to the gambling element, one can draw one's own conclusion as to whether the police raid will be a successful one.

Watch For Signal

"On the other hand, the massing of police officers is always liable to arouse suspicion in the minds of any police officers who might be sympathetic toward, or in league with, the professional gambling element. The slightest hint or telephone message to any leading bookmaker or gaming house operator can be quickly interpreted as a signal for caution. A subsequent police raid will prove abortive."

Controller Allan Lamport said he will demand a Royal commission investigation of the chief's suggestion that some police officers are in league with the gambling interests.

The mayor appealed for full co-operation of the public in curbing illegal gambling in Toronto.

Mayor McCallum said the syndicates have at least 2,000 "outlets,' meaning places where bets can be taken or places where bets can be recorded and registered.

The syndicates are composed of local men with no United States connections, as far as he knows, Mayor McCallum said. They are on the lookout for every possible unlicensed place which could be used as a front for taking bets.

The turn-over involved in operations of these syndicates in Toronto amounts to several million dollars a year on the basis of police information, the mayor said. Most Toronto crime—even murder — stems from operation of these syndicates, he added.

Give Police Power

What brought the gambling situation into the limelight was action of city council in passing a by-law which gives the police

3 Prominent Soviets Said To Have Died

MOSGOW, May 31 — (AP)—The Soviet press today announced the deaths of Maj.-Gen. Ivan Akhremenko, 49, and two prominent Soviet political leaders.

They were F. Chernov, 44, director of the State Publishing House for Political Literature, and Alexander Bouchenko, writer and leader of the Ukrainian Communist Party.

Akhremenko, an officer in the Signal Corps who had served since 1919, died following a long continuously in the Soviet army illness, the reports said. During the Second World War he had been communications chief for a Soviet army.

Chernov occupied important teaching posts in the social science field.

Boichekno, though confined to his bed almost continuously since 1931 by a severe illness, was reported active in party work.

DEAD CORVETTES—Part of a fleet of some 60 corvettes which saw action in the Second World War are shown here stripped and rusting in the "navy graveyard" in Sorel, Que. The vessels played their part with the Royal Canadian Navy by escorting troopships and cargo-laden ships back and forth across the Atlantic Ocean. Sorel is 50 miles down the St. Lawrence River from Montreal. The corvette Peterborough is one of the above.

Says Pakistan Will Preserve Democratic Way

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP) — Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan said today that democracy is of little use to the common man "unless its advantages are made available to him in his daily life."

In Canada on a five-day visit, Liaquat Ali spoke before a joint session of the Senate and House of Commons.

He said Pakistan is resolved to safeguard its freedom "at all costs whatever the threat and whatever the quarter from which aggression may face us."

"For our own part," he said, "we have no aggressive designs and consider it our moral responsibility to pursue the path of peace and to help in the maintenance of peace and stability everywhere and particularly in the uneasy continent of Asia, on whose future world peace very largely depends.

"Nowhere in Asia are the circumstances for development of the democratic idea more naturally favored than they are in Pakistan."

Liaquat Ali said the people of Pakistan are pledged to the principles of democracy, freedom, equality, tolerance and social justice as enunciated by Islam.

"This does not mean theocracy," he said, "for Islam does not believe either in priesthood or the caste system. On the contrary our conception of democracy is possibly even more comprehensive than that which is contained in the institutions of universal franchise and majority rule.

Truck Driver Burned In Cab

DUNDAS, Ont., May 31 (CP)—A truck driver was burned to death early today when trapped in the blazing cab of a tractor-trailer on Highway No. 8 near here.

The body was identified as that of Ralph Galloway of Toronto, a driver for the Raitar Transport Company, Waterloo. He was married and father of two children.

It is believed he fell asleep at the wheel of the heavy vehicle which plowed its way along the ditch for some 200 feet and then turned on its side, trapping the driver in the cab.

The truck, proceeding from Hespeler to Toronto with a load of lime, burst into flames and the cab was an inferno before members of the Greensville fire department could extinguish the flames.

Police said they thought the accident occurred about 5.30 a.m.

The truck felled a hydro pole in its path along the roadway, causing service to some rural consumers to be affected. Crews from the rural hydro, Dundas, helped police to cut through the burned and twisted metal of the cab to remove Galloway's body.

Arrest 3 In Toronto Hotel With $20,000 Bogus Bills

TORONTO, May 31.—(CP).—R.C.M.P. arrested three men early today and seized more than $20,000 in counterfeit $10 bills after a raid on a downtown Toronto hotel. Police believe the money was to be shipped to Winnipeg and other western centres to be passed.

R.C.M.P. officers said the money was manufactured by the international counterfeit ring operating from Buffalo, which was smashed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation two weeks ago.

Arrested were: William Ignatt, 33, of Winnipeg; Douglas Gordon, 36, and Charles Cipolla, 37, both of Toronto.

Ignatt and Gordon were arrested in the hotel. Cipolla was picked up later at his home.

Under Surveillance

Police say that Ignatt arrived in Toronto May 27 and stayed at a downtown hotel. He had been under surveillance since leaving Winnipeg.

The three appeared in Magistrate's Court this morning and were remanded for a week.

Police believe Ignatt came east to buy the bills to circulate in the flood areas. They say that police are investigating in Winnipeg and more arrests may be made.

Cipolla's brother, Frank, now is serving a term in Kingston Penitentiary for being in possession of $40,000 in counterfeit bills last year, police said. He was arrested in Guelph.

Exonerate Policemen

TORONTO, May 31 (CP)—Two provincial policemen today were exonerated of charges of bullying and manhandling seven members of a Baptist youth group. Attorney-General Porter today made public a report on a closed inquiry held by Deputy Commissioner Arthur Moss of the Provincial Police into the conduct of Cpl. David Adair and Constable Harry Sparling.

Grant Petition For Vice Inquiry

MONTREAL, May 31 (CP) — Chief Justice O. N. Tyndale today granted a petition asking for a probe into vice conditions in Montreal.

He set Sept. 7 as opening date of the probe sought by the Montreal Citizens' Public Morality Committee. It will be conducted by Mr. Justice Francois Caron of Superior Court.

The petition, presented by two Montreal lawyers, Pacifique (Pax) Plante and Jean Drapeau, alleges "malfeasance and corruption" on the part of certain members of the Montreal city council and police department.

Plante, dismissed two years ago as assistant police director on charges of insubordination was credited with cleaning up organized vice in Montreal in the early post-war period.

He wrote a series of articles last winter in Le Devoir dealing with vice conditions in Montreal. The articles sparked a drive by Roman Catholic organizations here for a cleanup.

Police Chief Albert Langlois said at that time, however, that the city was free of organized vice, although a shakeup in the police morality squad and a crackdown on night clubs followed.

LAUNCH REVISION

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP)—The government gave notice today it is ready to launch in Parliament the most sweeping revision of the Indian Act in many years. Citizenship Minister Harris tabled the notice on the Commons order paper.

Man Beaten Brutally By Prisoners

Say Officials Ordered Ransome Paid, U.K. Secures Release

MONTREAL, May 31.—(CP).—A young Montreal couple, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Tremewen, were reported by friends to be in Brownsville, Texas, recovering from maltreatment suffered while in custody of Mexican immigration authorities at Matamoros, Mex.

(In Ottawa a spokesman for the External Affairs Department said the story as related in Montreal was substantially correct. There were no more details available in Ottawa.)

News of the incident reached Montreal through a long-distance telephone call from friends who went to Brownsville to "pay a ransom" for release of the couple.

The Tremewens are said to have been separated Saturday in the little Mexican town across the Rio Grande River from Brownsville and jailed after a dispute with immigration officials for overstaying their six-month tourist permit.

Brutally Beaten

"After being thrown into a cell —an indescribably filthy cell as Mrs. Tremewen described it— with 28 other prisoners, all of whom were Mexicans," the friends here said, "Mr. Tremewen was brutally beaten — almost to death—by four cellmates. The cellmates are said to be convicted murderers who used whips obtained in some inexplicable manner."

Mrs. Tremewen telephoned friends in Montreal Sunday from a Matharmoros hotel where she was under armed police escort and ordered to call friends for money or her husband would be beaten to death.

Her friends said she was hysterical and in a frantic state. She begged them to take the first plane out with $4,000 in order to ransom her husband. The woman was quoted as saying: "You've got to come or my husband will be dead by tonight."

The friends saw Mexican and British officials Monday because

Police Quell 100 Brawlers

TORONTO, May 31 (CP) — Police Tuesday night used night sticks to quell a brawling group of about 100 teen-agers who blocked a north-end intersection and molested passers-by.

Four youths were charged with creating a disturbance.

Residents of Mount Pleasant district said the youths blocked the street and "made more noise than a herd of elephants." One bystander said "the police would have been justified in shooting them. They acted like animals."

Police said three youths attacked an officer who tried to disperse the mob and knocked him to the ground. Seven other policemen helped clear the street.

Young girls who cheered on the fighting youths wept when the police reinforcements arrived.

Everybody In Parliament Would Be Liberal Friend

LONDON, May 31 (CP)—How to be lonely and popular at the same time is no trick at all for Britain's nine Liberal members of parliament. Everybody wants to be their friend.

Conservatives woo them with winning speeches and Socialists go out of their way to be kind. Even the National Liberals, a small group which votes with the Conservatives, have invited orthodox Liberals to join them.

But the once-powerful party now headed by Clement Davies, feels strangely insecure. It didn't even reply to the National Liberals, whom Davies has described as the "licorice all-sorts" because of their diverse labels.

Davies has been similarly curt with the Socialists. In the case of the Conservatives, the Liberal tendency is to listen carefully, but to refuse—so far at least—any comments.

All signs are that they will continue to do so. But there is some ground for believing that after a time a limited understanding may be reached.

Frank Byers, former Liberal chief whip, recently succeeded Lord Moynihan as chairman of the Liberal party executive. Some feel that Byers is more likely to heed the Tory siren songs than Lord Moynihan.

Whatever happens, the Liberals are bound to be sought after by persons who may perhaps be less interested in Liberal theories than in the 2,600,000 votes cast for Liberals at the February general election.

6 European Lands Ready To Pool Steel Industries

PARIS, May 31 — (AP)—Six European countries today were ready to pool their coal and steel industries, but Britain maintained a "wait and see" attitude toward French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman's economic union plan.

The French Foreign Office announced Belgium, Luxembourg, Italy, The Netherlands, West Germany and France had agreed to set up an international authority to administer their coal and steel production.

The six countries will meet next month to work out the pool arrangement and put it into effect.

British sources in London said their country was anxious to join in the talks but refused a French invitation to approve the French plan before the talks start.

Schuman at once dispatched a new memorandum to the London government, designed to clear up what officials said was a British misunderstanding of the original French invitation.

The French sources said the new note emphasized that British endorsement of the plan "in principle" would not bind Britain to approve the results of the future discussions.

The six countries who have accepted the plan, a French spokesman said, "have agreed to come to a meeting (next month) with the preconceived idea of making a plan work," he added.

"Their interest is to put their shoulders together for the common good. We hope that other nations will join in the same effort."

Schuman proposed his plan on May 9 for an international authority to administer Europe's coal and steel output.

Pact Representatives Hold Special Parley

LONDON, May 31 (Reuters) Representatives of the 12 North Atlantic pact powers will meet here "during the next two weeks" to prepare for the Atlantic executive planned by their foreign ministers earlier this month, reliable sources said today.

The "temporary deputies" will give effect to a proposal by the North Atlantic treaty council for the establishment of a permanent organization to achieve "tangible results."

Sir Pierson Dixon, who recently returned to London from the Prague embassy to take over as deputy undersecretary in charge of western organization at the foreign office, is a likely "temporary chairman" for the preliminary meeting.

Wheat Price Likely $1.98 Bushel

OTTAWA, May 31 —(CP)— Trade Minister Howe told the Commons Tuesday that Canada's major wheat sales after July 31 will be made under the international wheat agreement instead of by the Anglo-Canadian bilateral contract.

He said he believed the price will be at or near the maximum of $1.98 a bushel.

Mr. Howe, who returned this week from a trip to the United Kingdom, said the four-year Anglo-Canadian contract will not be renewed when it expires July 31. However, termination of the contract will not mean an end of sales to the United Kingdom.

Canada was assured for the 1950-51 crop year of a United Kingdom market for at least half of this country's exportable surplus of wheat. He estimated Britain will take between 100,000,000 and 120,000,000 bushels, including 300,000 tons of flour.

The international wheat agreement provides a minimum price of $1.54 a bushel and a maximum of $1.98.

Gets First Reading

Mr. Howe read a brief statement to members at the opening of the Commons. He elaborated later during a debate on a resolution to a bill extending the life of the Canadian Wheat Board, sole marketing agency for wheat and coarse grains, to Aug. 1, 1953. The resolution was adopted and the bill introduced and given first reading.

During the debate, opposition members were quick to express their disappointment at the announcement.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) said western farmers had lost upwards of $600,000,000, and now instead of an assured market, the government was offering them the hope that the United Kingdom will take between 100,000,000 and 120,000,000 bushels in the coming crop year.

Toss Legal Obstacles Back At Army Chiefs

OTTAWA, May 31 — (CP) — The Commons defence committee Tuesday threw a controversial group of legal obstacles to armed services' unification right back into the laps of the military chiefs of staff.

On the suggestion of Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, B.C. (PC-Nanaimo) the 25-man committee agreed to ask the chiefs to see if they can't effect a greater degree of "harmony" in certain clauses in the bill to consolidate defence legislation in one act.

These are clauses in which the bill proposes to have one law for the navy, another for the army and air force. Mr. Pearkes' proposal was approved by Maj. E. W. George (L-Westmoreland) and passed unanimously.

2 Daring Bandits Hold Up Bank

MONTREAL, May 31—(CP)— Even as police combed the Laurentian area for last Thursday's man-killing, would-be bandit, two robbers rifled a Banque Provinciale branch of some $2,800 at gun-point here Tuesday and fled.

About 10 customers were in the bank at the time, along with the staff. The holdup was carried out so quietly and quickly, the bandits awaiting their turn in line at the wicket, that few of the customers realized a holdup was in progress until the men dashed from the bank.

Meanwhile detectives searched the area around Lac Brule, 30 miles northwest of here, after receiving a tip on a man answering the description of the desperado who attempted to hold up the Midtown Bank at Toronto and killed an RCMP guard last week.

Urge Examinations

Police set up loudspeakers and urged the youths to take the medical examinations which German officials of the Schleswig-Holstein state had ordered to prevent spread of disease.

Communists from Luebeck tried to negotiate with the police to let the youths cross the border without the examination. When police could not they were acting under instructions from the State Ministry of Interior, the erstwhile negotiators declared the Western action was "provocation."

Rioting started Tuesday night at Helmstedt when lack of transport temporarily stranded the pro-Red youths there and sent them toward restaurants and taverns, singing their Communist marching song.

Townspeople out in droves responded with Germany's old anthem, "Deutschland Uber Alles." Then fisticuffs followed. The anti-Reds won.

City police said the rioting stopped at midnight and that all but a few stragglers apparently managed to leave the city by bus or train or on foot.

No serious injuries were reported.

Driver Smashes Way Out Of Blazing Truck

DIXIE, Ont., May 31 CP) — Edward Hill, 43, of Owen Sound smashed his way out of his overturned truck early today after it jack-knifed near this community, about eight miles southwest of Toronto, and burst into flames.

Hill was taken to hospital for treatment of burns to his face, arms and hands. His condition was described as fairly good.

"For one nightmarish second I thought I was through," Hill said. "I made a shove on the door and failed to get it open. Then with all my strength I hurled myself at the windshield. It broke and I scrambled to the highway. Behind me was a ball of flame. I can't realize yet that I escaped from it."

commission power to license all shoe-repair and shoe-shine shops. The licence fee is a nominal $1 a year, but the by-law gives power to close an establishment used for illegal purposes.

Mayor McCallum said that the biggest offenders seem to be tobacco stores, already under city licence. A difficulty with these is that the licence generally is in the owner's wife's name. "When we cancel the licence we are accused of depriving the woman of a livelihood."

Police Chief John Chisholm, whose report provided the mayor with his information on the extensive gambling operations in the city, said in an interview that besides shoe repair shops, shoeshine shops and tobacco shops, the syndicates also used poolrooms, barber shops, cleaning and pressing establishments, some restaurants and even newsboys on street corners.

"The gamblers are well organized both financially and in the way of equipment," said Chief Chisholm. "In one of our raids recently we seized a walkie-talkie, used in a parked automobile by a lookout to warn the inmates and operators of the establishment on the approach of the police."

Disease Cuts Cocoa Supply In Gold Coast

By GRAHAM JENKINS

ACCRA, Gold Coast—(Reuters) — In 20 years, it may be as difficult to get a cup of cocoa or a bar of chocolate as it was to get a drink of Scotch or a pair of nylons during the war. "Make mine vanilla" may become the order of the day, for the world's largest cocoa-producing area is threatened with extinction.

Fifteen million cocoa trees, bitten by the tiny, virus-infected mealy bugs, are dying here every year. In 20 years, there won't be any more trees, experts say, unless they can find some way of successfully combatting the bug. Thus far, their efforts have been unavailing.

The only other cocoa-producing area of any importance is Bahia province, Brazil.

British experts say that 50,000,000 of the Gold Coast's 400,000,000 trees now are infected. The disease, known as swollen shoot, has devastated nearly one-third of this colony's cocoa-producing country since its discovery in 1932.

600 Million Loss

Only new planting has enabled the West African farmers to keep up production. Loss to the industry is esimated to exceed $600,000,000.

Scientists thus far have no cure for swollen shoot. Their advice to the cocoa farmer for years has been to destroy trees showing symptoms of the disease. But their advice has been largely ignored, in spite of government payments for every tree eliminated.

The government met the challenge by appointing a commissioner of cocoa rehabilitation to handle complaints, organize the cutting out and plan the containment of the disease. Now, 2,500,000 trees are being cut every year.

Education Difficult

Since a cocoa tree may live for nearly 18 months after being attacked by the deadly bug, it has been difficult for rehabilitation officers to convince the conservative, illiterate African farmer that he could cut out infected trees immediately.

Experts have discovered that a bug which bites an infected tree can in 20 minutes pass the virus to another cocoa plant.

Oddly enough, the cocoa farmer is better off financially this season than ever before.

In the Gold Coast these facts provided by government sources make an ironic footnote to the story:

1. Farmers this year are getting a record price of $6.30 a load of fermented cocoa beans compared with $3.84 three years ago.

2. There is so much money in circulation that farmers are giving up food production and speeding the colony's inflation spiral.

3. This season's crop is estimated at about 250,000 tons, or only 30,000 tons less than last season's postwar bumper harvest.

But far-sighted officials and farmers say that this state of affairs cannot continue for long unless producers really get down to eradicating swollen shoot, which, in spite of the colony's prosperity, is costing about $15,000,000 a year.

House Rejects Commission On Spending

OTTAWA, May 31 —(CP)—The Commons decided Tuesday that Parliament and not a Royal Commission should recommend ways to reduce federal expenditures and to eliminate overlapping services.

By a vote of 140 to 31, members rejected a Progressive Conservative proposal for appointment of a Royal Commission to seek ways to:

1. Reduce public expenditure to the lowest point consistent with efficiency.

2. Eliminate duplication of overlapping services.

3. Consolidate all public services and departmental activities of a similar nature.

4. Improve the general efficiency of government and assuring civil servants full recognition of their responsibilities.

The CCF and Social Credit parties voted with the Liberals against the motion after Finance Minister Abbott said acceptance would mean an abrogation of the rights of parliament.

Study Legislation

Earlier, by a count of 121 to 49, the chamber defeated a Social Credit amendment which would have substituted "control" of expenditures for "reduction" of expenditures proposed in the Progressive Conservative motion.

After conclusion of the debate, carried on intermittently since April 28, members turned again to the study of legislation.

Two private bills were defeated at the night sitting.

Members voted 98 to 45 against a bill sponsored by Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) which would have provided for a voluntary revocable

Senior Workers Get Free Cars

VANCOUVER, May — (CP) — A Vancouver employer has hit on a unique way to get more work out of his employees—and they love him for it.

L. D. Dueck, president of an automobile firm, gives a new car each year to his 100 senior employees. Junior employees—those who have worked less than a year for the firm—get the use of a car during their vacation.

Officials say there are no restrictions on who gets the car. They go to metal men and mechanics as well as department heads and foremen.

"The program means a continual, heavy capital investment," says Mr. Dueck, "But we have found through experience that the investment is fully returned in first-class workmanship, greater plant efficiency and productivity."

Mr. Dueck started his sceme in 1942. He gave every employee a car during vacations. This worked out so well that in 1945 he decided to give senior employees the cars on a year-round basis.

The employees turn the cars in each year and receive a new one, equipped with licence and heater. There are no charges and no "ifs."

Find Oak Mace Symbolizes University Life

HALIFAX,—(CP)—A piece of oak felled on the estate of a British nobleman has been carved to symbolize the life of Dalhousie University, whose cornerstone was laid in 1820.

The Earl of Dalhousie sent the oak here. It was then fashioned into a mace by a Halifax craftsman and held a place of honor at recent convocation ceremonies at the university.

A. H. MacMillan worked on the mace for more than a year, following instructions by Dr. R. L. Dec. H. Sauders, director of the medical museum and professor of pathological anatomy at the college.

The mace tells in a heraldic way of the life of the university since it had its origin in the brain of the ninth Earl of Dalhousie, a soldier in the war of 1812.

Proud Tradition

Dr. Saunders describes it this way:

"The Dalhousie University mace has been designed to relate symbolically as the eye ascends its length the proud maritime tradition of the sea-girt provinces and the historical heritage of the university which served them. It is carved in oak and enriched with silver and enamel."

The lower end, or button, is adorned with four silver fish in recognition of the Maritimes' economy staple. Above, a sea nymph holds a conch shell through which she is calling across the waves to the setting sun in representation of the urge that brought navigators to this land.

The grooved shaft represents the roots put down by early settlers and the tall trees they found. The mace head's lower part bears a circlet of maple leaves, the national emblem, and mayflowers symbolizing the new province and the flowering of new civilization.

The main section shows four medieval scholars facing the main compass points, representing the university faculties and their old world heritage.

Each figure is fronted by a silver enamelled shield emblazoned with either the arms of the university or the province. Alternating with the figures are the rose, thistle, shamrock and Fleur-de-Lis.

The top of the mace bears a five-rayed Scottish Earl's coronet in recognition of the founder. Atop is a silver celtic cross surrounded by the university motto "Ora Et Labora."

Officials at the United Kingdom High Commissioner's office in Ottawa took immediate action, according to information here, and the Tremewens were released from custody and allowed to proceed into the United States.

The Tremewens went to Mexico last fall and after spending three weeks more than the extent of their tourist permit started back for Montreal. They were stopped at Matharmoros and after having their papers examined were asked to sign a paper written in Spanish.

Mr. Tremewen protested, asking that it be translated before he signed it. Both were then thrown in jail.

Get New Brigade After Wage Dispute

DESERONTO, May 31 (CP) — This town today has a new volunteer fire brigade as a result of a wage dispute.

The former 14-man brigade, of which J. McVicker had been chief for 15 years, was dismissed after its members sought 75 cents an hour, instead of 50 cents, for time spent at fires. Council rejected the demand on grounds that the money is not available.

The new force is headed by Councillor Hubert Howard, who says he has recruited 16 volunteers, seven of them experienced in fighting fires.

The row has stirred public interest in this town of 1,600 persons 20 miles east of Belleville. However, Mayor R. K. Jackson says the force led by Councillor Howard is a competent group and "we definitely have a new brigade now."

Canada Told Must Aid Asia For Peace

OTTAWA, May 31 —(CP)— Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan, leader of Pakistan's 77,000,000 people, said Tuesday that there is no hope for peace in the world "unless the Western powers are ready to assist the peoples of Asia."

On a five-day visit to Canada, accompanied by the Begum of Pakistan and a large retinue, the prime minister told a press conference that poverty, disease and ignorance in Asia constitute a "serious threat" to peace, freedom and democracy.

In a reference to Russia, he said:

"Pakistan is the one country which is defending the most important commonwealth frontier."

When asked if the Russians were massing forces along that frontier, he replied: "They have not sent me any intimation that they intend doing so."

Liaquat Ali declared Pakistan was prepared to defend its way of life and added that the country had a "competent" air force, a small navy and an army which has some of the finest soldiers in the world."

Monday night the prime minister and the begum were entertained at dinner by Governor-General and Viscountess Alexander, with whom they are staying at Government House for two days. On Thursday they will move to the residence of Mohammed Ali, Pakistan high commissioner in Canada, and Mrs. Ali.

Industrials Chalk Up More Advances

TORONTO, May 31 (CP) — Industrials chalked up a second successive session of advancing prices as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Gains ranging to a point appeared steadily over a wide list of industrials as the list climbed into new high price territory.

Papers, utilities and steels led the steady upturn in industrials. Signs of resistance appeared in mid-session and the advance slowed but gains were held by most market leaders. Foods, agriculture and liquors were also well ahead with Massey-Harris continuing the feature in agriculturals, adding ½ at a new high at 29½.

Tuesday's advances carried the list to the highest average price level recorded by the exchange's index of representative stocks since it was first compiled in 1934.

Western oils traded briskly in a narrow range.

Base metals edged ahead while golds weakened. Low-priced issues continued brisk traders but interest slackened slightly compared with last week's booming mining markets.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

WHY TREE ROOTS PREFER SEWERS

Like metal to a magnet, sewer moisture has an irresistible drawing power to the roots of trees. Finding the tiniest opening, a hair-thin tendril creeps its way in and often causes clogged sewers—an unsanitary nuisance which can prove costly.

To overcome this, Johns-Manville developed Transite House Connection Pipe. Built-up of asbestos and cement it cannot rot or rust. The inside finish of the pipe is of polished smoothness to permit high flow capacity. And each joint is sealed with a "Taper-Tite" coupling that stubbornly resists root growth or other infiltration.

For complete details on Transite House Connection Pipe, write Canadian Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto — or see your nearest J-M dealer.

Hit Hydro Pole With Iron Pipe Claims $25,000

COBOURG, May 31.—(ENS).—Harry Glober, Port Hope, described in Supreme Court on Tuesday how his tourist camp was destroyed by fire when an iron pipe he was using to clean the chimney touched the high tension hydro wires. He is claiming $25,000 damages from the HEPC.

Mr. Glober testified that he bought his tourist camp property in 1946 from the CNR, just at the town limits of Port Hope. The chimney on the bath-house was to serve a stove used to heat water for showers and washing. Glober said that he had 15 cabins in operation in 1947, and also ran an antique business.

On August 17, 1948, in order to clear out a chimney that was not operating properly, he put a ladder to the side of the bath-house and climbed up. After he got on the roof he drew up an iron pipe, 19 feet, six inches long.

"I didn't see anything dangerous in what I was doing. There was no sign on or near the property to indicate high voltage wires. My wife was down inside the building. I had a small ladder up against the chimney and had one foot on the ladder and the other on the iron vent pipe in the roof. I was moving the pipe up and down with both hands when I heard an explosion and couldn't get away from the pipe.

Clothes Catch Fire

"My clothing caught fire and a ball of fire came through the chimney in front of me, going down and then up again. After the explosion I was able to let go of the pipe, but my clothing was on fire, and also my hair. I ran back and forth on the roof trying to beat out the fire."

The explosion was loud enough to bring out most of the employees in the factory 400 feet north to see what was wrong. I half climbed and half slid down the latter and I was taken to the hospital."

Mr. Glober said he was in Port Hope hospital for three weeks and then went to a Toronto hospital for another three weeks for skin grafts to both arms. After he returned he stayed in one of his cabins for several months, convalescing. He was under treatment for his burns for more than a year, he said.

In December of 1949 he was examined by a Kingston neurologist. Mr. Glober said that ever since the accident he had been nervous and irritable and subject to spells of depression. Ever since the accident, he had been sexually impotent.

Didn't Notice Wires

Under cross - examination, Mr. Glober said he didn't notice the wires over the bath-house. He admitted that he could easily see in the photograph the lines of poles running along the south of his property, outside the boundaries of it.

"You complain that you could see no signs on the poles warning of high tension wires, but what difference does that make when you say you didn't even see the poles?" said defence counsel E. L. Haines.

"Is it not a fact that you put the hydro men off your premises in the spring of 1948 when they were digging a hole for a guy wire? They returned later and said that they intended to proceed with it," said Mr. Haines.

Didn't Want Argument

Plaintiff replied that he didn't want to get in to an argument with them, so let them go ahead. He said he didn't recall the hydro truck going over his property that spring dumping off materials to string the wires to the poles. He remembered somebody from the hydro coming to him and offering him $5 for the right to put in the guy wire, which he refused to accept.

"Didn't you say you wanted $100 and didn't you ask them what they would pay if the guy wire was at the corner of King and Yonge in Toronto?" asked defence counsel.

"I can't remember saying anything like that," replied Mr. Glober.

He was then asked if he recalled talking about the power line with hydro workmen in May of 1948, and the reply was that he couldn't remember.

W. Chambers of Belleville produced photographs showing warning signs at the Sidney power station north of Belleville and on poles which were not near buildings. To defence counsel he said that the poles in question were on road allowances. J. Donovan, land surveyer, testified that the hydro wires encroached 15 inches on the Glober property near the bath-house, and that the horizontal clearance of the chimney and the 44,000 volt power line was three feet, five inches.

Mrs. Glober said that when she heard her husband cry out after the explosion, she went up on the roof. She said that when she moved toward the chimney her husband shouted at her to stay away from it.

Hugh Dalton's Statement Indicates Election

COCKFIELD, England, May 31 —(AP)— Hugh Dalton, a ranking member of the government, said Tuesday: "It does not look as if this House of Commons will last very long— it is not a good instrument for passing important legislation."

His words indicated a belief that parliament soon will be dissolved and another General Election called. Labor has only a working margin of eight in the present House, which was elected Feb. 23. It is constantly subject to the possibility of losing a confidence vote, which would require Prime Minister Attlee's cabinet to resign.

Dalton, Minister of Town and Country Planning and a former chancellor of the exchequer, addressed a Labor party meeting here. His remarks appeared to conflict with recent reports on Labor strategy. These had said Attlee favored delaying a new election until the summer or fall of 1951.

How Long Will the Building Boom Last?

There has been remarkable activity in the building trades ever since the end of the war. Far from waning, the boom seems to be growing. How long can we expect it to continue? This question is discussed in the current issue of Fortune, and although no definite answer is given—for definite answers to such questions are impossible—it is predicted that the boom will continue for at least another five years, and that it may possibly go on for five years beyond that time. These are great days for the builders.

* * *

The figures given in Fortune relate to the U.S.A. of course. But by this time Canadian business men have become adept in interpreting U.S. figures in terms of Canadian conditions. The estimated building program for this year in the U.S.A., expressed in millions of dollars is as follows:

Residential	7,200 millions
Industrial and commercial	2,500 millions
Utilities	3,400 millions
Farm	400 millions
Roads	2,000 millions
Schools, sewers, gov't., dams, etc.	4,500 millions

This is a formidable program; if Canada builds proportionately now and in the five or six years to come we need not expect much drop in the intensity or the cost of construction.

* * *

The building of houses is the biggest single job of the construction companies and the contractors here as it is in the U.S.A. And it is not merely a matter of providing a house or an apartment for each new family that wants one. There are hundreds of thousands of families which are discontented with the houses they have, and want better ones as soon as they can get them. When housing of any kind was scarce people stayed where they were and thought themselves lucky to have a roof over their heads. But they are now planning in great numbers to move, or to build, and their wants will keep the builders busy for some time to come.

* * *

It is regrettable that so much of the building that has been done since the war is of poor quality. Nobody regrets this any more than the reputable builders. They do not like to work with poor materials, but they had to use what they could get. Although the situation is still far from satisfactory, an improvement in supplies and in the quality of materials is beginning to appear, and we may expect better building in the future.

* * *

Improvement in materials alone, however, will not be enough. There must be decided improvements in domestic architecture which is surely, at present, at its lowest ebb since our forebears built their log cabins in the woods. There is a meanness—a radical lack of quality—about much modern domestic building, and the public is slowly beginning to rebel against it. To quote Fortune again: "By and large the new houses fail to stir any rousing enthusiasm; they are good enough to buy, if you need a house; if they should ever get better than that, the U.S. might have to put up with a permanent building boom." That is true of Canada, as well. People must have houses, and the builders will be busy supplying their wants so long as anyone can foresee. But people want better houses—houses in which it is possible to live without that sense of frustration which comes of cramped quarters and bad planning.

* * *

In the past fifty years improved ideas about public health have made our houses safer places to live in. The time is ripe for an architectural revolution which will make our houses not merely safe, but also pleasant, restful and beautiful dwellings. Surely the time has gone when only a very rich man could hope to have a house which conformed to basic rules of good design.

Bay of Quinte Conference

The conjunction of two anniversaries gives the holding in Peterborough of the annual Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church a happy auspice. Peterborough is celebrating its centenary as a corporation. The United Church is observing the twenty-fifth anniversary of its union. The Bay of Quinte "Conference" is one of a dozen such regional councils across Canada of this, the largest Protestant church in the Dominion. Ministers and laity from a wide part of east-central Ontario are taking part in the deliberations and affairs of the Conference, whose meetings began yesterday and continue until Friday. We welcome them to Peterborough.

The Russians Who Run From Russia

On this page today we begin the first of a series of articles by Tanya Matthews in which she discusses the flight of Russian soldiers and civilians from the Soviet area into Western Germany. There are reputedly thousands of these refugees, and Mrs. Matthews, who is the wife of a British journalist, is in a particularly good position to understand them. She is herself a Russian, and her book Russian Child and Russian Wife is considered to be one of the most illuminating books about life in the Soviets published during recent years. Mrs. Matthews is in West Germany at present, and it is from there that her articles are sent.

We hope that our readers will find these articles interesting and informative. They come to us by reason of our agreement with the London Observer. This agreement, we may add, is an expensive one, and we feel that in undertaking it we are presenting our readers with a foreign news commentary which ranks with the best in the world.

Toronto Shop Window To The Industrial World

The third International Trade Fair in Toronto opened Monday and will continue until the end of next week. It is primarily a show "for the trade" and not for the ordinary run of fair-goers. The Trade Fair has become a very large affair, occupying much space in C.N.E. buildings, and truly international with exhibitors from scores of countries as far away and diverse as Germany, India, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

The largest national exhibitor is Britain which has about 45 per cent. of the exhibits, and has spent $2,500,000 setting them up and staffing them. The United Kingdom realizes the value of this show in attracting North American buyers and new markets for its manufactured products ranging from leather and soaps to specialized machines.

Only thirty per cent. of the exhibits are Canadian. Thus the Fair, sponsored by the Department of Trade and Commerce, is a Canadian gesture to open markets for British and European goods, to give them a chance to earn dollars. But it is also two-way effort; to give foreigners a view of what goods our factories produce. If criticism can be levelled at this year's Fair because of the distribution of the exhibits, it is that not enough Canadian firms are using this great show window, to tell the world what they produce and for what prices. Ontario entries are meagre. Oshawa has ten or eleven, Hamilton and London four each, Welland three, Kitchener, Brantford and Niagara Falls two each, and a dozen other places one.

New buyers are attracted by the Trade Fair. For instance, last year a beekeepers' supply house exhibited, and recently had as a result an order from South America for five carloads of supplies. Canada is short of dollars as well as Britain; Canada needs to sell her manufactured products. Are too many Canadian firms passing up an opportunity to sell their wares?

NOTE AND COMMENT

The remodelled White House is to have 66 rooms and 22 baths and also, we hope, a good, big, inexhaustible hot-water tank.

The C.B.C., we observe, expects deficits in its television operations. Would a private body, we wonder, show such a happy confidence in future deficits?

The Kingston Whig-Standard, commenting on the presentation of a aluminum medal to a prize-winning graduate of Queen's in 1859, says that he "probably treasured his aluminium medal as we would a gold reward today. It appears that the editor of the Whig-Standard has never seen a gold medal from Queen's. They are bronze.

WHEN SOFT VOICES DIE, by Helen Henschel (Methuen).

THIS is a book about Sir George Henschel and his wife Lillian, known for so many years simply as "the Henschels" to people who loved music. George Henschel was a musician of great versatility. He was an admirable conductor (founder and first conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra), a capable composer, a fine pianist, a fine bass singer, and a singing teacher of genius. His wife was an admirable singer, and during their married life they were known in Europe and America for their wonderful concerts of duets. These terminated with Lillian Henschel's death in 1901; Sir George survived her by 33 years, married again, and died in 1934 at the age of 84.

In many respects "When Soft Voices Die" is a model biography. It is not especially detailed, but the details which are given are all relevant and illuminating. In 178 pages it gives the flavour of the Henschel's life, and suggests with remarkable success the special quality of their art. Inevitably Lillian Henschel is a less interesting figure than her husband; her charm was intimate, and it was as a helpmate and an assistant artist that her best work was done. But her daughter has suggested most successfully what it was about her mother that commanded the devotion of audiences, as well as the enduring love of the family circle.

It was the good fortune of the present reviewer to study music for some years with a man who had been a pupil of Sir George Henschel; tales of his musicianship, his personal charm and kindness, his ideas about interpretation were very frequent during those years. Very probably there are scores of musical people in Canada who have learned something of this great man at second-hand, and who will be glad to find that he lives again in this book. Henschel comprised in himself an astonishing body of musical tradition. He was taught by Moscheles, a protege of Beethoven; in childhood he was able to enjoy the company of Rubenstein, Tausig, Bulow and Liszt. As a young man he was a friend of Brahms. In his maturity there was hardly a musician of any consequence who was not an intimate of his house. He was, in his sphere, the peer of these men and because he was a great teacher he was willing and able to impart some of their distilled magic to his pupils. He retained his voice into his old age, and an album of 'lieder' which he recorded in his eightieth year is still a model of style for those who know where to seek it.

Books about musicians are often dull and of slight value. This is a notable exception to that unfortunate state of affairs. It is packed with value for musicians and lovers of music, and it deserves a wide public. The apt title, by the way, is from Shelley's verse—

Music, when soft voices die,
Vibrates in the memory.

No words could be truer of the Henschels.

NIGHT JOURNEY, by Albert Guerard (McClelland & Stewart Ltd.).

THIS is the story of war—sometime in the future—and not between countries, but between sides—'Ours' and 'the Enemy'. The individual episodes and descriptions are so brilliantly written that for a few horrible minutes the possibility of this distant holocaust does not seem as remote as one would wish.

Sergeant Paul Haldan, the hero, who is a specialist in psychological warfare, is being held prisoner at a disciplinary camp because of the futile battle of his idealist conscience against the muddled lunacy of a war that has already continued for 15 years. Under orders from an extremely cold-blooded officer, Montalva, he is sent to stir up resistance in an enemy-occupied town. The plan is to get in touch with the socialists and arrange for them to seize command of the town. The attempt fails and Haldan's side shrugs it off with the casual remark that "The socialists are no good to us any more".

In the escape from the town Haldan deserts Montalva and becomes haunted by his betrayal of his side against their supporters. He feels himself lost in a malignant fog from which his only hope of escape is to return to the city that he left in such a hurry before. He therefore deserts the army and is friendless and penniless in the enemy-occupied territory. How he makes another contact with his own side and is used by them again to betray the people he hopes to help is told in a terrifying sequence.

Haldan finally gives himself up to his own militia and admits leaving Montalva to his death only to discover that nobody really cares any more about Montalva than they did for the deserted socialists. He is confined to the camp for investigation on his self-admitted charge of desertion.

The author succeeds in showing us what it would be like to live in utter chaos without faith or hope. The story of germ warfare, mass hysteria and utter futility is well told in spite of the terrific confusion that seems to reign throughout the book. S.S.T.

Proving Black Is White

(Fort William Times-Journal)

A saddening aspect of the present day is the observance of so many old truisms being tossed into the discard.

For generations, young folk have been taught from the old text, "Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves".

But take a look at what happened in Pittsburgh. The Dravo Corporation, which builds bridge foundations, dams and power plants, has long thought it a waste of time to balance its books down to the last penny. It thought that such meticulous accounting, when it involved estimates on large projects, was not accurate anyway.

Five months ago, Dravo's bookkeepers were told to lop off all pennies in most of their accounts, and round their figures to the nearest dollar.

And what happened? Last week Dravo reported a forty per cent. saving in accounting costs, a nine per cent. reduction in the clerical force.

THE SIGN OF THE WEST

Flight From Russia

By TANYA MATTHEWS
Author of "Russia Child and Russian Wife"

AMONG the eight million refugees of all kinds in Western Germany there are a large number of Soviet Russian men and women, deserters from the Red Army and Soviet civil administration in Eastern Germany.

At one time they were arriving in the Western zones at the rate of several hundred a month, and, despite Soviet destrictive measures and propaganda as to the unhappy fate awaiting them, the flow continues.

While the Soviet authorities call them all "deserters", Western officials have a variety of names for them—"non-returners", "political refugees", and "escapees". Most of them are intellectual workers, but they include all classes and ages.

The "escapees" risk their lives to flee. First, they have no certainty as to how they will be received in the Western zones. Up till 1947, the Western Allies faithfully fulfilled the Yalta Agreement, and turned thousands of refugees back to the Soviet authorities. Secondly, there are many difficulties in crossing the line and only two or three out of every ten who try to escape are believed to get through.

The fate of those who fail can be imagined. With great luck it means Siberia, without luck (I am thinking of a particular case), a parade in chains before the prisoner's unit, the reading of a sentence for treason and then shooting.

Another deterrent is fear of the long arm of Smersh (Death to Spies), a Soviet underground organization operating in Western Germany.

The escapees have five main kinds of motive for the risk they take.

First, there is that of the official in trouble, like Leonid who was an officer in the MVD (former NKVD) in Berlin. His job was to screen White Russians from France who had hoped after 1946 to return to Russia as Soviet citizens. A friend warned him that the authorities frowned on his too friendly social contacts with these repatriates. Leonid fled and bought his way across the border with part of his stock of looted watches.

The second motive is that of the political prisoners who, towards the end of the war, were released from concentration camps in the Soviet Union to fight for Mother Russia. After fighting loyally they learned on the eve of returning to civilian life that other ex-prisoners who had gone back to Russia had been sent to serve out the rest of their sentence.

A third class of fugitive is formed by the "weaklings", those who have married German girls who do not want to live in Russia.

A FOURTH and fairly common motive is the attraction of the Western way of life. Twenty-two year old Alexander, a skilled worker from a Siberian tractor station, had, before being called up to the army, met a former Soviet prisoner of war who had been released from his prison camp in Germany by the Americans and somehow got to the United States. When he was eventually returned to Russia under the Yalta Agreement, this man had been sentenced to 25 years "free settlement" in Siberia, because of the dangerous ideas his American contact might have given him. Alexander listened only half-credulously to his tales of the free and easy life in America—Soviet newspapers give a very different picture. When he was sent to Germany in the army, he saw that the German peasants seemed to live much better than his own people at home, so at the first opportunity he escaped.

But the fifth motive—hatred of the Soviet regime and complete loss of hope of any brigher future under it—accounts for by far the largest number of escapes. Twenty-eight year old Feodor, a Communist Party member, had been sentenced to three years concentration camp in North Russia for returning late from leave to his army unit. The savage sentence and the inhuman sufferings of the people in the labour camp shattered his illusions. As soon as he was released and drafted to Germany, he escaped.

Vladimir, another of this class, had been an engineer in one of the bigger Russian cities. The regime had never done him any material harm, but the contrast between the idealistic pretentions and practical brutality of Stalinism particularly since the campaign to collectivize the farms, had caused him moral suffering. Drafted to a post in Germany, he had been given good quarters, plentiful food and servants. But his quarters were surrounded by a six foot fence and he and his fellow-engineers were not allowed to go out singly. They were forbidden to mix with Germans. He took the first chance of escape that offered itself. "I'd been waiting for an opportunity to escape from the Soviet system for twenty-two years", he told me.

Capital and Village

By WILLIAM CLARK

WASHINGTON in the spring is one of the most beautiful cities in the world. It has all the charm of a sleepy small town in one of the Southern States, with its magnolia trees and cherry blossom and every garden bursting with plum and forsythia.

For the capital of the United States remains to some extent a small Southern town, even thou the expansion of government has pushed its population above the million mark.

The eighteenth century, when Washington was planned and founded, has also left its mark on the town. The White House is still the home of the local squire, as well as the executive mansion of the President of the United States—at least it was his home till it was found a few months ago to be falling down. Today, Mr. Truman has had to move to an old private house across the street, and is forced to do his official entertaining in a neighbouring hotel.

In a curious way the ninety-six Senators still remain the aristocrats they were intended to be by the Founding Fathers. The atmosphere in the Senate is even more courteous and muffled than that of the House of Lords, and to a Washington hostess composing a dinner party a Senator is as prized and as necessary as ever a peer was in Mayfair.

Dinner parties are an essential part of life in the capital, in some ways comparable to the committee system which is the basis of English official life. Because the various departments of government are, to an English eye, incredibly independent of each other, their official dealings with each other are often hamstrung by jealousies. These quarrels are largely settled, or exacerbated, at the dinner table. For the Society of Washington is almost entirely political; there are virtually no writers (except journalists), no painters, no playwrights and for that matter, almost no plays, since the national theatre closed more than a year ago. The only topic of conversation is political shop.

But it is exciting shop-talk, since the most powerful nation in the world is governed from Washington, and its policies may mean famine in India, or ruin in Kansas, or recovery in Europe. Its personnel, too, is far more varied than it used to be, since the Civil Service was completely remodelled during the long reign of President Roosevelt. When he became President, there were less than 70,000 Civil Servants in Washington; when he died there were about 270,000.

Inevitably, in recruiting this service men and women were called from almost all professions, and the higher ranks continue to be filled by professors taking a sabbatical year (Mr. Jessup), big industrialists on leave from their firms (Mr. Hoffman), and above all, lawyers who intermittently abandon their practices (Mr. Acheson).

Yet, in spite of all this expansion, the capital's inner life remains compact and, somehow, local. Cabinet Ministers, Supreme Court Justices, diplomats, and senior officials live as neighbours in the surprisingly beautiful eighteenth-century village of Georgetown (something like Beaconsfield) which lies on the edge of the city. They have drinks in each other's gardens, and their wives meet shopping in the neighbourhood. In the mornings it is a short walk to the heavily-built Grecian temples which house the departments of government.

The ancient Constitutional rule that neither the President nor his Cabinet members may sit in Congress, but that Congress must approve their policies, has always made a fantastic problem of Governmental communication. In recent years it has been solved by the Press, who have become a powerful fourth estate. The President and the Secretary of State each see the Press Corps once a week, and these meetings are the only equivalent of question hour in the House of Commons. It is here that the intentions of the United States Government are questioned and revealed, and declarations of policy made. Yet though what is said may be flashed throughout the world within an hour and debated by Cabinets from Peking to Lima, the atmosphere is even more informal and club-like than that of question hour at Westminster.

OF course, the capital is accustomed to strong political divisions and has devised its own methods of continuing an easy social life despite them. But in the last few months a sort of poison-pen campaign has rocked Washington to its foundations. The political and international implications of Senator McCarthy's campaign are very great, but the personal disruption it has caused is even more striking. This young mid-western Senator has challenged the very basis of communal life in Washington, or any other small town, which is trust in a man's word.

He has done this by accusing several hundreds of unnamed people in the Government of being Communists, or Communist sympathizers, and by citing many by name. Among those he has accused of being Communist sympathizers are no lesser figures than Mr. Dean Acheson and Mr. Philip Jessup.

Of course, the charges are denied, but McCarthy simply repeats them with a knowing wink, hinting in the broadest way that to deny that you are a Communist is such a well-known Communist trick that it almost clinches his case. At the same time he supports his charges by the evidence of ex-Communists who are prepared to swear that certain public figures were well known to them as fellow-members of the party. This "evidence," which is broadcast and filmed, fills columns in every newspaper. The luckless victim can only say: "It is not true"; which is undramatic, brief and, to the suspicious, quite unconvincing.

Since Alger Hiss was convicted denial has, as McCarthy well knows, lost all validity. Hiss was a well-established, highly respected senior State Department official, who was accused of passing secret documents to the Communists. He denied the charge as absurd, and the great majority of decent, intelligent people, led by Acheson, Frankfurter and Jessup, believed his denial and spoke up for him. After two trials he was convicted, and few could question the verdict. If Hiss was guilty, how can one be sure who is innocent?

Today, the capital of the United States lives under the shadow of Hiss and McCarthy. The affair dominates far more conversations than the Sidney Stanley and Dr. Fuchs cases combined. The President is deeply concerned about it, and it has done more than any other factor to slow up the State Department in the formulation of foreign policy. The campaign against "the liberals" is still spreading like a blight, and it might succeed in making public life so odious an ocupation that none but the most hardened politician and the most ambitious schemer could survive. On the other hand, it might discredit itself completely.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it.... The lofty looks of man shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be exalted in that day.... And the idols he shall utterly abolish....

Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be accounted of? (Isa. 2: 2, 11, 18, 22.)

Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture. (Ps. 100: 3.)

Thus saith God the Lord, he that created the heavens, and stretched them out; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk herein....

I am the Lord: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images. (Isa. 42: 5, 8.)

PLANE - TAMPERING CHARGE—James H. Vinson, 29, a United States pilot, is charged in Montreal with damaging an airplane by releasing the air pressure on the emergency brake just before take-off time. The plane was bound for Rome, with 52 Holy Year passengers aboard, when it was discovered on a routine check. The defendant Mr. Vinson acted on behalf of his company, Queen Aviation Trades of Wilmington, N.J., that the plane was sold by this company to Curtiss-Reid Flying Services, Ltd., of Montreal. The contract had already expired. Curtiss-Reid's representative said the company bought the plane and registered it as Canadian-owned.

Union Pressure Rapped By Judge

TORONTO, May 31 (CP)—Mr. Justice R. L. Ferguson said Tuesday that pressure by labor unions in opposing the employment of workers is "not in the public's ordinary interest."

He dismissed an application by the Canadian Seamen's Union (Ind.) for an injunction restraining the Paterson Steamships Company Ltd. from changing the wages and conditions of employment on its vessels.

The application was heard in Ontario Supreme Court.

The union sought to prevent Paterson from altering overtime pay, increasing work hours and decreasing the number of crew members on the ships.

"You can't run your business, is that it?" asked Mr. Justice Ferguson. "If the company decided he doesn't want any hands where is the union going to keep one."

Federal government representatives will discuss legislation with provincial representatives as well as delegates from the United States and Mexico.

Charles Fremont, Quebec superintendent of game and fisheries, a delegate, said Tuesday that as plane facilities now available to sportsmen had determined conditions in remote areas which served as natural refuges for game.

Ex-Lutheran Bishop Freed From Prison

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 31 (AP)—Former Lutheran Bishop Lajos Ordass has been released from prison after serving more than 20 months of a two-year sentence, an official communique announced Tuesday night.

Remission of the rest of his sentence followed his removal from office April 2 by a church court of Hungary's Lutheran church. He had been ordered Sept. 28, 1948, or pending the report to the government that the church had received [illegible] from American Lutherans.

The communique said the Lutheran church had asked clemency for Bishop Ordass. The bishop had pleaded innocent to the charge against him at his trial.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Golfers are having a merry time of it again—after a long backward spring—and digging divots regularly on the links at Kawartha and Peterborough Clubs. Week-end rush is heavy but a lot of this outdoorsy breed may be seen every o'en trudging the fairways in search of sport, health and that elusive pill. Midland Golf League starts off this Saturday at the Peterborough Club with Port Hope, Cobourg, Oshawa, Lindsay and the two local clubs competing. They swing around the circuit through the summer with a tournament at each club and a lot of competition and sociability involved.

Stroyan Leith issues the soccer—er, pahdon, plizz, football, that is—schedule for June around King Edward Park. Saturday sees Petes vs. UEW in an Ontario Cup elimination, with similar matches slated for June 7-10-14. Then, UEW plays Ottawa on June 17 in an Eastern League fixture, and Belleville Navy on June 24 in another one. Saturday kick-off is at three whilst the evening games, commencing next week, are 6.30 affairs of a Wednesday. Fewer clubs in the city and district setup this year with more good players aboard each team and smart soccer—oops, there we go again' —served up.

Port Hopers A-Coming

Port Hope plays the intermediate Petes a Lakeshore Baseball League tilt at 6.30 tonight in Riverside, weather being fairly reasonable, and it might be a neat diamond display. Locals won the battle of the Roses in Bowman Villa, but lost out to Whitby last start with some guy chucking a one-hitter. Some of the minor ball teams—senior Petes are in Toronto on Thursday and here Saturday — are working out but there aren't enough entries in yet, mainly because not enough capable coaches and organizing managers aren't volunteering to get teams lined up. With lights in Riverside this season, the PMBA-ers shouldn't miss the boat.

Secretary Frank Feaver of the OASA is bulletin-happy, it seems, and we are continuously bombarded with squibs from his office. A good guy for the job, it appears. Anyway, he shoots along Bulletin No. 11 (heavens, the season has barely begun!) and points out that the '50 rule book is out, that eight types of ball may be used, that the three-foot line must be observed, that centres under 3,500 population may field all-star squads, that certificates must be signed ere games and sent to him by July 20, and that several touring teams seek exhibitions. Clubs can contact him about these. He says 1,936 teams were entered last year in the province and they look for 2,000 this summer.

It Required 11 Innings

UEW edged Orphans 6-5 as Mutuals trimmed East City 12-5 last evening in the Bowl at the end of the Hunter St. bridge. First men's softball melee was a right interesting one with Orphans extending the UE boys right into the 11th chukker before bowing. Second scrap saw the powerful Mutuals make up for some loose fielding by belting the horseside all over the pasture to win in handy fashion. Johnny Russelle has a strong squad with top twirling and a raft of hard hitters. It's the team to beat, the other three being more on a par with each other. Games on the morrow: Orphans vs. Mutuals, and UEW vs. East City.

It's two wins in as many starts for the OLA senior "A" Petes, following their 12-5 triumph in Weston last night. Turned in another neat effort from the goalie out in a rather rugged joust which saw 11 penalties passed out. Lot of slashing and that sort of stuff, but the chippy Creighton crew doesn't back up. First line was really hot on the attack. Don Ashbee had five goals and two assists, Jerry Fitzgerald a goal and five assists, Bob Thorpe two and three, with Arn Dugan hitting the hemp three times and aiding on another. Jim Kinna got the other marker, but the whole crew clicked well. They face stiff opposition here Friday when Mimico Mountaineers come to town. St. Kitts spoiled Hamilton's opener by winning 11-9.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The men's 1950 schedule got away to a good start last evening, and considering that it was the first time this season that some of the boys have been on the greens the bowling was extremely good.

Outside of a couple of games, that were somewhat one-sided, play was close and interesting. A couple of them were won in the last end with the last bowl.

The schedule continues on Thursday night and the men's doubles competition commences on Thursday also.

A week from today we have the men's open tournament for the Stratton Trophy.

A midwestern university held entrance exams for a group of ex-GIs. One of the questions was: "Name two ancient sports." An ex-sergeant racked his brain, finally came up with an answer that passed him. He wrote, "Anthony and Cleopatra."

Mutuals On Top With Win Over East City

The power-packed Mutuals pounded out a 12-5 City Softball League victory over East City last night at the Bowl to stay out in front of the race handily. Though rather sloppy in the field, they had that power at the plate to blast Terry Woods for 17 safe hits, including four homers, a triple and three doubles. East City battled away and reached Bob Greenlaw for eight hits, one a homer and two doubles, but Mutuals scored right up to the finish, having a three-run splurge in the ninth.

Carpenter clouted two homers and a single in five, while Crowe got three singles in five. Two hits each were garnered by Dalton, Menzies, Harrison, Foster and Greenlaw, the latter and Dalton hitting homers, as Harrison got a triple and double, and Greenlaw and Menzies each a two-bagger. Woods hit a homer for the losers and a single, Cournyea and O'Heron getting two hits each. The former and Curry hit doubles. Dalton and Leether had two twin killings, and the latter pulled off a fine foul grab.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

British Columbia All-Stars made Canadian soccer history on Tuesday night when they held the touring England Football Association team to a 4-4 draw at Vancouver. It was the first time a United Kingdom club had ever played a Canadian squad without scoring a victory.

The tourists had to come from behind twice to avert defeat, scoring two of their goals on penalty kicks. Little Johnny Hancocks, the best player on the field, scored all four goals for England.

England's passing appeared off hampering the effectiveness of Stanley Matthews, their top-ranking star, on the right wing. Brilliant goaltending by BC's Bob Newbold also helped to keep the visitors in check.

Doug Greig tallied twice for the All-Stars, Fred Whitaker and Dave Brown completing their total.

Greig's second goal, which put the All-Stars ahead 4-3, appeared to disorganize the English team and only a penalty kick by Hancocks with five minutes left enabled them to save their draw.

Ferd, a chestnut colt with the speed of his father, displayed plenty of it Tuesday as he won the $25,000 Jersey stakes by a nose over Greek Song at Garden State Park, Camden, N. J.

Ferd, the son of Lochnivar, picked up $21,850 for Mrs. Andy Schuttinger. He awarded his backers in the crowd of 35,651 at $9.60, $5.40 and $4.80.

Stanley Matthews, starry outside right of Blackpool and halfback Jimmy Taylor of Fulham have been chosen to play for England's international side in the world soccer series at Rio de Janeiro. Word of their selection came to them at Vancouver.

The two English aces will fly to Rio. The world series starts in mid-June.

Proximity, eight - year - old queen of the trotters Tuesday cracked a second world record within 10 days by winning the $5,000 Los Angeles trot. The mare guided by veteran reinsman Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., covered the 1⅛ miles in 2:14 3-5. A crowd of 18,334, the largest harness draw in three years at Santa Anita Park, Arcadia, Calif., saw Ralph and Gordon Verhurst's great mare add the 1⅛ miles mark to the 1 1-16 miles standard she set May 20. The former 1⅛ miles record was 2:15 4-5, set by Egan Hanover, who ran sixth in a field of six Tuesday.

Proximity beat Chris Spencer by 1¼ lengths. Proximity was backed down to odds-on and paid $3.30, $2.20 and $2.10. Chris Spencer returned $2.40 and $2.30. Dutch Harbor showed for $2.80.

UE Softballers Win Out In 11 Frames

UEW yanked out a 6-5 men's softball win over Orphans in 11 innings last night at the Bowl, Pagett's single scoring Evans with the deciding run with one out in the second overtime heat. It was probably the best game seen there this season in the City Softball League. Lewis homered in the 10th to put the Dormer bunch one up, but Tom Watson's squad tied it again in their half and went on to win the next chukker.

Hall had a single edge in pitching on Sanderson, and the latter's support was shaky, but it was an exciting scrap all the way with plenty of good fielding dished up, especially in catches by Greenlaw, Richardson and Mackness. Hall led his side at bat with four safeties as White got three, and Pagett and Evans two apiece. Griffin and Lewis each had three for Orphans, and Crowley and Thompson clicked for two each. Griffin hit a triple.

Petes Rack Up 2nd In Row Defeat Weston In OLA Fray

By DON GRANT.

Who has the penalty? That was the question Weston lacrosse fans were asking each other Tuesday night as the Weston Lions were tanned by the Petes 12-5 in their den.

Not satisfied with just outplaying the Lions while on even strength the Petes salted the game away in the second period with goals scored while they were short-handed. Twice in the quarter the Petes had a man in the sinbin and twice they scored two goals, hemming in the Lions continually with slow passing plays. The Petes started the third period with a fifth goal while a player was serving time for a misdemeanor.

Actually the Petes' play faded when they had the advantage of an extra man. In fact, the Lions managed to score a goal while two men short. In the third quarter the play became a slap-bang type of lacrosse with the result that five players, two Petes and three Lions, sat out two minutes for slashing. The two Petes joined the play but the first Weston player out, Reddy, broke loose for a breakaway goal from the penalty box.

Effective Line

Peterborough's first line was easily the most effective against the Weston squad. Don Ashbee led the front line with five goals and two assists for seven points while defenceman Jerry Fitzgerald had a goal and five assists for six points. Arn Dugan performed the hat trick as well as picking up an assist and Bob Thorpe, robbed at least six times in the second half by goalie Hartley, scored two goals and assisted on three others. Jim Kinna scored the other goal.

Reddy topped the Lions with three goals while Ted Downer scored the other two.

Downer opened the scoring early with a crease-shot goal only to have the Petes tie it up when Jim Kinna whipped home a long shot from a pass by Bob Breakspeare. After four running attempts Jerry Fitzgerald made the score 2-1 as he tucked the ball in the corner of the net. Seventeen seconds later Art Dugan re-enacted Fitzgerald's scoring play. Don Ashbee in close sent home Thorpe's pass to end the scoring at 4-1.

Makes It 5-1

With passes between Fitzgerald and Dugan setting up Ashbee in the second, Don made it 5-1. From a pile-up Reddy slammed home Weston's second goal. Ashbee from Fitzgerald and Thorpe, and Thorpe from Fitzgerald, were the scoring plays while Kinna was off for elbowing.

A three-man breakaway ended in Ashbee scoring on a pass from Joe Nolan while Dugan was off for cross checking. Ashbee again in close scored after a pass from Fitzgerald, also when Dugan was off. The half ended 9-2 for the Petes.

Dugan faltzed around the semi-circle to score after a race with Fitzgerald from one end of the box to the other to open the third. Thorpe combined with Ashbee for the 11th goal before the teams starting a short slashing duel. Reddy, while Rowntree and Chapman were serving time, scored on a breakaway for Weston. Ted Downer snared a rebound off the Petes' backboard for a scoring play. Dugan combined with Fitzgerald and Ashbee in the fourth for the Petes' 12th goal only to have Weston retaliate three minutes later when Reddy sailed in after a free ball.

The line-ups:

Peterborough — Goal, Speck; defence, Fitzgerald and Nolan; centre, E. Creighton; wings, Dugan, Ashbee; rover, Thorpe; alternates, Kinna, Curtin, Buchanan, Vitarelli, Magee, Breakspeare, Lewis, Edgar.

Weston — Goal, Hartley; defence, James, Allewell; centre, H. Downer; wings, D. Chard, T. Downer; rover, Venner; alternates, Hatton, Chapman, Rowntree, Gair, Reddy, Hill, and W. Chard.

Orioles Grab Doubleheader From Syracuse

By The Associated Press

"Lookit them birds go!"

You heard that phrase everywhere you went in Baltimore today—on the bus, the street corner, the favorite pub and even sandwiched in between the usual gossip over the back fence.

The reason: Baltimore's Orioles have won eight of their last 10 games and are in third place, 3½ games behind first-place Rochester.

Tuesday night a capacity crowd converged on Memorial Stadium to welcome the Orioles home and see them take a two-night doubleheader with Syracuse Chiefs. The stadium is being rebuilt from the ground up and in its present condition seats slightly less than 20,000.

The first game started out as a slugfest, with the Chiefs' Ben Zientara banging out a homer and his mates piling on two more runs in the first inning. But Baltimore came back in the last half of the inning with a wad of singles and a base-clearing triple by Babe Barna to score six runs.

After that outburst, it settled down to a more conservative match before winding up, 7-6.

In the second game Baltimore's George Byam, Butch Woyt and Al Unser connected for home runs in the next three innings to clinch it, 6-2.

Snap Winning Streak

Righthander Steve Ridzik, making his first start for Toronto Maple Leafs, snapped Rochester Red Wings' 11-game winning streak, 8-3, in the second game of their doubleheader, Rochester won the opener, 6-2, before 13,834 fans.

Springfield captured two games from Jersey City, 2-1 and 6-3. Jersey City outhit their opponents in both games, but were futile in the pinches.

Jake Wade's seven-hitter gave Buffalo a 7-4 victory over Montreal in the second game of their doubleheader. Montreal, behind Clyde King's effective relief pitching, took the opener, 8-3.

Police Get Busmen

The Police put the finger on the Bus Drivers to the tune of 20 to 1 last evening to open their Civic Sortball League schedule. Hitting the ball hard and playing a heads-up game, the law got three runs the first frame, seven next time up, then eighth, adding one each in the fourth and sixth on a total of 21 hits. The losers got one run in the fourth and were held to three hits in seven innings by Fife. They clubbed the apple in every chukker and also took advantage of walks and errors to roll it up. Teams:

Bus Drivers: Simmonds, Gordon, Sage, Brown, Parnell, Lebarr, Gray, Anderson, Clarke.

Police: Rowe, Eady, Naismith, Strickland, Traynor, McKendry, Rodrique, Conlin, Fife.

Umpires: Castle and Hempstead.

Memorial Day Nightmare For Pitchers

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

United States Memorial Day, 1950, will long be remembered by 83 punch drunk pitchers who were pounded for 40 home runs and shelled for 191 runs Tuesday as the hitters went on the biggest single day batting rampage in baseball history.

An aggregate paid attendance of 284,326 who sat in on the doubleheader massacres at the eight big league ball parks saw the following records smashed:

1. Most home runs in both leagues on the same day—40.
2. Most runs scored in both leagues on the same day—191.
3. Most hits made in both leagues on the same day—333.
4. Most pitchers used in both leagues on the same day—83.
5. Most home runs hits in the National League in one day —24.

When the smoke cleared away it was found the New York Yankees whipped Boston Red Sox twice 11-7 and 5-3 to increase their American League lead to three games over Detroit Tigers. Detroit divided a pair with Cleveland, winning the second game 5-2 after the Indians had won the first 4-0.

Brooklyn On Top

Brooklyn replaced Philadelphia at the top in the National League, thrashing the Phils twice, 7-6 in 10 innings and 6-4. St. Louis Cardinals also swept past the Phils, moving into second place a game behind Brooklyn by trouncing Pittsburgh twice 17-13 and 8-5.

Chicago's White Sox pounded out a double victory over St. Louis Browns 14-2 and 12-9. Philadelphia's Athletics defeated Washington 5-1 after the Senators won the opener 4-3. In the National Boston beat New York 7-3 in the opener, but the Giants came back to win the nightcap 10-3. Cincinnati and Chicago also split. The Reds won the first 4-1 and the Cubs took the second 7-4.

Pity the poor pitchers. When they weren't throwing home run balls or ducking line drives past their ears, they were handing out free tickets to first base. In all they walked 160 batters, an average of 10 per game.

In all, only eight of the 32 starters were still around at the finish. Cleveland's Bob Lemon hurled the only shutout, a seven-hit affair.

Thirty-five players lammed the 40 homers which topped the previous high of 32 set in 15 games June 13, 1937. Duke Snider slammed three successive round-trippers for the Dodgers. All came in the second game. The outfielders missed by four feet hitting four homers in a row. He got a single on a line drive just below the top of the right field screen.

A thirty-hit double barrelled attack by the Cards enabled Pitcher Gerry Staley to gain the unusual distinction of winning two games in one day. Both came in relief roles.

Stick Banging Banned, Brings Penalty

MONTREAL, May 31 (CP) — The National Hockey League governors moved Tuesday to put a stop to banging of sticks on the boards by players.

The usual offenders are players seated on the bench who break out with a clatter and banging of sticks in protest against a referee's decision or in jubilation over a goal or save.

Hereafter the stick-banger will get an automatic 10-minute misconduct penalty. If the referee can't determine the culprit he will order the team's coach to name a man to sit out a 10-minute minor penalty.

The governors felt the practice has gone beyond all reason and has become a means of organized protest over decisions and an altogether undesirable show.

Reject Suggestion

Suggestions to change the delayed penalty rule so that no fewer than five players to a team will be on the ice at any time were rejected. The present minimum is four.

The Pacific Coast Hockey League has already decided to establish the five-man minimum. The NHL moguls decided they will wait and see how the change works out in the PCHL.

The question of a general agreement among all professional leagues to make 18, instead of 16 as at present, the minimum age for signing youngsters to any form of contract or agreement was left unsettled. The NHL itself is in favor of the change and further deliberations with other leagues will be carried out.

The governors, in their 33rd annual meeting, gave formal approval to continuing the 70-game schedule, increased last season from 60. The season will open Oct. 11 although the full schedule has not yet been approved.

The all-star game will be played in Detroit Oct. 7, and Lynn Patrick, who recently resigned as coach of New York Rangers, will be invited to handle the all-star squad in the annual match against the Stanley Cup winners—Detroit Red Wings this year.

Parsons Wins At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31 (AP) —It was top billing for Johnny Parsons in the automobile racing world today.

The onetime child vaudeville star added the 500-mile Memorial Day race victory Tuesday to his 1949 national driving championship.

The slender pilot from Van Nuys, Calif., got an assist from a rainstorm that stopped the contest at 345 miles before a crowd of 150,000. But he had driven that far faster than any car had travelled in 33 previous "500s."

Drivers and owners will get their winnings at the annual victory dinner tonight.

They will split about $185,000. Parsons is expected to pull down about $50,000.

The speedway management guarantees $75,000 and adds to that on the basis of attendance. Last year it put up $110,000. Added to that are the lap prizes of $100 a lap and the various accessory awards.

Parsons and Mauri Rose of South Bend, Ind., three-time winner, swapped the lead four times in the first 275 miles.

NHL Governors Decide To Change Rules

MONTREAL, May 31.—(CP).—The National League governors have moved, through minor rules changes, to place more emphasis on effort in Big Top hockey in the future.

A meeting here Tuesday decided to call for a "delayed whistle" when a team at full strength ices the puck. "This is to give opportunity for a fast skater on the team icing the puck to retrieve it before the defending team can get to it. If that occurs, play goes on without any whistle.

A league spokesman said: "This means that the defending players will have to hustle back to get an iced puck instead of proceeding lazily after it, knowing that a whistle is coming anyway. It should speed up play."

Another rule change: When a short-handed team flips the puck high out of its home area and toward the opposing zone and it is knocked down by stick or glove by the opposition, the face-off will take place in the opposition zone. Heretofore the face-off occurred where the offence took place.

Crack Down

The governors also cr down on the players who squawk long and loud over receiving a minor penalty and delay play. Henceforth the penalized player must proceed immediately to the penalty box. If there is any protest, it can be made only by the team captain or his alternate.

They also ruled that if one player at a face-off insists on jockeying about, the referee can call for another player to take the face-off instead. Should both players facing off engage in jockey tactics, they can be given minor penalties.

Honor Memory Of Ministers Died During Year At Quinte Conference

Communion service for the silver jubilee meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church was held Tuesday afternoon in George St. United Church.

The sermon, preached by the Rev. J. A. Plant, retired Brighton minister, was dedicated to the memory of the ministers who died since the last meeting.

Ministers who died since last year's conference are: the Reverends J. R. R. Cooper, A. R. Hoare, S. A. Kemp, C. S. Reddick, William Sterling, and J. M. Whyte.

"These departed veterans of the cross," said Mr. Plant, "have known what it is to fight, to struggle, and to pray until victory is assured for Christ and his kingdom."

Mr. Plant based his sermon on the first epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians—"Behold, I show you mysteries . . ."

"Immortality is the survival of man's personality after the death of the physical body," he went on. "Life is a continual battle. No victory is complete until we have crossed the threshold of eternity."

Before the address, the Rev. J. E. Anderson of Brighton, president of the conference, conducted the communion service with the aid of Dr. James Semple, Rev. H. C. Wolfraim, and Rev. G. A. Brown.

Dr. Brown, of Kingston, speaking before the president, told the congregation that the central act of Christian allegiance is observance of the Lord's Supper. "As long as you eat this bread and drink this cup, you show the Lord's death until he comes," he read.

Dr. Semple read the book of St. John —"And there were certain Greeks among them, that came up to worship at the feast."

Send 10,000 Cattle Back To Red Valley

WINNIPEG, May 31 —(CP)— The Manitoba Department of Agriculture announced Tuesday that 10,000 cattle, evacuated from the flooded Red River valley, will start their homeward journey within a week.

Repairs to stables and milk-houses would cause some delay.

J. H. Conner of the Department's livestock branch said pastures in the huge flood area may not recover for some time, adding to an already-serious feed situation caused by the long, hard winter.

He said most farmers evacuated their livestock ahead of the rising waters, but hundreds were trapped and had to be taken out by boat.

Find 4,000-Year-Old Observatory In Iraq

CAIRO, May 31 (AP)— British archaeologists have discovered an observatory used 4,000 years ago in the ancient city of Nimrod, in Iraq, a Baghdad dispatch to the Arab news agency said today.

The dispatch said the archaeologists under Professor Max Mallowan of the University of London also had unearthed halls, aqueducts and the storehouse of a palace in the city, which was the capital of Assyria about 2,000 B.C.

The observatory consisted of three floors and a tower.

According to the report, the ancient Assyrians knew how to plot star movements and to calculate the days of the year.

Mallowan was quoted as saying the excavations at Nimrod would take 50 years to complete.

French Demand On Flying Surprise Move

By JAMES STREBIG.

MONTREAL, May 31 (AP).—The United States delegation to the World Aviation Congress looked today for straws in the wind after a surprise French demand for action on a pact for general exchange of commercial flying rights among nations.

It had been widely assumed there would be no attempt to write such an agreement during the present assembly of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO). The US delegation said in Washington last week there seemed to be no prospect of a multilateral (involving many nations) agreement at this time, although it favors such a pact.

The French delegation has taken a different view. Its chief, Civil Aviation Minister Fernand Hederer, told the assembly opening session today that ICAO must devote itself "above all and first of all" to writing such a pact.

Until it is done, he said in a policy address to representatives of 37 countries, the French government feels that International Civil Aviation will not give one-tenth of what it is capable to conomic progrss and world peace.

Consideration Unlikely

Some delegates were inclined to discount the prospect of serious consideration of a world air rights multilateral to act in view of the history of that idea. It was threshed out thoroughly at other ICAO annual meetings.

Delegates were waiting to see how much steam Hedeper's speech would generate, however. They saw a possibility that it might lead to considerable unscheduled discussion, even though there was slim prospect of reaching any final agreement.

The general assembly was recalled into session today for the last of the policy speeches before dividing into commissions and sub-commissions for work on the details of operating the ICAO through another year.

OPENS TRADE FAIR—French Ambassador Hubert Guerin, right, officially opened the Canadian International Trade Fair at Toronto. He is seen here with Hon. C. Howe, Canada's trade minister, Jean Truemner, left, and Mary McIntyre. Mr. Guerin said Canada was making it possible for world trade to expand steadily.

Charges Neglect Of Moral Standards

TORONTO, May 31 (CP) — Most children on this continent tend to neglect moral standards because they are surrounded by the possibility of attaining comfort and wealth, Dr. W. P. Percival, president of the Canadian Federation of Home and School told the federation's annual convention Tuesday.

In appealing to parents and teachers to show children "the true values of life," Dr. Percival said children "see that morality may be a hindrance to the amassing of a fortune and that the attainment of wealth is a competitor of stern morality."

Morality must be learned by degrees and ingrained in people, he said.

Many Hong Kong People Anxious About Future Of British Colony

By WILLIAM PARROTT.

HONG KONG, May 31 (Reuters). — Many Hong Kong residents, Chinese as well as westerners, are becoming anxious about the political and economic future of this 109-year-old British colony.

This anxiety is increasing as the end of the Chinese Civil War approaches and as the policies and allegiances of the victorious Communist administration become more firmly fixed.

Some official circles privately share these misgivings—although it cannot be said that there is any state of alarm.

Many people are worried about Hong Kong's possible isolation in the event of a third world war.

More, perhaps, are concerned about the Chinese Communists' political and economic attitude toward Hong Kong if and when they eventually win the Civil War.

Few, if any, people in Hong Kong fear a Chinese military assault on the colony except in the event of a world war between the Communist and non-Communist camps.

Internal Troubles

But many predict internal troubles following the final defeat of the Nationalists when Hong Kong would lose its value to the Communists as a source of supply beyond the reach of the present blockade.

As has long been realized, a strong Chinese administration could boycott Hong Kong and cripple the colony's free port trade which depends so greatly on its connection with the mainland.

Strikes, sabotage and other disruptions would help to undermine the colony's economy, a first important effect of which would be to drive substantial Chinese capital elsewhere.

Already, the colony's postwar boom appears to have ended and an economic crisis threatens unless trade with China is not soon restored to its former volume.

Many Chinese and foreign sources believe such a resumption is unlikely. Influential British merchants and bankers who earlier predicted that Communist China must trade with the West now are not so optimistic.

Warehouses Crowded

Warehouses in Hong Kong today are crowded with goods originally destined for China, which cannot possibly be cleared on the local market.

Building construction, which reached a peak two years ago, is falling off and property values are declining rapidly. Rents, however, remain high owing to the demands of thousands of Chinese evacuees from the mainland.

Share values have also fallen heavily from 1947 levels.

Some Chinese industrialists, many of whom originally came from Shanghai and North China, reflect waning confidence by their inquiries abroad about reinvestment.

Complicating the present pessimistic picture has been the enormous influx of Chinese evacuees from the Communist homeland. They have increased the colony's population to an estimated total of between 2,250,000 and 2,500,000 and have caused serious health, accommodation, food and water problems.

Behind the present uneasiness in the colony, lies a fear that the British Government either cannot or will not attempt to hold Hong Kong.

Brawling Teen-Agers Stage Gun Battle

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — Brawling gangs of teen-aged Brooklyn youths fought Tuesday with guns and fists, sending Memorial Day holiday crowds scattering in panic before them.

Two gangs staged a running "zip gun" battle in a Brooklyn street amid crowds turning from a parade.

After police broke it up the two gangs, joined by a third, resumed their battle in Prospect Park, milling across grassy hills and bowling over strollers and sun-bathers in their path.

Two of the gang members suffered slight bullet wounds. More than a score were arrested.

About two years ago the Banner absorbed the Fordwich Record.

Takes 2 Months To Find Cyrano's Nose

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, May 31 (AP)—After two months and 200 noses, they've finally found a schnoz for Cyrano.

Hollywood has always had a yen for superlatives, whether they have concerned the physical attributes of Joe E. Brown, Eddie Cantor, Clark Gable or Jane Russell. So when it came to filming the story of Cyrano De Bergerac, the big-beaked hero of literature the search for a nose had to be a big thing.

Producer Stanley Kramer assigned makeup technician Gus Norin and his sculptor-father, Josef Norin, to the job. They carried out the project with the thoroughness of nuclear physicists.

"It's always been a problem with prosthetic (artificial parts fitted to the body) devices," said Gus. "The nose has to fit the face perfectly or the dramatic illusion is lost."

The Norins made a plaster cast of the face of Jose Ferrer, who will star as Cyrano. Then some 200 noses were designed.

"It had to be just the right nose" said Ferrer. "'Cyrano' is a tragic comedy, so the nose could not be tragically grotesque, nor thoroughly laughable. It had to fit the character—a gallant man handicapped by a monstrous nose. He was a man big enough to sit in a room alone and laugh at the size of his own nose."

Humorous Proboscis

The actor pointed at some of the sketches of rejected schnozzles. "That's a Basil Rathbone, that's a Louis Calhern," he'd say. "And this one is so large that the man would retire from society entirely."

Finally he came to the acceptable one. "Ah, that is the nose," he said. "See how the base of it points straight out, as though shooting at the moon. And yet it narrows out at the end so that it is profoundly humorous."

The Norins created a series of plaster casts of the nose until the final product was achieved.

Everything But Sweat

"The nose blends right into the skin," said Gus. "It is movable and expressive. It will do everything but sweat."

The schnoz is so designed that Ferrer may even apply his hankie, should he get the sniffles.

Seriously Burned

KITCHENER, May 31 (CP) — James Coltart was seriously burned Tuesday night in a mill-room explosion at the Dominion Rubber Company. Kitchener firemen extinguished the blaze.

THE RECEPTION that 70-year-old John Gaunt, London textile worker got on his arrival in Montreal last Saturday hardly equalled the boisterous send-off he got from fellow workers at Liverpool, who footed the bill for his three-month Canadian vacation. Gaunt was greeted by his son Alfred, who migrated to Canada 10 years ago, and his daughter-in-law. Oldest employee in the textile plant, Mr. Gaunt was honored for his long service with the chance to visit his son who had settled in Kingston. He took it. He will spend the vacation in Kingston.

Court Refuses To Hear Appeal

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP)—Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret of the Supreme Court of Canada ruled Tuesday that the court could not entertain the appeal of Marcel Marcotte, 38-year-old Montreal hat and lingerie salesman charged with the murder of Marcel Boileau, 44.

The ruling, believed unique in Canadian criminal law, was made after counsel for Marcotte objected to the court hearing the case of a point of law. It is expected that the case now will be sent to the governor-general for review.

Marcotte is under sentence to hang June 23.

A legal technicality arising from the death of a judge of the Quebec Court of King's Bench, appeal division, blocked hearing of the case by the Supreme Court.

Marcotte was first convicted of murder in 1948 after the body of Boileau, his friend and associate, was found in a shallow grave in north-end Montreal in June, 1946.

Culture Talks Invade RMC

OTTAWA, May 31 — (CP) — Men of science, education and culture plan a 10-day siege of one of Canada's top military strongholds.

From all parts of the country they are streaming towards the historic Royal Military College, Kingston, where for the next 10 days the talk will be of the cultural side of the world, rather than the military.

Dr. S. Marion, secretary of the Royal Society of Canada, said on Tuesday night that this will be the first time in the history of RMC that it will play host to represenatives of Canadian universities, governments, and general cultural groups.

All in all, about 200 persons are expected to attend, beginning with the annual meeting today of the conference of Canadian universities when some 60 Canadian university presidents are expected to the annual convention of the Canadian Historical Association next week, to be attended by some 150 persons.

Biggest gathering is expected at the annual conference of the Royal Society when more than 200 officers will attend the three-day session opening Monday.

Tells Tram Riders No Increase In '50

TORONTO, May 31 (CP) — Mayor Hiram McCallum assured Toronto tram riders Tuesday night that street car fares will not be increased this year.

But a boost in rates will be inevitable some time in the future if the Toronto Transportation Commission's reserves continue to be tapped at the present rate, he said.

He was commenting on a statement by William C. McBrien, chairman of the TTC who said that the present rate—four tickets for 25 cents—would be increased. McBrien did not say how large the increase would be.

Mayor McCallum said the publicly-owned street railway is operating at a loss, and is dipping into reserves built up over past years.

Tribute Paid RCMP Constable

MONTREAL, May 31 (CP). — Full military honors Tuesday were accorded RCMP Constable Alexander Gamman as 1,000 police officers and men took part in a procession that followed a brief funeral service here.

More than 20,000 Montrealers joined in paying tribute to the 58-year-old Mountie when they lined the route of the funeral parade which ended at a railway station.

High-ranking RCMP officials gave a final salute as eight scarlet-clad pall-bearers lifted the flag-draped casket on a train that will carry the body to Calgary for burial there Friday.

Const. Gamman, a veteran of 14 years with the Force, died in hospital last Friday from bullet wounds inflicted by a gun-crazy would-be bank robber Thursday noon.

Accepts Change In Code Proposal

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP)—Justice Minister Garson Tuesday accepted in the Commons an opposition amendment limiting the powers of a justice of the peace to remand an accused considered to be mentally ill.

The amendment was proposed by Dr. W. G. Blair (PC-Lanark), well-known Onatrio surgeon. During study of a bill making several changes to the Criminal Code, he noted a section giving a justice of the peace power to remand an accused, believed to be mentally ill, for a 30-day observation period.

Dr. Blair argued that this was too great a power to place in the hands of a justice of the peace. Under his amendment, promptly accepted by Mr. Garson, a justice of the peace may remand an accused for a 30-day observation period when his own opinion is supported by the evidence of at least one competent medical practitioner.

Before the bill was adopted, Mr. Garson changed from May 1 to July 1 the date on which the changes to the code will become effective.

Frost Available At Any Time

TORONTO, May 31 (CP) — Premier Leslie Frost said Tuesday he can be reached at home or at his office anytime, either by telephone or by personal visit.

Replying to a complaint by Mayor George Wenige of London, Ont., that he had been unable to contact Mr. Frost by telephone for the last three weeks, the premier said he had been on a 10-day fishing trip.

He reserved comment on Mayor Wenige's proposal that a conference be held on provincial financial aid for a proposed municipal coliseum in London.

London is seeking both federal and provincial aid in paying for the coliseum, to cost $1,400,000. London ratepayers have voted expenditure of $1,000,000. The dominion has refused to consider financial assistance until the province makes a definite commitment.

Fraser Valley MP Doesn't Miss A Chance He Kisses Them In And Kisses Them Out

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP)—When it comes to women members of the Commons, George Cruikshank (L, Fraser Valley) kisses 'em out and he kisses 'em in.

The irrepressible British Columbian did it again Tuesday. He crossed the floor of the Commons to where Mrs. Ellen Fairclough had just taken her seat as the new Progressive Conservative member for Hamilton West.

A roar of laughter welled up as he shook her hand, then reached down and kissed her. She blushed, laughed and then chatted her solicitous political adversary while the House went about its business.

Muted in the galleries sat her husband. He shouldn't have been surprised.

Last year, at one of the last daily sittings before the general election, Mr. Cruikshank crossed the floor with a great bouquet and bussed Mrs. Gladys Strum, then CCF member for Qu'Appelle. She, too, blushed, then fled.

Wins Music Scholarship Second Successive Year

For the second successive year, 18-year-old Paul McIntyre, Toronto, son of Vincent McIntyre, a former master at Peterborough Normal School, has won the $750 scholarship in the annual competition for students of musical composition sponsored by the Composers and Publishers Association of Canada.

The award is announced by Sir Ernest MacMillan, chairman of the board of judges.

McIntyre, who also won the award in 1949, is a pupil of Dr. Arnold Walter in first year composition in the senior school at the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto. He also is studying for his bachelor of music degree at the University of Toronto. The scholarship is tenable at the Royal Conservatory or at the McGill University Conservatorium of Music, Montreal.

Three prizes of $50 each were awarded to Frederick R. C. Clarke, Vancouver; Muriel Kilby, Toronto, and Charle M. Wilson, Toronto. Miss Kilby and Mr. Wilson both won prizes in last year's competition. In the junior division, a $50 prize was awarded to J. Bruce Mather, aged 10, of Toronto.

"The judges were impressed with the promise and in some cases with the achievement shown in the best of the work submitted," Sir Ernest MacMillan said, in announcing the winners. But "they were disappointed that there were fewer composers submitting works this year than last."

Dominion Wide Contest

"Entries came from all parts of Canada and there is evidence that our young composers are active and taking an interest in their work," he said.

As in previous years, the competition was open to students under 22 years of age. Each competitor submitted two works, one of which was a song. All compositions were signed with a non de plume. A sealed envelop attached to the entry which contained the student's name and address, was not opened until the winning compositions were chosen.

In addition to Sir Ernest, the board of judges comprised Jean-Marie Beaudet, eminent French-Canadian conductor; Godfrey Hewitt, organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Ottawa; and Dr. Ettore Mazzoleni, principal of the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto. It was regretted that Dr. Leo Smith, due to illness, was unable to take part in the judging of the competition this year.

Inaugurated 15 years ago, the annual competitions have played an important part in the development of Canadian composers. Many of the scholarship winners are now mature composers whose works are being widely accepted in Canada and throughout the world.

check-off of union dues under the Federal Labor Code.

A few minutes later, they defeated by a vote of 147 to 14 a bill proposed by J. W. Noseworthy (CCF, York South) aimed at empowering the Canada Labor Relations Board to enforce reinstatement and compensation for an employee discharged contrary to the Labor Code.

Won't Amend Act

At House opening, Finance Minister Abbott said the government had decided against amending the Income Tax Act to cover contributions made for the relief of Manitoba flood victims. At present income-tax exemptions on charitable contributions are limited to five per cent of the income of corporations and 10 per cent of the income of individuals. The exemption rates will not be changed.

In closing the debate on his Royal Commission motion, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said there were great possibilities for the reduction of expenditures without reducing essential services. A United States commission had recommended ways in which the government of that country could save up to $5,000,000,000 a year.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said his party could not accept the Progressive Conservative motion because it did not believe that parliament should refer responsibilities to a Royal Commission.

Too Much Publicity

Mr. Drew mentioned publicity as one of the things on which the government could save money. The government had 366 publicity experts attached to various departments at a cost of $1,275,508. But that amount did not cover the cost of publicity.

He mentioned other places in which savings might be made. In the last year before the war, the government was spending $6,000,000 a year on supplies and materials. It now was spending $76,000,000. Printing and stationery costs had jumped from $2,382,901 in pre-war years to $14,725,572.

Expenditures on the purchase and construction of buildings were up from $35,830,865 to $168,575,705. Maintenance and repairs of buildings was increased from $3,664,000 to $33,351,000. Freight, express and cartage charges were $639,000 against $6,746,457. Travel and transportation costs had risen from $4,742,206 to $22,744,354. Telephone, telegraph and postage charges were up from $960,248 to $8,595,943.

Mr. Drew said he did not believe that the business of government had demanded so much as to warrant such increases in costs.

Believes Pope's Crown In Sunken Spanish Ship

GLASGOW, May 31 (Reuters)—A Pope's crown may be among Spanish galleon treasures lying many fathoms deep in Scotland's Tobermory Bay, Island of Mull, the treasure-hunting Duke of Argyll said Tuesday.

The Duke will arrange this week for the salvage of the armada galleon. Royal Navy divers have already confirmed the location of the wreck.

The Duke told members of the American Society in Scotland at their Memorial Day luncheon that he personally believed the old tales of Tobermory treasure were true.

The Duke has hereditary rights to the galleon—which tradition says may be the £30,000,000 Duque de Florencia, sunk in the Bay of Mull after the battered Spanish Armada fled from Sir Francis Drake's English ships.

The Duke said it is thought there might be a considerable quantity of jewels on board, a great deal of gold plate—and probably a crown which belonged to one of the Popes.

May Be Skulls

"On the other hand there may be nothing but guns, skulls and timber," he added. "But even if only the guns are there they will be very interesting to find. The ship carried about 70 guns and we have found about 10 of them so far. It is great fun and very interesting."

The Duke thought salvage work would be complicated on the sea bed under the Atlantic at Tobermory.

"We will probably have to remove about 20,000 tons of silt—a long and expensive job."

The Admiralty recently estimated that the operations already carried out on the Duke's behalf cost him up to £4,000.

Many of the sturdy inhabitants of Tobermory doubt the existence of the Florencia's treasure.

Driver Is Killed As Wheel Comes Off Car

When the front right wheel of his car came off while driving on Highway 11, near St. Andrew's College, Aurora, on Tuesday evening, Clinton Reid of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, was killed as the car overturned. Alex Marshall and Ronald Guertin, both passengers, escaped injury. Reid died on the way to Newmarket Hospital.

Mr. Reid lived for 15 or 20 years in this city where he was a decorator. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Reid of Toronto and his wife is the former Miss E. Hendry of this city. Besides these, he leaves three children: three sisters, Mrs. Douglas Barringer, Mrs. Jack Weir and Mrs. James Rogers and a brother, Bazil Reid, all of Peterborough.

The accident was investigated by Prov. Cpl. Barry Farrell and Const. E. Whitehead.

Office Workers Union Asks For Certification

The International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO-CCL) applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board Tuesday for certification, as the legal bargaining agent for some 600 salaried employees at the Peterborough CGE plant and 200 at the Davenport works in Toronto.

Dave Hatherly, Local 599 (the salaried employees' local of the IUE in Peterborough), told the Examiner today he was sure his union had a majority.

Barring some unforeseen technicality the union hopes to be certified without any difficulty. The OLRB has not yet set a date for the hearing.

At both the Peterborough and Davenport works the bargaining unit for the production workers is the rival United Electrical Workers.

The Peterborough police force received a pat on the back from the Police Commission when police officers were individually introduced to the members of the Commission Tuesday.

The Commission said they were pleased with the appearance of the men and the job they were doing.

Mayor Max J. Swanston said he wanted especially to thank the force for the way in which it had handled the tour of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent a week ago Saturday. The whole tour went without a hitch and the police force was largely responsible.

All 35 of the sergeants and officers with the exception of two constables who could not be on hand were brought forward and introduced to Mayor Swanston, Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC and Judge S. L. Smoke.

Knot-Hole Peep At Fair Out Wire Replaces Board Fence

Evidence of the change of thinking and sentiment of the directors of the Peterborough Exhibition is a proposal to extend the Lansdowne St. wire fence along the Park St. front, and also on Lock St. from Lansdowne St. to the first barn on that side of Morrow Park. Experience has proved to the board that fences are blank, repelling walls. Directors know that if people wish to see the fair, they are willing to pay the admission charge, and they want to see things from the inside. Knot-hole peekers are few and always were.

Once upon a time the directing boarding set up a fence around the eastern sector of the race track. The purpose was to force people into the grandstand, but the effect was to arouse remonstrance and opposition. That nailing of boards was a blunder in public relations.

The Hugh Stewart board were entirely agreeable to substituting a wire fence on Lansdowne St., and results have indicated the approval of the public.

$45,000 Improvements

Board of works Monday night opened a letter from G. A. Gillespie, secretary-manager, outlining a program of improvements to cost $45,000. One-third of that money is already available from the Dominion government which is contributing $3,000 a year to the directors for ten years. Provincial government is willing to pay another third providing the city of Peterborough makes up the rest, or $15,000.

The Gillespie program follows: Horticultural building $6,500; community building, also for exhibits and office, $15,000; Park and Lock St. fence $4,000; new roof on the drill hall $1,000; extension of the grandstand $5,000; paved street $3,500; tunnel under the race track $5,000; painting job $5,000.

Mr. Gillespie wrote that payments could be spread over a period of five years, but the works could be finished in two years.

Board of works referred the letter to the finance committee as being properly of their concern, and it is expected that a report will be made to the Exhibition Board by next week.

Businessmen Asked Aid Clothing Drive

The Peterborough Business Men's Association plans to survey its members for clothing for the victims of the Manitoba flood areas.

Mrs. Charles Ray, president of the local Red Cross Branch, informed the association Tuesday regarding clothing supplies for victims.

Mrs. Ray, by letter, said that local clothing firms wishing to send clothing sized by their experts, should be asked to give a list of what they would like to donate. The list should include, she added, the amounts and sizes.

Mrs. Ray explained that the donors should keep the clothing to be sent west in their stores for the time being. The Red Cross branch, she said, has been asked to stress that no assignments should be sent to Winnipeg until definite advice is received to do so.

The clothing suggested by Mrs. Ray was: Campers type in men's women's and children's clothing; men's socks, work pants, sweaters, loafer shoes, light windbreakers, underwear, T-shirts, pyjamas and raincoats; women's slacks, skirts, blouses, sweaters, windbreakers, lingerie, pyjamas, raincoats and loafer shoes; children's clothing for all ages.

Police Solve Thefts From Milk Bottles

An epidemic of petty thefts from milk bottles was believed by police to be halted with the arrest early this morning of Ronald Hunt, 18, of 310 Louis St.

The youth pleaded guilty in police court today of three thefts from milk bottles. He was remanded to Thursday after Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said the police investigation had not yet been completed.

It is thought several more charges are likely to be laid against him.

Out On Patrol

Hunt was arrested by Constables Dennis Traynor and Grant Gillespie patrolling an area south of Charlotte St. about 7.30 a.m.

They first spotted a youth fitting a description they had walking south on Monaghan Rd. They circled a block and next saw him walking east on Bolivar St. They called him over and questioned him.

As they were putting him in the cruiser, a man who said he had been out walking around the streets since 4 a.m. watching for the thief, came up to the officers and said, "You've got the right man this time."

Police are getting lists of incidents of missing money from various city dairies. One dairy supplied an incomplete list of 11 suspected thefts totalling $10.80.

City To Blow Up $1,500 July 1st

Fifteen hundred dollars in fireworks will go up in one hectic blaze from Point St. Charles instead of from a barge in Little Lake, the Centennial Committee decided Tuesday. The big show will take place Dominion Day night, July 1.

The difficulty of bringing a barge down the canal from Lakefield and the news that the scow would probably have to be reinforced before mortars could be fired from it, was responsible for the change.

Point St. Charles is the finger of land which juts out into the west side of Little Lake behind the Beaver Lumber Co. yard. The fireworks will be shot out over the lake and even people standing on Hunter St. bridge will get a good view, the committee thinks.

To supplement the fireworks display, $100 was voted to be used to provide some water sports on Little Lake. The committee has in mind such things as a water skiing show.

Another $90 to $100 was voted to cover cost of engraving on the backs of medals commemorating the Centennial year to be given to winners in the Kawartha Swimming Championships held in the Lions Swimming Pool when it is opened June 17. Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson has written his agreement to visit Peterborough and open the pool that day.

Honor Memory Salvationist Geo. W. Thomas

Final tribute of respect to the memory of the late George William Thomas were evidenced at his funeral Tuesday afternoon from the Salvation Army Temple to Little Lake cemetery.

Representatives of management and employees of the Canadian General Electric Company, and especially of its Quarter Century Club, were present with many of the Army Corps and band and other friends.

Mr. Stanley J. Richardson, secretary of the band, spoke on behalf of himself and also other bandsmen in a grateful remembrance of the fine character and work of George Thomas.

Mr. Richardson said, in part, "I have known him since I was a boy and have played with him in this band since 1908. In 1914, thirty-six years ago today, we were on our way to England after the Empress of Ireland disaster. As a trustee of the Quarter Century Club I can say that George was held in the highest esteem by all, and I bring to his family the sincere sympathy of all his fellow workmen and of the Peterborough chapter of the QCC.

George Thomas was a good bandsman, friend and workman, and above all a good man."

The service was conducted by Major Cyril Everitt, assisted by the divisional officer of the Army, Brigadier Reginald Gage, of Belleville. The band, conducted by Gerald Routly, played the accompaniment for two hymns and also an instrumental number which Mr. Thomas used to like. He was a member of the band 42 years.

Mrs. Mel Shadgett sang the hymn "God Understands" with fine expression of sentiment and in lovely mezzosoprano voice.

The pallbearers were: William Jones, Frank Robinson, Stanley Richardson, Wilfred Boorman, Mel Shadgett, Ben Smith.

Flower bearers were: Major Everitt, Harry Parnell, John Smith, Sr., Thomas Brooks, William Parsons, Fred Candy, Sr., elders of the Corps and long associated with Mr. Thomas in the worship and work of the Army.

Utilities Plans City Inspection

Utilities Commission decided Monday to make a tour of the city one of these days to see the work needed and other matters that can be clarified on the ground, rather than in the board room.

H. Dalliday, St. Mary's St., has asked that the fire hydrant in front of his house be moved. His objection is that it interferes with his driveway.

But, where to move it?—In front of some other house? Ross L. Dobbin reported in reference to a sketch of the location: "It will be noted that the hydrant is not on his property, and is 21 inches east of the west wall of the house, so that it does not obstruct his driveway.

To move the hydrant any distance east of the present location would cost at least $100. We cannot move it to the west, as the water main is only four inches in size, and not sufficient to supply a hydrant."

St. Mary's St. is off High St. in the southwest section of the city.

In regard to a proposal from the city that an 8-inch main be laid on Lansdowne St. to Downer's Corners, and that the cost be spread over some years and be met at least in part by credits for fire protection is being referred back to the council with a request for more information.

200 Ft. Water Main Must Be Lowered

"That's what we get for going out of our way to accommodate people," said R. L. Dobbin, manager, reporting to the Utilities Commission Monday that approximately 200 feet or more of water main and some services will have to be lowered on Watt St.

This street is in the vicinity of McFarlane Ave. New houses have been built. Residents needed the water supply and urged that the main and connection be put in.

Then the board of works department took about five feet off the surface of the street, dropping the grade, and thereby leaving a shallow cover over the water main. With insufficient protection against winter frost, the Commission has no choice but to lower their pipes to adequate depth.

Flood Relief Fund Climbs, Reaches $3,130

Another $108.45 was contributed Tuesday to the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund, through the Examiner's listing.

This brings the total contributed to Canada's disaster victims to $3,130.95. The Examiner is an official agent for the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund and the Rimouski Fire Fund. All contributions sent in "care of the Examiner" amounting to $2 or more will be acknowledged in these columns.

National fund headquarters in Winnipeg report that total receipts from all over the country still do not come up to the $3,000,000 mark. At least $10,000,000 will be required to restore even a minimum standard of living.

Quebec citizens, themselves hard hit with the Rimouski and Cabano fires, have set up a provincial unit of the flood relief fund.

Generous donations from the people of Peterborough and district are still required.

UK's Problem Production Writer Finds

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Britain's problem is and must remain one of production.

That is, if in these optimistic days one admits that thtere is a problem.

For, just now, if you travel Britain, as this writer did recently, you won't find much of difficulties. Mostly you will find confidence, a growing hope that after all Britain is as she always was—a prosperous nation and a firm spokesman in the world of affairs.

But still the problem remains, and it is this:

Fifty million people have to be fed and clothed, provided with the ordinary wants and reasonable luxuries of life, and carry on their part as a leading power in the world.

Perilous Economy

They haven't the raw resources with which to do it, and so they must rely on selling their skills to buy the things they need from the outside. Never could there be a more perilous economy.

But, you ask, didn't the people of Britain always have to do this? The answer is: "Yes, but no 50,000,000 of them."

For Britain built her modern position and increased her population on the basis that she was virtually the first of nations to become industrialized; that from a poor world she could buy raw materials cheaply and manufacture them into goods which she could sell back at a profit. In effect, she was selling her skills.

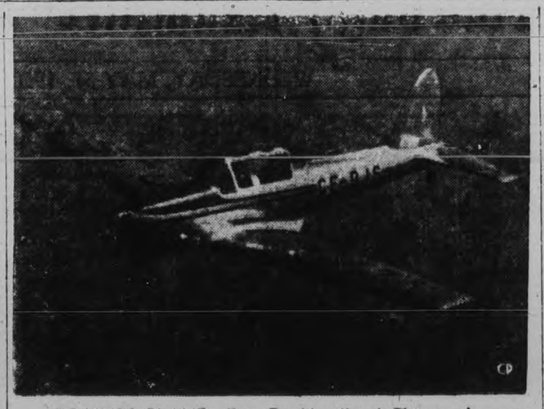
She did this well, and she accumulated wealth which she could invest overseas. She also sold services, such as shipping.

These returns—mostly interest on money invested—concealed for a number of years that on current production Britain wasn't really paying her way.

Great Sacrifice

Then came her great sacrifice, two wars into which, especially the last, she threw all her resources—sold the house and mortgaged the farm. From then on she was mainly on her own, dependent on supporting herself on current production.

Now, with American and Canadian help, she is getting by, and in this prosperous year she seems to be more than getting by.



If, at this stage, you were to say that the world is the same world of 25 years ago, you would have to ask:

"Can Britain sufficiently increase her production that she will be self-supporting?"

You would find that on paper she can and then you would begin to wonder whether in fact she will.

A cold answer would say that she won't. A warm answer, based on an innate faith in the British people, will say that she will.

Especially you will say that she will if you believe, as does this writer, that the world is at the dawn of an era of activity of which it has as yet scarcely dreamed.

TRAINER PLANE—The De Havilland Chipmunk, seen in operation, will be used to give refresher training to some 600 former RCAF pilots annually, under a program starting this year. Actual training will be handled by civil flying clubs across Canada with the object of maintaining a pool of pilots ready to take over staff pilot and instructional jobs in an emergency.

Air Force Launches Drive For 600 Reserve Pilots

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP)—Canada's Air Force today launched a drive to fill its reserve ranks with 600 trained pilots a year to be used as flying instructors or staff pilots in the event of a national emergency.

In its drive for manpower, the RCAF offered to give a bonus of $100 to each air force veteran chosen to undertake the training and completing 20 hours of ground-school work and 20 hours in the air.

To get the scheme under way, the air force said it was purchasing 37 two-seater Chipmunk aircraft, four of which will be placed in reserve and the remainder distributed to Canadian flying clubs.

These clubs, located across the country, will be the key factors in the training scheme, which it is hoped will be continued year after year as long as there is manpower available to take the course.

May Repeat

"Those who successfully complete one year's training may repeat the program in following years as long as they continue to meet age and medical requirements," the RCAF said.

The training plan will be open to selected RCAF veterans who hold pilot's wings and are fit for general flying duties. No definite decision has been made as to the top age limit, but the RCAF said it expected that the age will be about 30.

"The scheme complements, but does not duplicate, the air force's auxiliary squadron program," the RCAF said.

This program is aimed at maintaining a pool of flying personnel at near-operational training standards, to be brought into the general active pool at a moment's notice in the event of war.

Serve As Instructors

But for the most part, these reserve pilots—expected to grow at the rate of 600 a year if planes can be made available — will "serve as instructors or staff pilots if required."

Training will begin this summer and preference will be given veterans who live near one of the participating flying clubs. Those the air force feels would be suitable to undertake the training will get "full information" by mail and the air force emphasized that veterans should wait for these letters rather than write to headquarters for details of the plan.

Believe Battered Woman Will Remember Attacker

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — Out of the damaged brain of a woman who was savagely beaten six years ago may someday emerge the name or description of her attacker.

The doctors who have worked with Mrs. Harriet Scoville Higginson, a socially-prominent Connecticut divorcee, say her recovery has been almost incredible.

June 15, 1944, Mrs. Higginson, then 31, was attacked in her home at Cornwall, Conn., and almost killed with 23 blows on the head—some of which crushed her skull. She was neither raped nor robbed and her attacker never has been found.

She was partly paralyzed and the speech centre of her brain was almost destroyed.

But with what physicians and psychiatrists say was "indominable will," she has learned to walk again, and to read, write and speak—although with limitations.

Sure She'll Remember

Her psychiatrist, Dr. Robert W Laidlaw, is confident that she will succeed in recalling the details of her night of horror.

"Over the last few months she has been having flases of memory, some of them coming under light hypnosis," the doctor said. "And some of these memories are falling into a definite pattern."

The last thing she remembers of the night is returning from a dance with friends, paying the baby-sitter, looking after her two sons, aged 4 and 6, and walking toward her own bedroom.

Her children found her the next morning lying in a welter of blood. Unable to stop passing motorists or phone for help, the little boys stayed with her seven hours until a friend called and heard one of them say "mommy's dead."

If she should someday identify the attacker, he might still go free of criminal charges because Connecticut's five-year statute of limitations has run out. But he would still be vulnerable to a civil suit.

Deplores Rise In Drinking

LONDON, Ont., May 31 (CP)—Increased use of alcoholic beverages was deplored here Tuesday night by the Right Rev. William Brewing of Toronto, moderator of the United Church of Canada, in addressing a joint jubilee and ordination service held in connection with annual London conference sessions.

Dr. Brewing suggested it was time the church recognized the difference between authority and power—"We discover that wherever a church has striven for authority, it has lost its christian power."

Six young men were ordained into the ministry by the Rev. D. D. Gaynor of Woodstock, retiring conference president.

They included:

Donald Ross Fraser, Walter's Falls, Ont; W. E. F. Leighfield, Inverary, Ont.

In contrast was a jubilee service for the Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, London; T. E. Sawyer, Victoria, B.C.; the Rev. S. L. Toll, London; and the Rev. A. E. Lloyd, St. Thomas, Ont.; all members of London conference, and all ordinands in a ceremony at St. Marys in June, 1900. For Mr. Millyard, a gift arrived from a former charge, George Street Church, Peterborough.

Victoria Embankment Holds Colorful Exhibition

By WILLIAM BOSS

LLONDON, May 31.—(CP).—The warm blush of London's spring has been furthered by the Victoria embankment's annual outburst of inanimate color. Amid strictly-marshalled tulips, and infinitely more varied in types, are the "hangings" of the embankment's annual outburst of inanimate color.

Amid strictly-marshalled tulips and infinitely more varied in types, are the "hangings" of the ehbankmentsh third annual outdoor exhibition of painting.

More than 130 artists are participating, workers in oils, watercolors, guache, pencil and woodcut.

Several hundred yards of wire fencing have been used by London county council's parks branch as "wall" on which to hang the canvases and drawings, whose prices ranged from £150 ($465) to £1 1s. Canvas hangings are on hand, ready to be rigged up into shelter in case of rain—which it did on the opening day.

It is probably the best in London, and all for free. To quote the Times: "All the attractions of the street market, an unprecedented display of talent by a whole company of workaday artists, and the chance of gazing at that irresistible attraction, the painter himself."

A sign near a group of works obviously by the same person says, "For the artist look to the bench on the right." And there in broad, bright straw hat, corduroy trousers and unstockinged feet in sandals, is the painter—willing to discuss the merit and selling price of his work.

Runs Gamut

Talent runs the gamut from crack-pots to artists of repute and accomplishment.

"Selected for Royal Academy 1950 but not hung," says one sign. "Royal Academy exhibitor," says another. And "Exhibitor with the Royal Society of Marine Artists."

No Canadians were unearthed among the exhibitors—two Chinese and an American were—some of whom work as hard trying to look like painters as to paint. Looseness and comfortableness of attire in a range of eccentricity, full beards and luxuriant tresses were as characteristic of the men as were shaggy crops of the women.

It's a great show, with an argument on style at every turning. "The artist isn't as ferocious as he looks," read a sign over a self-portrait. "He welcomes criticism, advice, suggestions and even the occasional sale."

Bryan Robey of London has a painting of semi-nude dancing girls entitled "Mexican Brothel."

Said he: "I was asked to change the title, so I put the words 'guess what' underneath and left it at that."

College Men Given Chance In Britain

MONTREAL, May 31 (CP) — Lord Woolton, minister of food for Britain during the dark days of the war, came out Tuesday as the champion of the university graduate in the world of business.

In an interview the peer who ranks as one of Britain's foremost industrialists said flatly:

"The important thing is that college graduates go into industrial life. They must not become recorders—they must become productive."

This open-door policy for college graduates was expounded in an interview.

"During the last 30 years," he said, "I have made it a policy in all my business to hire college graduates. I start them at the bottom and find that these men are immensely valuable to industry."

He said this practice seemed to be more common in Canada than in Britain.

"At home," he explained, "we have trouble convincing management that university students are good businessmen. Here there doesn't seem to be the same difficulty."

25-Year Jubilee Service Held By Quinte Conference

Ministers representing the three denominations who united 25 years ago to form the United Church of Canada spoke at the jubilee service of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church in George St. United Church Tuesday night.

President of the 1926 conference of the Bay of Quinte district, the Rev. Dr. George A. Brown of Kingston, was in charge of the service.

The three ministers were: the Rev. H. A. Kent, MA, DD, LLD, principal of Queen's University theological college; the Very Rev. J. H. Arnup, BA, DD, general secretary of the board of overseas missions, Toronto; and the Very Rev. T. W. Jones, MA, DD, of Calvary Church, Montreal.

The latter two ministers are former moderators of the United Church of Canada, Mr. Arnup having served from 1944-46, and Mr. Jones from 1946-48.

Pageant Presented.

Following the service, a pageant, directed by Constance Wagar, symbolized the past, present and future of the United Church.

Speaking for the section of the Presbyterian Church that joined the Methodist and Congregational groups in 1925 to form the United Church, Dr. Kent told the congregation something of the history of that church.

The Presbyterian Church was a reform church in Europe that began in France with the Huguenots. The movement spread then to Switzerland, and eventually to Scotland. But it is to Scotland, Dr. Kent said, that we look for the things that characterize the Presbyterian Church in this country.

The troubles and trials through which the church passed made it strong— a characteristic which has followed it down through the centuries. "The people had to be made strong against the tyrannies of the Pope, the King, or whoever was in power in the countries where the Presbyterian Church grew," said Dr. Kent.

"The Church of England was reformed from above —not from heaven, but from the top," he said. The reform that made the Presbyterian Church was a reform from the bottom."

In the Presbyterian Church, said Dr. Kent, there was a democratic strength, an insistence on the supreme importance of education, and a certain attitude toward the ministry. The people wanted long ministries, in which the minister belonged to the people, and the people to the minister.

Dr. Arnup said that as Dr. Kent had not chosen a text, he had one that would do for both of them —"the roots of the present lie deep in the past."

Methodist pioneering, he said, goes back to the years before Upper Canada was known as such, before the United Empire Loyalist came to Canada —it began as the Revolutionary War still raged in the thirteen colonies.

Methodists from the United States settled near Prescott, Ontario, and although the movement had begun early, it was not until 1792 that the first Methodist Church opened near Napanee.

By 1817, there was a Methodist Church in Toronto, which stood where the Bank of Commerce, tallest building in the British Empire, is now located. Eventually, said Dr. Arnup, there was a solid district of Methodists from Cornwall to Detroit, and much of this area was served by Henry Ryan, who mortgaged his farm to build the first Methodist Church in Toronto.

He covered this area by horseback, carrying with him a "muscular Christianity."

The Methodists, said Dr. Arnup, began the system of Sunday Schools used now in the United Church, and built the foundation for the fight against the liquor traffic still carrying on.

"I can only refer to the epitaph of Sir Christopher Wren, which is carved in a wall of St. Paul's Cathedral in London — 'If you would see a monument, look around you'," Dr. Arnup concluded.

Representing the Congregational faith was the Very Rev. T. W. Jones, who spoke of the "glorious heritage of the Congregational Church."

"In that church," he said, "there was something of the passion and devotion of the Methodists, and something of the dignified discipline of the Presbyterians."

"But today, the streams of the three churches are so well mingled that seldom do you hear a reference to the branch of the United Church a person is from."

Losing With Youth.

There was a day, said Dr. Jones, when the church inspired all social effort in the country. Today, that work has been taken over by various social organizations. "We are losing ground with youth; we must care for the opening minds of the young," he said.

In closing, Dr. Jones reminded the congregation of the words of the angel to Joshua: "There remaineth yet much land to be possessed."

Following the addresses of each minister, a hymn was sung which originated in that minister's particular branch of the church. After Dr. Kent's address, a 40-year old Presbyterian hymn "All people that on earth do dwell," was sung.

Dr. Kent sai dthe hymn appeared first in a French psalter 400 years ago, and was given words by a Scots exile, a Presbyterian, living in Geneva. His name was William Keith.

The Methodist hymn was "O for a Thousand Tongues to Sing" and the Congregational hymn, "O God, our Help in Ages Past," rewritten from a psalm by Isaac Watts.

During the service, a choir drawn from members of all United Choirs in the city, sang. It was directed by Harry Northrop and concluded the service with the Hallelujah Chorus.

The service closed with a benediction by Dr. Brown.

Russians Find Asiatic Lands A 'Soft Touch'

By DANIEL DE LUCE

WARSAW, May 31 (AP) — Some Poles within earshot of Moscow assert that this is the Russian planning for the next decade:

1. Defensive consolidation in eastern Europe.
2. Dynamic expansion of influence in Asia.

Except for the fog of cold war, in which feints are confused with real centres of attack, the Kremlin's purposes would be in plain view, sources here claim.

They say the Russians have more to fear than the western powers from a shooting scrape in Europe. It is Asia that's a soft touch, not the Rhine—with others to do the fighting, not the Soviet army.

They make this comparison of power:

American guns face Soviet frontiers in Germany and Austria. But where are they on the Asia mainland?

A hard-boiled Communist is his own boss in Yugoslavia. Where is another like him in the Far East?

Where's Aid In Bangkok?

Marshall Plan dollars continue to pour into western Europe, stronger industrially than ever in history. Where is the effective help for weak Saigon or Bangkok or Rangoon?

Poles say that really all they know is what they read in the papers—in Pravda and Izvestia.

They point to Soviet happiness and hope mirrored in the press over Oriental revolutionaries sweeping away one frail colonial barrier after another.

Soviet anxiety is expressed there at the cold-steel power of western Europe.

From Yugoslav bayonets on the Danube to Norway's Arctic patrols, there is no way for Russia to advance west on the continent, except by fighting.

No country in Europe has gone Communist outside the area of the Soviet army's deployment. None of the new Communist states is free from Soviet suspicion.

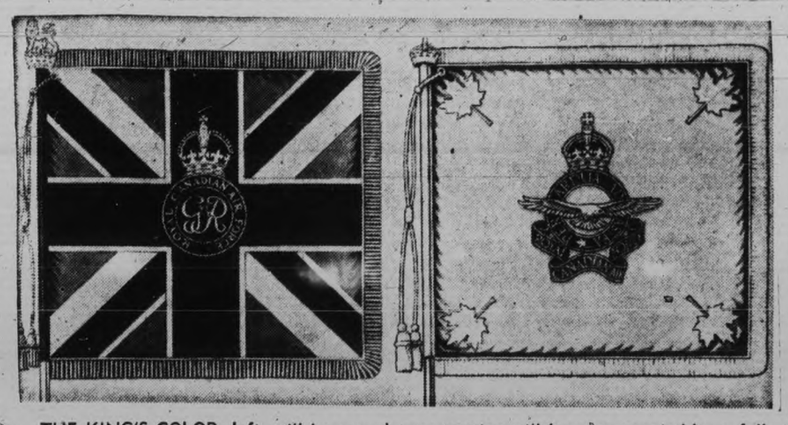
Forest Fire Loss In 1949 Worst In 25 Yrs.

OTTAWA, May 31 — (CP). — Canada last year suffered the greatest fire loss in more than a quarter of a century, Resources Minister Winters said Tuesday.

The loss in timberlands and the cost of fighting the fires was estimated at more than $9,000,000.



A total of 7,046 forest fires were reported in the 10 provinces, said Mr. Winters in releasing 1949 forest fire statistics, which included figures for Newfoundland for the first time.

Excluding Newfoundland, the number of man caused fires in the remaining nine provinces topped the 1948 total by more than 1,000.

More than 2,500,000 acres were burned over by fires last year, an increase of almost 40 per cent over the previous 10-year average.

In damage to timber, young forest growth and other property, it represents a financial loss of nearly $6,000,000, the report said. It added that no reliable estimate could be made of the additional losses incurred by the wood using industries nor the damage to wildlife, soil and recreational facilities.

Cost of fighting the forest fires last year rose to more than $3,000,000.

Local Woman's Family Experienced In Floods: "Get At Slime Now"

One Peterborough woman has a large personal stake in the southern Manitoba flood.

She is Mrs. Constance Humber, 862 Water St., whose parents and two brothers have all been victims of the Red river that inundated their homes and businesses in the border town of Emerson.

"The men have been working until they were ready to drop," Mrs. Humber told the Examiner today.

She herself has been a resident of Peterborough for the past 12 years, but naturally with four of her immediate family involved she has eagerly been awaiting any scrap of news—press, radio, or personal letter—that deals with the current flood situation.

Canals In 1916

Emerson, located 67 miles south of Winnipeg, has taken a soaking from the turbulent Red river before. Mrs. Humber recalls water turning the streets of the town into canals back in 1916. And there was a particularly bad flood in 1948.

"The people of Emerson were more prepared for the flood than the Winnipegers," she said. "They had some knowledge of what was coming and could remember their experience two springs ago."

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Wightman, Mrs. Humber's parents, report there is still two feet of water in their store. And they would be even worse off had a high foundation not been built.

"My mother tells me the water is still up to the window sills of the neighbors' houses across the road," said Mrs. Humber.

Get At Slime

Veterans of these messy cleaning operations when the home is reoccupied, the Wightmans recommend that the homeowners get to work hard on the heels of the retreating water.

"Everything is covered with slime, and if you don't get at it right away the muck will never come off."

That's the advice of Mr. Wightman.

In Peterborough district, where canoes and rowboats are a dime a dozen, it seems strange to hear that some of the westerners have hardly ever seen a boat. The shortage of these craft complicated the task of evacuation. Anything that would float was pressed into service.

Mrs. Humber tells how an Emerson lumber firm, finding that its wood was becoming waterlogged and useless, offered it to anybody who could put it to some use.

With no previous experience as a shipwright, Mr. Wightman decided to build a boat to help in transporting the local residents around their Venice-like town.

Apparently he was highly successful and though lacking some of the finer points—the craft is unpainted for one thing—it has performed yeoman service in ferrying the folk of Emerson, their goods and chattels.

Sent Oars

In one way it was like sending a postman a pair of hiking boots, but Mrs. Humber decided to send a practical gift: her choice was a pair of Peterborough rough-made oars and oarlocks. The Peterborough Canoe Co. made good its promise of fast delivery and the parcel arrived two days later. Last Friday to be exact.

A brother, Bill, had use of a Red Cross motor boat and he has been complimented on completing many hazardous journeys. He has had time for such exploits because his electrical shop in Emerson is inundated.

The other brother, Ted, has been working "night and day" on a section gang, helping to build up the railway embankment as a line of defence against the Red river.

From Peterborough here Mrs. Humber has been lending her family not only moral support but sending along anything they need. Apart from oars and oarlocks she found hip rubber boots "waders" very gratefully received.

Food, she was advised, is not a problem.

Meanwhile, like the rest of her fellow Canadians, Mrs. Humber is delighted to hear that the water is falling fast and the residents of her home town are beginning to get back to normalcy.

YWCA Pageant Takes Form Of Many-Colorful Program

Every year the YWCA presents a pageant to show the achievements of the gymnasium and dancing classes. The pageant in the Brock St. Summer Gardens on Tuesday was on a large and ambitious scale and the excellent standard of performance and production was, therefore all the more pleasing. The several hundred people taking part included tiny tots of two and three years of age, school children, teenagers, business girls and married women. It was a pageant in the full sense of the word, individual classes performing gymnasium exercises and dances and combining in one large company to present a charming ballet entitled "The Enchanted Princess."

The arena was packed with spectators, parents of youngsters making their first public appearance, and families interested to see what Mary and Jane have been learning at the YWCA during the winter months. They were delighted with what they saw.

The pivot round which the success of such an undertaking evolves is good organization. Miss Caroline Littlefield, YWCA physical training director was responsible for the presentation and not only did she undertake the organization, but also trained those taking part. She undertook an immense task and achieved a very happy result.

Master of Ceremonies

Miss Littlefield received the assistance of the Lions Club, Doug Anderson was master of ceremonies, costumes were made by church groups, the "Y" committee and mothers of the ballet pupils. Decorations, lighting and advertising were by courtesy of the Lions Club, Nashua Paper Co., CGE and the Card and Paper Company. Members of the Lions Club were ushers.

Led by the youngsters of the tiny tots gym class, all those taking part in the pageant marched onto the floor to open the program. While they marched Mrs. Maurice Holt sang Peterborough Centennial Song, the words and music of which were composed [illegible]

Hostesses Have Long Hours But Wouldn't Change Jobs

Written for the Canadian Press
By MARGARET E. FRANCIS

VANCOUVER, B.C. — (CP) — There's pie in the sky for young Canadian women with an itch in their feet and a liking for people in their hearts.

As Canadian airlines expand, there are more and more openings for air stewardesses—to take young women with the right qualifications from Montreal to to London, from Vancouver to Tokyo, Hong Kong, Fiji and Sydney.

For the girl who yearns to see the world, it's a good life. At the same time, at the present, it is not an over-crowed profession. Like all jobs, it has its disadvantages: long hours; occasional leaks; a salary scale perhaps lower than what the same qualifications might call for on the ground. But the girls in the trim uniforms of Trans-Canada Airlines and Canadian Pacific Airlines vow it's the best vocation in the world.

I flew recently from Vancouver to Nadi, Fiji, and back on a CPA plane. On the way, I watched air stewardesses in action. When we left Vancouver airport in the dank greyness of early morning, the only alert and cheerful persons in the waiting room were the two stewardesses, — dark-eyed, freckled Helen McCracken of Toronto and Vancouver, and pert, petite Shirley Burgis, formerly of Sydney, Australia, now of Vancouver.

As the plane revved up, they served coffee and sandwiches until the "all aboard" was given. Then, as we took off through low clouds, they bustled the length of the plane, distributing magazines, pillows and rugs for those who wanted to resume an interrupted sleep.

Warmer Weather

After an hour's stop at San Francisco, with a taste of warmer weather, the two girls were looking tropical already, with navy gaberdine jackets off, in white sharkskin, short-sleeved blouses with navy-type epaulettes.

By the time the sunset was an orange glow ahead of the plane, people were sipping pre-dinner cocktails and the cabin was full of the aroma of sea-food cocktail, steak with green peas and fried potatoes, salad and a pineapple, nut and marshmallow dessert. At 1:30 p.m., Hawaiian time, the plane touched down at Honolulu airport and Helen and Shirley ushered everyone through more landing routine and into limousines en route to the Niumalu Hotel for the 32-hour stop-over.

It is hard work, they both admitted. Between Vancouver and Honolulu they are on duty for more than 16 hours. As a result the next day, while passengers gaze at tropical flowers and ogle Hawaiian dancers, the girls doze in their hotel or on the beach.

Between Hawaii and Fiji, it's the same story, and after an overnight stop at Nadi they are on duty until the plane reaches Sydney in the late afternoon. After a day and a half stop-over in Australia, the plane heads north again. Altogether, the girls are away from Canada eight days, during which they work 84 hours.

"That's our working month," explained Helen McCracken, "and so we have the rest of the time off, at home. That's one of the good things about this job."

Home and School Association News

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL

Annual meeting of Prince of Wales Home and School Association was held in the kindergarten Monday.

Feature attraction of the evening was Miss M. Faulkner's Kindergarten Rhythm Band which performed two numbers. First, "Who Wouldn't Fight for Charlie" and "The Flower Waltz," under the baton of Jeff Parker, conductor-in-miniature, who delighted by his style and competence. These talented young performers were loudly applauded. At close of their performance, two dainty little maids presented their teacher with a bouquet of spring flowers.

Another feature greatly enjoyed was the appearance of the Junior Choir, under direction of Miss M. King. Their first number was a "Danish Folk Dance," and their second number "Dream Man." Both were beautifully sung, but the latter had an especially appealing quality. Miss King was also presented with a bouquet by a choir member.

A concise and interesting report was made by nominations convener Mrs. C. A. Gilders, who stated all offices were filled by acclamation.

A combined report of all officers and convenerships was read by the secretary, Mrs. J. Goodson, and the financial report by treasurer Mrs. A. Hall.

Roll-call showed that Miss Faulkner's morning class had most parents present.

Retiring president Mrs. F. Gray gave a short outline of her term in office, telling of the gratification she had felt as many of her hopes and aspirations materialized. Mrs. G. Hutchinson, a former president, performed the installations ceremony. The new executive is:

President, Mrs. W. E. Baggs; 1st vice-president, Mrs. E. Morley; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. J. Barry; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Goodson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. J. Garner; executive members, Mrs. V. Ridley, Mrs. J. Young, Mrs. J. King, Mrs. S. Daniel, Mrs. P. Butler.

Mrs. F. Gray received her past-president's pin from Mrs. Hutchinson and a gift of a wall plaque from the executive, presented by Mrs. H. Parnell.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Ross Rutherford. A social half-hour followed, with refreshments being served by Mrs. A. Kearns, Mrs. A. Smith and Mrs. J. James, and several room mothers.

BRIDGENORTH SCHOOL

John A. Bradshaw, Crown Attorney for Peterborough was guest speaker at the May meeting of Bridgenorth Home and School Association. In his topic, "Citizenship," he said that "what we needed most in this country was religious revival, a feeling of responsibility toward God and toward our fellow men. We should be proud to be Canadians to belong to a group of people who are one of the most fortunate on earth, proud to belong to a country that is free." Mr. Bradshaw answered several questions that were asked by the members present pertaining to the rights of a Canadian citizen.

Reports Given

Mr. Earl Blewett, newly-elected president, was in the chair. She thanked past president Mrs. Hartman and all the executive who have worked so successfully for the past 2½ years.

The membership convener, Mrs. E. Whitehill, reported that the membership is 41 already for the coming year.

Field day, with Mrs. G. Ray Jr. as convener, will be June 23rd. June 17th was decided on as the date to clean up the public bathing beach. Mrs. Isobel Creary is again having swimming classes this summer to begin the first week in July.

Mr. Poole, craft teacher for the school displayed work done by the pupils in the past year.

A piano solo was played by Mr. David Johnson, followed by a reading "The Importance of Excuse Notes" by Mrs. C. Wartman. Mrs. J. Johnson also gave an instructive reading "The exploits of childhood."

Mrs. L. Lillow moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Bradshaw.

Before serving of the lunch by social convener Mrs. K. Blewett and her committee, community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. C. Telford accompanying on the piano.

Council Checks Crusade To Ban New Kinsey Book

LONDON, Ont., May 31 (CP)—A one-woman crusade to ban the Kinsey book, Sex Behaviour in the Human Female, from distribution in Canada, was checked today by the education committee of the National Council of Women in annual session here.

Instead of being accepted to go before the council as a resolution, it was considered as information only, to be sent the 52 local councils which form the national organization.

The recommendation, worded by Miss Lottie O'Boyle of Ottawa, said that the former book by Kinsey on the sex behaviour of the male, had been sold by the thousands, "and since the scientific value of the second volume was doubtful, its distribution could not be considered worthy."

However, the recommendation was from Miss O'Boyle alone, who is chairman for cinema and printed matter, and did not arise from any organization.

The committee, therefore, believed it should not be considered as a resolution. The general opinion was that stress on banning the book would give it more publicity, the very thing undesirable to Miss O'Boyle and any who disapproved the volume.

Stand On Sweepstakes

The committee also took a stand on sweepstakes. "Any person with a kindly interest in 'sweepstakes to benefit hospitals' should inquire from a reliable source how many sweepstake dollars find their way into hospital coffers, as compared with the dollars that go to management and elsewhere. An inspection of the hospitals in the homeland of the famous Irish Sweepstakes does not show signs of any very special hospital equipment or buildings."

Deletion Crime Reports

Implementation of the Archambault report on prisons was urged by the economics committee and will go to resolutions. Specific clauses favored were: That an official board of visitors should be appointed in connection with each penitentiary; that separate institutions, based on the English borstal system, be established; that provincial authorities arrange to care for women prisoners; that the Criminal Code be amended to allow time for the payment of fines. The group conference also asked that more legal aid be provided for prisoners unable to afford it and that women be appointed to prison commissions.

Local councils should make a concerted effort to have detailed reports of crimes "minimized or wholly deleted from our daily news broadcasts and press," the health committee also recommanded.

Recommend Pensions

Pensions at 65 for men and women will be recommended to a group conference on economics of the National Council. The recommendation, says the report, results from concern expressed in submissions from local councils across Canada over employment problems of women over 45 years.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

When you have played Canasta once or twice, you find out that you must pay a lot of attention to the discards of the player at your left. From those discards you can find out a great deal about the nature of his hand. This will help you discard in such a way as not to give away the pack.

While you are watching the discards of the player at your left don't forget to note what is done by your partner. Careful attention to your partner's discards may make a tremendous difference in your score.

For example, the other night I sat behind a player who needed 120 points for his initial meld. The opponents had already melded aces and several other denominations. The hand had progressed to a point where it was clearly up to this player to meld since it was very unlikely that his partner could.

He held, after the draw, three aces, two jacks, two nines, two deuces, and three odd cards. The question was how to meld 120 points.

It was important to put the deuces on a meld that would soon develop into a canasta. Otherwise the opponents would keep on melding and the hand would be disastrous.

Since the opponents had already melded aces, there was no point at all in melding deuces with the aces. The player considered putting one deuce with the jack and another deuce with the nine. This seemed dangerous, since it would mean melding nine cards. He therefore decided to put both deuces either with the jacks or with the nines. The question was, which?

He decided to put down the two jacks with the two deuces. This decision led to disaster. He and his partner never succeeded in making a canasta. Meanwhile, the opponents ran wild and melded practically everything in the deck.

This was not a bad guess—it was bad judgment. If the player had paid attention to his partner's discards, he would have noted his partner had already discarded two jacks but had never discarded a nine. At the time that he melded(his partner held no jacks but three nines.

If he had melded the deuces with his pair of nines, his partner would have made a canasta immediately. They would have managed to meld out in short order, and would have broken even instead of losing over 4,000 points on the hand.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—Are you compelled to use the top card of the discard pile when you take the pile?

A—Yes. Whenever you pick up the top card of the discard pile you must meld it immediately. There are no exceptions to this rule.

✧ ✧ ✧

"Both sides needed 90 points," relates a New York correspondent. "East and West had melded two nines, a deuce, and a joker. North and South had five unimportant melds on the board.

"East froze the pile and it mounted up until there were nine wild cards in it, of which four were thrown by South.

"North said that this showed poor Canasta strategy. He thought South should have held his wild cards to make a canasta.

"Is this a sound opinion? Is an enormous pile full of wild cards an evidence that a poor quality of Canasta is being played?"

If that sort of situation comes about fairly often, I would say that a poor quality of Canasta is being played. It would be something like doubling and redoubling every hand at bridge.

Once in a while, however, even among experts, a hand is frozen and becomes enormous. In the same way, at bridge, even experts sometimes play a hand redoubled.

In short, you can tell something about the quality of your Canasta game by noticing how often you get such tremendous frozen piles. It should not happen very often in a really good game.

In the case described by our correspondent, the chances are that South should have held his wild cards to make a canasta. With five melds on the table, it could not have been hard to get a base of four natural cards, add wild cards to make a canasta, and then meld out.

However, circumstances alter cases. A great deal depends on the particular situation. Perhaps South had excellent reason to believe that his side would win the discard pile. If so, it was sound policy for him to fight for the pile.

As to why South would think that he was a favorite to win the discard pile, that would depend on the number of cards held by each player and on the number of safe discards available. These are points that I intend to take up very soon in a long discussion of frozen discard piles.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—My partner touched the stock pile to draw a card at his turn, but did not actually take the card. He then wanted to take the previous discard. Can he do so?

A—No. When he touches the top card of the stock he is committed to take that card. It is too late to change his mind.

Miss Watt, Australian Nurse Well-informed On Country

Having informed herself well about her own country before fulfilling a long-cherished dream in coming to Canada, Miss Constance Watt of Australia is a source of first-hand information on the continent "down under." She is in Peterborough for a time on the staff of the Civic Hospital, after coming east this far and visiting for some weeks in Sarnia.

Tuesday evening she told mostly facts about the geography and wild life there to a raptly-attentive audience of 75 sister nurses in District Six of the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario. From Belleville, Cobourg, Port Hope, Lindsay and Peterborough, they were attending the semi-annual dinner held in St. Joseph's nurses' residence auditorium.

Miss Watt said she had, since the age of 12, longed to see the Rocky Mountains, the Canadian Pacific Railway, Niagara Falls and the Mounted Police. Four times she has prepared to make the trip and three times been frustrated, the third time by war service in which she rose from Nursing Sister to Squadron Leader while tending those injured in the Darwin raids.

Compares Large Cities

At Vancouver this spring she saw snow for the first time, though it does fall on the highest mountains of Australia and in Tasmania, she said. This BC city she compared in size to her home-town Adelaide in Southern Australia, and added that Melbourne, Australia, is about the size of Toronto with a million and a quarter people, and Sydney like Montreal has a million and a half. Canberra, the federal capital is next largest, and these four cities contain one half the entire population of eight million.

No Hydro Power

Australia has only several rivers, except for those that run when it rains, and the lakes shown on the map are actually dry salt lakes left by the ocean, so Miss Watt has been struck with amazement by the water resources of Canada. Her country has no hydro electricity, and their water comes from an Artesian underground basin. North Australia with two seasons, wet and dry, gets three months of steady rain in summer. Below the seeming division of this country they have four seasons like Canada. Lighting power comes from coal so coal miners hold key to the country's situation, though some is imported. No oil has yet been found.

Dangerous Sports

Swimming is indulged in at large city beaches which are highly organized to protect bathers from man-eating sharks she explained. The Great Barrier Reef of coral is another attraction for Holidayers. Favorite sports of Australian men are crocodile hunting expeditions when they are accompanied by a native, who is accurate with the spear, and kangaroo hunting, a dangerous activity unless horse and rider are very quick at veering away from the animal's strong hind leg which can rip open a horse's side with one slash. Much of the country is waste land that is inhabited by wild camels, wild horses, donkeys, mules, goats, kangaroos and thousands of rabits. Two rabbit-proof fences have been stretched north and south from coast to coast in mid-west Australia and are patrolled by men on camels. Rabbits are a large export to Britain Miss Watt explained. The native koala bears were in danger of extinction and are now protected in reserves.

Miss Watt, who wishes to observe Canadian nursing methods, did not voice any impression, nor did she tell of experiences during 20 years at her profession, except for a brief interlude when she relieved an Australian "bush" nurse at an isolated hospital about 10 miles north of Adelaide. It took her two days by train to reach the town, as railways in that country are scarce as well as slow. There is one running absolutely straight for 300 miles through the western desert she said.

Sister Gonzaga, chairman of Chapter C, RNAO, presided during the address. The speaker was introduced by Miss A. L. Thomson, Peterborough, and thanked by Miss A. Potts of Belleville, after a period when she was questioned on various phases. Maps aided greatly in making explanations clear.

Industrial Nurses Form Committee In RNAO, Dist. 6

Business of the semi-annual meeting of Chapters A, B and C of District 6, Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario, was taken up Tuesday evening following dinner in St. Joseph's nurses' residence auditorium.

Miss H. McGeery of Belleville conducted proceedings and the 75 nurses present were from Belleville, Cobourg, Port Hope and Peterborough.

It was announced the Association will now recognize an Industrial Nurses' committee, separate from the Public Health nurses' and Miss Mary Greer was appointed convener of the new committee.

An increase of 19 in membership, now totalling 311, was reported by convener Miss Gene Clark, Peterborough. Report of a committee on which the name has been changed to Committee on Institutional Nursing was given by Sister Benedicta. The public health and nursing sections also reported.

Fullest program of chapter activities was recorded by Chapter C chairman, Sister Gonzaga, who read a most interesting report. Miss A. Potts, Belleville, reported for Chapter A, Miss Jessie McIntosh, Port Hope, for Chapter B.

Secretary-treasurer Mrs. H. Roy, Cobourg, read reports and correspondence, and also gave a most enlightening view of what went on at the recent annual meeting of RNAO at which she was the district delegate. Miss McGeery also reported on this meeting.

The fall semi-annual meeting is to be held in Belleville, probably in October.

Annual Lilac Tea By IODE Chapter Is Well Attended

Lilacs in basket and charming bouquet were inviting on the verandah at Mrs. F. A. Gray's home, 218 Aylmer St., Tuesday afternoon as about 125 ladies went in to the tea for which she is hostess annually, making this donation to the Otonabee Chapter, IODE. Receiving with Mrs. Gray was regent of the Chapter, Mrs. A. R. McWilliams and other members were tea assistants.

Tasteful and lovely was the tea table setting with a bouquet of white lilacs highlighted with pink and yellow tulips, mirrored in the centre reflector and pointed up by yellow candles. The tablecloth had beautiful all-over cutwork embroidery and was edged with lace. Fine china cups and saucers silver tea things and glass tableware completed this picture. In the living room there were bouquets of lily of the valley, tulips and more lilacs to delight.

Mrs. F. D. Kerr and Mrs. B. W. Harvey poured the tea and servers were Mrs. A. Archibald, Mrs. Fred Mowry and Mrs. A. R. Bennett with Mrs. A. Dryland and Mrs. N. Andrews looking after replenishments. Mrs. Bert Jackson and Mrs. Wm. Comstock were ushering guests to the tea room. They were greeted at the door by Mrs. D. E. Bell and Mrs. W. A. Davern was at the treasurer's table.

Raffle tickets were sold on an iced layer cake donated by Mrs. Fred Hall and this added about $14 to the day's receipts, and a bonus to Mrs. W. A. Jackson's pantry supplies. Her ticket was drawn out by the regent after sales had been closed by Mrs. Robert Martin and Mrs. W. E. Curry.

DOROTHY DIX

Should Father Give Help To His Spendthrift Child?

DEAR MISS DIX: I have two fine daughters. One is easy-going, never thinks of saving for the future, has earned good money and spent it as fast as she made it. She married a man of the same disposition and they have less now than when they got married. The other is very industrious. She has earned lots of money, but she has always saved a portion of it. She married a man who is also thrifty and they are getting along fine. Now I haven't a great deal of money to give my children, but I could put either one on Easy Street along with what they make themselves. What would you advise

DAD

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I don't think that a father should play favorites with his children and give one more than he does the others. Your two daughters have equal claims upon you, and you should divide what you have to give equally between them. If you do not, the daughter whom you discriminate against will naturally feel that you lack affection for her and have treated her unjustly. Also she will be alienated from her sister whom she will always suspect of having used unfair means to get the lion's share of your estate.

Will Run Through Her Fingers

It is easy to understand that you feel some hesitation about giving money to your thriftless daughter because you know it will run through her fingers. It is a familiar problem that all of us have encountered who have tried to help people. Those who most need our help seem impossible to help. Nothing we ever give them does them any real good because they waste it and throw it away, whereas when we give to those who can help themselves our assistance counts because we boost them up the ladder faster than they could climb alone.

However, that refers to outside people. Not our own and especially not our own children. They have a right to our help. But I think that when parents give to their children they should take their temperaments into consideration.

So I advise you to divide your money equally between your daughters and to put what you have to give the spendthrift into some sort of a trust fund so that she cannot touch the principal and will only get the interest. In that way you will save her from the want that the extravagant always come to, sooner or later.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a friend who during the entire five years of her married life has supported an able-bodied husband who has never done a hand's turn of work. She has turned over to him every cent of her salary except lunch money and carfare, out of which she buys small necessities. She doesn't even buy clothes, as her relatives keep her supplied. The husband never gives her a word of praise. Instead, he tells her how lucky she is to have him, of how many girls he could have if he were not married and that she is a ball and chain around his feet. Once in a while she bursts out in protest, but only to beg his forgiveness for doing so when she sees that he is liable to break every piece of furniture in the house as a result of his nasty temper. This woman is only 22. What do you think of a case like this?

DISGUSTED

ANSWER: My first thought is one of contemptuous pity for a woman who is feeble-minded enough to waste her life slaving for a lazy loafer, who does not even throw her a kind word as one might pitch a bone to a hungry dog. My second thought is a truer one, and that is that my pity is wasted, for she is having the time of her life. She is doing exactly what she wants to do and enjoys doing, or else she wouldn't do it.

How come, nobody knows. But it's true, as every one knows who has ever tried to get the wife of a drunkard to leave the sot who had dragged her down into the gutter; as every one knows who has ever tried to rescue a battered-up woman from a wife-beater; as every one knows who has tried to make a hard-working woman shut her purse against the grafter who lived on her.

We waste our sympathy on the doormat wives.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We are a poor couple who are being eaten out of house and home by weekend guests. In addition, my husband has been sick and I am far from strong and we can't afford either financially or physically to entertain this crowd of deadbeats. What can we do.

DISCOURAGED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Just write the chief offenders a little note and tell them that while you are sorry not to have them any more, you are simply in no position to run a free hotel. They will be furious but you should worry over being rid of a lot of parasites.

What's Right

You go up to speak to a friend who is talking to someone you have never met. The friend apparently assumes that you know each other, for she includes you both in the conversation, but does not introduce you.

WRONG: Act as though you have met.

RIGHT: Tell your friend that the two of you have never met.

Fasinating Business

Shirley Burgis operated a travel bureau for an Australian airlines before she moved to Canada. "Once you're in the air business, it's so facinating, you stay there," she said, her green eyes sparkling.

During the stop-overs at Honolulu I met Jessie MacLean of Edmonson. Jessie has flown with CPA since the bush-flight days of the line. Now she is representative of CPA passenger service in Hawaii.

"Perfect place to live, perfect job, what more could I ask?" she said.

Two weeks later, returning to Canada, one of the stewardesses was Barbara Ayliffe of Port Alberni, BC, chief stewardess for CPA. Normally Barbara is in charge of training other stewardesses, but she pinch-hits if anyone is ill. She had just returned from a round trip to Hong Kong when she took off for the South Pacific; crossing the Pacific north to south, east to west, in less than two weeks.

"But it was fun, it's all fun," said the trim young women. "Every trip is different and fasinating. All the people you meet travelling by air seems to be so nice and so interesting."

Future? Barbara, a graduate of a Victoria hospital, thinks there is one for air stewardesses who stick to the job. "But most of them seem to marry air crew, and then they are grounded."

Northern Town Of Cochrane Has Birthday

COCHRANE, May 31 (CP) — This Northern Ontario railway town—40 years old this year—will celebrate its birthday with an old home week along traditionally unorthodox lines.

There'll be everything from whisker contests to open-air interdenominational religious rallies.

Its 3,400 citizens—their ranks swelled by hundreds of former residents—start celebrating July 1.

For 50 male residents it will mark the end of a beard-growing campaign which began in early April. They are entries in the whisker contest, one of the opening-day features.

Also slated for opening day is the annual tournament of the Northern Ontario Firefighters' Association, in which 32 Northern Ontario fire brigades will compete.

Religious Gatherings

The following week will be marked by religious gatherings, sports contests, and all the other trappings of an old home week. It will be a gala affair for Cochrane's residents, many of whom remember the day in 1910 when the community was incorporated.

Only a year earlier, three railway lines had converged on the spot, shaping the future of the town. For many years on the transcontinental line of the Canadian National Railways, it now is one of the major railway centres of the north.

With them, the railways brought prosperity for the logging industry. Six companies in the district employ 1,000 men at lumbering. It also opened up markets for the produce of the rich soil of the area, from which many now make their living.

Forest Fire Situation Now Back To Normal

TORONTO, May 31 (CP)—Ontario's forest fire situation is back to normal, lands department officials announced today. Hazard readings now are regarded as "medium" as against a posting of "extreme" for the latter part of last week.

Sixteen fires are still burning throughout the province but all are reported under control. Last week there were 73 fires being patrolled by forestry officials.

Scattered showers during the past few days have materially assisted in bringing the fires under control.

Torch Goes Out

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — For the first time in 10 years no light burned Tuesday night in the torch of the statue of Liberty in New York harbor. N. H. Foster, superintendent of the monument, said a power failure in an electric cable was the cause.

Real life as a cabbie sees it

Here are stories—some touching, some tender, some humorous—by a veteran New York taxi-driver of the parade of life he sees through his rear-view mirror.

For instance, the fare with the suspicious-looking sack—the unwed couple about to have a baby—the wife bringing her husband home from 10 years in prison—the homeless family who begged to sleep in the cab.

June Reader's Digest (now on sale) brings you these colorful real-life dramas—told by a cabbie who likes his job.

Fail To Report Ship Seized

WINDSOR, May 31 — (CP) — The package freighter Superior, owned by Northwest Steamship Line of Toronto, was seized by RCMP officers at her dock here Tuesday night. Police said the vessel's officers had failed to report the ship's arrival from a United States port to Canadian customs authorities.

The seizure order was lifted after the vessel's owners paid a $400 penalty and the ship was allowed to proceed.

RCMP officers said a search of the vessel turned up two new suitcases, 14 cartons of American cigarettes and a quantity of canned goods. Police said these belonged to a seaman on the Superior.

The ship arrived here Tuesday afternoon and berthed at two docks. Police said that at neither place was the ship reported to customs officials.

The $400 penalty will be reviewed by government authorities in Ottawa, and a decision made on whether it was excessive.

It was the second time this month a lake ship had been seized and searched at a Windsor dock. Earlier in May the City of Toronto was seized and a $200 penalty paid when 50 cartons of U.S. cigarettes were found aboard her.

Army To Drop Flood Control

WINNIPEG, May 31 (CP) — The armed forces tomorrow morning will drop their control of flood fighting and relief work in the Greater Winnipeg area.

Brig. R. E. A. Morton, the army's flood commander, will move from the Legislative building back to prairie command headquarters at Fort Osborne barracks.

Provincial and municipal authorities will take back all their normal functions.

Brig. Morton was named flood-control chief May 6 when Premier Campbell decided control of the surging Red river was too much for civilian forces. Now the Red has dropped five feet from the 30.3-foot-century peak it reached May 19.

The risk of serious further damage now is ended although the river still is seven feet above flood stage.

Train And Truck Collide, 5 Hurt

WINNIPEG, May 31.—(CP).—Five men escaped injury Tuesday night in a collision between a freight train and a loaded cement truck in north-end WWinnipeg.

The impact dragged the truck 200 feet, ripped up yards of track on a C.P.R. level crossing, and dumped the locomotive on its side.

The driver of the truck, Louis Ellison, 45, was knocked free of his burning cab and escaped with an abdominal cut. John Woliszyn, 33-year-old brakeman, suffered a broken leg.

Three other railwaymen were uninjured.

Ellison's five-ton ready-mix cement truck rolled over several times and finally torn apart. An eyewitness said the train "lifted the truck about four feet in the air and then pushed it along."

THIS WAS ONCE the Coliseum Skating Rink in Montreal. Now a level mass of water-soaked, charred beams, this is all that is left of the creation centre which recently was razed to the ground by a flash fire that came close to trapping some 75 roller-skating youngsters. Thirty streams of water were needed to subdue the fierce blaze which was fed by the wood and tar-paper building.

The parade was led by District Deputy Grand Master Rt. Wor. Bro. Ross A. Barrons of Cordova Mines.

The sermon was by the Rev. F. R. Vandenburgh, who warned the fraternity that they were building a foundation, that others must build thereon and stressed that it must be solid and of worthy motives if the building was to be a great Christian fellowship.

A sextette comprising the Misses Marie Vanderburgh, Betty Post, Eleanor Scott, Brenda Lucas, Helen Robinson and Elva Gerow sang and an anthem was rendered by the senior choir.

Mr. Vanderburgh announced that the loose collections taken at the evening service, May 21 and 28 and June 4, would be forwarded to the Winnipeg flood relief fund.

At the morning service Mr. Vanderburgh baptized John Bruce Beatty, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Beatty (nee Jacqulyn Puffer). The occasion also marked the birthday of the baby's mother, who sang a solo "I'll Walk Beside You."

Brooke Convinced Empire Will Remain

MONTREAL, May 31 (CP)—Near the end of a 7,000-mile tour of Canada and the United States, Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, told a service club dinner Tuesday that the more he travels, the more he is convinced that the British Empire will ever remain as representing a way of thought.

Parliamentary government, modelled on Westminster, the sanctity of law, trial by jury, freedom of worship, and free speech these, he said are the British heritage which are common to all the Commonwealth peoples.

Sir Basil said the people of Northern Ireland were proud of their place within the United Kingdom and the British Commonwealth.

Like the people of Canada, the people of Ulster were British citizens, sharing all the traditions, privileges, and obligations which that citizenship implied.

"The race of Ulstermen has grown more and more away from the people of Southern Ireland, he declared, "and nearer and nearer to those of Great Britain."

Normal Moisture Recorded Prairies Want Dry Spell

By The Canadian Press

After a winter of adequate, if not plentiful preciptation, prairie farmers hoped for a spell of warm dry weather to permit seeding within normal dates.

In spite of unprecedented floods in the Red River valley, moisture conditions in western Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan are generally slightly below normal. They are sufficient for germination, but still more rain will be necessary after seeding, to build up subsoil reserves.

Statistics compiled by the transport department's meteorological division show that most prairie areas had somewhat less than normal preciptation from Aug. 1, 1949, to April 30, 1950. Increases were recorded only in southern Alberta, where December snowfall was three times normal, and eastern Manitoba, where heavy rainfall in October built up reserves.

Cool weather continued for the first week of May, but warmed up later. Heavy rainfall in southern and eastern Manitoba in the first two weeks of the month aggravated flood conditions and postponed seeding operations. Officials felt that in these areas the emphasis would be on coarse grains rather than on wheat, due to the wet conditions and later seeding. Crop loss in the Red River valley is estimated at $20,000,000. Seeding was not expected to be general in the area before the first week in June.

Above-average temperatures in Alberta and Saskatchewan in mid-May, with prospects of continued dry, warm weather, promised good seeding conditions. Farmers hoped for further rain after seeding.

Three Times Normal

The hard winter in the west brought heavy snowfall in December throughout Alberta, ranging from 75 per cent above normal in the north to a more than 200-per-cent increase in the south. Preciptation was less than usual for most of the remainder of the nine-month period. Central Alberta had less-than-normal precipitation of about 50 per cent for five months, ending the period with the largest deficiency recorded in the three provinces—30 per cent, an even three inches. Average decrease for the whole province was nine per cent.

Saskatchewan also received heavy snowfall in November, December and January, 60 to 70 per cent above normal. Deficiencies of rain in the fall and in March, however, brought the average for the province down to a decrease of five per cent.

Abnormally heavy rainfall in October of more than three times the normal and heavy December and January snowfall in eastern Manitoba boosted the district to an 18-per-cent increase. Below-normal figures in the western part of the province for the fall and from February through April brought the total for that section to slightly below average.

German Reds Capitulate, Obey Police

10,000 Youths Start Trek For Home, Strike Called Off

LUEBECK, Germany, June 1.—(AP). — Ten thousand sleepy Communist youths, marooned for two nights just inside the Soviet zone, started moving toward their west German homes today after calling off their sitdown strike.

The blue-shirted boys and girls accepted west German police demands that they give their names —so they could be traced if an epidemic broke out—or submit to medical examinations before crossing the border.

They had been camping in the chilly border "No Man's Land," refusing to heed the police orders, since Tuesday night when they reached the east-west zonal frontier after attending the Communist Whitsun rally in Berlin.

Decide To Give In

The youths capitulated after a sleepless night during which they piled their straw bedding on campfires in an attempt to keep warm. This morning they shuffled past lines of police and German doctors who gave them a quick lookover for any possible contagious disease contracted in their crowded Berlin quarters.

There were no incidents in the early hours. Western police said doctors found no illness.

After the border medical check-up, the young Reds wound in a long column toward Luebeck's main railway station where they were to take trains to their West-German homes. They appeared too tired even to chant Communist songs as they had done Wednesday.

Elsewhere along the east-west zonal frontier all was quiet.

The youths had passed through the Iron Curtain almost a week ago to hail Prime Minister Stalin in Eastern Berlin. But en route home those who reached Luebeck loudly defied orders that they turn in their names or take a medical examination.

A WRECKED OFFICE SAFE at Al Winslow's service station, 16 Lansdowne St., was located by employee Bert McCarrell at 6:45 a.m. today. Safe crackers used the service station blow torch (foreground), to burn off the combination plate and chiselled half way through the door wall before quitting. The blanket, draped by the safe, apparently shielded the torch light from the street. It was not opened but cigarettes were stolen from the snack bar section in the next room.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Rule Doctor Is Responsible

OTTAWA, June 1 (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada in a unanimous judgment handed down today ruled that a medical practitioner must accept responsibility for ensuring that any sponges or swabs used during an operation are removed.

The ruling was made in a judgment dismissing the appeal of Dr William E. Chasney of Winnipeg from a judgment of the Manitoba court of appeal which awarded James William Anderson of Winnipeg $3,250 and costs, for the death of his son.

The court unanimously dismissed the appeal with costs.

The case arose from a tonsil and adenoid operation performed on Mr. Anderson's five-year-old son by Dr. Chasney in 1947.

The court was told that in the course of the operation gauze sponges were used in the operation and that one was left there at the conclusion. This sponge, evidence showed, escaped into the windpipe causing death by suffocation.

Independents Gain Landslide Victory

SEOUL, Korea, June 1 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee's administration—supporters of United States policy calling for stiffer taxes and a balanced budget for South Korea—faces a stern test June 19 when the new National Assembly convenes.

South Koreans dumped major parties overboard in Tuesday's elections and gave Independents a landslide victory. Both pro-Rhee and anti-Rhee groups suffered a startling defeat. Only 31 incumbents out of 175 in the race were re-elected.

Independent candidates won 128 of the 210 seats in South Korea's single house. They picked up 33 seats more than the number gained two years ago in U. S.-supervised elections.

Trial Discloses Red Plan Take Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, June 1 (AP) — Yugoslavia's military authorities charged today that Russia as long as two years ago investigated the possibility of invading this country.

The accusation was made in an indictment charging former Maj. Gen. Branko Petricevic, 36, and former Col. Vlado Daprevic, 33, with committing treason in attempting to escape to Romania in August, 1948.

An alleged fellow-conspirator, Lt.-Gen. Arso Jovanovic, former army chief of staff, was shot and killed at the frontier by guards in the escape attempt.

As the two survivors went on trial before a military tribunal here today, Petricevic told the court after the reading of the indictment: "I feel guilty."

Made Contact

Dapcevic, according to the indictment, made contact with the Soviet military attache in Belgrade in 1948, seeking assistance for escape by himself and his colleagues.

Dapcevic the indictment continued, was asked by the Russian attache, Gen. Georgi Stepanovic, for information on these three questions:

1. How would high army leaders feel in case of a Russian attack on Yugoslavia?
2. Is there movement of Yugoslav troops in the direction of neighboring Albania?
3. What are the conditions of roads in Yugoslavia?

8,000 Ontario Pensioners Will Have Pensions Cut

TORONTO, June 1.—(CP).—Between 7,000 and 8,000 of Ontario's 90,000 old-age pensioners will have their pensions reduced because the Ontario government previously was too lenient in enforcing federal regulations. This was the explanation at Queen's Park of reduction in pension cheques, disclosed Wednesday. An official of the Provincial Old-Age Pension Commission said "we have been lax and they (the pensioners) have been lucky. We were trying to give a break to old people who have been thrifty or who were trying to earn a little on their own initiative."

The amounts due those affected may be reduced from $40 a month to as low as $7.

Didn't Enforce It

For years the Ontario government has not been enforcing section 11A of the Federal Act and as a result the aged in this province received maximum pensions. But federal authorities last December completed an investigation of the Ontario system and suggested that Ontario enforce the regulations.

In the case of a home-owner, four per cent of the assessed value of his home now must be regarded as income, deducted from his pension. If the home is valued at $2,500, for instance, the deduction is $100 from the maximum annual pension of $600.

In the case of a pensioner receiving income from rental of rooms, one-third of that income is deductible.

Ontario government officials claimed that even with imposition of the full regulations, this province still has the most lenient pension regulations. British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba deduct five per cent of the assessed value of homes as income. Quebec deducts five per cent on property where the pensioner's equity is $3,000, and the scale slides upward at one per cent per $1,000 valuation over $3,000.

Of the 90,000 pensioners in Ontario about 16,000 have been receiving only partial pensions. This number now will be increased to 23,000 or 24,000.

Strange Results In Investigation

OTTAWA, June 1 (CP)—The deputy health minister said today Ontario agreed last year that she should tighten up her administration of certain phases of old-age pensions because some recipients were earning as much as $3,900 a year with boarding houses and still drawing pension.

Dr. G. F. Davidson told the joint parliamentary committee on old-age security that was one of a number of "rather strange results" that turned up last summer in a routine examination by federal examiners of Ontario pension files.

There was no order or new regulation issued by Ottawa, he said. Ontario merely agreed that something should be done.

Dr. Davidson gave his statement in reply to queries about Toronto newspaper stories saying thousands of pensioners may be affected by the change.

The issue was raised by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) who had mentioned it earlier in the Commons. Health Minister Martin told him there have been no changes in federal regulations in the last few years.

Says Pakistan Determined To Struggle For Peace

OTTAWA, June 1 (CP)—Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan said today his country is determined to throw all its weight into the struggle to maintain peace in the Asiatic continent.

Speaking before a Canadian Club audience, the Prime Minister reiterated a previous declaration that Pakistan, once at odds with its neighbor India, "as no aggressive designs and certainly no territorial ambitions."

Pakistan was gradually developing its industries, Mr. Liaquat Ali said in a speech prepared for delivery. It now produced 75 per cent of the world's raw jute, though it had no jute mills. It also was producing quantities of cotton, hides and skins, wool, sugar-cane, and tobacco.

"By the end of the year we hope to manufacture one-third of our requirements of cloth and yarn. . .

"Cheap electrical power is the basic need of our country and the work in progress in this field is aimed at giving us by 1957 sufficient energy for our industrial requirements, for modernizing our agriculture and for setting up a country-wide network of cottage and small-scale industries."

Although principally an agricultural country, Pakistan had "low productivity," the Prime Minister added. But it was going ahead with irrigation projects to bring more land under the plow and was purchasing tractors and modern implements as part of its development projects.

At a reception Wednesday night in his honor at the home of Pakistan's High Commissioner to Canada, the Prime Minister donated $1,000 of his own funds to help victims of the flood in Winnipeg and fires in the Quebec communities of Rimouski and Cabano.

Open Norwood Bridge After Two Weeks

WINNIPEG, June 1—(CP)—Norwood bridge, closed by the flood for more than two weeks, will be re-opened today.

The bridge, a vital link between Winnipeg and St. Vital, across the Red River, was closed to all but essential traffic early in the flood crisis, and banned for all but army ducks May 20. Street car lines will be resumed over it.

Provencher bridge, open for the last week, now will be closed for removal of a temporary ramp. The ramp was built at the Winnipeg approach when water threatened to cut off traffic.

Meanwhile provicial highways officials said highway 75 south to Pembina, ND., is open almost to Morris, 41 miles south.

Police Find Trio Dead In Dwelling

Slain Pair Beaten On Head With Axe, 3 Children Unharmed

CROWLAND, Ont., June 1.—While three children, ranging in age up to three years, slept, violent death overtook three Polish displaced persons in a humble, two-family shack here late Wednesday night.

Dead in what police describe as a double murder and a suicide are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Skrynnik and Leon Rozkowski. All are believed to have been about 40.

Police Chief William Wright said that Mrozkowski was found with his throat slashed from ear to ear on a chesterfield in the bed-sitting-room of his section of the house. At his feet was Mrs. Skrynnik, her head battered. Body of her husband was found on the floor at the rear of the house, which was occupied by the Skrynnik family. His skull was smashed.

Police hold the theory that Mrozkowski attacked the Skrynniks with an axe and then took his own life. Three straight razors were found on a dresser zeside Mrozkowski's body. An axe was found under a table in the kitchen of the Mrozowski section of the house.

Discovery of the tragedy was made by Mrs. Mrozowski as she returned home from working a night shift at a Welland textile plant. She ran screaming to a nearby store and Crowland police were called.

Children Safe

Two Mrozowski children, Teddy 10 months, and Sylvester 3 years, slep togemer in one bed through the carnage. The other child, 15-month-old Sophie Skrynnik, was in a crib.

Mrs. Mrozowski and the children were sheltered in neighboring homes for the night.

Coroner Malcolm Maclean, opened an investigation and ordered autopsies on the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Skrynnik.

Police said there is no known motive for the killings.

None of the neighbors on the lonely thoroughfare heard any commotion. Mrozowski was last seen by a neighbor working in his garden about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

It is believed Skrynnik was struck down as he returned from a fishing trip. He was still wearing bicycle clips on his trousers when his body was found and two fish were found in a bowl in the porch.

In addition to her head injuries, Mrs. Skrynnik had shoulder slashes, believed inflicted by a razor.

The families came to Crowland from a displaced persons camp in Germany two years ago.

Canadian Jet Airliner Will Fly Atlantic

TORONTO, June 1 (CP) — Avro Canada today announced that its new jetliner and jet-powered CF-100 fighter will fly the Atlantic this summer.

The two craft will be displayed at the Society of British Aircraft Constructors exhibition at Farnborough, England, in September, and after that the transport will tour the capitals of Europe and possibly the Middle East.

The jet airliner made its first flight Aug. 10, 1949, and last April cut present airline scheduled times by half or more in flights to Ottawa, Montreal and New York, with a speed of more than 500 miles an hour. Performance of the CF-100 fighter is secret.

Snow In Manitoba

WINNIPEG, June 1.—(CP).—June was ushered in with damp snow in Northern Manitoba today. The weather man said snow or mixed snow and rain was falling from The Pas northward. It was expected to keep up all day, settling into rain at night. In Winnipeg, where frost was predicted for Wednesday night, overnight temperatures touched 37 degrees.

Russian Guards Impose Truck Slowdown

BERLIN, June 1 (AP)—Soviet frontier guards slowed down western truck traffic on the Berlin highway today.

Truck drivers at the Helmstedt check point said Russian zone guards told them the new restrictions were counter measures against "mistreatment" of Communist youth going home from Sunday's gigantic East Berlin rally.

Berlin-bound trucks were subjected to a long and involved inspection of engine and chassis numbers before being allowed to proceed beyond Helmstedt. By 11 a.m. 100 Berlin-bound vehicles were backlogged at the Helmstedt check point, which is about 100 miles from Berlin. On the other side of the frontier, 70 vehicles awaited clearance to complete their trips from Berlin to West Germany.

These tactics were similar to the ones the Russians used before they clamped on the full land blockade of Berlin in the summer of 1948. They have been using the tactics sporadically since then.

West Germans said that from midnight to 5 a.m. only one truck an hour was permitted to pass through Helmstedt to or from Berlin. Then the Russians stepped up the hourly traffic flow to about seven trucks. The normal rate is 10 to 15 trucks an hour.

Fights Mad Dog Saves Children

ATLANTA, Ga., June 1 (AP)—A taxicab driver, father of five children, wrestled with an apparent mad dog Wednesday to save a group of 82 terrified kindergarten pupils.

"Any man with kids of his own would have done exactly what I did," said 28-year-old Rick Parker, shrugging off his act of bravery.

Parker spotted the dog, running wildly and foaming at the mouth, as he drove past the school. Classes were changing and the youngsters were on the grounds.

The cab driver threw his car in reverse and put it between the mongrel dog and the children. He shouted at a patrolling policewoman to get the children inside.

Then the dog darted around the cab and Parker flung himself upon it. As the children watched from windows, he wrestled the dog down the street. A youth finally killed the dog with a rifle. Parker was bitten on one hand and was given an anti-rabies shot.

Japan Now Willing To Sign Peace Treaties With Countries Wishing It

Stress Russians Have Delayed Treaty Through Split With U.S.; Anxious To Improve Economic Conditions

TOKYO, June 1.—(AP).—Japan formally expressed the desire today to sign peace treaties with all countries "willing to accord it independence and equality." The foreign office said Japan "fully possesses the necessary qualifications" for a formal peace treaty but has failed to obtain one because of the American-Russian split. It said the Soviet position was responsible for the delay. The statement was made in a 2,600-word review of Japan's status under "de facto peace" issued by the foreign office's public information division.

Calling attention to the big-power split, the foreign office said:

Economic Worry

"It is desirable that arrangements as similar as possible to those existing under a peace treaty be made with various countries thereby alleviating as much as possible the impoverished condition of our economy."

"It is the hope of everyone that a so-called over-all peace will be concluded; but we cannot be so nonchalant as to assert that it would be advisable to hope for over-all peace and have the present system of control continuing indefinitely."

The statement traced occupation steps toward restoring Japanese autonomy and stressed the need for more export trade.

Truman Asks Congress Provide Billion ERP

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP), —President Truman today asked Congress to provide $1,222,500,000 for a second year of the arms-aid program.

He said delay in supplying the money might "strike a fatal blow at all our efforts to create the kind of peace which the free world seeks and would lessen our chances of continuing to live and work in freedom."

The fund would finance arms shipments to foreign countries, including Atlantic Pact Allies, during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The $1,222,500,000 is slightly less than the $1,314,010,000 which Congress appropriated last year to help 13 countries re-arm against Communism.

Plans 2 Statements

OTTAWA, June 1 (CP)—The Commons can anticipate official statements on two major international conferences on Monday, External Affairs Minister Pearson indicated today. He told the House he hopes to make a statement then on the recent Atlantic Pact Foreign Ministers meetings in London and said he might include a statement on the Commonwealth economic conference in Sydney, Australia. Both took place in May.

Wildcat Strikes Crippling London Industry

LONDON, June 1 (Reuters)—Five wildcat strikes today were causing costly delays in London's docks, railway, power and building industries.

A total of 1,000 men were idle in the five stoppages.

1. More than 250 lightermen who man the small boats in the Thames are on strike in protest against dismissal of 91 men who, in turn, were fired for striking in support of 14 men suspended. The 14 had refused to work overtime. Several lighters and barges are idle in the port of London.

2. Five hundred men are on strike on London's festival of Britain site, on the south bank of the Thames, as a protest against the employment of two non-union men.

More than 250 drivers and van guards are out at a railway goods depot in South London because they object to the promotion of a cartage foreman to inspector. They say another man, who has been there longer, should have the job.

4. Eighty-five electricians and laborers show no signs of ending their month-old strike at the vast Croydon power station, on the outskirts of London. Work on the power station is held up because of a dispute over the dismissal of a union official at the plant.

5. Forty carpenters have stopped work on government offices in the centre of London, because of a quarrel over whether skilled or unskilled men should fix windows.

Trailer Crushes Three Canadians

ST. IGNACE, Mich., June 1 — (AP)—A trailer loaded with coal broke loose Wednesday from its tractor and crushed to death three Canadians in a passenger car.

Police identified the victims as Hillis Foster, 36, of Woodstock, a woman they presumed to be his wife, and Wilbert Hillis Foster, 68, of Granton, Ont., who police believe was the father of the younger man.

The accident occurred three miles west of here.

The passenger car was telescoped by the impact with the heavily-loaded trailer. Bodies of the victims were removed three hours later after the twisted wreckage was cut with acetylene torches.

Jap Reds Defy MacArthur General Strike Ordered

TOKYO, June 1 (AP)—Openly defiant, Japan's Communist party today ordered a general strike Saturday in reprisal for the occupation's rush trial of eight Japanese accused of kicking and stoning United States soldiers.

The strike call promised to brig to a head growing tension between Gen. MacArthur's occupation forces and the belligerent Communists.

This tension, fuelled by recent international Communist charges that the Japanese Reds were too docile, erupted Tuesday—U.S. Memorial Day—in the first physical violence of the occupation against U.S. troops.

The Communist party howled that the incidents were caused "by systematic and organized provocations by spies" and thundered:

"Workers and students—rise up and start a general strike . . . demanding immediate release of the eight patriots."

It timed the reprisal strike to coincide with general strikes scheduled Saturday in the automobile, metal trades and heavy industry. The party's purpose in the latter is to influence the elections Sunday for the upper house of parliament.

There was no way of telling how effective the Communists could make their general strike. Occupation officials estimate the Reds control 600,000 of Japan's 6,250,000 organized workers.

Police all over Japan have been placed on the alert for new outbreaks of Red violence.

The occupation struck back swiftly after the Plaza incident. Before the Communists had finished their parading and virulent speech-making, American military police moved in and arrested six Japanese. Two others were arrested later.

Town's Main Street Becomes River Of Fire

YPSILANTI, Mich., June 1—(CP)—Explosion of 4,400 gallons of gasoline in a truck's trailer turned Ypsilanti's main street into a river of fire early today. No one was injured and firemen saved the endangered central business district.

Driver Franklin E. Fausey brought his truck to a halt when a wheel was lost from the trailer. He jumped clear seconds before the blast. Gasoline in the truck and a second trailer did not ignite.

The burning gasoline which poured into sewers caused four underground explosions. The fluid also flowed into the Huron River, and burned on the surface of the water for several minutes.

Several automobiles in a used car lot nearby were burned.

Commons Begins Heavy Drive For Prorogation

OTTAWA, June 1 (CP)—The Commons today is scheduled to begin an eight-hour working day in its drive towards prorogation.

Three sittings—11 a.m. to 1 p.m., 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.—replace the usual afternoon and evening sittings.

Still among the bulkiest items to be tackled are the estimates of expenditures of various departments. The sailing is expected to be a lot smoother once these items are cleaned up.

Before prorogation—some expect it by the end of the month—members will probably be asked to adopt the reports of several committees and deal with a half-dozen or more government bills, including a measure providing a new charter for Canada's Indians.

At an abbreviated sitting Wednesday, members gave third reading to a bill extending provisions of the War Veterans' Allowance Act to imperial veterans now resident in Canada. Also adopted was a bill making minor amendments to the Canadian Grain Act and a measure extending application of the Criminal Code to the new province of Newfoundland.

Hear Address

Prior to the 1½ hour sitting, members of the Senate and the Commons were addressed by Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan. He declared that Pakistan is resolved to safeguard her freedom "at all costs."

Two Tourists Badly Injured

WINDSOR, June 1.—(CP).—Two United States tourists were severely injured when their automobile collided with a truck about 20 miles east of Windsor today.

Brought to hospital here, they are tentatively identified as John Kubicek of Yonkers, N.Y., and Irene Duben of Cleveland, O. Extent of their injuries has not been determined.

Truck driver Roy White of Tillsonburg was treated at the scene for burns after his truck was destroyed by fire.

Police said they believe Kubicek fell asleep at the wheel of his car. White told police the car edged on to his side of the highway as it approached him. The heavy tractor-trailer jack-knifed in attempting to avoid the collision.

Passers-by had to pull the wrecked car from the burning truck before they could remove Kubicek and Miss Duben.

The truck burned so strongly that wrecking crews had to use acetylene torches to cut the metal and remhove parts from the roadway.

Church Studies Labor Questions

LONDON, Ont., June 1.—(CP).—A courageous approach to questions of profit sharing, pension extension, and basic annual wage guarantees in industry was urged on church goers today by the London Conference of the United Church.

Delegates said Christians should be "more courageous and hopeful in their efforts to break new ground through changes that a technological industrial system demand."

The conference, in accepting the report of the Industrial Relations committee, at the same time rejected an amendment that urged settlement of all industrial disputes by a court whose decisions would be final.

A second amendment, scoring Sunday meetings and votes of trade unions, was referred back to the committee for a recommendation.

J. M. Lawrence of Windsor, said he viewed with alarm Sunday union meetings when major decisions were made by ballot. He said the Department of Labor should be petitioned to make Sunday union meetings illegal.

Industrials Jump Into Higher Prices

TORONTO, June 1 (CP)—Industrials jumped into new high price ground for a third successive session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Base metal stocks held the limelight earlier following news of an increase in the price of nickel.

Profit-taking held industrials in check early in the day but renewed demand began lifting the list at the half-way mark. Papers, steels, foods and liquors led the steady upturn. Imperial Oil was a heavy trader in refining oils and well ahead. Utilities were mixed.

This was the third successive advance in industrials in their drive into new high price ground. The exchange's index of representative industrial stocks has been at it's highest peak since it was first compiled in 1934 for some time.

International Nickel highlighted base metals at the opening, bounding ahead to a new high at 35½ following Wednesday's announcement of an eight cent a pound increase in nickel. Falconbridge and Sherritt Gordon were also higher but eased as the session progressed.

Golds sagged over a wide front. Senior producers were down fractions and juniors showed losses ranging to 10 cents. Western oils traded briskly at slightly higher levels.

Sunday Sports Regulation Causes Stir

Two resolutions from the Committee on Evangelism and Social Service started a difference of opinion today on the floor of the 25th Bay of Quinte Conference.

First was a resolution recording the conference's judgment that the recent amendment to the Lord's Day Act (having to do with Sunday sports) is "contrary to the principle of the Fourth Commandment, to Canadian criminal law, and is liable to lead to confusion . . . respecting observance of the Lord's Day throughout this province."

Prominent conference lay member, Elmer Davis of Kingston, said: "We have not all the facts before us; I sincerely hope this resolution will be deleted."

The Rev. M. J. Aiken of St. Andrew's United Church, said: "The law is not a thing to be understood only by lawyers—it is for all the people.

"We have the right to express an opinion when we think something is rwong. We don't have to wait until some expert lawyer expresses an opinion for us."

The Rev. G. A. Brown of Kingston asked for a show of hands of those who had read the amendment to the Act. There were no hands raised.

The resolution concerning the amendment was referred back to the committee.

Leter to Premier

Second difference of opinion came when the conference president, the Rev. H. A. Kent, said he did not support a proposed letter to Premier Leslie Frost, asking for a commission "to investigate the liquor situation in Canada."

Lay member E. L. Sackville said he supported the letter. "Even our president should not have to make a further study of this matter."

Mr. Sackville was supported vigorously by most of the conference.

The Rev. E. G. Pugsley said, "We want a Royal Commission to investigate the liquor situation. It's quite in order that we send this letter." Mr. Pugsley said he wouldn't want "to put the president on the spot by asking him to sign the letter."

Text of the proposed letter is as follows:

"To the Hon. Leslie Frost:

Honorable Sir:

"In response to a request made by the General Council of the United Church and the Department of Evangelism and social service to set up a commission to investigate the liquor situation in Canada,

"The Bay of Quinte Conference in session at Peterborough hereby makes prayerful request that the Premier of Ontario communicate with the Prime Minister of Canada requesting that such a commission be authorized and set up forthwith.

"We feel that Saskatchewan having made such a request and that Nova Scotia considering to do so—that Ontario should be in the forefront in such a move.

"The United Church strongly supports you in such request."

Other Resolutions

Further resolutions from the committee suggested a request to the dominion government to consider the subject of liquor advertising at the dominion-provincial conference "with a view to bringing all such advertising under dominion authority and control."

A more thorough educational movement in public, secondary and church schools of the nature and effects of alcohol "on the human organism" was requested.

Steady decrease in the number of liquor outlets, and organization of a youth temperance movement were also urged.

Shot By Policeman After Second Stabbing

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., June 1 (CP)—A man was critically wounded Wednesday night when shot in the stomach by a policeman after he had stabbed the constable. Both are in hospital here.

Stanley Thacker, 32, underwent an operation and is in critical condition with a gunshot wound. Constable Eric Hallan of the B. C. police is in "good" condition with knife wounds in his arm and back.

The affray occurred when three constables and a doctor attempted to take Thacker into custody. Thacker's parents had requested police remove the man to Essondale mental hospital. He had wounded a policeman in 1948.

Bishop System Stands Between Church Union

TORONTO, June 1.—(CP).—Insistence of the Church of England in Canada on keeping its system of bishops is one of the difficulties in the way of union between that church and the United Church of Canada, says the Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, secretary of the United Church General Council.

In an article written for the United Church Observer in connection with the 25th anniversary of the founding of the church, Dr. Sisco asserts that the United Church cannot accept any implication that its clergy is not a real and effective ministry, even without bishops.

"It is no secret that standing in the way of past proposals, and one which is difficult to reconcile, is the doctrine set forth by at least some Anglo-Catholics that the authority and commission of the church reside in an episcopate alone and that therefore a church which fails to believe this truth and to reply exclusively on its authority is not a church.

"To the extent that this group influences policy, it forces the Anglican church into a difficult position on all matters pertaining to unity, here in Canada and elsewhere."

Negotiations concerning the union of the churches have been going on through a joint commission for six years.

Out of Work

The men found jobs in the textile mill. One left the mill and became a factory worker in a pipe-manufacturing concern, but was laid off. The other had not worked regularly for some time.

In recent weeks the men spent their time putting imitation brick on the parish hall of the Roman Catholic Church here. Mrs. Skrynnik minded the children; Mrs. Mrozkowski was the breadwinner.

The families themselves built the cottage they occupied.

Little Sylvester Mrozkowski was spattered with blood when police took him from the house. Officers believe the child crawled out of bed after the slayings, walked around the living-room for a few moments, and then went back to bed.

Blames Nazi Torture

Mrs. Mrozkowski today blamed Nazi torture in a concentration camp for her husband's deed.

"This is a tragedy of war," she told a reporter. "I know in my own mind that my husband killed his two good friends and then took his own life. I thank God that he spared the children.

"The reason for this shocking crime goes back to the early war years when my husband was seized by the German army in Poland and placed in a concentration camp. He suffered terrible tortures, the remembrance of which he never got over. His nerves were shattered by the inhuman treatment he received for more than four years in a prison camp.

Took Spells

"I was in a concentration camp myself for two years and after our release we were married and came to Canada, which was to be our land of hope. In the last year Leon's nerves had been gradually getting worse. He used to beat me up when he would go into a nervous state caused by his memories of the internment camp.

"He never knew what he was doing when he took these strange disorders. He loved his children and myself and he thought the world of te Skrynniks.

"I intend to carry on in Canada with my two children. I don't know how I am going to do it, for I have no money and I know so few people. Little Sophie Skrynnik will be taken into a Roman Catholic orphanage, because I will not be able to handle all three of the children."

Shopping?

REGINA (CP)—One old lady brought here from the Winnipeg flood area asked to be taken through the men's ward of the hospital to see if her husband was there. Only after she had been escorted through the ward, carefully scrutinizing each male face was it discovered that she was not married.

Canadians Play Leading Role In Fiji Islands

Written For The Canadian Press By MARGARET E. FRANCIS

SUVA, Fiji—(CP)—South of the equator, between 16 and 25 degrees latitude, 300 Fiji islands are Gauguin canvases come to life.

Hills, jungle, beaches and palm groves are brilliant splashes of color under a tropical sun whose heat is tempered by soft winds from the south Pacific.

Fiji could hardly be more unlike Canada; perhaps that is why a growing colony of Canadians is making the islands its home away from the northern cold. Several of them came to the crown colony at the turn of the century when the island had only recently become a part of the British Empire. They pioneered the development of Fiji from the days of cannibalistic wars between hostile tribes to the present law-abiding, economically stable country.

At 19, Henry William Johnson, with a suitcase and 25 cents in his pocket, set out from Port Dover, Ont., for the south seas. Now 88, "Tavua" Johnson amassed a small fortune through copra plantations and trading and moved to the Fijian capital of Suva.

Here he became a member of the legislative council and played an active part in colonial affairs. He is still a justice of the peace and deputy mayor of the city.

"Tavua practically ran Fiji," said one friend. He was noted for progressive schemes for the economic development of the island, and even in remote islands he is still held in great respect by the natives.

Stranger Than Fiction

"My life has been stranger than fiction," Tavua Johnson admits. His grey-blue eyes snap and his deep, Canadian-accented voice is full of laughter as he spins yarns of trading, gambling and adventuring during pioneer days in the islands. "And now Fiji is a beautiful land in which to dream away my old age."

His son Tui, born here in 1900, is William Granger Johnson, who received part of his education in Simcoe, Ont. "Tui," which means "king" was the name given him by the Fijians among whom he spent his early childhood. He is managing director of a large copra firm which manufactures margarine and coco-nut oil.

A vice-president of the chamber of commerce, Tui is also on the Tourist Board and promotes Fiji as a holiday mecca for Canadians.

Last year following his graduation from the University of British Columbia, he brought Lorne Swindells of Vancouver to Suva as his chief chemist. With Swindells was his bride, Bonita. The wife of one of Tui's executives, Arthur Jackson, is the former Betty Bright of Winnipeg and Regina.

Another pioneer and crony of Tavua Johnson is William Bolton Stinson, who arrived 50 years ago from Toronto at the age of 19. He started by copra trading with the natives. Following his marriage to a New Zealand girl, he returned to Toronto for a few years and three of his children were born there.

But the Stinsons longed for the tropics and, as soon as they could, returned to Fiji. They tried a copra plantation for a while and then moved to Suva and established a photographic studio, now operated by son Charles. Canadian-born Islay is in New Zealand and Eric, also born in Toronto, is one of the chief officers of the Fiji customs.

The discovery of gold in the north of Viti Levu Island in 1931 brought Fred Hildreth of Edmonton to Fiji. He had formerly prospected in the Yukon. "But give me prospecting in the tropics any time," he says with a laugh.

Director of Medicine

Director of medical services for Fiji and inspector - general of the south Pacific island area (which includes Samoa, Tongo and the Gilbert and Ellice Island groups) is Dr. J. M. Cruikshanks of Saint John, NB, a graduate of McGill University.

Dr. Cruikshanks, a thin, vigorous man of 48, was officer in charge of hygiene, preventive medicine and venereal disease control in the RCAF during the war years. He took his discharge from the RCAF in London in 1945 and became assistant medical adviser to the secretary of state for the colonies. He came to Fiji in 1949.

Among the 40 doctors under his charge are two other Canadians, Dr. G. O. Hallman and Dr. Joseph Conran, both of Vancouver. Mrs. Cruikshanks is the former Elaine Strong of Calgary.

Arthur Smith, controller of customs, comes from Winnipeg.

Among Canadians now living at Fiji's airport of Nadi are Mr. and Mrs. John Roddie of Vancouver and Victoria. Mr. Roddie is air radio supervisor. Mrs. Henry Hill, wife of a forecaster in the weather operations branch of the airport, is the former Sally Forbes of Charlottetown, PEI.

Canadians are forging imports and places for themselves in the economic life of the islands. They are sure that more Canadians will join them when they recognize the opportunities presented by this beautiful land.

Terrorizes Train For Two Hours

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 1 (AP)—An armed man, apparently angered by a baby's crying, staged a two-hour reign of terror in a Southern Pacific Railway chair car on the way here today.

Police identified the gunman as 27-year-old H. P. Huff, a merchant seaman who boarded the train at Los Angeles. He was arrested as the train pulled into the station here.

Witnesses said the man apparently became angered by a baby's crying shortly after the train left Yuma, Ariz.

Arthur F. Corkran, the conductor, said Huff reached into his luggage, pulled out the gun and told the child's mother:

"Take that baby out of this car or I'll shoot both of you."

Detective George Van Doren said there were seven live shells in the gun. He said one of the shells was marked by a firing pin and Huff may have tried to fire it.

Army Head Fired

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 1 (AP)—Defence Minister Alexej Cepicka Wednesday fired the head of the Czechoslovak army quartermaster department and warned this was just the beginning of "improvements." Cepicka accused Division Gen. Bruno Zapletal of "gross negligence" in the provisioning of the army.

Safety Record

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—The British-American Oil Company plant here has set a North American petroleum industry safety record. The plant, employing 140 workers, operated 1,000 consecutive accident-free days. They now are aiming for a three-year spotless record, ending Aug. 20.

Klondyke Night

IRVINES LANDING, B. C.—(CP)—The second annual Klondyke Night of the Pender Harbor Branch of the Canadian Legion found plenty of "suckers" playing games of chance in aid of a found to build a new hall. Feature of the festivities was the "hanging" of the "sheriff"—Legion president Ernie Cotton.

Phone Increase Cut In Half, Montreal Plan

OTTAWA, June 1 (CP)—The city of Montreal believes that if telephone rates in Ontario and Quebec are to be increased, they should be boosted by not more than half the increase requested by the Bell Telephone Company.

And further, if the Board of Transport Commissioners sees fit to grant this partial increase, it should impose a 15-point program of obligations on the company, aimed at the adoption of measures to curtail expenditures and bring down operating costs.

Lovell Carrol, counsel for Montreal, brought these assertions before the board Wednesday as he launched a summing-up of argument against the Bell application for rate increases which would boost its revenues by 20.6 per cent.

Argument against the application is to continue today.

"The future of the company," said Mr. Carroll, "is the responsibility not only of the company, but of ourselves and of the board.

Want Practical Plan

"We are all Canadians and we want our country and its public utilities to prosper. But we plead here today for what is sane, practical, economic and proper."

The reason the company did not appear to have sufficient revenue, Mr. Carroll said, was because of the large construction program it was undertaking. This program was "too large," and it had not proved to be "wholly necessary."

In case if the board saw fit to grant the partial increase, it should oblige the company—among other things—to:

1. Take into consideration the "real demand" for telephones in its construction undertakings.

2. Finance its new capital with "as high a debt ratio as is practically possible." Stock should be financed through a syndicate at few points under the market, rather than at an issue price to shareholders more than 20 per cent below the market.

Legislation And Brotherly Love

The city council of Toronto has approved an amendment to a local bylaw which forbids people engaged in trades and businesses which involve personal service from discriminating against any customer. The direct inspiration of this move, apparently, was the incident a few weeks ago when a small Negro boy was refused a haircut in a Toronto barbershop. We believe that the council has a good motive in making such a rule; it hopes to stamp out discrimination in Toronto. But we do not think that it will work. Discrimination cannot be stamped out; it can only be reduced by gentle persuasion, education and example, and we seriously doubt if it can ever be rooted out completely.

• • •

We are in complete agreement with the Toronto Globe and Mail, which said in its leading editorial on Wednesday that—

> "Governments have the authority to determine the basic standards on which a man will conduct a business. But they have no right to dictate for whom he shall work, or who shall provide his customers. Those who do personal services have as much right to choose whom they will or will not serve, as the customer has to choose whom he will ask to do the service. It does not matter to the government whether the reasons of either party are good or bad."

It is an invasion of a man's liberty to say that he must cut the hair, or press the clothes, or shine the shoes of another man if he has some strong objection to doing so.

• • •

Further, we believe that the people who suffer from discrimination understand this situation better than the Toronto councillors. They do not want to thrust themselves into places where they are resented, and to have their hair cut, or their shoes shined by resentful men who are working under legal compulsion. Nor is personal service worth having ever given under such circumstances. Indeed, he would be a brave man who would entrust the cutting of his hair to a man who hated or despised him.

• • •

Discrimination on grounds of race or belief is a very ugly thing, but it exists, and it cannot be put down by law. Discrimination hurts feelings, but attempts to foot it out by law may result in broken heads. And to make it a law that a man must serve anyone who comes into his shop gives liberty to the customer while taking it away from the barber, the presser, or the bootblack. What real value is there in such a law?

• • •

People cannot be made to behave decently by networks of foolish laws. If they hate Negroes, or Jews, no law will change them. Only a little common sense, and a renewed realization that we are all equal before God and that we are all the children of God, will change them. We must not expect to find a saint or a philosopher behind every barber's chair.

• • •

There is no easy solution to the problem; indeed, it has its roots in even greater problems which have defied solution for centuries. And as no law is better than a bad law, we sincerely hope that other Ontario cities will not copy Toronto's folly in this respect.

Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan

Today the Prime Minister of the fifth most populous country in the world and one of the newest Dominions in the Commonwealth ends his three-day visit to Canada's capital. Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan is one of the great practical statesmen of our day. If the reverend Mohammed Ali Jinnah was the architect of Pakistan, Liaquat Ali Khan has been the mastermason. He, descendant of a wealthy and titled family, and an Oxford graduate, became Prime Minister on August 15th, 1947, the day before the new national flag was first raised above Karachi and eighty million Moslems of British India became an independent people within the Commonwealth. When Jinnah died in September of the next year while serving as first Governor-General, to Ali Khan was left the completion of the work which both had begun.

The work has been onerous, for severe economic and political troubles shook the new nation at the outset. The warfare with India, the consequent flight of refugees to and from the country have been nearly calamitous. Liaquat Ali Khan spoke of these matters before a joint session of the Canadian House of Commons and Senate yesterday in Ottawa. But he spoke with pride in what has already been achieved and with confidence in the future.

Three purposes to which Pakistan will devote its new freedom were given in the Prime Minister's speech: to enable Muslims in the new state to live according to their faith and culture; to practise the principles of democracy, equality, tolerance and social justice "as enunciated by Islam; "This does not mean theocracy, for Islam does not believe either in priesthood or in the caste system." In making his third point—his government's resolve to safeguard the country's freedom, to help in maintaining peace and stability in Asia, and to develop the country's economy—he made a notable statement about democracy which should live long after our generation has forgotten its occasion:

"Democracy, in Pakistan or elsewhere is of little use to the common man unless its advantages are made available to him in his daily life and his standard of living is raised at least to a level which gives him a substantial stake in the way of life which he has chosen for himself."

A nation whose Prime Minister makes and believes in such a proposition, whose government is guided by it, and whose people practise it, need fear little from the encroachments of communism or any other violent doctrines. In such hands as Liaquat Ali Khan's, democracy in Pakistan should flourish.

A Distinguished Irish Visitor

It is good news that Padraic Colum is visiting Canada. He is one of the very few Irish men of letters left living who bore a part in that great upsurge of Irish genius during the early years of the present century. He is welcome here, and we hope that he may stay for some time.

We must dissent a little from the welcome which has been extended to him by the Ottawa Journal, in these words:

> "In our Canadian schools and colleges they present, as part of courses in English, Synge and Yeats and Joyce and Lady Gregory. They could include Padraic Colum, who was of that goodly company; his "Broken Soil" deserving as much of memory as Synge's "Shadow in the Glen". Indeed, while Synge often merely wrote drama with an Irish accent Colum wrote of the Irish peasant with authentic truth.

That judgement on Synge seems to us to be rather ungenerous—particularly when one of his plays is misnamed in connection with it. If is true that "Synge often merely wrote drama with an Irish accent" it would be interesting to know where he has done this, and why it was that a poet with so acute an ear as his friend Yeats never appeared to notice it? Surely we can give Padraic Colum his full due of praise without having to run down Synge in the process?

Mr. Colum is one of the last of a notable company which greatly enriched English literature. We do not know why he has come to Canada but we hope that it may be possible for the C.B.C. to persuade him to give us at least one radio talk during his stay here.

Americana

The United States of America is a fearful and wonderful country, even without its New York skyscrapers and its Hollywood. Every week adds to outsiders' amazement. Here are three unrelated items culled from news items of the last several days:

The American government spends more than a million dollars a day in its farm price support program, on buying butter, cheese and powdered milk alone.

One out of every eight persons in the U.S.A. is employed in government service.

When the U.S.A goes on a holiday week-end such as last more than 400 persons are killed, most of them in traffic accidents.

There is no conceivable way to connect these facts, except to say that they are part of the great big U.S.A. scene.

Guests of Royalty

By CYRIL DUNN

WE flowed through one of history's bottlenecks—the narrow doorway into the Queen's Drawing Room. Ahead of us stumped the Lecturer, a donnish and abstracted man who, on this shuffling transit from one Apartment to the next, seemed to put us out of his mind.

Before we had been properly caught up by the Wolf Cub who was making conscientious notes on a large writing-pad in a slow, round hand, the Lecturer had started again.

"And for those who have nursed an ambition to see Queen Anne's bed," he was saying, "here it is."

In a man less obviously polite, one might have suspected a gust of impatience, an exposed distaste for ill-directed curiosity. He seemed at least to have given some thought to the assorted motives which bring 500,000 people in a single year to the State Apartments at Hampton Court Palace. And he was able to offer a little something to suit all all tastes — for some, the Danish king who "taught the English Court to drink" and, for others, the highlights and thunder-clouds in Tintoretto.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Lecturer is not the kind of guide to be avoided, but a man of mild and scholarly humour, using subtle inflections to interpret Hampton Court, at no extra charge, to anyone who cares to listen. One catches the inflection, but is sometimes left to select from a pleasing choice of meanings. He says, for instance, that Hampton Court has been the home of twelve reigning monarchs, "or thirteen if you include Cromwell." And it is plainly for us to decide whether he assumes that the best people will exclude Cromwell, or whether beside the Protector the other dozen scarcely count.

On the subject of Verrio's painted ceilings, the Lecturer was relatively clear. These sprawling works, which at first impact caused some of the more sensitive visitors to duck, have none of Michaelangelo's floating aloofness, but seem liable at any moment to fall an avalanche of embarrassed gods and massy Heroes, on our heads. "Eight bob a square foot," said the Lecturer, is what William III agreed to pay for them—and died when he had paid no more than half, an oblique criticism which, one was encouraged to feel, served Verrio right.

But when we came to what might be called the central problem of Hampton Court, the Lecturer was unmistakably a partisan. He stands with the chief historians of the Palace in condemning the "damned passion" which led William III to pull down so much of Henry VIII's Tudor brickwork and to put in its place an imitation of Versailles. At the head of the King's Staircase, on the threshold of this imported Eighteenth-century Renaissance, he warned us not to imagine "the ghosts of Henry VIII and Charles II when you get inside here." And the inference was clear, the lack of these distinguished shades was discreditable to the State Apartments.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS union between William's elegant premises and Henry's English Tudor is something about which the thoughtful visitor is obliged to take sides. Wren, who was William's architect, was not the man to let the two parts seem visibly incompatible, even at the actual joint in the Clock Court. But spiritually the two are living together in a state of perpetual divorce.

Perhaps the pseudo-Versailles gets, accidentally, unfair treatment. We see inside much more of William's Palace than we do of Henry's, and what we see has a barren look. Not much of the furniture is left, and some of it is in the wrong rooms, as if we had called during the removal men's dinner-hour. Nor can full justice be done to the Court of William and Mary by the faded throne, the rotted canopy, the drooping plumes on the King's State Bed, the ivory barometer set with dismal permanence at Pluies Neiges ou Vents.

Perhaps things are livelier in the forty Grace and Favour apartments set aside by the King—on other floors, their privacy most skilfully maintained—for people who have deserved well of their country. But it is difficult to believe that this Court, fettered to a formal pattern of rooms, ever had half the life that shook the hammer-beams in Henry's Great Hall on nights when there were "masks and mumreys" which were "an hevynne to behold."

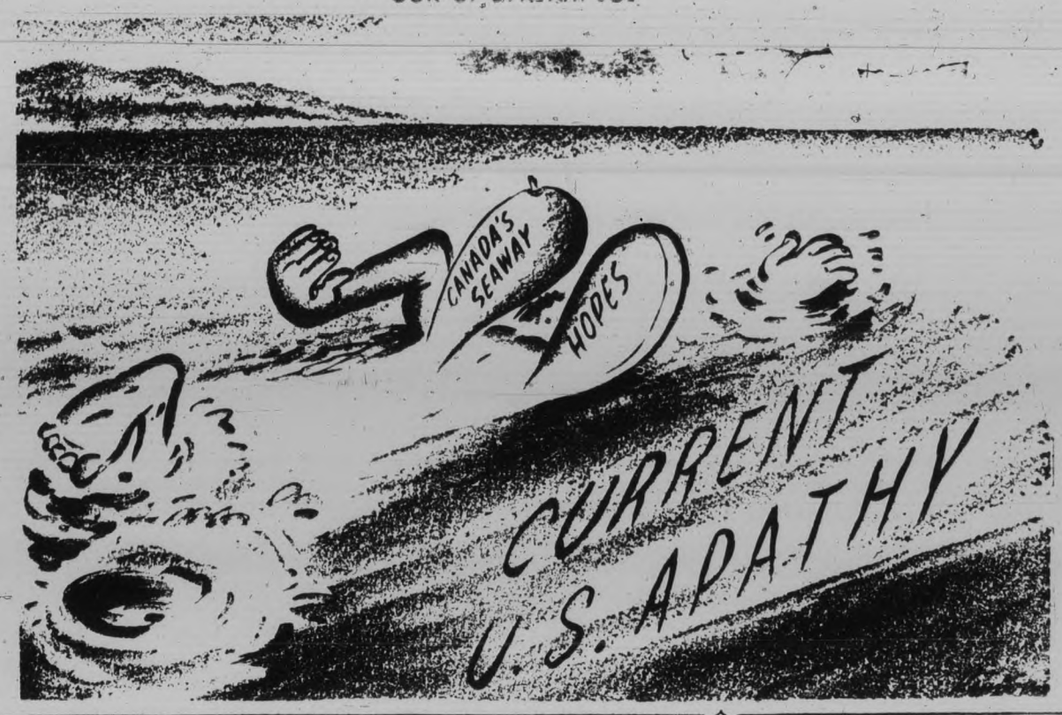
✧ ✧ ✧

IT may be that few of the people who pour into Hampton Court, over the moat-bridge, between the stony grins of the King's Beasts, ever give these problems a thought. Through the week, the visitors are mainly schoolchildren in repressed columns, and a startling percentage of old and middle-aged ladies. The children, when they express themselves at all about the historical interest of the Palace, do so simply by bursting out through a Tudor archway and shouting "Heh, Bert! Smashin' place in 'ere!"

The old ladies go round in amiably organized parties, in costumes of knitted wool and surprisingly adventurous hats. There are some who walk pensively alone on the grass in the King's Privy Garden, threading the notices that ask them to keep off it, calm in every old lady's assurance that official rules, though excellent, are not meant for her. But any young woman who dreads the onset of the years would be wise to follow a Mothers' Union round these corridors and garden-walks. For carefree, girlish enjoyment, these elderly excursionists can have no equal. They are convulsed by everything they see, from William's bed to Wolsey's mammoth cooking-range. "What a place to keep clean," they say, and push each other to make more room for their helpless laughter.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN Queen Victoria first opened this Palace to the people, there were those who thought she was wrong to encourage "the inanimate stare and booby admiration" of her "darling Lower Classes." But it seems as if we really do appreciate this royal courtesy. At all events, Hampton Court shows little of that ruin trace commonly to be found in places set open to the public. Even the popular habit of 'scratching on the fabric," against which there are admonitory notices, seems to have been discontinued here (if we may judge by visible dates) in 1775.



As a background for the Court, this royal Arcady on the banks of the Thames may never have been an unqualified success. Henry meant it to be an elaborate playground, but too many of the games played there in his time ended in such grim fatality that the ghosts they left cannot be happy, even though you can now buy one of them on a picture postcard. The Versailles of William and Mary has that sad air of a great project which did not quite come off. There are, behind the State Apartments, private rooms which make it apparent that, even here, formal court life could be a burden to the Sovereign. George II's own private chamber is so small and dark that a bolt-hole is irresistibly implied; after the grandeur of his State Bed, the little red one in the small back room, where he habitually slept after lunch, speaks eloquently of escapism.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT for the people who now enjoy Hampton Court as the King's daily guests, it really is a playground. There may be those who prefer the Great Vine, that elderly and pampered plant, to the Mantegna Cartoons exhibited in the Lower Orangery. For one who worries about the Wren facade there are a hundred content to sit comfortably outside the Maze and listen as an anguished parent calls, with mounting urgency, for a lost Jennifer somewhere deep within. But there is something for everyone, even if in the end it is no more than the momentary lift one's spirit gets from looking at wistaria against a wall of Tudor brick.

OUR UP-STREAM JOB

Portrait Of A Refugee From Soviet Tyranny

By TANYA MATTHEWS

I SHOULD like to draw a composite portrait of a "typical" escapee from the Russian army and administration in Eastern Germany. But to me as a Russian the escapees I met were so different in their origins—there were peasants, industrial workers, and intellectuals—in their personalities, in their appearance, that any such artificial picture would risk having the unreality of a white negro.

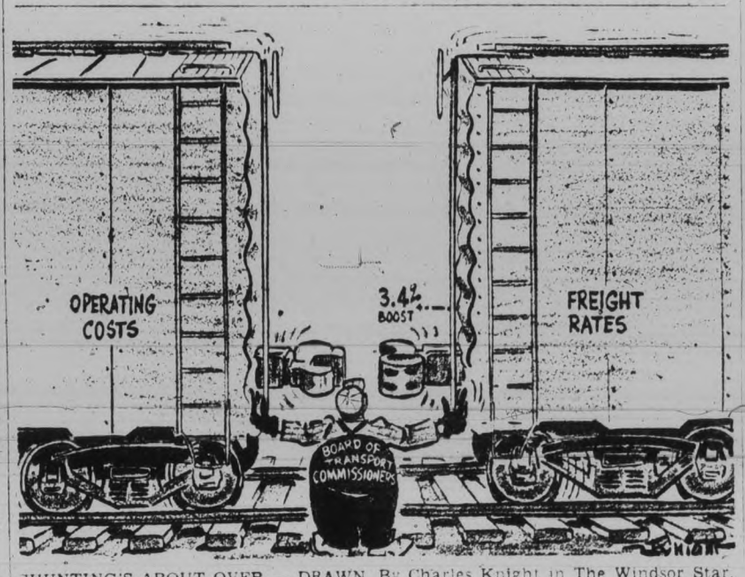
But if anyone could be called an ordinary person, it was little Ariadna Fedorovna, whom I met in a town I am not permitted to name, in Western Germany. Ariadna Fedorovna aid she was 46 years old, but was probably over fifty. She had greyish hair and the eyes of that undistinguished sort whose colour you don't remember. She was neither ugly, nor pretty, neither short nor tall, you did not recall whether she was thin or fat, because you just did not notice her. Wearing rather old-fashioned clothes, she sat prim and a bit nervous in her chair, while we talked. She might have been any widow of a retired official living in Folkestone and keeping up appearances on 300 pounds a year.

What led her to take the prodigious and what might have been the fatal step, of throwing up her comfortable well-paid post in Eastern Germany and, knowing no foreign language but a few scraps of German, fleeing to the Western zone? Well, here is the story of this otherwise entirely unremarkable woman.

Ariadna Fedorovna did not come from either a "proper social origin" — manual worker or peasant—or an "improper one"—former aristocracy. Early in life she became a bookkeeper and in the 'thirties she had joined in that capacity the Technifilm Studio, where educational films were made. She's heard the studio gossip about the stars and the big producers and occasionally, she's caught a glimpse of them, at a distance, when the studio personnel paraded for the May 1 or the November 7 demonstrations.

Neither she nor any of her relatives had ever had any trouble with the secret police—I suppose she had been too neutral for them to notice—and since no man had ever noticed her sufficiently enough to ask her to marry him, she lived alone in her room and showed every prospect of doing so till the day of her death. The only remarkable thing in her life up to the date of her escape, was that she had lived through the siege of Leningrad in which two million citizens died of starvation, and, this she seemed to regard as something of a miracle.

After the liberation of the city she not only got back her old job, but was approached to join the Communist party, on account of her long service and her impeccable behaviour. For though she had been so inconspicuous, Ariadna Fedorovna had been remarked by the authorities on one account: she had always fulfilled punctually and diligently all the duties which a good Soviet citizen should accomplish. She had always voted, she had never missed a parade on the great feast days of the regime, she had invariably subscribed a satisfactory sum to the "voluntary" loans. She had, in fact, been to all appearances a perfect robot.



Yet within her mechanical breast—as her superiors no doubt thougnt of it—had smouldered from the very beginning a hidden fire or revolt against the Stalinist tyranny. "I had been waiting for a chance to get away from the Soviet regime for thirty-two years" she told me, as she sat stiffly in the big chair. And she related to me some of the latest signs of complete suppression of liberty in the Soviet artistic world, on whose fringes she worked; old classics of Soviet films like "Chapaev" and "Lenin In October" had been withdrawn as "dangerous", Ivan Dze Zninsky's operas "And Quiet Flows The Don" and "Virgin Soil Upturned" written round libretti from Michal Sholokhov, had been banned, because they contained "the germs of western cosmopolitanism".

But of the hidden fire within Ariadna Fedorovna, the authorities had guessed nothing at all. So little that when in 1947 part of her studio was transferred to Eastern Germany to work, she was sent with the unit as a bookkeeper. "No nonsense about Ariadna Fedorovna, she can be trusted to keep her nose in her books" her superiors doubtless said. They provided her with a comfortable room, food better than she'd ever had in Russia and good pay.

Yet, at the first opportunity, this little woman whom nobody had ever noticed, risked her life to come to the west.

If I were Lavrenty Beria, head of the MVD I should be more alarmed at the news of her flight, than at the desertion of half a dozen high officers of the Soviet army. For if heaven knows, Beria certainly does not know how many silent unsuspected Ariadna Fedorovnas there are in Russia.

Letter To The Editor

OUTDOOR PRIVIES IN THE CITY

Sir, Now that summer is here, the new hospital opened and a new sewage disposal plant under way, which should take care of some of the south end smells, may I ask when is the City Council going to exercise their right to clean out the outside toilets that clutter up the place?

We have been taken in to, or taken in by the city about five years, and still in streets with houses worth $5,000 and new houses worth $8,000 to $10,000, a few backward people are allowed to use the backyard as a sewage disposal, with the resulting odour and fly nuisance.

In the old days the night man came with a truck after dark to do the necessary work, and came in the back way, now he's gone modern and drives up in broad daylight with a flourish to the front of the houses.

Now, Mr. Editor, is there still a by-law to take care of this nuisance, or are the city fathers waiting until we get another depression before putting on the pressure? Perhaps there are others with a similar viewpoint.

CLEAN-'EM-UP.

No Gadgets, No Servants

Few English homes, even of the upper middle classes, are equipped with labour saving devices as are modern Canadian homes, with central heating, refrigerators, washing machines, electric cleaners, etc. Even though the housewives would like these mechanical aids, they are up against a stiff purchase tax if they go to buy them. They can't afford either servants or machines to help do the work of servants.

Most Canadian women, whatever their station in life, have had actual experience in housework. Most of them have the devices which enable them to do this work as easily as possible. But this particular class of woman in Britain is on the spot, and one which she probably had no reason to anticipate in her younger days.

United Church Shortage Of Ministers a Problem

The shortage of candidates for the ministry has become a "persistent problem," the Rev. Dr. W. Harold Young of Toronto, told the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church on Wednesday. Mr. Young, who is secretary of the United United Church Board of colleges and second schools, said "There is urgency in this matter. There is an urgent need for recruits for the ministry, and it grows greater and greater each day."

"The need continues to grow although in the last two years the response from our youth has been magnificent. In Montreal and Toronto, to take care of the growing number of United Church members in those cities, more than 50 churches are needed—and that means 50 ministers."

Speaking of the origin of candidates for the ministry, Mr. Young pointed out that about 30 per cent came from farms and that another 18 per cent were sons of ministers.

These candidates, he said, often had too little money of their own to complete college courses and consequently, some were being lost to the ministry.

Mr. Young berated some of the presbyteries in the conference for not supplying more "recruits for the ministry." Oshawa presented three candidates, he said, and only one other matched that.

"What happened in Oshawa should happen in every presbyter," he said. "There couldn't be a finer cause."

A member of the conference's lay association, Elmer Davis of Kingston, said lay members could "dig in their pockets" to help needy candidates finish their college courses.

They need your support and I tell you, men, there's a blessing in that kind of support."

Conference president, the Rev. Dr. H. A. Kent, principal of Queen's Theological College, Kingston, complimented Mr. Davis on his support for needy candidates.

"There are several men here whom I will not name," said Mr. Kent, "who have been supported by Mr. Davis. He does not know who they are. He knew they needed help and he generally gave his support."

Hears News Of Death Of Mother Overseas

CAMPBELLFORD, June 1 — (ENS)—Arthur Collette of Campbellford received news by cable recently of the sudden death of his mother, Mrs. Edna Collette in Newbury, Berkshire, England.

Surviving are two sons: Raymond of Oakville and Arthur F. of Campbellford, and one daughter, Mrs. Norman Parker of New Toronto.

Both sons spent several weekends at home with their mother while serving overseas in the last war. Mrs. Collette was in Canada during the summer of 1934, returning to England when her father became ill.

Plan Mock Attacks

LONDON, June 1 (Reuters) — Six-country air attacks and defence exercises on the widest scale ever conceived in peacetime will be held over Western Europe in August, the Brussels Treaty Organization announced Wednesday. American and RAF bomber and fighter planes will combine with forces of the continental Brussels treaty powers in a two-day plan of attack and defence.

Meets Prowling Wolf On Leaving Post Office

HALIBURTON, June 1 — The wolf is never far away from at least one and possibly more Haliburton residents these days. And this wolf is a real live one with four legs, long, sharp fangs and a hungry look in his eyes.

R. Snider, who lives near the village post office, walked out into his yard the other day and to his complete surprise there was a genuine, honest-to-goodness wolf prowling about. Several other villagers report seeing what is believed to be the same wolf prowling about their premises.

No reports of the wolf doing any harm have been received.

In days gone by this would not have been such an unusual incident but wolves in a village like Haliburton have become uncommonly scarce of late years.

Norwood Sent $1,900 In Flood Relief

The citizens of Norwood and district have subscribed and forwarded $1,900 for the community of Norwood, Manitoba, one of the towns in the area flooded by the Red River. The Norwood fund is being kept open in the hope of reaching a total of $2,000.

"In adition to substantial amounts contributed by people of Norwood through other channels, around 460 from this village and district, through their local community campaign to support their 'Norwood (Ont.)' aids Norwood (Man.)' effort, have sent forward $1,900. This is more than 150 per cent of the original objective." G. A. Brethen, chairman of the committee reports.

"The lists will remain open in the hope that further contributions through the local churches and Royal Bank will round out to $2,000."

Mr. Brethen expresses the committee's appreciation of the response to the Norwood campaign, the canvassers, the contributors, press, radio and so on.

A. WARD SMITH EYE TOPICS

SKILFUL SEEING MAY BE REGAINED

The process of seeing is far more complex than most people realize. It does not develop to its highest degree simply by the ordinary process of growth. Seeing may be improved tremendously by learning and developing the necessary skilful controls.

Comfortable reading at a rate of four hundred words a minute, maintained for a period of an hour or more, is the result of a high degree of perfection in the skills of seeing. Simply focussing an eye quickly, at the distance of the object of regard, is only one of the numerous skills involved. Another very important skill necessary when reading is the control and co-ordination of focussing and directing both eyes at the point of regard simultaneously. Still another is the span of recognition, quick and efficient reading or working cannot be accomplished by pausing to see each separate character.

Each seeing task required its own group of skills which are all controlled from nerve centres in the brain. When skillful seeing is not fully developed during the normal learning period, or if the learning is interfered with by imperfections of focus or nerve control, the corrective measures must begin by eliminating the disturbing cause or correcting the focus by lenses and a process of training to regain and improve the required skills.

Glober Concludes Evidence In Hydro Case

COBOURG, June 1 — (ENS) — Plaintiff in the $25,000 action brought by Harry Glober, of Port Hope, against the HEPC finished his case Wednesday with the exception of some medical evidence which could not be obtained until today.

Glober is suing the hydro as a result of an accident which occurred in August, 1948, while he was cleaning a chimney on his tourist camp property with a long iron pipe. The pipe touched a hydro line carrying 44,000 volts and Mr. Glober received burns, and claims the after effects of the accident are still with him.

Testifying for Mr. Glober, John Van Allin of Newtonville related that he did some chimney work on the Glober property commencing May 8, 1948, for about a week. He said he didn't notice any hydro wires near the chimney while he was working there. Under cross-examination, he said that the wires might have been there, but he doubted it, as he was always alert to danger from electric wiring because of the nature of his work.

Morley Wellbanks of Newtonvile testified that he was helping Mr. Allin in the chimney work, and could not recall seeing any electric wires near the chimney. Reginald McGoogan of Port Hope, engaged in painting some cabins prior to June 5, 1948, also could not recall seeing electric wires.

Defence counsel E. L. Haines objected to Malcolm Robb, counsel for Mr. Glober, refering to regulations covering hydro lines. Mr. Haines contended that negligence and trespass must be viewed on a common law basis. Regulations were laid down affecting improvements in installations, but it was obvious that wholesale changes could not take place in regard to equipment already in use.

Mr. Robb commented that the hydro was very exacting in imposing specific standards in regard to lower voltage installations other than they were making. He said that he was filing regulations issued in October of 1944, pointing out that the HEPC had established certain standards of care which he was submitting for the attention of the court, and that he would later quote regulations in reference to voltages up to 15,000.

Sufficient Care?

Mr. Haines declared that the question was whether or not the defendant exercised reasoable care in erecting and maintaining the lines south of the Glober property, not what safety precautions existed in some other section of Ontario, as for instance, the Sidney power station.

The defence then called Charles Stafford, land surveyer with the HEPC. He related that he had taken measurements using the triangulation method, and found that the vertical distance between chimney and the northern hydro wire was 12 feet six inches, and from the wire to the roof of the wash-house, 17 feet, 10 inches. Distance to the ground from the wire was 27 feet, 1¼ inches.

The horizontal clearance from the wire to the chimney was two feet, 4½ inches. The power line overhung the Glober property at one point, one foot and one-quarter inch.

Surveyer Gives Evidence

To Mr. Robb, the surveyer said the plans were so designed as to call for an overhanging of the property of the plaintiff. Mr. Robb commented that at the examination for discovery, an officer of the HEPC said that the clearance could not be less than 28 feet.

"We were talking about the distance from the ground," interjected counsel for the defence.

"It is our belief that the first survey was a blunder in regard to encroaching on the property of Mr. Glober, and I will argue at the conclusion of the case that the proper clearances were not observed," Mr. Robb said.

Norman Sproule, power line engineer of the, HEPC., who is in charge of power line construction, testified that in construction of lines safety standards were always kept in mind, and there were conferences of the various departments in promoting safety.

He said the line in Port Hope was in accordance with the terms of an order-in-council of 1940. The line, in so far as it affected the Glober property, was designed to overhang in one part. It was a case of intent, not error, he said. The bath-house was not shown in the survey notes because it was not necessary to show it in view of there being "lots of clearance" between the bath-house and the line.

In regard to 44,000-volt lines, such as the one in question, the hydro safety standards conformed with the CSA standards, and they called for a minimum clearance above ground of 22 feet and a ten-foot vertical or horizontal clearance in respect to a building. In the Glober case, there was a 17-foot vertical clearance over the building and ten over the chimney. It was not a case, he said, of ten feet vertical and ten feet horizontal.

T. Hannah, hydro foreman, Port Hope, told the court that Mr. Glober was aware of the installation of the hydro line and had discussed it on more than one occasion with the hydro employees putting in the line.

There had been a discussion in regard to anchoring one of the guy wires on Mr. Glober's property, and also a later discussion on the course the line took. To counsel for plaintiff, Mr. Hannah said that he supervised the installation of the pols in April and early May but did not string the wires. He said he observed the bath-house, but didn't recall the chimney. The bath-house was not marked on the plan he used.

Cottagers Discover Evidence Of Break-ins

LINDSAY, June 1—Four Mountain Lake cottages were discovered to have been broken into when their owners arrived at this Haliburton County resort last weekend, according to Provincial Police at Minden. The owners all reside in Toronto, and arrived at Mountain Lake to open their summer cottages for the season.

Police say they believe the break-ins occurred a matter of months ago, and that nothing of any value appears to have been taken. By the appearance of one of the cottages, police say it may have been lived in for a brief period during the winter.

Quite a number of cases of cottage break-ins have been brought to the attention of police in this district, and in many instances a conviction has been the result. Minden police brought four Windsor youths to court in Lindsay last week, charged with a similar offense. In this case, the lads had actually been found on the premises.

Joint Textile Board Officers Elected

CAMPBELLFORD, June 1 — (ENS)—At a recent meeting of the Trent Valley Area Joint Textile Board, with headquarters in Peterborough, Mr. Doug. Nicholas, president of the Campbellford Local Textile Union, was elected secretary.

New president of the joint board is Ted Beyen, of Cobourg. Jack Phillips of Trenton is Vice-president, and the Director of the Board, is Mr. Albert E. Johnston of Peterborough.

Synod Wants Anglican On CBC Board

TORONTO June 1—The Anglican Synod of Toronto diocese wants an Anglican appointed to the CBC board of governors. This suggestion was made at Wednesday's 98th session of the synod by J. A. Travis, of Toronto, who presented the report of the diocesan radio board.

The work of the Rev. J. A. Langstone, Port Credit, who conducts the Anglican Sunday School of the air, was heartily commended by the Rev. V. D. Wigmore, Calvary Church, Toronto. But both Mr. Wigmore and the Rev. E. J. Tucker, prison chaplain, complained of the form and presentation of the early morning broadcasts from CBL.

"It's not good enough for shut-ins," stated Mr. Tucker. "The programs are very depressing. If these broadcasts are for propaganda purposes, they're certainly not good enough. Prayers over the air have a feeling of unreality."

He suggested the radio committee approach other denominations with the objective of improving the morning services. "The technicians of CBL should be allowed to choose the personnel to broadcast, and to reject those whose voices are not suitable. We should drop or change the formula of hymn, prayer and scripture reading as not being suitable for broadcasting purposes."

"If a voice sounds 'soupy' at 8.15 in the morning, the radio is sure to be turned off," said Mr. Wigmore.

Surgeon Resigns

TORONTO, June 1 (CP)—Dr. James S. Simpson, surgeon-in-chief of St. Joseph's Hospital here for more than 25 years has resigned. His successor is Dr. George F. Pennal. A native of Prescott, Dr. Simpson attended Woodstock College and McMaster University before studying at McGill 40 years ago.

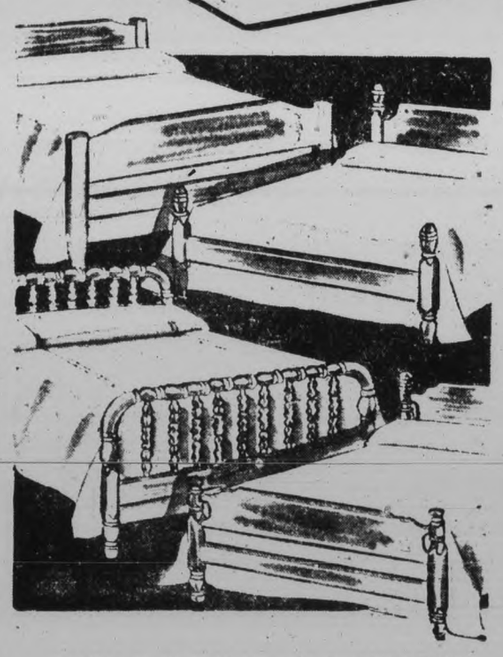
Nerves On Edge, Couldn't Sleep Well; Always Tired

Also Suffered from Stomach Troubles, Headaches, Dizzy Spells. "No Medicine Ever Helped Me As Syntona Did," Says This Woman.

"Anyone who suffers from stomach disorders and nervous, rundown condition will understand why I want to make this statement," said Mrs. Ida Swayze, 13 Rogers Avenue, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

"I felt completely tired out, couldn't get my proper sleep at night, and my nerves were all on edge. Food that I ate fermented in my stomach causing awful gas, bloating and I would belch up hot, sour liquids. I would get a full, heavy feeling across my chest which caused shortness of breath. Often I would get sick, bilious attacks with dizzy feelings and throbbing headache.

"When I finally realized how bad I was getting I began taking Syntona because this medicine had helped me once before when I was not well. This time I noticed from the very first bottle that my food was digesting better. As I continued with the treatment, all the sour condition, gas, and heaviness cleared up and now my food is digesting just about as well as ever. Also my nerves are more calm. I am enjoying better sleep and I don't feel tired out as I did before. As for the headaches and dizzy spells I haven't had any trouble in that way for a long time, so I have no hesitation at all in recommending Syntona to others who suffer as I did."



Made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots, Syntona is safe, pleasant to take, and many people use it time and again when they are not feeling well.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how it can help you, too.—(Advt.)

DUBBED THE WONDER BOYS for their remarkable performance in just missing the English League title by inches four years in succession, while winning the English Cup once and getting into the semi-finals on three other occasions in that period, Manchester United, who play an All Star team in Montreal next week, lean heavily on the prowess of the husky trio shown above. Left, is Stan Pearson, International, inside left, who has been with the club since just before the war. Jack Rowley, centre, the top goal-getter and centre-forward, scored the goal which helped England beat the Italians last winter. Right, is Harry Cockburn, right half, who has also starred for England. The trio, in case any North American club would like to keep them here, can be purchased for $270,000. Singly, they are a mere $90,000 each.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Joe H. Ross, conference chairman for the National Council of Physical Fitness, sends along a book on "Proceedings", and its weight and thickness must strain relations between that department and the post office department. Deals with the second national conference of sports governing bodies last winter in Ottawa. There's a report on the amateur status committee, and also one on the need of a national body for co-operation with athletics but not control. The Canadian Olympic Association announces a divorce from the A.A.U. of C., pretty much of a death blow to the old-line badgers who once ruled amateur sports with an iron hand. They've had it.

* * * * * *

Here are some of the sports with delegates on deck: Skating, boxing, basketball, hockey, skiing, swimming, oarsmen, bowling, canoeists, marksmen, figure skaters, intercollegiate, judo, tennis, lacrosse, rugby, high school sports, snowshoes, softball, wheelmen, golf, yachting, curling, soccer, baseball, fencing, pro hockey, women's sports, track and field, weight-lifting, wrestling and several other organizations. The "Proceedings" are quite interesting if wordy, but would require far too much space to be run to any extent in the press. However, we may use excerpts of interest of amateur athletics from time to time. These conferences indicate the interest of the government in physical fitness ever since the war.

Mimico On The Make

Mimico Mountaineers make their 1950 OLA senior "A" debut here on the morrow, playing the Petes at 8.45 Friday eve in Miller Bowl. Local gutted-stick aces are riding high at the moment with victories over Hamilton Tigers and Weston Lions in their only two tilts played. Whether or not the Mountaineers prove tougher than Tigers and Lions remains to be seen. We believe they are quite a bit stronger, but then so is the Creighton crew—or so it would appear at present. Petes have more weight than a year ago and several high-scoring forwards, along with the pick of last year's crew. Their added experience and confidence in this second year in senior "A" helps plenty, too. It should pack in the lacrosse fans tomorrow night.

* * * * * *

Our senior "A" ball club is nestling now in second place in the Viaduct Major League along with Aces of Toronto. With New Toronto in top spot. They have six wins in seven starts and will be looking for another victory here Saturday. Yeah, they make their first appearance in Riverside at three Saturday aft. and the Petes—who have won four of six—think they'll jolt the New Toronto dudes in this one. Can't tell yet who will pitch for the Murphyites, not till after the Petes' game in Toronto tonight 'gainst Staffords. But the week-end tussle should be another right interesting diamond duel in this six-club circuit.

As Oshawa Experiments

Toronto Aces yanked out a 9-8 Viaduct Loop verdict over Oshawa Merchants in Toronto as the Motor Citizens continue to jockey with players. Can't seem to hit a winning combination so far, despite several USA imports—but they intend to keep trying till they click. The COBL champs of last year miss Red Jubenville, as well as Kitchen—who is in Toronto softball—and several more who moved over to play intermediate for Whitby this season. And, of course, they could sure use Ticcony and Gingerich in this campaign. They play Staffords this week-end. We're out of schedule after this week, but should get the rest of it any day now.

* * * * * *

Rain washed out the two girls' games and the intermediate tilt over east. Westclox were to have played Woollens at the Bowl, with Ashby's meeting Marines. Next numbers will be Friday with Marines vs. Woollens, and either CGE or Ashby's vs. Westclox, this latter game not being quite clear in the schedule we have, though it's likely Ashby's and the Clockers. Intermediate Petes trek to Lindsay on the morrow for a Lakeshore League game and will probably run into the pitching of Doug Loucks, transplanted Peterborough twirler. They aren't billed for another game till June 7th at Cobourg, but may work in that postponed one, meantime.

Off The Old Grapevine

Don Rose of this city, till his family moved recently to Campbellford, set two new tracks-records for junior boys at a COSSA annual meet in Belleville. Don did the 100-yard dash in 11 seconds and the 220 in 25 seconds; good stuff. Canadian track and field championships are in Hamilton July 14-15; we have the info. Cricket club plays in Toronto this week-end. Junior and senior lacrossers stage a practice game at seven tonight. Lou Vitarelli will coach a junior OLA entry called Filter-Queens, we hear; team will enter at a Toronto meeting Friday. Mutuals lead the men's loop with four wins in four starts, UE having three and one, East City one victory and three reverses, and Orphans four losses. Hastings juniors play East City Braves at seven Sat'day in the Bowl. Bethany district schedules are in this e'en. Quakers go to Mt. Pleasant tomorrow in the fastball loop. Kesco meets Bell tonight, and Foresters play PLC in the civic circuit. Church and school softball schedules are drawing rapidly toward a close. POME: It isn't the rain that gives you a pain, it's mosquitos that follow right after; the blighters they bite terrific at night—oh, it isn't a case for laugher.

Pitches Orioles To 11-6 Win Over Syracuse

By The Associated Press

Is that the same Bill Kennedy who used to pitch for Cleveland and St. Louis in the American League?"

That's the question fans throughout the International League are asking today about Bill Kennedy, towering lefthander of the Baltimore Orioles.

The fans' amazement is easily understandable when the part of the box score which lists "bases on balls off Kennedy" is studied.

Kennedy, who walked 190 batters in 297 innings while in the American League in 1948 and 1949, has passed only 11 in 46 1-3 innings for the Orioles. In his last three starts Kennedy walked only one batter in each game and struck out 27.

The southpaw, who set a minor league record when he fanned 456 batters for Rocky Mount, N. C., in 1946, turned in his third victory against one defeat Wednesday night as he pitched the Orioles to an 11-6 victory over Syracuse Chiefs.

Kennedy walked only one batter and fanned eight. He yielded his first run in 22 innings in the third when Claude Corbitt homered.

The Orioles, who now have won 11 out of their last 13 starts, pounded four Syracuse pitchers for 16 hits.

Upset Wings

In the only other game, Toronto Maple Leafs upset the first-place Rochester Red Wings, 9-3.

The Wings knocked Paul Stuffel out with two runs in the first inning but Max Peterson came on and stopped the Wings on seven hits the rest of the way to pick up his second victory.

Dick Bokelmann opened for Rochester but departed under fire in the second when the Leafs scored five runs to clinch the game.

The game between Springfield and Jersey City was rained out.

Queen Mary Victors

Queen Mary intermediates of the school softball loop walloped Queen Elizabeth 25-5, getting four runs in the first, then 11, with five in the third, one each in the fourth and fifth and three in the seventh. The losers counted a run each in the second, fourth and sixth heats with two in the seventh. The winners at two twin killings and the losers one, as Lincoln and Medland hit homers. Teams:

Queen Mary: Putnam, Lincoln, Jones, Dubay, Beck, Dafoe, Reynolds, Hillier, Friar, Mellwain, King.

Queen Elizabeth: Cameron, Harrison, Heard, B. Whitnell, Tighe, Frise, Medland, Freeman, Hall, W. Whitnell, Willis, Gilders, Burgen.

London Plans Golf Tourney

TORONTO, June 1 (CP)—The first of three golf tournaments on which selection of Ontario's Willingdon Cup team will be based is scheduled for the London Hunt Club June 14, president Dick Young of the Ontario Golf Association announced Wednesday night.

Low 30 and ties in the London invitation tournament qualify for the second test — at Toronto Thornhill June 26. Final selection will be made after the 18-hole qualifying round in the Ontario amateur tournament at Toronto Golf Club July 5.

Three of the four players will be selected from the three tournaments. The fourth is Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener who won a place by taking the Ontario amateur title.

The team will represent Ontario in the interprovincial championship at Saskatoon July 15, on the eve of the Canadian amateur.

Ball Attendance Down 13% From Last Year

NEW YORK, June 1 — (AP) —Whether it's the weather, television or lack of ready cash, big-league baseball attendance continues to dip.

Last year the average attendance for a major league game through April and May was 18,123. This year it is 15,714. That represents a 13 per cent decline.

At this date a year ago the two majors had drawn a total of 5,056,425 as compared to 3,928,509. This is a 22 per cent drop. However, the clubs have been able to play only 250 home dates this spring compared to 279 last year.

Only club of the 16 majors to show an increase is Philadelphia Phillies. Buoyed by the fine early showing of Eddie Sawyer's crew, the Phils attracted 219,773 at home in their first 14 dates. Last year they had 210,785 for 19 dates. The increase is not startling but it is an increase.

Look At Giants

Look at the New York Giants. They are 200,000 behind but have five more dates to play before they will be even in games with the 1949 record.

All three big money-makers in the American League — New York, Cleveland and Detroit—are behind their 1949 figures.

And St. Louis. Something will have to be done there. The Browns are doing worse than last year when they wound up with only 310,000 for the year.

The Browns hit bottom for the year Monday afternoon when only 624 paid to see them play Chicago. It wasn't much better for the Memorial Day holiday double-header that attracted 3,537.

Tomorrow's Games:

Brooklyn at St. Louis, night; Philadelphia at Chicago; New York at Cincinnati, night; Boston at Pittsburgh, night.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Bob Moran, president of the Toronto Argonauts Football Club said Wednesday that "our club couldn't begin to match some of the fabulous salaries" which he said western football clubs are spending for gridiron talent.

"I'm inclined to believe they're going crazy out west," Moran told a Toronto luncheon for club members and sports officials tendered by Harry Doughty, new member of the Argo executive.

Moran was referring to some former Argo stars who have trekked west, but he didn't mention any names. Outstanding among these is Royal Copeland, now with Calgary Stampeders.

"Football is a business proposition, as you all know," said Moran. "But who in business would expend money knowing full well that at the end of the fiscal year they had to suffer a loss? That's what is amounts to out west. They're spending money they haven't a hope of recovering."

Argos will play an exhibition game with Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Toronto between Aug. 19 and 21, and another exhibition against Sarnia Imperials at Toronto Aug. 26. Both games will be for charity.

Bob MacFarlane, Canadian track star from London, Ont., who beat Arthur Wint in the White City 440 yards Monday, raced Wednesday night for the first time on grass, at Dublin's Ainsdown Road, and scored two victories.

In two events, the 440 and 300 yards, he went within three-tenths of a second of taking over records held by D. Bolen, United States Olympic runner, and McDonald Bailey, the Trinidad and British Olympic star.

In the 440, MacFarlane won by four yards in 48.8 seconds.

MacFarlane sportingly agreed to run in an extra event, the 300 yards, and took on the star, French sprinter, E. Bally, who had won the 100. The Canadian led by two feet in 31 seconds. The record established by Bailey last year was 30-7.

A record prize of $57,458.63 was paid Wednesday night to Johnny Parsons, Van Nuys, Calif., for winning the 34th 500-mile Indianapolis speedway race Tuesday.

It was the top prize out of a purse of $199,435 announced by the Indianapolis motor speedway at its victory dinner for the drivers. The speedway added a $58,000 bonus to its $75,000 guaranteed race purse.

Besides that $133,000, the prize fund included $8,300 in qualification prizes, $13,600 in refunded entry fees, accessories valued at $24,525, and $20,010 in lap prizes.

Because rain ended the race at 138 laps (345 miles), the lap prize fund paid off at $145. In a full 500-mile event, drivers are paid $100 for every lap they lead.

All prizes are actually paid to the car owner, and the driver's share is a private deal between the two.

Eight Canadian and eight open international events will highlight the 1950 Canadian Secondary Schools Rowing Association regatta over the Royal Canadian Henley courses at St. Catharines Saturday.

Races will be over one mile, and will be fun at 15-minute intervals.

Oarsmen from St. Catharines Collegiate are entered in 12 of the 16 events.

At Toronto, wet grounds Wednesday forced postponement of Wednesday night's scheduled Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game between Brampton and Mimico. The game had been billed as the season opener.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

There was a nice crowd out to the ladies' formal opening Wednesday afternoon. It was the intention of the committee to have a tournament but the off and on showers changed their plans. However, all adjourned to the club house where afternoon tea was served.

There will be a variety of bowling out on the greens this evening: men's rinks schedule, men's doubles schedule and ladies' rink schedule.

Tomorrow night it will be men's rinks. Draw from the board at 7:30 o'clock. Phone early and then make straight for the greens.

We don't know if the boys playing over at Campbellford doubles tournament were rained out or not. We have no report.

Mexican Ball League Gets New Umpires

MEXICO CITY, June 1 (AP)—The Mexican Baseball League had a whole new set of umpires today—all because of an American shortstop, Othello Renfroe.

Renfroe knocked out an umpire May 2, was fined and expelled from Mexico. Torreon, which holds his contract, arranged and Renfroe to be readmitted. He played last week in Guadalajara.

The association of umpires which had been officiating for the Mexican league refused to umpire any more games if the league let Renfroe play. Wednesday the league contracted with a rival group of umpires, the Colegio de Arbitros, to call the plays.

Tomorrow's Games:

Chicago at New York (2); Cleveland at Boston, night; Detroit at Philadelphia (2), night; St. Louis at Washington (2), night.

Cards Smarting Under Loss Seek Revenge On Brooks

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Memo to Brooklyn—Beware of St. Louis Cards.

Cheeks still burn on the Cardinal bench at the memory of the May 18 horrors of Ebbets Field when St. Louis blew an 8-0 lead and lost to the Dodgers 9-8.

The experts wrote the Cards obit the next day.

Next time the Cards played a game they rallied with six runs in the eighth inning to knock out Warren Spahn and whip Boston. The next victim was the Phillies' Robin Roberts.

And so on, down the line. Since the black day in flatbush they have won nine of 11, hotter than any club in the National League. Now they're in second place, one game behind Brooklyn.

Tonight the Cards get their chance to get even with Brooklyn. They open a three-game series with the Dodgers at Sportsman's Park.

Trip Important

Like the Dodgers, the New York Giants also begin their second western tour. The trip is important for Leo Durocher's charges in a different sort of way. The Polo Grounds wolves are howling for Leo's scalp although his contract runs through 1951. Going into tonight's twi-night doubleheader at Cincinnati, the Giants are running a dreary seventh, nine games off the pace.

Chicago, still two games over the .500 mark is the first stop for the deflated Phillies who were knocked from first to third Tuesday.

Boston finds Pittsburgh reeling under an eight-game losing streak.

American League box scores will be studied for the next few days to find the effects of the big Chicago-Washington deal.

The White Sox move into Yankee Stadium for a night game with New York which has won 17 of its last 20.

Plays For Chicago

Eddie Robinson, coveted by the Yankees during the winter, is to play first for Chicago. Ray Scarborough and Al Kozar also are to be with the club.

Washington will parade its new stock—second baseman Cass Michaels, outfielder Johnny Ostrowski and pitcher Bob Kuzava before the home folks.

Back home, the third-place Boston Red Sox, five games back of the Yankees, may perk up again when they take on Cleveland Indians. The Red Sox slipped under .500 on their road trip.

Detroit comes east for the second time, trailing New York by three games. The Tigers' first stop is Philadelphia.

Acclaim Toweel New Champ, Ortiz Licked

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, June 1 — (AP) — Manuel Ortiz, the gritty little California Mexican, faced an uncertain future today while the ring world acclaimed a new bantamweight champion—South Africa's Vic Toweel.

Toweel, a 23-year-old, former whod carver, wrested the crown from Ortiz with an undisputed 15-round decision on Wednesday night in Johannesburg's Wembley Stadium.

The finish presented a paradoxical picture. Toweel, the victor, was bleeding from over one eye and his nose. Ortiz, the vanquished, was unmarked.

But there was no question of the outcome in the minds of 27,000 fans, who stormed the ring afterwards singing, "He's a jolly good fellow," or ringside observers, who gave Toweel from 10 to 12 of the 15 rounds.

Concedes Licking

Even Ortiz, a battle-weary former champion at 33, conceded he was a licked man.

"Toweel's a great fighter, but his punch was not hard enough to hurt me," said the pride of Elcentro, Calif.

Ortiz' manager, Ray Luna, said there was "no doubt about the decision," and added:

"Toweel's a bit green, but he was too good for Manny tonight. I have no plans yet about Manny's future."

A bid to recapture the crown appeared unlikely. Ortiz showed definite effects of his advancing age and his 12 years in the professional ring.

He seemed unable to get going in the early stages and Toweel, a sharp if not a murderous puncher, with fancy footwork, piled up a big edge through the first seven rounds.

TEN YEARS OF STUDY, first in a refugee camp in Canada, then in Westmount High School in Montreal and McGill, has brought fame to Joachim Lambek. He gained the first Ph.D. degree ever awarded at McGill in mathematics and he has been invited to present his thesis paper, for which he was awarded his doctorate at the International Congress of Mathematicians in September at Harvard University.

UE Lobby Asks Full Employment

OTAWA, June 1 (CP) — The United Electrical Workers' Union is staging a lobby of members of parliament on the questions of full employment and living standards.

The left-wing union recently was evicted from both the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations in the United States.

A statement from the union Wednesday said its delegation here—consisting of 10 local union presidents—was unable to get an interview with the cabinet to present petitions calling for measures to increase purchasing power in the interests of full employment and improved living standards.

Included in its proposed measures are:

Public works of a socially-useful nature; low-rental, low-cost housing; a national 40-hour week and a 75cents-an-hour minimum wage; non-contributory pensions at 60 at least equal to maximum Unemployment Insurance benefits; and a broad national health and welfare program.

Clothes Drier In Basement Handy Winter Time Saver

In rainy weather, when it is difficult for the housekeeper to hang her clothes out to dry, or during the long winter months, a clothes dryer may be added in the basement or first-floor laundry room. Much time will be saved by its inclusion in modernization plans.

Screen Guards Gutter

A common maintenance cost which claims a place on almost every home owner's budget is that of cleaning out downspouts and gutters which have become clogged with leaves and debris.

A wire screen, of either galvanized steel or copper, can be fitted over the top of the gutter to keep out leaves and trash, yet interfering in no way with the flow of water. A specially designed screen of reinforced one-quarter-inch wire mesh can be snapped into place. This device eliminates the use of nails, screws, and rivets.

Winter brings with it an appreciation of glass-enclosed sunrooms.

With weather conditions making it unsafe for children to play outdoors, a sunroom provides a place for recreational activities and at the same time promotes health.

Decorated with growing flowers, plants, and vines, the sunroom provides delightful surroundings for entertaining guests and for the enjoyment of the family.

If immediate plans do not allow for the completion of the sunroom during the construction of a house under the NHA plan, advance planning will save money and insure a more satisfactory job when it is feasible to complete the room.

Painting Screen Frames

To prevent screen frames and storm windows from sticking, it is necessary to use a lighter coat of paint when finishing then than is used on the rest of the house. Because the frames, when in place, are not subjected to the same exposure as the rest of the house, they are frequently not allowed as much opportunity to harden, or they are stored in the basement too soon after painting to allow them to dry thoroughly. Reduce the paint considerably with turpentine or other thinner, or use a thin coat of spar varnish to which just enough coloring matter is added for good coverage.

Attic Stairway

The installation of disappearing stairways in many homes frequently makes possible utilization of waste attic space for small bedrooms, children's play rooms, or dens.

Construction details in many existing homes makes installation of permanent stairs to the attic both inconvenient and impracticable.

Ways and means should be provided so that the attic can be quickly reached in case of fire which may start from a spark on the roof, a defective chimney or otherwise.

Seal Draft Cracks

Caulking putty is on adequate material for filling up chinks and openings where winter drafts might enter. It will not dry, run in hot weather, nor become plastic in winter.

Caulking putty in wood, masonry, or concrete walls. Be sure also to caulk around all water, sewer and gas pipes where they pass through the walls.

Alert Chauffeur Risks Life To Save Star

DAWSONVILLE, Ga., June 1—(AP)—An alert studio chauffeur risked his life Wednesday to save screen star Susan Hayward from almost certain death when she lost her footing at a tall waterfall.

Miss Hayward is on location in North Georgia for the filming of "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain". She had a day off from the cameras Wednesday and went out to photograph the 729-foot Amicalola Falls.

The red-haired star lost her footing, but was caught by William Gray, studio chauffeur. Both fell into the water above the falls, but escaped with minor injuries.

Extend Welcome To Quinte Meet

Civic welcome was extended to the Bay of Quinte conference of the United Church on Wednesday by Mayor M. J. Swanston.

Introduced by the Rev. Dr. James Semple of George St. Church, the mayor told the conference:

"Our people in Peterborough are very pleased that the silver jubilee conference is being held in our city. You are especially welcome on your 25th birthday as it coincides with our centennial year."

The Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church introduced the Rev. Ivan Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church, who welcomed the conference to Peterborough on behalf of the city's Ministerial Association.

"I'd like to give you our congratulations on reaching the ripe old age of 25," said Mr. Morgan. "My church is a bit older, but we like to see the youngsters coming along."

Times Reporter Flees Prague

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP) — The New York Times reported today that the newspaper's Prague correspondent, Dana Adams Schmidt, had left Czechoslovakia to avoid arrest.

Schmidt was among a score of westerners named in the treason trial of 13 Czechs as having aided in setting up an anti-Communist underground ring aimed at overthrowing the government. Before he left Prague Schmidt filed a story in which he denied knowing the underground plotters with whom he was accused of being in contact.

The Times said Schmidt left Czechoslovakia for West Germany a few hours before he was to have been arrested.

The trial of the 13 accused Czechs opened Wednesday in Prague.

Schmidt's departure left only three western press correspondents in the Czech capital. They were Russell Jones of the United Press, Robert F. Bigio of Reuters and Gaston Georgs Fournier of Agence France-Presse.

Nathan Polowetzky, American correspondent of the Associated Press, was ordered out of the country March 29. The Czech government charged him with "unobjective reporting". The same reason was given last January for the expulsion of Richard Kasischke, chief of the AP Bureau in Prague. Both Polowetzky and AP officials denied the Czech charges.

Vote Down Grant

ORILLIA, June 1 (CP) — A proposed town grant of $200,000 to the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital was voted down Tuesday, 777 to 609. The hospital had intended to use the money to build a new maternity wing, renovate the present maternity section and put up a new boiler and laundry building.

Rents Unreasonable

TORONTO, June 1 (CP) — Social services in T ronto are being strained by high rents and lack of housing, William D. Schmidt, executive director of children's services in Cleveland, O., said Wednesday. Mr. Schmidt said a survey recently completed by himself and eight other specialists showed that Toronto's rents were not reasonable.

Welsh Contradicts Mayor On Gambling Licences

TORONTO, June 1 — (CP) — Controversy between Toronto municipal and Ontario provincial government officials arose today over the gambling situation in Toronto.

Provincial Secretary Welsh contradicted both Mayor Hiram McCallum and Toronto Police Chief John Chisholm Wednesday over the matter of the Ontario Government granting charters to clubs. The mayor had stated that at least six professional gambling syndicates are operating in Toronto and intimated that city police were hamstrung in the matter of clubs operating under provincial charters.

To Mayor McCallum's claim that the city had repeatedly protested the granting of provincial charters to groups known to be linked with gambling syndicates, Mr. Welsh said this was untrue. On the contrary, the Ontario minister said, his department had co-operated closely with the Toronto police department for the specific purpose of preventing gambling in incorporated clubs. prising. "His information conflicts with information in possession of the Toronto police commission and which I have personally," said the mayor. "If Mr. Welsh is available I am going to invite him to the police commission meeting Thursday so that he can examine our information personally."

Denies Statements

The provincial secretary also denied statements by Chief Chisholm that provincial charters were not issued for specific street addresses or municipalities, and that these charters "floated" from one location to another.

Mr. Welsh said that for more than a year now, no charter has been issued to any club unless it contained an anti - gambling clause.

He said also that all provincial charters specified the community where the club could operate.

Until a little over a year ago a few charters had been issued allowing the legalized gambling and rake-off by the club proprietors, said Mr. Welsh. But these charters were issued only after close investigation. And no charter of any description had ever been issued to Toronto or any other municipality where the police had protested, he said.

Bomber Explodes

BUCKLEY, Ill., June 1 (AP)—Two United States Air Force reserve officers died Wednesday in a B-25 Mitchell bomber that burst apart in the air, exploding as it smashed to earth, and blazed fiercely. The two officers were doing a routine training flight when the twin-engined craft plunged into a field.

Board Reduces Levy $10,000 For High School

It's good news for ratepayers in the Lakefield and District High School area.

An 85 per cent grant on transportation and capital expenditure costs by the Department of Education will cut the levy to the five member municipalities by $10,000.

Because of a misunderstanding on departmental grants the High School Board has been budgeting previously to raise $26,450. The figure is now $16,450.

The municipalities have been informed of the $10,000 bonanza so they can revise their individual levies. However, at least two municipalities — Lakefield and Smith—have already sent out their tax bills; and a number of Lakefield ratepayers have paid their bills.

Adjustment will probably be made next year.

The reeves of the five member municipalities were shocked when they got the education bill earlier this year. In most municipalities the levy was nearly four times that of 1949.

85 Per Cent Grant

A meeting between the reeves and the High School Board was called April 5, and after some discussion it was decided to take the matter up with the Department. The upshot of an interview with G. L. Duffin, executive assistant, secondary school branch, was the promise of an 85 per cent grant.

Levies are still more than twice as high as last year when the Board had to borrow $10,000 from the bank to operate.

At the April meeting E. H Northey, member of the Board, had called the 1949 education bill to the municipalities as "ridiculous."

"We were all at sea as it was the first year of operating and the Board had nothing to go on," said Mr. Northey.

Following are a comparison of the 1949 and 1950 education bills: (A-1949; B-1950, original; C-1950, revised).

	A	B	C
Smith	$3,450	$11,930	$7,420
Lakefield	1,925	6,755	4,201
Harvey	1,150	4,055	2,521
Burleigh-Anstruther	600	2,130	1,325
Chandos	450	1,580	983
	7,575	26,450	16,450

The interview with Mr. Duffin earlier this month was arranged through the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests. In the party were Warden Norman Wilson of Burleigh Anstruther, Reeve W. C. Grant of Lakefield, and Deputy-Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald of Smith.

New Chemical Aids Kidneys

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—A new chemical method for dissolving kidney stones employing a compound used in industry to clean boilers—was announced today.

The chemical is the sodium salt of an amino acid having the jaw-breaking name "ethylene-diamine-tetra-acetic acid."

Used as a liquid, it is brought to bear on stones in the kidney or other parts of the urinary tract by means of a tube called a "catheter" which can be inserted into the urinary passage.

Dr. Robert F. Gehres of Sacramento, Calif., said the chemical was less irritating to the patient than others previously employed and effective against a wider range of kidney stones.

He told reporters that while the technique still is in an early stage, it offers promise of sparing surgical operations in certain cases, and of preparing for surgery certain other cases which otherwise might be inoperable. In the latter instance, he explained the method offered promise of reducing very large stones to a point where operation could be undertaken.

50 Medical Men Discuss Cancer

BRANTFORD, June 1 (CP)—Fifty medical men of Brant, Norfolk and Waterloo counties, taking part in a cancer symposium here Wednesday, heard papers on the surgical, medical and radiological treatment of cancer read by Dr. R. M. Janes and Dr. O. H. Warwick, both Toronto, and Dr. C. B. F irce of Montreal.

Over-zealous use of recently-developed and as yet untried methods of treatment of cancer was condemned.

Dr. Peirce, chief radiologist at Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal, regretted that as efforts were made to find more effective methods of attack on cancer, there was too often an urge to procure and use a more imposing machine or greater energy level "just to keep up with the Joneses.

He said some radical surgery was employed in certain quarters, and the current use of acth had been accompanied by "some very sad side-effects."

Dr. Warwick, executive director of the National Cancer Institute, said the number of deaths reported due to cancer had increased by 70 per cent in Canada since 1931.

Two Young Men Ordained By Conference

Ordination ceremonies for two new ministers were held Wednesday night in George St. United Church, as a part of the silver jubilee meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

The two new ministers—Boyd James Beckel, of Bellville, and Milton James Bell, of Kingston—were ordained in a service presided over by the Rev. Dr. H. A. Kent, president of the conference.

Sermon was preached by the Rev. J. E. Anderson, of Brighton, past president of the conference. He welcomed the two ordinants into "the most glorious work man is called upon to do — the ministry."

The ordinants were presented to the president by the secretary, the Rev. Hamlet C. Wolfraim, of Almonte, with these words: "Reverend president and members of conference, I present unto you these persons to be admitted ministers of the Word and Sacraments."

Following prayer, the president spoke to the ordinants, telling them they were about to become "messengers, watchmen and stewards of the Lord."

Then Dr. Kent asked the ordinants three questions:

"Do you believe yourself to be a child of God through faith in our Lord Jesus Christ?"

"I do so believe."

"Do you believe yourself to be called of God to the office of the Christian ministry and your chief motives to be zeal for the glory of God, love for the Lord Jesus Christ and desire for the salvation of men?"

"I do so believe."

"Are you persuaded that the holy scriptures contain sufficiently all doctrines required for eternal salvation in our Lord Jesus Christ, and are you resolved out of the said scriptures to instruct the people committed to your charge, and to teach nothing which is not agreeable thereto?"

"I am so persuaded and am so resolved by God's grace."

Dr. Kent spoke to the kneeling ordinants, saying: "The Lord pour upon thee the holy spirit for the office and work of a minister in the church of God, now committed unto thee by the authority of the church through the imposition of our hands. And be thou a faithful dispenser of the word of God, and of His holy sacraments; in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost—Amen."

The president presented each ordinant with a Bible, telling them to endeavour to lead "a holy and godly life." The service closed with a benediction by the president.

Milverton Teamster Dies Of Injuries

STRATFORD, June 1 (CP)—Joel Gatcke, 74, Milverton teamster and carter, died in hospital here early today of injuries suffered in a mishap Wednesday on No. 19 Highway at the outskirts of Milverton.

He suffered a compound fracture of both legs, head and hand injuries when struck by a northbound auto driven by Aaron Gerber, Crosshill.

Provincial Police said Gatcke, hauling a load of ashes to the Milverton dump, halted his team on the highway and was crossing the road to open a gate.

Gerber attempting to avoid striking Gatcke, ran his auto into a ditch where it struck a post.

12 Gold Pins Given Students At Last Assembly

Presentation of gold letter pins, one of the most coveted awards in PCVS, were made Wednesday to 12 outstanding students at the last assembly of the 1949-50 term. The awards were made on the recommendation of the advisors to the Students' Council executive and its committees for meritorious service beyond the "faithful performance of duties."

The students honored were Anne Winterbottom, Joan Seymour, Jessie Blackwell, Marilyn Pomeroy, Marilyn Hollingsworth, Orlene Shunk, Douglas Wood, Melva Lee Doxsee, Kathryn Leslie, Betty Merrett, Patsy Johnston and Harold Grafstein.

Miss M. A. Bailey, teacher advisor to the council, introduced each of the students to the assembly giving their qualifications for winning the letter. She told the student body that two deciding factors for the award were first, a satisfactory scholastic record, and secondly an outstanding contribution to the school in extra-curricular activities.

Making the presentation Miss Bailey told the students that a great deal has been said about learning to live in peace. To do so, she added, people must first become good citizens.

"The accent today is on youth, and I believe the three most important factors in the life of young people today are the home, the church and the school."

Miss Bailey stated that education goes on from the cradle to the grave and that since the prime motive of school is to educate, its influence on youth is great. The schools, she said, attempt, not to burden the students with facts but to give an accurate knowledge especially in the humanities such as English, history, and science so that people will learn to think.

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

June, the month of brides—and roses! I'm not going to concern myself with brides, but am greatly interested in discussing roses. This universally popular flower should be in every garden in at least one of its varied forms. It is wise to grow hybrid teas and hybrid perpetuals massed together in solid beds. Ramblers, pillar roses and climbers can be used to advantage on trellises or pergolas.

Plans for different types of supports abound. Two trellises and two arbours are shown. If you are not anxious to tackle the curved archway, then stick to a design which has straight lines.

If you are a rose enthusiast or would like to become more familiar with rose culture, why not join the Ontario Rose Society? We would be pleased to forward to you the particulars for joining this active organization.

For Outdoor Living

Nothing tastes so good as food cooked in the open over an outdoor fireplace. My teen-age daughter kept at me until I finally broke down and built a barbecue in a secluded corner of the garden. Ever since it was finished there has been a continual round of weiner roasts, picnics and impromptu gatherings in our back yard. I must admit its use has not been restricted to teenagers!

Refuse Burner

It was a toss-up whether I would include an incinerator with the brick barbecue or not. Saw a combination arrangement — barbecue at one side, incinerator at the other — in Kingston over a year ago, which was very effective. Because of the layout of my garden I decided on two separate units and intend to follow the incinerator design shown. It should help keep debris about the place to a minimum.

This marks the halfway point of this present series. I'd be delighted to hear from you if you have any comments to make on any of the suggestions already presented here or in the booklet "Around the Home".

More about these and many other ideas in the booklet "AROUND THE HOME". Write for your copy to Tom Gard, c/o MOLSON'S (Ontario) LIMITED, P.O. Box 490, Adelaide St. Station, Toronto.

Anglican Church Synod Disagrees About Alcohol

TORONTO, June 1 (CP)—The Toronto Synod of the Anglican Church Wednesday deleted from its social service council's report paragraphs which stated a belief that there is no moral wrong in the temperate consumption of alcohol.

Presenting the report the Rev. F. H. Mason of Toronto said "there is no moral wrong in taking a glass of beer. Is there anybody in the Synod who would contradict that?"

"Yes, yes," cried several delegates.

After an hour's debate the contentious paragraphs were replaced by a resolution which expressed concern "at the rapid increase in most provinces of the consumption of both malt liquors and spirits, with the augmentation of ill-effects to so many areas of society including youth, and to many phases of community life."

The resolution added: "We appeal to our own church people to recognize the greatness of this evil and to set and maintain a standard in this matter consistent with their Christian profession."

The original report had declared the problem would not be solved by limiting or reducing outlets for sale of beer and liquor.

Say Fruit Crop Badly Damaged

KELOWNA, B.C., June 1 (CP)—Soft fruit production this year will amount to less than five per cent of last year's crop, it was reported here Wednesday by competent fruit authorities.

In the agricultural-rich Okanagan Valley, chief centre of British Columbia's fruit-export industry, hundreds of peach, apricot and cherry orchards have been winter-damaged.

Last year the Okanagan produced 1,830,000 cases of peaches and 501,278 of apricots, as well as many thousand cases of cherries.

Thousands of trees have been permanently injured in the roots. Fruit has developed to the size of a matchhead in some orchards, stopped growing and dropped. Peach trees came into leaf, but wilted under a hot sun.

Canners will have a short season and most of the run will be devoted to vegetables and tomatoes. Soft fruits will go to the fresh fruit market to command a higher price than in 1949.

Church Excuses Flood Area Its Allocations

Flood conditions in Manitoba make it necessary for all United Church conferences to exceed objectives set by the national council of the United Church. This was the plea today of J. G. Coburn, chairman of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

"In particular," he said, "the objective of the Bay of Quinte conference must be exceeded. A large part of this year's national objective was to have come from Winnipeg."

"We had counted on the people of the Manitoba conference for $190,000—we cannot lay this burden on the people of Manitoba this year. One of the least things we can do is to take up the slack for that province."

Turning to the problem of Communism, Mr. Colburn told his audience he was "very much concerned with certain Communist ideals. We have nothing to fear from their atomic bombs and armies—we are prepared to deal with that.

Fear Infiltration

"We have everything to fear from the insidious infiltration of Communist ideals into this country. At the Lambeth Conference, it was decided that Communism could be regarded only as heresy," he continued.

One of the fundamentals of Communism, Mr. Colburn said, was the stressing of man's desire for material things above spiritual things. The church's position, said he, "is that desire for material things by Christians is tempered by the realization that they hold those material things as a trust for God."

Giving proper support to the church can defeat Communism, he said. "Stewardship — giving not only of money, but of time and ability—is one method. We must organize our life to give as much to God as possible, not what is left over after satisfying our personal desires. Christian stewardship must be sacrificial."

Contributions Increase

Report of the committee on missionaries and maintenance showed that during 1949, contributions to the fund from the whole church were 6.5 per cent over 1948 gifts.

In the Bay of Quinte Conference, 166 charges out of 233 increased their contributions in 1949 by a total of $17,476 over 1948. Liquidation of the deficit in the missionary and maintenance fund is expected by July 1 of this year.

Quota for the Bay of Quinte Conference this year is a quarter of a million. Contributions to May 27 totalled $44,340 against $48,505 donated in the same period of 1949. Contributions per member this year is set at $3.78.

The report predicted greater use of lay leadership in the church. A missionary and maintenance leadership school for laymen from the five central Ontario conferences will be held at McMaster University in Hamilton from September 8 to 10 inclusive.

Publishers Reject City-Wide Proposals

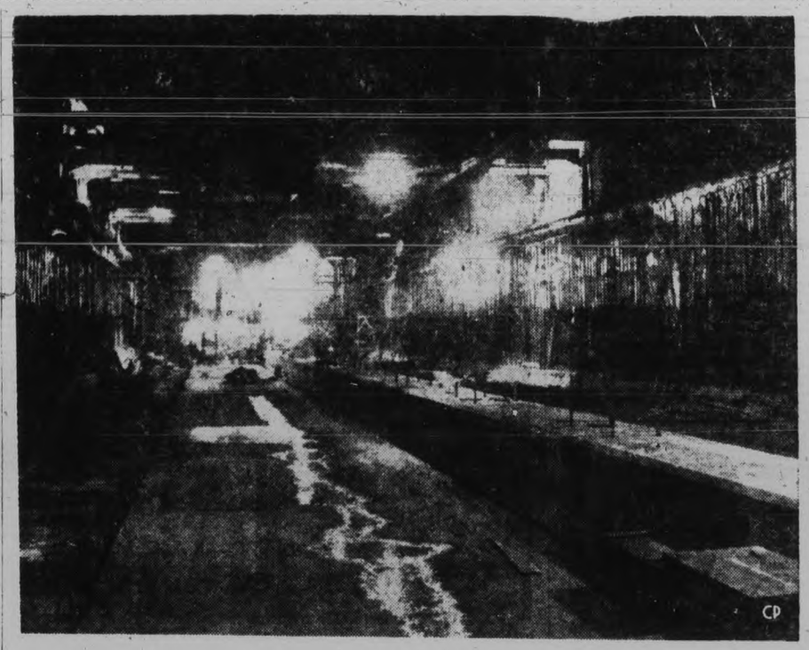
BOSTON, June 1 (AP)—Publishers of Boston's eight daily newspapers Wednesday rejected the first attempt in a major United States city for city-wide agreements on pensions, health and welfare.

A joint council of 11 CIO, AFL and independent newspaper unions reported that a spokesman for the publishers said they would continue to negotiate with individual unions.

The council announced that it would ask the federal mediation and conciliation service "to assist us in showing the Boston publishers the error of their ways."

If that fails, the council will report back to the members of the individual unions for further action.

Formation of the joint council of editorial, mechanical, mailers and teamsters unions was announced May 23 by John Thompson, president of the Boston Newspaper Guild.



Unauthorized Strike Ended By Workers

OAKRIDGE, Tenn., June 1 — (AP)—Ending a week-long strike which union leaders called "unauthorized and illegal," workers returned Wednesday to their jobs on vital atomic construction projects.

Hundreds of a force of 4,500 workmen, who either went on strike themselves or honored picket lines of an affiliated union, streamed back to their jobs on the morning shift. Work was resumed on projects costing $250,000,000.

The signal for the mass return to work was withdrawal of pickets by Local 818 of the Laborers and Hod Carriers Union (AFL), which touched off the wildcat walkout last Wednesday.

Seven hundred members of the local quit in protest against failure of an arbitration board to hand down an immediate decision May 23 on a wage-dispute hearing conducted that day.

Planning Drive For Adherents

LONDON, Ont., June 1 (CP) — A drive to bring 80,000 adherents of the United Church in the London conference into active membership was foreshadowed at the annual meeting of the lay association Wednesday held in connection with conference sessions.

Carl Vuaden of St. Thomas, president of the association, said the church should strive through a visitation evangelism program to bring adherents of the United Church into full-fledged membership.

"In the London conference," he said, "there are 80,000 who say they are connected with the United Church in addition to the 104,000 regular members," he said.

But the association executive felt "let down" because lay members had not actively followed up the requests that efforts be made to bring adherents into the church.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

At Picton Bay, on Lake Ontario, the shark-nosed Miss Canada IV eased into open water. It was Oct. 2, 1949. The sleek, 33-foot racer was out to bring Canada an international speed boat record.

With twin engines roaring, the craft hurled over the measured mile . . . then thundered back for a second run. Times were tallied. Miss Canada's speed had averaged 138.648 m.p.h. —a new North American record!

Skill and teamwork have won many firsts for Canadian sportsmen. And teamwork, with sportsmanship, helps you, too—in work and play. Together they keep your scope for opportunity in Canada . . . unlimited.

UNIVERSITY GRADUATES who complain that the world of business is deaf to their qualifications should meet up with Lord Woolton, Britain's Minister of Food during the dark days of the war. This sturdy, slow-spoken peer who ranks as one of Britain's foremost industrialists, came out flatly and said: "The important thing is that college graduates go into industrial life. They must not become recorders — they must become productive."

United Church Laymen Favor Single Association

The United Church may have a single men's "fellowship" instead of the many existing organizations if a resolution of the Lay Association of the Bay of Quinte Conference becomes widely accepted.

Wednesday afternoon a resolution to this effect was moved by E. L. Sackville of Peterborough and W. A. Woodside of Smiths Falls. The standing vote showed the lay gathering of about 75 men and women were unanimously in favor.

"We think this move of unification will be to the benefit of the United Church," was the comment of President Allan A. Martin, Brighton.

R. C. Bint of Oshawa was re-elected secretary treasurer of the Lay Association for the year. There were no other elections. Mr. Martin remains as president.

Following is the text of the resolution:

"That the Bay of Quinte Conference place itself on record as being fully in accord with the action of the Committee on Lay Activities in its decision to gather together into one fellowship to be known as "United Church Men" all men's clubs, groups, Bible classes, etc. functioning in the United Churches."

"We wholeheartedly endorse the aims and objectives of the 'United Church Men' as set out in its membership certificate and we urge that all men's groups affiliate themselves with the 'United Church Men.'"

This year is the 25th anniversary of the United Church of Canada and it is being held in Peterborough.

The Wednesday afternoon laymen's session was held in St. James' United Church. Dr. C. W. Slemon of Bowmanville told of a trip last summer through the United Kingdom and Europe. Devotions at the beginning of the meeting were conducted by the Rev. J. E. Anderson of Brighton.

R. F. Downey of Peterborough made a plea for renewed memberships in the Association and asked for financial support.

Mr. Sackville paid high tribute to the church members from the rural districts: "If our church lost the rural districts of this country it would mean the end of the United Church in Canada."

Farmer Risks Life To Rescue 4 Pigs

SMITHS FALLS, June 1 (CP) — Farmer Newman Edwards Wednesday risked his life to rescue four pigs.

He dashed into a flaming barn on his farm a few miles on the outskirts of this Eastern Ontario town, made his way out with one of the squealers and then dashed in to rescue the three others.

Two men, part of a district brigade, brought together to fight the blaze, rushed forward to help Edwards, but were forced back by the intense heat and flames.

The fire, started through an electrical wiring short, destroyed two barns before it was brought under control.

18 Officials Receive $6,000 Yearly Salary

OTTAWA, June 1 — (CP) — Eighteen officials or employees of the Crown-owned Polymer Synthetic Rubber Plant at Sarnia receive $6,000 or more a year, it was disclosed Wednesday in the Commons.

The information was given by George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, in reply to a written question from C. W. Hodgson (PC, Victoria, Ont.).

Mr. McIlraith declined, however, to list the names of the employees and their positions. It had never been the practice, he said, to disclose such information.

Report Some Progress In Chrysler Talks

WINDSOR, June 1 (CP) — "Some progress" was made Wednesday in negotiations between Chrysler Corporation of Canada Limited, and Local 195, United Automobile Workers (CIO), a union spokesman said Wednesday night.

However, no details of agreement reached to date were announced by the bargaining groups which met for the second full day this week to discuss union demands for company-paid pensions, health and social security plans and contract changes.

Ask Investigation

ODESSA, June 1. (CP)—The Ontario Fire Marshal's office in Toronto has been asked to investigate a small fire Wednesday in the J. H. Babcock & Sons sawmill in this community some 12 miles west of Kingston. It was the second small mill fire in a short time and villagers suspect they may be of incendiary origin.

Says Ottawa Has Power Start Pensions

OTTAWA, June 1 (CP) — It would be within the constitutional powers of the federal government to bring in a universal, so-much-a-month old age pension within a means test and to finance it out of general revenues, F. P. Varcoe, deputy justice minister, said Wednesday.

But the use of general revenues he said, is the only method of financing such a scheme that he is sure is definitely within federal powers under the British North America Act. Others might or might not be.

Mr. Varcoe gave the joint parliamentary committee on old-age security his views on a number of legal questions relating to parliament's authority to enact laws to raise money for pension payments and to the effect on agreements with the provinces.

Members' questions kept referring to a no-means-test federal pension of $40 a month to all people between 65 and 70. These Canadians at 70 and to a means test Dominion-provincial pension of the same amount for eligible are the reported decisions of the committee.

Mr. Varcoe said:

1. He wouldn't like to say whether parliament has the power to impose a social security tax earmarked for pensions payments. He'd have to see the proposed bill first.

2. He doesn't believe parliament has the power to legislate for a contributory scheme of pensions similar to that now in effect under the Unemployment Insurance Act. It would be invalid under a ruling by the Privy Council in 1937 on Canada's Unemployment and Social Security Act originated by the Conservative Bennett Government.

Movies Give False Idea Of Band-Charge

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 1 (AP)—Weary of movies that paint a false picture of the band business, music man Stan Kenton is planning to make a picture of his own.

"Hollywood has never done right by the band business," said the 37-year-old promoter of "Progressive Jazz." "There were a few good scenes in a picture called 'Syncopation' a few years ago, but the rest of it wasn't so good. I haven't seen 'Young Man with a Horn,' but the boys in the band tell me it's not so hot."

So Kenton will film his own production when his band goes on the road next season.

"It will be a documentary," he declared, "we'll start when the first bookings start to come in. Then we'll show the boys being fitted for their uniforms, the band rehearsing new numbers and finally hitting the road. We'll take the audience right backstage and show the wives knitting and talking together while the show goes on. We'll show everything."

Reviving Interest

Speaking of recent drives by record companies to revive interest in bands, Kenton observed: "They can't put life back into the business by trying to bring back the same old bands; they've got to find something new."

Kenton himself is out of the dance business now, since he plays only to sit-down audiences.

He deplores the revivals of such old-time crazes at the square dance and the Charleston.

"Now I hear they're going to put on a big drive to bring back the polka," he said. "if I were starting in the dance business, I think I would whip up a combo to play the minuet."

Make Expression Of Loyalty

A resolution of loyalty to the King was moved at Wednesday's session of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church, meeting at George St. Church.

Read by the Rev. Harold B. Neal of Lindsay, the resolution is as follows:

"Moved by Rev. B. Neal, seconded by Mr. H. S. Johnston that this historic Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada, being duly constituted, present to His Gracious Majesty the King the true and abiding loyalty of each and all of the delegates who compose the conference and the faithful and devoted people whom it represents. We give thanks to God from whom all good things proceed for the good of fortitude, faith and devotion which has been set before his subjects by the King and his house. In a world still tortured by unrest, suspicion and fear, the Crown stands out with new significance. We pledge ourselves anew to those high purposes, to which the King's own heart and life are given, in the defence of righteousness and justice, in the love of those fundamental freedoms of mind and heart, and a strong will to peace in which lies the hope of mankind.

"We earnestly pray for the well-being of the King and for godly prosperity. We trust he may be given health and strength to long reign over his people. May the King and his loyal subjects be a mighty instrument in the hands of God for the furtherance of the Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."

Suggest City Operate Downtown Parking

TORONTO, June 1 (CP)—The civic planning board Wednesday recommended that the city take over ownership and operation of downtown parking facilities to relieve the traffic problem.

The scheme would involve municipal ownership of parking lots, garage buildings, and installation of parking meters.

In a report to the civic works committee, the board estimated the capital cost of the scheme at $7,376,038. Estimated annual net revenue would be $230,000.

Weekly Papers File Protest

BRAMPTON June 1—(CP)—The Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association plans to protest to Prime Minister St. Laurent against a suggestion that the CBC issue a weekly magazine containing commercial advertising to all radio licence holders.

W. E. McCartney, managing director of the association, announced the stand Wednesday, adding that the CWNA is also advising the Massey Commission that it disapproves of a proposal that the present radio licence fee be abolished in favor of maintaining the CBC for ordinary taxes.

The board of directors adopted a resolution which said:

"No government agency should compete on a subsidized basis with privately owned and operated tax-paying agencies. On the contrary, the board believes that the CBC would be wise to consider a sizeable retrenchment of its printed public relations programs as a means of reducing the impingement of its deficit on more essential services."

The protest will be forwarded to the prime minister in a letter.

Canada Equal To World Powers In Field Of Supersonic Research

OTTAWA, June 1 — (CP) — Canada lags behind no other world power in research in the field of supersonics—that 20-century discovery of man that makes it possible to fly faster than the speed of sound.

This was disclosed Wednesday as the National Research Council threw open its establishment on the eastern outskirts of Ottawa for a three-day showing to the public. The occasion was the placing of the cornerstone of a new high-speed aerodynamics laboratory by Viscount Alexander.

The Governor-General said the laboratory, which probably will be opened late this year to test aircraft models at speeds up to 3,000 miles an hour, marked the beginning of a new era of Canadian research.

Canada, he said, now had reached a height in the sphere of aerodynamics and supersonic research which enabled her to make contributions to the welfare of her own people and to those of other nations.

Laboratory Work

Many countries now were building extreme designs of faster-than-sound aircraft including guided missiles, he said. The greater complexity of these aircraft necessitated greater investigation and apparatus to carry it out and that was the kind of work that would be undertaken in the new laboratory.

As invited guests looked over the dozen or more laboratories of the usually tightly-guarded establishment, a NRC spokesman said Canada now is importing scientists from other countries on fellowships to help her with her research.

About 40 came from other western nations last year and the aerodynamics brains now working here are considered "among the best in the world."

HON. LIONEL CHEVRIER, Minister of Transport, left, welcomes delegates of 37 nations to the fourth annual assembly of the International Civil Aviation Organization which opened in Montreal's Sun Life Building recently. With him in this photo are, left to right, Dr. Edward Warner, president, ICAO Council, Mayor Camillien Houde and Dr. Albert Roper, general secretary.

Gold Intends To Plead Guilty

PHILADELPHIA, June 1. (AP) — Harry Gold, 39-year-old biochemist, accused of divulging atomic secrets to Russia, Wednesday told a federal judge that he intends to plead guilty—but "not to the charge of meaning to hurt the United States."

Judge James E. McGranery disclosed to reporters that Gold told him he would plead guilty to acting as a courier for a Russian atom-bomb spy ring.

"Gold said he wants the right to continue to co-operate with the FBI and that he will insist upon that right," the judge said.

"He also asked that the court appoint counsel, which he insists be counsel whose patriotism is unimpeachable, with the respect of the court, the public and the bar."

The judge said he will nominate a man today, arrange for him to consult with Gold, and if agreeable all around, appoint that man as Gold's counsel.

It was Judge McGranery who ordered Gold to prison in default of $100,000 bail at a swift-paced hearing, called late at night, following Gold's arrest early last week. Gold is charged with working as the intermediary through whom Dr. Klaus Fuchs, convicted British atom spy, delivered information about the atomic bomb to the Soviet Union.

Elect Rev. Dyer As President

TORONTO, —une 1. (CP) — The Rev. Carman E. Dyer of New Toronto Wednesday was elected president of Toronto Conference of the United Church of Canada. Mr. Dyer, secretary of the Conference for 13 years, succeeded the Rev. James A. Lytle. The Rev. J. A. C. Kell of Cochrane was elected secretary.

Conference sessions will continue all this week. Delegates come from Toronto, Central Ontario and the Eastern part of Northern Ontario.

Smuggling Mexicans Into U.S. For $1 A Head As Farm Help

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ

MEXICO CITY, June 1 (AP)—It's a dark night on the Rio Grande. A man comes out of the brush on the Mexican shore. He peeks furtively through the darkness up and down the river.

Satisfied, he creeps down the bank. A dozen men, their left wrists tied to a long cord, follow him in line. He wades into the water, sounding with a long stick. They wade quietly to the far bank. The leader stays behind as the men cut themselves loose and disappear into the brush on the United States side.

Another consignment of smuggled Mexican farm workers has arrived in the U.S.

The leader is an "enganchador" (a "hooker"), so called because he pulls men out of the water. For two or three days he has been quietly talking to Mexicans camped along the shore. They want to go to the U.S. to work.

Even at 25 cents an hour, they will make more in an hour than they could make in half a day at home.

The hooker finally completes the number he is willing to smuggle across the river. They pay in advance—how much depends on how much they have. The average is probably around 10 or 15 pesos—$1.10 or $1.65—a man. Then they start their crossing.

Small Penalty

There is small penalty for failure. If the U.S. authorities catch them the illegal migrants are merely sent back to Mexico. If Mexicans catch them, there is a fine of up to 10,000 pesos ($1,156) and two to five years in jail. But Pedro Garcia, chief of the Reynosa border patrol, says he has only two men to patrol a hundred miles.

There are ohter types of "man smugglers." Sometimes boatmen will take the Mexicans across in small skiffs or on rafts.

The migrant is in danger from the time he leaves Mexico. He may step into a hole in the ford, or the current may wash him downstream. If he crosses in a boat, it may overturn.

So many bodies of aliens have been taken from the river that a U.S. sheriff in the lower valley complained that the free cemetery in his town was full of unidentified Mexicans.

Mexicans say that even if the migrant gets across the river safely, and finds a job with a U.S. farmer, he is still not well off. The authorities here say the illegal migrant is often paid less than the prevailing wage and that his food and sleeping quarters are sub-standard. If he complains, he is threatened with being turned over to U.S. officers.

British Motorists Pay Cent More For Gas

LONDON, June 1 Reuters) — British motorists, enjoying unrestricted motoring for the first time in 11 years, will pay more for gasoline from today.

Four days after ending gasoline rationing, the government Wednesday announced that prices are to be increased by three farthings (roughly one cent) a gallon.

Many motorists made a last-minute rush on garages to fill their tanks before the new increase took effect. But the increase is not expected to affect sales.

The new price will be three shillings and three farthings a gallon. Until six weeks ago, it was only 2s. 3d. a gallon, but the April budget added nine pence.

View Old Beach

DUNKERQUE, France, June 1 (Reuters)—More than 1,400 British veterans of the historic battle of Dunkerque came back Wednesday to look at the beach they evacuated June 10 years ago, but the red tape of the post-war world kept them from landing. Most of the veterans had come unexpectedly, and few had passports. So they had to stay aboard their ship and gaze at the beach which they last saw in the midst of a bloody withdrawal.

Make Prison Survey

OSSINING, N. Y., June 1 (AP) —Prison authorities completed a survey Wednesday and announced that, of Sing Sing prison's 1,800 convicts, 656 are war veterans. The figure was the highest in the 125-year history of the prison.

Mrs. A. Dugan Dies At Warkworth

WARKWORTH, June 1 (ENS) —Mrs. A. Dugan, widow of Andrew Dugan, died on Monday at her home in Warkworth. She was in her 71st year. Burial service was on Wednesday.

Born near Bancroft in 1880, she was the daughter of the late Oscar Gould and Emily Mardens. In 1899 she was married to Andrew Dugan, living in Haliburton until 1927, when they moved to a farm on the second concession of Percy township. Her husband died in April, 1940. Two years ago she moved to the village of Warkworth.

The funeral was largely attended and was held from Allan's Funeral Home on Wednesday.

She leaves the following family: Mrs. Janes (Olive), of Peterborough; Mrs. W. T. Have Same Spirit

WINNIPEG, June 1 (CP)—The same spirit with which Manitobans fought the flood will prevail in their rehabilitation, Premier Douglas Campbell said Wednesday night. In an address over a trans-Canada radio hook-up, Mr. Campbell said the crisis is past, and greater Winnipeg and the Red river valley begin the tough job of rehabilitation in the wake of the receding flood waters.

Heed Conscience More Diligently Ministers Told

A minister whose grandfather and father were ministers in the Bay of Quinte Conference, and who himself was born at Frankford, is in charge of devotions for the Bay of Quinte conference, meeting in its silver jubilee year at George St. United Church.

He is the Rev. Gerald R. Cragg, of Erskine and American United Church in Montreal.

In his first address to the conference given Wednesday he chose as his text the third chapter (21st verse) from Romans—"But how the righteousness of God without the law is manifested being witnessed by the law and the prophets."

His sermon dealt with the growth of conscience the embracing of faith, and the realization of the meaning of faith.

Three Streams

At the beginning of his address, he dwelt on the three streams—Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist—which formed the United Church in Canada 25 years ago.

"A conscience," he said, "can be a most awkward and inconvenient companion at times. We can think up reasons which satisfy everything else in ourselves but our conscience when we want to do something.

"It can compel us to think—as Shakespeare said 'so conscience doth make cowards of us all'—and when we defy it, conscience wreaks its fearful vengeance."

He spoke of conscience's revenge on Lady MacBeth, of her sleepwalking and, finally her suicide.

Conscience, he said, becomes a schoolmaster, teaching us to heed it more diligently. And when conscience finally is victorious, then it is possible for a person to embrace faith.

The embracing of faith must be accompanied by realization of faith's meaning. Without the realization embracing faith is only a gesture, he said. With realization, "we are justified with faith."

"And being justified with faith, we are at peace with God."

CANBERRA, June 1 (AP) — The Australian government announced today that it was reducing its diplomatic representation in Moscow. Percy C. Spender, external affairs minister, told the House of Representatives that Alan Watt, minister to Moscow now back home, would not return to Russia.

TORONTO, June 1 (CP)—Condition of Edward Hill, 43, of Owen Sound, badly burned about the face and hands when his truck caught fire and overturned on the Queen Elizabeth highway near here Wednesday was reported as "only fair" today. Hill is in St. Joseph's Hospital here with first and second degree burns.

Toronto Synod Would Change Church Name

TORONTO, June 1—"We can make our greatest contribution by being ourselves," Canon F. H. Wilkinson, St. Paul's, Bloor St., told the Toronto Synod Wednesday in reporting on a proposed change of name for the Anglican denomination.

Official nomenclature now is The Church of England in Canada. The Synod voted to have the name changed to "The Anglican Church of Canada". Canon Wilkinson's report suggested there was some dissatisfaction with the original name, since it implied that the Canadian church was not entirely autonomous.

The proposal for a change had come before the General Synod at Halifax last year, he explained, and had been endorsed by the lower house of the synod, but had been vetoed by the House of Bishops until a further expression of opinion from the dioceses had been obtained.

"Our democratic diocesan system of government comes to us from the Episcopal Church in the United States," Canon Wilkinson declared. "There was no diocesan conference in Canada until Bishop Strachan called one together in Toronto in 1851. The first Bishop consecrated in Canada came not from the Church of England but from the Church of Ireland."

Has Amendment

An amendment was proposed by the Rev. Blake Wood, Church of the Comforter. "I suggest the name of 'The Anglo-Catholic Church of Canada'. It has become the name of a party within the church. It will give the Low Churchman an opportunity to take the name away from the party, and it will give the High Churchmen satisfaction that the name of their party had been applied to the church as a whole."

"I don't think there's the foggiest chance that will go through," commented the Rev. G. H. Dowker, Grace Church on the Hill. Mr. Dowker was correct. The amendment was received with some amusement, but was promptly defeated. Representations for the change of nomenclature will be sent forward to the General Synod.

Family Affair In Jail At Tech Tsp.

KIRKLAND LAKE, June 1 — It's strictly a family affair today at the Teck Township jail. Three brothers were arrested last night as a result of a battle in Kirkland's downtown section, during which one policeman received serious facial injuries.

Sandford, 26, Delbert, 24, and Glenwood Condie, 19, were arrested early Wednesday morning on combined charges of obstructing and assaulting police officers. Two others, Clifford Steele, 21, and Alex Matti, 25, were arrested later on similar charges.

The Condie trio joined another brother, Lindsay Condie, 25, being held on a forgery count.

PC's Robert Thompson and Alex Lee answered hotel management complaints that firecrackers were being set off in the hotel's lounge. When PC Thompson attempted to arrest Glenwood, Sandford and Delbert came to their brother's aid. Matti and Steele, among the 200 spectators, also joined the affray.

Police allege Sandford Condie kicked PC Thomson, knocking out his front teeth and causing severe injuries to his left eye. Doctors at first feared Thomson would lose his eye, but it is now hoped that it can be saved.

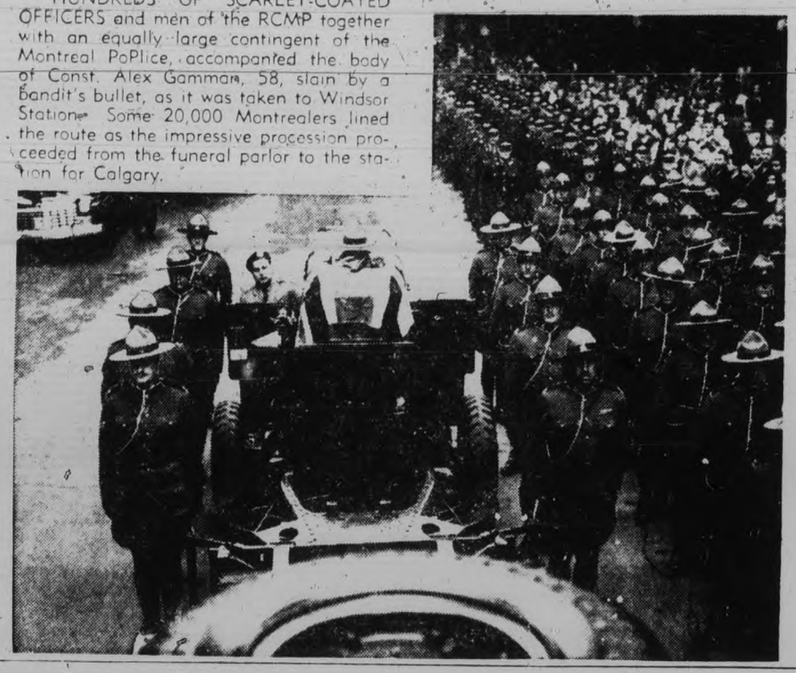
assistant to Fisheries Minister Mayhew, said that a four-man team from the fisheries department has gone to Newfoundland to obtain information on the size of the undisposed surplus of the 1949 catch of salted codfish.

Resources Minister Winters said houses owned by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in the flooded areas or Winnipeg will be brought into good condition as soon as possible.

Want Coverage

During debate on amendments to the Canada Grain Act, which governs the handling of grains, H. O. White (PC-Middlesex East) asked Trade Minister Howe if soybean producers of southwestern Ontario could be brought under its protection. The producers feared that an over-production of soybeans in the United States might lead to dumping on the Canadian market.

Mr. Howe said he had put the question before the Board of Grain Commissioners, which administers the Act, and had just received a reply from them. However, the soybean problems could not be dealt with in the current amendments.



On the veterans bills, Veterans Minister Gregg said his department intends to set up permanent district authorities across the country to hear the appeals of veterans who feel they had not been dealt with fairly.

Doesn't Favor Plan

Col. A. J. Brooks (PC-Royal) said he did not favor such a plan. He had always obtained satisfaction from the board in Ottawa. Experience had shown that when such boards were put on a provincial basis they were inclined to look on allowances and the like as political patronage.

Mr. Gregg said the Ottawa board would keep in close touch with the activities of district boards. If a veteran was dissatisfied with the ruling of a district board, he could appeal to the board in Ottawa.

HUNDREDS OF SCARLET-COATED OFFICERS and men of the RCMP together with an equally large contingent of the Montreal PoPlice, accompanied the body of Const. Alex Gamman, 58, slain by a bandit's bullet, as it was taken to Windsor Station. Some 20,000 Montrealers lined the route as the impressive procession proceeded from the funeral parlor to the station for Calgary.

Slime, Mud Greet Winnipeg Homecomer

By ANN HENRY.

WINNIPEG, June 1 (CP) — I went back home this morning with Allan Scoble of the Riverview district.

This is an area just a few short blocks from the Municipal Hospital. Homes for many blocks around stand empty.

Only last Friday Mr. Scoble sailed over the Riverview lake, over the hedge bordering his front lawn, and moored the craft at his front door.

Today we drove up by car. The houses on the street aren't bright and spacious homes any more. They are bleak and deserted. They look as if they have not been inhabited for years, as if, for some reason, they were left many years ago to decay.

A heavy coating of slime made treacherous footing as we made our way to his front door.

Mr. Scoble pointed to his garage moored to a huge tree by a stout rope. "The navy did that for me," he said, "or else, I guess it would have floated away."

Awful Shock

Stepping indoors, I had a quick insight into the awful shock that awaits Mrs. Scoble. She and the couple's five-year-old son are away.

The once prettily furnished home, with pastel walls, polished hardwood floors and spotless kitchen, now is rotting.

All the floors are lifted up in a twisted mass of torn wood and slime. Radiators are rusted and hang crookedly. The neatly painted plaster walls are cracking.

"It sure is an awful mess," Mr. Scoble commented. Furnishings were piled high on trestles, and thus escaped destruction. The kitchen looked as if some giant hand had swept its contents into a heap. Down the basement stairs moulding was lifted off and the cruel water still laps at the top step.

In the house, on the street and everywhere in the area is the stillness of decay.

But Mr. Scoble said: "I'm going to start fixing up right away. It's pretty bad but there are lots of folks right around here that are worse off than me."

Relief Temporary In Forest Fire

HALIFAX, June 1 (CP)—Low clouds and a heavy dew came to the aid of firefighters in Halifax county early today but the weather man predicted the relief would be only temporary.

A monster forest fire continued in the eastern part of the county. The weather bureau predicted low clouds until this afternoon when the weather again would turn sunny.

The big blaze in the upper Musquodoboit area has destroyed some 15,000 acres of spruce in three days. However, the flames veered away from the threatened villages of Dean and Musquodoboit. The fire already has destroyed more timberland than all of 1949's outbreaks and is being fought by a force of some 1,500.

Meanwhile, minor outbreaks were reported from a dozen other places in the eastern part of the province. Chief Forester D. A. S. Dyer said some of the fires "have the semblance of being purposely set." Others were caused by careless smoking, burning of brush and fishermen's campfires.

2 Midnight Tries To Crack Safes Thieves Get $26

Two attempts were made to crack safes during the night. One failed and one succeeded. The total loot was $26. The victims were the Peterborough Metal Co., Simcoe St., and Winslow's Service Station on Lansdowne St.

Because the thieves knew the combination or because the vault door was left unlocked, they succeeded in getting into the vault at Peterborough Metal Co. The vault contained $17 in a metal box.

The proprietor, Irving Moldaver, said he had banked Wednesday. Another $9 was taken from desk drawers which the thief or thieves pried open, probably with a screwdriver.

Mr. Moldaver told police he was sure the safe had been locked properly. He believed someone who knew the combination unlocked the vault.

The thief got into the building at an opening from which a window sash had been taken out as part of some alterations. The hole had not been covered over.

The knob of the vault's combination dial had been hit twice with some heavy object, but apart from that there was no indication the thieves had any trouble opening the vault door.

At Service Station

At Winslow's Service Station the thieves went to a lot of trouble and got nowhere. Using the garage's acetylene torch and hiding the light it would give off a blanket, the thieves cut out a section of the four-foot-high safe's door around the combination knob. Before they could go any further with the torch, the acetylene gas ran out. They then chipped their way half through the door but gave up for some reason.

"It was strictly an amateur job," Detective-Sergeant W. A. Clarke said. Inside the safe was $150 to $200.

Saw Flashlight

Bill Osburn an employee with the petroleum company which operates the service station told police he saw a flashlight in the garage building about midnight while passing. But he thought it was a policeman checking the building.

Failing to open the safe, they took a few packages of cigarettes, but didn't attempt to open the cash register which had $1.80 in it. They had got in by breaking a pane of glass in a rear window, and unlatching the catch.

Constable Andre Dalton assisted Sergeant Clarke in the investigation. Constables Stewart Fife and Grant Gillespie carried out the preliminary investigation at the Peterborough Metal Co.

3 Minor Crashes In Wake Of Spring Rain

Spring showers caused treacherous highways Thursday and were blamed for three minor accidents. Nobody was injured.

Two of the accidents occurred within about 100 yards of each other late in the afternoon on Highway 28, less than 600 yards north of the hamlet of South Monaghan.

A Windsor couple, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dennie, were driving north when Mrs. Dennie lost control of her car and ran into the east ditch. The car turned over on its roof and received some $300 damage.

Later, William Davidson, George St., driving south on Highway 28, applied his brakes to slow down for the tow truck which was dragging the Dennie car out of the ditch. Davidson's vehicle skidded across the road into the east direction, turned over once, and came to rest standing on its four wheels.

Damage to the car is set at $450.

Provincial Constables T. H. Fitzpatrick and George Henderson investigated both accidents.

The third mishap was on Highway 7, three miles east of Havelock. A. J. Scott, Albert St., slowed down for a crossing while driving west and his half-ton panel truck skidded off into the ditch where it overturned.

The truck was not badly damaged and Scott was uninjured.

Provincial Constable Harold Armstrong investigated.

Suggests Change In Ministers' Doctrinal Vows

Hint of a change in the vows given in United Church ordination ceremonies came Wednesday at the Bay of Quinte Conference's afternoon meeeting in George St. Church.

As the names of two candidates for the ministry were advanced for Wednesday night's ordination, the Rev. E. E. Pugsley, of Norwood, said he didn't think the vows were sufficiently binding in doctrinal matters.

The Crandall Case

Although nothing was said directly, it is believed the possible change will be the result of the wrangle between the Peterborough presbytery and the Rev. W. N. Crandall, Bethany minister who refused to adhere to the church's policy of infant baptism.

The matter of the Bethany minister was referred to a special committee on ministerial relations.

"I think it ought to be clear when a man is being examined just where he stands," said Mr. Pugsley.

Chairman of the special committee, the Rev. Dr. G. A. Brown, of Kingston, said that "certain events" have pointed to the need for changes in the vows.

Changes Considered

Ways of change, said Dr. Brown, had been considered "to the satisfaction of the committee."

"We have accepted without question," he went on, "that two things happen when vows are taken—one, that the candidate has acquainted himself with what is in the vows, and two, that the candidate has acquainted himself with what is in the doctrine of the church."

Dr. Brown said he believed every minister should study United Church doctrine more closely. He said he didn't think all of them remembered everything they might.

RAIN BIG HELP

That rain late Wednesday afternoon, and on late into the night, brought timely refreshment to the Peterborough grain crops and pastures. Incidentally, it will be a big help to market gardeners. The spring grains needed the moisture even more seriously than the fall wheat which continued to put on strong growth.

DIES IN ALBERTA

Mrs. Walter Tate, sister of Mrs. James H. Northey of 199 Murray St., died recently in Mannville, Alberta. She was born 73 years ago the daughter of the late John Young and Marion Alexander of Smith township. The funeral service took place at the Mannville United Church and the burial at Outlook Cemetery in Saskatchewan. Besides Mrs. Northey she leaves her husband, son Harry of Mannville, daughter Mrs. Marion Doherty of Edmonton, and a brother, Andrew Young of South River, Ont.

Ship Minnows From Halifax Packed In Dry Leaves

By NICK NICKELS

There are probably more avid fishermen and hunter employees at the Outboard Marine Company than any plant in town. They are always telling one another of their experiences of the outdoors. But there is one that advertising manager Larry Maguire tells that has made everyone more than fed up. And he has been telling it to them for the past 12 years.

Larry was on a business trip down in the Maritimes in 1938. While in Halifax a friend invited him to go fishing for trout at a nearby inland lake. Friend bought some minnows on the way. They were packed in dry leaves in a small carton and Larry thought his friend was kidding when he said they would live without water. Several hours later they arrived at the lake and went out. The bait was jumping all over the bottom of the boat when their box was opened. They caught some trout, too, and released the unused minnows and watched them swim away. That was Larry's experience and basis for his 12-year old fish story. Of course, it has worn mighty thin down around the Outboard plant, but, as sure as trout season rolled around again, Larry gave out with it again. This time Bill Swiss thought he would call his bluff and told him to go ahead and order some from Halifax by air express. Larry did just that.

On Tuesday morning a small package arrived in Larry's office from Halifax. It contained 19 minnows, a few of them dead, but the majority kicking and very much alive. They were packed in dry oak leaves and by air, Halifax-Montreal, and express, Montreal-Belleville - Peterborough, had been 24 hours on the way. They were immediately transferred to a water tank and fed. Later they were released in district waters. Larry collected a substantial bet from Bill and can be counted on saying "I told you so," for the next few weeks. The boys hope it will not extend for 12 years, this time.

Apparently, this Halifax sport shop has been shipping live minnows over great distances for many years. They buy dry oak leaves in bales in the fall for the next season's packing. There is no doubt about it that it is a sound principle.

Such a method of handling bait by retailers to tourists in the Kawarthas has tremendous possibilities. No more bait cans and no more changing water several times a day, for the fisherman. Before experimenters start working on this idea, it is necessary to point out that the leaves must be DRY and must be OAK, no other kind will do. It is said that they give off a certain amount of oxygen that keep the small fish alive. And if mummy chub minnows from Halifax can survive 24 hours of air-train travel to Peterborough, our minnow could certainly stand this sort of packing from Peterborough to the farthest points of the Kawarthas and beyond.

Suspended Sentence Milk Bottle Thefts

Ronald Hunt, 18, of 310 Louis St., was placed on two year's suspended sentence in police court today after pleading guilty Wednesday to three charges of theft of money from milk bottles.

Detective Sergeant W. A. Clarke said over the past 10 days about 20 reports of milk money thefts amounting to about $17 had been received.

Hunt admitted most of them to police, but couldn't remember the addresses of all the places where he had taken money.

He was arrested about 7.30 a.m. Wednesday by Constables Dennis Traynor and Grant Gillespie after they spied him wandering about on Monaghan Rd. and Bolivar St. He told them he had to go to work at 9 a.m.

Merchant Charges Police State Regulations When Fined $25 For Ammunition Sales

A fine of $25 and $5 costs was imposed in police court today on William Addyman, proprietor of the Kawartha Sports Shop, when he was found guilty by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, of failing to keep records of purchases and sales of ammunition of higher power than 22 calibre.

These regulations, said Addyman, were "conceived in ignorance and administered in arrogance."

He said they were taking away the rights of men given to them by the Magna Charta to bear arms.

"It's just another encroachment on the freedom of the individual," he exclaimed. "We are slipping more and more into a police state."

"It is no function of the court," said Magistrate Philp, "to say whether laws and regulations made by the government are reasonable or serve any good purpose. The court must accept the laws of the country and enforce them."

Addyman said the persons who drew up the law didn't know their business. They listed .22 calibre shells and shotgun shells as "safe." Addyman said .22 calibre shells were the most powerful of any. As for shotgun shells, "I'd hate to be shot at by a shotgun at a distance of 100 yards."

RCMP Constable George Pickering testified he visited Addyman's store in 1948, 49 and '50. At neither time did Addyman produce the required records of sales and purchases.

Asked if he had opened some of the shell boxes to see whether or not there were shells in them, Constable Pickering said no, but Addyman had admitted he had shells for sale.

Addyman's attitude "was very hostile and very abusive during the inspection," the Mountie said. He said he told Addyman how to keep the records and what information he needed to get.

"This is one case I'm going to appeal," Addyman told the court.

Rumor Of Race On Highway Denied At Inquest

Death came to Milton Hopkins 30, of Lakefield, because dangerous road conditions sent his car careening out of control into the path of another car April 19, a coroner's jury decided Wednesday.

No blame was attached to the driver of the other car, Cecil Darling, a Lakefield taxi driver. The accident occurred on Highway 28 between the north limit of Lakefield and the road entrance to Grove School. Hopkins, father of five small children, died in hospital April 13.

Coroner Dr. Herbert N. Young told the jury after all the evidence had been heard, that one of the reasons for holding the inquest was because of rumors.

A story was circulating that Milton Hopkins, driving a 1950 model car, had been racing against his brother Ray in another as they drove down from South Beach Hotel.

Three of the four witnesses who saw the accident denied this. The fourth was Darling, driver of the taxi, who remembered nothing of the accident and probably would not have been able to testify whether the cars had been racing or not. He had been driving in the opposite direction.

Dr. H. E. Gastle described the chief injuries Hopkins received as severe shock, torn ligaments in the region of the hip which caused a ruptured bladder. He said Hopkins regained consciousness and talked rationally, but told nothing which threw any light on the cause of the accident.

Dr. C. B. Waite, provincial pathologist, said Hopkins died because his injuries released small globes of fat into the blood stream. The result was acid got into the lungs and caused acute inflammation there, killing the man. A small area of the front of Hopkins' brain was also injured.

Lost Memory

Darling told the court he remembered starting out to drive to South Beach Hotel, but nothing more until he was being taken to the hospital. Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw told the jury loss of memory following an accident was not uncommon.

Archie Sterling, Lakefield, who had been riding with Hopkins, testified Hopkins passed his brother's car while negotiating a mud hole just north of the accident.

"We'd come around the curve all right. Then it seemed as if a rear wheel hit a hole in the road and the car jumped sideways." He said Hopkins straightened his car and then they realized they were on ice. They started sliding sideways down the road. Some distance away Sterling could see the approaching lights of the taxi.

Thrown Out of Car

"Our car, you couldn't do anything with it," he said. He added that when the cars crashed he

Bay of Quinte Conference Accepts Resignation Of Rev. W. H. Crandall

Resignation of the Rev. W. N. Crandall of Bethany was today accepted by the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church. Complete text of the resignation was not available, although it said in part that the Bethany minister resigned because he "cannot conform with the practices of the United Church regarding infant baptism."

In part, the resignation read: "I submit my resignation as a minister of the United Church of Canada, to be effective as of the end of the present pastoral year." The pastoral year ends June 30.

Dr. James Sempie, of George St. United Church, read the report of the ministerial relations committee, recommending that the conference accept the resignation of Mr. Crandall. The Rev. Dr. G. A. Brown, of Kingston, said Mr. Crandall did not wish the matter discussed on the floor of the conference.

Peterborough presbytery of the United Church asked for Mr. Crandall's resignation last month when he made clear his stand on infant baptism.

Mr. Crandall refused to baptize infants, saying the Bible did not support the doctrine of the United Church. At the time he agreed to resign (May 5) he said, "In my vows I said I'd preach nothing contrary to the Bible—and there's nothing in the Bible about infant baptism."

He said because infants have not reached the age of discrimination, he believed they are incapable of making the necessary spiritual decision.

Mr. Crandall said on May 5 he felt that his congregations should have had an opportunity to vote on the question.

Acceptance of his resignation passed on the conference floor without comment, and his credentials were granted him.

During his stay in Bethany, Mr. Crandall had charge of three congregations, Bethany, Yelverton, and Ebenezer. On Sunday, May 7, he preached a non-controversial farewell sermon to what he called "an average congregation."

Mr. Crandall's future is in doubt. It is said he may enter the Baptist church, although he refused comment on this.

Report 59 Cases German Measles

An outbreak of German measles among school children in the city has been responsible for a high percentage of absenteeism recently. During the past four weeks there have been 59 cases.

The outbreak has not reached the proportions of an epidemic, Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, said today, but the incidence has not yet shown signs of falling off.

There is no immunization against German measles and it is just as well for a child to have it at an early age, to lessen the chances of catching it later in life, Dr. Kelly said.

The outbreak is fairly general, not being confined specifically to any one section of the city.

PCVS Students Give $100 To Flood Relief

Early today the Canadian Army handed back the governing of the flooded areas of southern Manitoba to the civil authorities.

A more careful survey cut the damage figure in Winnipeg, St. Boniface and five adjacent municipalities to $20,000,000. The Manitoba Flood Relief Fund is for half that amount—the very minimum needed.

As an official agent for the Manitoba Relief Fund the Examiner has acknowledged receipt of $3,256.95. Wednesday $126 was received from the residents of Peterborough and district.

Leading the list of donors was the Students' Council of PCVS with $100.

The Examiner will also forward any money or cheques made out to the Rimouski Fire Fund.

Scientist Has New Theory On Shakespeare's Identity

WINCHESTER, England, June 1 (Reuters)—Shakespeare scholars, waging wordy battle down the years concerning the bard's real identity, are soon to meet a new challenger—Dr. Arthur Titherley, a scientist who believes both Shakespeare and Sir Francis Bacon are impostors.

The 72-year-old doctor's candidate for immortality is William Stanley, Earl of Derby.

"I am convinced," he said, "that Shakespeare was in fact the sixth Earl."

Working in the study of his old manor at Itchen Abbas, near here, he has compiled nearly 200,000 words in evidence of his theory.

After 30 years' intensive study of Shakespeare and patient search for manuscripts and reports of Elizabethan life, Dr. Titherley, one-time dean of the science faculty of Liverpool University, has collected what he considers overwhelming evidence.

Handwriting Identical

Among it is a copy of a surviving Shakespeare manuscript in a hand which he claims is identical with that of a letter from Stanley to his father-in-law.

Contemporary documents also show that Stanley, born four years before Shakespeare, was a well-educated and widely-travelled man.

In 1591, as canopy-bearer to Queen Elizabeth, William Stanley visited the Earl of Hertford's estate to watch a fairy play held in the grounds. The plot, described in local records, is the same as that of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

William Shakespeare, according to the doctor, was one of the Earl of Leicester's players, and has been described in records as a "boasting unsurious fellow." He visited the Derby House in 1587 and almost certainly met Stanley.

"I believe," Titherley said, "that Shakespeare the actor was no more than an agent to Stanley, who used the name to hide his real identity."

Sure of Bacon

But Valentine Smith, honorary secretary of the Francis Bacon Society, is unperturbed.

From his Surrey home he sent a message saying "There will always be claims to authorship, but we remain confident that Bacon is the real playwright."

Though Bacon, claimed by some Baconians to be a son of Queen Elizabeth, has long been chief claimant, other rivals for the top place in literature have been a Duke of Rutland, and the 17th Earl of Oxford.

Lord Oxford, whose second title, Viscount Bolebac, has as heraldic cognisance a lion shaking a spear, has novelist Mary Bowen convinced of his authorship.

REJECT PREFAB HOMES

TORONTO, June 1 (CP)—The Dominion government has little faith in prefabricated homes, Maj.-Gen. Hugh Young, vice-president of Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation, said on Wednesday. He told a service club meeting that "the idea hasn't worked because of complications with contractors and with sub-contractors like plumbers and electricians.

Open Licencing Office For Accountants

TORONTO, June 1 (CP)—An office for licencing public accountants in Ontario has been set up in Toronto.

Licencing of accountants is new, the result of the public accountancy act passed at the last session of the Ontario Legislature.

A council of 15 members of the Public Accounts Council had been established under the Act to supervise registrations. Among members is J. O. Brown of Kitchener.

After an Aug. 1 licencing deadline, no person who is not licenced under the Act may practice as a public accountant or use any designations indicating he is an accountant.

Delegates See Aviation Building Opened

By JAMES J. STREBIG

MONTREAL, June 1 —(AP)— Representatives of 40 nations turned from routine work today for the formal opening of the International Aviation Building—Canada's $4,000,000 fulfilment of a promise made at Chicago six years ago.

The 10-storey building provides a home for the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), representing 58 governments, and the International Air Transport Association (IATA), with a membership of 66 international airlines.

Bidding for location of ICAO in Montreal when the world group was conceived in Canada in 1944, Canada promised to provide suitable quarters. Today's formal opening was timed to coincide with the fourth annual assembly of ICAO and the annual meeting of the Aviation Writers' Association, bringing dozens of reporters from the United States.

In addition to the two world organizations of commercial flying, the new building houses the headquarters of Trans-Canada Airlines and offices of several other airlines.

The building rises beside the Canadian National Railways terminal and is linked with it at the lobby level.

Study Effects

The break in the schedule of the ICAO assembly offered an opportunity for delegates to study the possible effects of differences of opinion developed during two general meetings.

Mexico gave strong support Wednesday to a French plea on Tuesday for a multi-lateral agreement to exchange commercial flying rights.

The United States and Great Britain also favor a world-wide treaty on air rights but agree that there is no immediate prospect of success. They suggested that the assembly table the issue in favor of more immediate problems.

Comfortable Night

PRETORIA, South Africa, June 1 (Reuters)—Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, ill with pneumonia, spent a comfortable night but his heart shows "some sign of embarrassment," his doctor said today. Smuts, former prime minister of South Africa and among the world's great statesmen, celebrated his 80th birthday May 24. Three days later he was taken ill at his farm near here.

L. Brockington Of Ottawa Heads Odeon

LONDON, June 1—(Reuters)—Leonard W. Brockington, K.C., of Ottawa, Wednesday was appointed president of Odeon Features (Canada) Limited, Eagle Lion Films of Canada Limited, and other Rank-group companies of Canada.

He succeeds J. Earl Lawson, K.C., who died in Toronto last week.

Brockington is one of the pioneers of the Rank film activities in the Dominion.

Born in Wales, Brockington was for short periods successfully a schoolmaster, a journalist and a civil servant.

Moving to Canada in 1912, he studied law and in due course became a member of the bars of Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario.

A former chairman of the CBC board of governors, he is famed for his own broadcasts and public speeches.

Drew Says Magazine Contains Propaganda

OTTAWA, June 1 — (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, called the attention of the Commons Wednesday to a magazine issued by Czechoslovakia in connection with the Canadian International Trade Fair at Toronto and said it contained Communist propaganda.

He told Trade Minister Howe it contained "extremely well-illustrated propaganda for what is taking place in Czechoslovakia today."

Mr. Howe said it was usual for exhibitors at the fair to put out advertising matter. He had not seen the magazine, but would have it examined.

"If there is anything seditious in it," he added, "we shall certainly stop distribution."

Slim To Make Visit

CANBERRA, June 1 (AP) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said today that Sir William Slim, chief of the imperial general staff, would visit Australia this month. Sir William will discuss joint United Kingdom-Australia-New Zealand defence plans.

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, June 1st—Her favourite present—yes, this is the perfect gift for a June bride! She'll be thrilled with the gift of a good-looking, "lifetime" RADIANT 3 MINUTE KETTLE! It's wonderful! It boils anywhere there's a wall-plug handy — anytime you feel like a hot cup of tea! This "kettle with legs" simply won't mark tables or desks — for the heating unit is well-insulated and the feet protect the surface of the furniture. It's safe as safe can be — for it shuts off automatically by thermostatic control — so it never boils dry — AND it shuts off at once if it's plugged in without water. It's economical for it saves power because it heats faster. In less than three minutes you can boil enough water for four cups of tea!

"A King's Story" by the Duke of Windsor is the story of an heir to the throne—the man who became King Edward VIII. It's a wonderful story of the training of a prince. Witty, human, yet never malicious, he tells of meeting Prime Ministers, Presidents, Kings and Queens . . . and Wallis Simpson. Finally, he tells for the record, of the conflict between tradition and his personal life, which ended in the terrible decision he was forced to make in 1936, when he abdicated the throne of England. I'm sure you will agree it is one of the greatest stories of our time. Illustrated with many photographs from the Duke of Windsor's private albums, "A KING'S STORY" is yours to read in this week's issue of THE STANDARD — Canada's favourite week-end newspaper — now on sale at all newsdealers from coast to coast.

When you know exactly how to make it — and when you make it with BLUE RIBBON COFFEE . . . it's wonderfully flavourful and refreshing! Reason I specify Blue Ribbon Coffee — I've discovered (trial-and-error method) that it makes the tastiest iced coffee ever! And no wonder! And it's always fresh and uniform — for there are three Blue Ribbon roasting plants across Canada, one of which is close to you!

ICED COFFEE

Pour hot, double-strength, freshly made coffee into a tall glass filled with ice. The double-strength coffee makes up for dilution caused by ice. To make double-strength coffee, place the regular amount of coffee normally used for brewing hot coffee into the coffee maker; use only half the amount of water. Serve iced coffee black or with sugar and cream, as desired.

(Standard 3 egg-yolk cake)

2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2 tspns. Calumet Baking Powder
1/4 tspn. salt
1/2 cup butter or other shortening

3 egg yolks, beaten until very thick and lemon-coloured
3/4 cup milk
1 tspn. vanilla, or 1/2 tspn. orange extract

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add flavouring and beat thoroughly. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Frost with a lemon marshmallow frosting.

Anglican Slogan Termed By Archdeacon W. P. Robertson "Damnable Lie"

TORONTO, June 1—"A damnable lie from the lips of King David," was the term applied to one of the Anglican slogans used in an appeal for funds by Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, of Peterborough. Speaking yesterday to the 98th session of the Toronto diocese synod, Archdeacon Robertson said that "churchmen who knew their Bibles would be indignant and appalled at the use of these words."

The slogan in question was "The King's business requires haste." Archdeacon Robertson referred the assembly to the 17th Chapter, 1st Samuel for the context of the words. David, he said, had used them in a falsehood to obtain weapons, whereby priests were put to death for arming him.

Archdeacon Robertson's protest drew a roar of laughter from the synod. "It's no laughing matter," he snapped. A voice from the audience asked: "I wonder if King David had a copyright on the words?"

The protest was an interruption to a report on plans to canvass every member of the Anglican Church during the coming year. Canon F. H. Wilkinson, St. Paul's, Bloor St., in presenting the report, urged that the diocese take the leadership in making the canvass. Canon L. A. Dixon supported the plea, and suggested the synod should pledge itself to the campaign before returning to its parishes.

Dean C. E. Riley, however, felt that more funds were needed for church extension within the diocese and the canvass was primarily intended for national funds. "The rest of the Dominion cannot wait," was the reply of F. G. Venables, Toronto, veteran lay member of the synod. "Some of the western parishes are in desperate need of funds."

The synod endorsed an intensified campaign to visit every Anglican during the coming fall, and to appeal for funds for national use.

Commendation was given the only woman who appeared before synod at the session, Mrs. Marion P. Osler, who presented the report of the Women's Auxiliary. Total membership, she said, was 14,500. Receipts for the year were $62,297, of which $6,264 was turned over to the Toronto diocese.

The synod's investment committee reported that $6,269,481 was invested in government, municipal and corporation bonds, stocks and mortgages. E. G. Strathy explained. "The continued low rate of interest obtainable is reflected in the statement, whereby it is shown that the excess of expediture over income amounted to $9,980."

Decide Can't Make Profit On Parliamentary Meals

By ALLAN HARVEY

LONDON, June 1.—(CP).—Britain's Parliament has finally given up on a problem that is at least 100 years old. With an air of exasperated calm, its representatives admit that making a profit on parliamentary refreshments is something that just can't be done. The result is a recommendation, published as a White Paper, that the British treasury should make up the losses. It should either bear the interest on a parliamentary overdraft for refreshments, or provide working capital without interest.

The proposals appear in a special report of a select committee, appointed to inquire into catering arrangements for Members of Parliament.

Permanent Staff

"The main cause of the present financial difficulties," says the report, "lies in what the committee considers to be the proper decison to pay wages to a permanent staff throughout the whole year, whether the House is sitting or not."

The committee would like to see the treasury relate its catering subsidy to the number of days in which parliament does not sit.

In 1949, there were only 137 days of trading for the kitchen department of the House of Commons. Thus, 54 per cent of the department's income was paid out in staff wages and costs.

The committee contends that refreshment service is indispensable, should be provided at reasonable rates and in surroundings compatible with the dignity of parliament.

Chipped Cups

The report also complains that the cafeteria is unsatisfactory and minor economies, such as keeping chipped or cracked china, had "trifling" financial results and alienated members.

Money was the main theme. The refreshment department now has an overdraft of £32,000 ($99,200). The problem was at least 100 years old, and nobody had been able to solve it. As long as members and visitors expected standards as high as those in outside establishment, it seemed the only thing that could be done was accept the loss.

Mother Fires Bullet At Sleeping Child

NEW YORK, June 1 — (AP) — A 30-year-old mother pumped a .32-calibre bullet into the head of her sleeping four-year-old daughter early today to spare being "pushed around the way I was." She did not elaborate.

The little girl, Toy Tom, daughter of an Irish-German mother and Chinese father, is in critical condition at Bellevue hospital. The bullet apparently is still lodged in the girl's head, police said.

The mother, Mrs. Emma Curtis Tom, was booked on charges of felonious assault.

The child's father, Jimmie Tom, is employed as a waiter at a Chinese restaurant. The couple have been estranged recently.

Has Second Operation

LONDON, June 1 (AP) — Foreign Secretary Bevin will be operated on Saturday for the second time in less than seven weeks. The 69-year-old statesman will submit to surgery again for piles, the foreign office said. He has long suffered from asthma and a heart ailment as well.

Shell Kills Children

LUENEBURG, Germany, June 1 (AP)—Seven West-German children were killed Wednesday by an explosion of a wartime shell they picked up to sell to a scrap dealer. Six were boys from three to 13 years old. The seventh child was a 12-year-old girl.

Sales Improved At Trade Fair Over Last Year

TORONTO, June 1 — (CP) — Good sales have marked the first days of the Canadian International Trade Fair, which opened Monday, and in general buyers seem to be getting down to business earlier than in the fairs of the last two years.

Last year talk of devaluation of currencies was in the air and many buyers held off; now, the devaluations have taken place, currencies promise to remain steady for a while, and buyers can make up their minds.

Scottish exhibitors report orders for linen, glassware, childrens' clothing, hand-woven tweeds and tartans. An English toy manufacturer also reports orders and, encouraged by his success last year, has established a branch plant in Canada.

Guatemala coffee exhibitors say they will be back next year with more Central American products. A Canadian exhibitor in the Manitoba group has sold women's suits to an American buyer and a Canadian sock manufacturer reports good domestic contracts.

Views, of course, are tempered by individual experience.

South Africans say things are much better than last year. India hasn't received as many jewelry orders as expected, but admits that it is early yet. French Morocco sardine and handicraft are attracting attention but suffer from inadequate shipping facilities to Canada. Australian furs are selling well but its fruit cannery exhibit is doing poorly.

Senor Joaquin Bachs, of Spain, is gloomy because liquor laws won't allow him to give away 500 gallons of wine and brandy which he had hoped to serve free to fair visitors.

Prince Alexis Obolensky, of Russian nobility, has served 5,000 cups or more of Costa Rican coffee on behalf of the firm of which he is vice-president. He states that people who sample this coffee probably are drinking "straight" coffee for the first time. "Most coffees are blended."

United States buyers are especially prominent, representing about 30 per cent of visitors to date.

Citation Of Merit

LONG BEACH, Calif., June 1 (CP)—Arthur MacNamara, Canada's deputy minister of labor has been presented with a citation of merit by the International Association of Public Employment Services at the association's 37th annual conference here, it was announced Wednesday. The citation recognized Mr. MacNamara's "remarkable achievements in the public service of his country."

Met Manager for 15 Years, Edward Johnson Retires

By PAT USSHER,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, June 1—(CP)—Edward Johnson's first intention on retirement as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association is "to get my brain purged" of all the complicated problems with which he has grappled during the last 15 years in that capacity.

Tomorrow is the day the Canadian-born tenor formally turns over the direction of the "Met" to his successor, Rudolf Bing.

To start with, said Johnson, he plans to spend the summer in Italy. He is sailing June 16, accompanied by Mrs. George Drew and two grandchildren, son and daughter of the Drews. Mrs. Drew is the wife of George Drew, National Leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

He expects to be back in New York in the autumn.

'I'll be an enthusiastic watcher on the sidelines to see how the new management goes," he said, referring to the Vienna-born Bing who is 48 and who formerly was head of the Glyndebourne Opera Company in Britain.

STEPS DOWN — Edward Johnson, Guelph-born tenor who has been general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association for the past 15 years, is retiring this week. His duties officially ended May 31.

Joined Met in 1922

"I am sure it will go well, as everyone hopes," the retiring general manager added in an interview on the eve of his retirement. His connection with the "Met" dates back 28 years. It was in 1922 that he joined the organization as a leading tenor.

Johnson still has close ties with Canada and particularly with his birthplace, Guelph, Ont. The artist and impresario still maintains his father's house in Guelph.

He said he doesn't know yet where he will settle down. He lives at present in Manhattan.

Johnson is silver-haired, ruddy-complexioned and stands straighter than many a younger man.

Vigorous, Alert

Why is he retiring now, while still vigorous and alert?

I'd much rather leave here now, with my full faculties, than hang on until I become dilapidated and old, or had to be taken out in a wheel chair—or a square box," he said with a warm smile.

"Moving out now leaves me with a sense of accomplishment."

Asked what qualities it takes to be general manager of an organization of the size and reputation of the "Met," the impresario said:

"I had one big advantage—that of coming up through the ranks. My approach has been that of a colleague rather than a boss.

"There has to be great enthusiasm for the work. I've always enjoyed the job. When I took over, the organization was flat on its back, without artists and without money. Now there are 14 United States cities on our touring list.

"We have Americanized to the extent that 66 per cent of our artists are American and that our audience has expanded from 2,000 to 3,000 to several millions of listeners over the air. In other words, we have developed into a national organization."

He will retain a close interest in the "Met" through his position on the board of directors.

One of his major interests, Johnson said, is that of helping young artists of talent go about making musical careers for themselves.

Plenty of Talent

"We have an enormous amount of such talent in the United States and Canada, but how to select, train and teach such people is only the beginning of their problem."

In Canada particularly, he is anxious to see "standardized examinations," in music—that is tests which would be accepted by all provinces and universities. An example would be a student passing a musical examination in Ontario and thus acceptable for a musical post in any of the other provinces.

For would-be professional singers, he had this to say:

"Get into a church choir, with a good choirmaster who has a thorough classical background. That's the best way to acquire the classical background every good singer needs.

"The voice is a gift, but it needs the application of technique to develop and make the best use of it. Many young people want to sing before they are ready."

Here he was speaking with a personal knowledge. The impresario started his singing career as a boy in the choir stalls of Guelph churches.

His last big task as general manager was handling an eight-week tour this spring by the Metropolitan Opera Association which covered 14 cities in the United States.

It went well, he said, despite some inevitable hitches.

For instance, in one town the company arrived without a tenor; in another the scenery was delayed in arrival because a baggage car was late and consequently the curtain rose one hour behind schedule; while in a third place the company was temporarily stranded by a short-lived railway strike.

It was a case of "no tenor, no scenery and no train," Johnson chuckled.

LARGE AND LOVELY is this petticoat straw picture hat. In fire-engine red, it has streamers of velvet falling down the back.

Not Anxious Raise Production

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

When you talk of Britain's ability to support herself, you must inevitably talk about the British workmen and whether he wants to produce more than he has to.

In Britain you will get a lot of differing stories on this. Interestingly enough, the most staunch upholders of the British workmen that I ran into on a recent visit were British industrialists.

Said one, between complaints about the income tax and lack of incentive:

"The British workman is the most productive workman in the world."

Said another: "I have goods to sell to Canada only because my workers realize the need and produce them beyond our other demands."

Those are the texts which I think are essentially true. But if you want the other side of the story, it is this:

Many British workmen are not yet convinced that there is any purpose in producing beyond a certain minimum. They remember the depression, fear unemployment, and make the immediate job last as long as possible.

Place For Products

They do not yet know that in the condition of the world as it is likely to be, there is a place for everything they can produce, and that increased production is their only hope of a higher standard of living.

There are dock workers who insist upon moving by hand goods that should be moved by trucks; who limit the amount which may be carried in a swing to a point far below its reasonable capacity.

When you have heard the most doleful things about the British workman, you come across something like the following:

Teams from British industries are visiting North America. One such last year was from the foundry industry. Under it, not only did they look at North American industry, but they lived with the men engaged in it— executives with executives, foremen with foremen, workers with workers, trade unionists with trade unionists.

The team went back with a unanimous report and the result has been a marked improvement in the productivity of British steel-founding and in the attitude of both employers and workers.

They did not find much that they did not already know, but they did find a reason for applying it. Perhaps the most effective reasons, so far as the worker was concerned, were electric refrigerators, electric washing machines, and all sorts of modern gadgets in the home of his American counterpart; a car instead of a bicycle; a parking lot at that plant instead of a bicycle rack.

Must Have Reason

The only thing needed to sell the British workman on more productivity is to give him a reason for it.

And when he sees the reason, he will probably have a trick or two up his own sleeve, for he is, after all, the descendant of the makers of the industrial revolution. In North America we sometimes almost worship machinery for the sake of machinery, but a British industrialist put it this way:

"I don't believe in giving up craftsmanship; rather we should make machines the servants of craftsmanship."

Feminine Leader of East Founds Organizations

OTTAWA, June 1 (CP)—The long-lashed, brown-eyed wife of Pakistan's Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan couldn't understand why more questions weren't popped at her during a press conference. Later she told women reporters she had expected to be asked about Pakistani women.

Instead only one person had ventured a query—how she liked shopping in the United States. The other questions had been directed at her husband.

The Begum adjusted the petunia-colored "dupatta" she wore over her hair and got down to answering several belated questions from women reporters.

Few Nurses

She said the shortage of nurses was one of the grave problems in Pakistan. The British Government had left the three-year-old country a legacy of 10 per cent literacy and with no hospitals, no schools as far as women were concerned.

There were few nurses. The profession formerly had been looked down on in Pakistan and one of the biggest tasks was getting girls to enter it, she said.

Begum Liaquat said that at present there were 500 under training and 27 had been sent to England for further study. She described this number "as a drop in the ocean." However, it was a beginning and that was the main thing.

Pakistani Fashions

From nursing the questions turned to Pakistani fashions and particularly to the elaborate muslim garment the Begum was wearing.

She described it as a three-piece dress—a gharara and kurta—divided skirt and tunic—with a shawl-like dupatta draped over the head and shoulders.

The Prime Minister's wife wore shoulder-touching earrings of amethysts and brilliants. Her ornate, gold-sequined shoes had thick platform soles and were made in Karachi.

"I had them copied on a western pattern and the heels are higher than those we usually wear because high heels make me appear taller," she said.

Active Campaigner

Acknowledged as one of the most active social workers in the new Dominion, the Begum still finds time amid her public duties to look after the education and upbringing of two sons, Ashraf, 12, and Akbar, nine.

In her campaign for emancipation of Pakistani women from purdah, or seclusion, the diminutive Begum has founded scores of organizations. She acts as president of many.

Her organizational work coupled with her other activities among Pakistani women, has led to her being called the Eleanor Roosevelt of the East.

Flower-bordered Tea Room Delight to St. Luke's Guests

Such quantities of flowers from the gardens around Ashburnham homes were brought to St. Luke's "floral tea" Wednesday that flowers completely bordered the tea room, and large bouquets enhanced every corner of the parish hall. Variety of the blooms, colors and fragrances enlivened this delightful, picturesque setting to exciting pitch. Lilacs, white and mauve, a colorful array of tulips, sweet smelling apple blossoms and lily-of-the-valley predominated.

Announcement that the flowers would be made into bouquets for sale brought customers flocking, and later they had an opportunity to buy wedges of the cake that was on the tea table—with a dainty bunch of lily-of-the-valley as its centre.

The newly-decorated Guild Room in which a tastefully-selected carpet had just been laid was being shown off on this occasion. A lowered ceiling and walls in deep cream color brought out the beauty of stained glass windows.

Baskets and bouquets of flowers decked this room too, and they also were for sale. Mr. D. H. Wyatt was in charge of a rich variety of home-made candy, put up in samll bags, and Mrs. W. Wilshire and Miss Donna Grills were assisting. A table of home baking, which rapidly bared, was attended by Mrs. J. Miller and Mrs. H. Lang.

Mrs. R. G. Maniece and Mrs. W. J. Gilling welcomed more than 150 guests during the afternoon and Mrs. W. Mesley was receiving their admission fees.

White and pale green tapers in triple-armed silver candelabra matched the white leaf motif on pale green rayon damask tablecloth. Tea pourers taking turns during the afternoon were Mrs. Mark Burnham, Mrs. J. J. Turner Mrs. H. Geale, Mrs. R. Krant and Mrs. J. Gemmell.

Mrs. Jack Lee and Mrs. Donald Grills were the gracious tea room hostesses and the quartette tables were served by Mrs. H. Tunnicliffe, Mrs. A. Dalton, Mrs. Ross Greenly, Mrs. Hugh Morrison, Mrs. Art Long, Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs. Fraser Watson, Mrs. Ed. McDonald and Mrs. A. McIlvena.

After four o'clock the servers were relieved by members of the Girls' Auxiliary, Diane Pearse, Eleanor Watson, Marilyn Bent, Arlene Ferguson, Eleanor and Lois Biddle, Velma Weavers, Beverly Pollock and Betty Merrett.

Mrs. H. Choate had charge of replenishing the tea pots and plates were refilled by Mrs. E. Ferguson, Mrs. F. Biddle, Mrs. E. Croft, Mrs. L. Lipsett, Mrs. H. Croft, Mrs. D. Walker, Mrs. F. Dainton, Mrs. S. Mason and Miss Pearl Mitchell.

Mrs. Wm. King, general convener, had the tea well organized and it was a success socially as well as financially. Mrs. Gilling directed arrangement of the flowers and the tea table.

IODE Declaration Condemns FormsDictatorship

MONTREAL, June 1 —(CP)— The golden jubilee conveniton of the National Chapter of Canada of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire concluded Wednesday night with election of officers and a declaration of ideals and principles.

The Order's purpose is to promote unity between the Empire and its colonies, loyalty to the King and Queen, care for the widows, orphans and dependents of British soldiers and sailors who died at war or are incapable of caring for their kin, and to promote study of the Empire's history.

Until the Federal Government decrees otherwise, the Order said, it will recognize the Union Jack as the official Canadian flag and the standard of the Order.

The declaration said the Order, a non-political organization, believed in democracy, condemned Communism and other forms of dictatorship which destroy freedom by regimentation and believed in the Empire and Canada's full and loyal participation as a nation of the Commonwealth.

The Order has criticized the Federal Government for deleting the word "Dominion" from the country's name.

It also protested a proposed amendment of the policy in selecting a representative of the King for Canada. The present system of choosing a governor-general provided a link with the Comonwealth and the Empire. The custom which existed since Confederation should be continued, the Order said.

Mrs. John H. Chipman of Toronto was chosen president. Vice-presents are Mrs. K. I. G. Drope, Mrs. L. B. Smart, Mrs. S. E. Wedd, Mrs. A. K. Richardson, Mrs. Fred W. Bates and Mrs. B. B. Osler, all of Toronto, and Mrs. W. R. Walton Jr., of Oakville, Ont., as well as all provincial presidents.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

"I have only just begun to play Canasta," writes a Milwaukee correspondent, "and perhaps for that reason I have difficulty in understanding the reason for freezing the pack.

"When you discard a deuce or a joker, you are parting with a very valuable card. It strikes me that you never get back anything of comparable value.

"If you eventually get the frozen pack, it is true you get your wild card back, but you have not had the use of it in the meantime. This is like putting money in the bank and getting it back after a while without interest.

"If the opponents get the frozen pack, they get your wild card with it too. This is like putting your money in a bank that fails.

"I suppose, since there is so much talk about freezing the pack that there must be some advantage in doing it. Would you be good enough to explain what this advantage is?"

The reason you sometimes discard a deuce or a joker is that you want to prevent the opponents from getting the discard pile. Since the whole game is essentially a struggle for the discard pile, it is highly advantageous to shut the opponents out.

This does not mean, however, that it is a good idea to freeze the pack at any old time. It is foolish to discard one of your wild cards if the opponents have an excellent chance to win the frozen pack. To use my correspondent's comparisons, it's a good idea to invest your wild cards in a reliable bank because you will get back lots of interest; but you must make sure that your bank is reliable.

To carry this comparison a little farther, you don't invest every single cent that you own in the bank. You keep a little in your pocket for operating expenses. Similarly, you don't invest your only wild card to freeze the pack if you need that wild card for other purposes. For example, you might need it to make your first canasta or to meld out.

Freezing the pack is a tremendously important subject and I shall have more to say about it next week.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—When the discard pile is frozen with a wild card, a player with two natural cards in his hand like the top card of the discard pile is going to pick up the pile. Does he pick up the whole pile or only down to where the wild card is? In other words, is the pile below the wild card ever picked up?

A—Whenever you take the discard pile, you take the entire pile. Many players put a wild card underneath the stray rather than in the discard pile. In such a case, of course, there is no question of taking the pile only down to the wild card. However, even when you put the freezing card in the pile itself, you take the entire pile rather than just a part of it.

What's Right

During a card game you keep holding poor hands.

WRONG: Complain about your run of bad luck.

RIGHT: Play the hands you get without comment. Poor cards are just a part of the game, and no one is interested in your complaints about your luck.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Son Dominated by Mother Sure to Make Poor Husband

DEAR MISS DIX: I am soon to be married to a man with whom I am deeply in love. He is everything that a woman could ask—clever, ambitious, dependable, loyal and fine. But he is a silver-cord boy whose mother has dominated him all of his life and she is still the centre of his life. He jumps at her beck and call. Waits on her hand and foot. Anticipates her every desire. He is 29, but he is still a little boy where she is concerned.

Now, what is my mental attitude going to be toward this man after we marry? How am I going to like his mother being put before me, as she will be? Should we get this horrid thing out in the open and talk about it or should I be subtle or what? I am deathly afraid this is going to spoil what should be an ideal marriage. TROUBLED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The old proverb says that a good son makes a good husband, but that is only true when the son isn't too good a son. Otherwise he is the worst husband in the world.

Is Incurable

The greatest drawback to marriage that a man can possibly possess is to a mother complex. For when he has that he is joined to his idol and no mere wife can ever separate him from her. And the man with the mother complex is incurable, because he accounts his weakness for righteousness. He has mother-worship bred in his bones because from his very babyhood his mother has impressed upon him his duty to her. So he feels that he is doing nothing more than his duty in not only sacrificing himself to mother but also offering up his wife and children on her alter.

So there you are and you had as well face the facts honestly and courageously before marriage. You will never be able to wean your husband away from his mother, because if a man has not cut his mother's apron strings before he is 29 years old he will never cut them. There is no way in which a wife can combat the mother complex in her husband because he attributes everything, she says to jealousy. There is just one of two things that the girl can do who is confronted with the problem of marrying a man with the mother complex. She can give him up or else she can make up her mind to be content with a second mortgage on his heart rather than have no place in it at all.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have two beautiful and charming daughters, 22 and 20 years of age. It has been the rule in our household that I a.m. is long-enough for young men to stay when they come three and four times a week. Parties or dances, of course, make the hour different. Lately two young men have been coming to see the girls who insist on staying until 2 or 2:30, and when my daughters told them of my 1 o'clock rule thy were so offended that they have not been back since, and I am being blamed for the unpleasant situation. What do you think is the proper time for a young man to leave when calling upon a girl? ANXIOUS MOTHER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I should think that 12 o'clock would be the limit of human endurance for both the caller and callee, and that even before that time they must have been yawning in each other's faces. Certainly any young man who thinks that he can keep a girl entertained until 2:30 in the morning must have a superiority complex developed to the nth degree.

If your daughters have nothing else to do but sleep until noon, they can perhaps endure the marathon calls of these never go-home-Willies, but if they are business girls who have to punch the time clock at 9, they will soon lose their good looks and their youth if they are deprived of their proper amount of sleep.

Don't be afraid to make decent and reasonable rules about the hours your daughters keep. The kind of men that you want your daughters to marry will respect you for it. Nothing enhances a girl's value in a man's eyes more than to have a mother who looks after her.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Do you think if a man were untrue to his first wife he would be untrue to a second wife?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANXIOUS

ANSWER: Not necessarily. Of course, there are philanderers who are unstable by nature and who are never satisfied with any one woman. But very often a man is unfaithful to his wife because they are not congenial, because she nags, or simply because she does not know how to handle him. But let such a man marry a woman who possesses the qualities he craves in a wife his first did not have, and he will be as faithful to her as a dog.

Rumor Of Race

was thrown clear out of the right door against a bank along the road. Just before the impact, he had his hand on the door handle.

He said he had two pints of beer at the South Beach Hotel but Hopkins had only one. He said Hopkins' brother Ray did not drink and had not been in the hotel, but had been sitting in his car waiting outside for his friend, Roger Coones.

"I'm informed the two cars were racing one another," commented Crown Attorney Bradshaw.

"Anyone who says that's a liar," Sterling replied tersely.

Coones, who had been riding with Ray Hopkins, said Milton was driving about 50 mph when he went into the series of turns opposite the Grove School. As the car in which he was a passenger rounded the final turn, he saw the other car ahead starting to slew from side to side on the road. He said the northbound car was just about stopped when the crash came.

Needed To Think Fast

"I believe I could have avoided the accident by taking to the ditch. But you would have to think pretty fast. The other driver stopped as quickly as he could," Coones said.

"The rough road caused it," brother Ray Hopkins said. "All I saw was the car doing spins."

He said Coones sitting beside beside him exclaimed at the time "He'll be doing a good job if he brings it out of that."

Lakefield's Chief Constable Garnet Samis, said the surface of the road was hard packed snow and "quite slippery, even to walk on." He said there was a hole and a bump in the road about 50 to 75 feet north of the point of collision.

He said about four a.m. the same night he drove over the same path as Hopkins several times at various speeds. He found that at about 45 to 50 miles an hour his car was nearly thrown out of control by the hole in the road, even though he was looking for it and expecting it.

Provincial Constable James Healey testified both cars had been badly smashed.

Members of the jury were Sidney Black, 406 Water St., foreman; Anthony White, 6 Bruce St.; Arthur McClellan, 599 King St.; J. K. Sheehy, 366 Simcoe St.; and John Russelle, 1035 Water St.

Four Swimmers Seek Canadian Titles

Four representatives of the Peterborough Ornametal Swimming Club will enter the Canadian amateur synchronized swimming championships in Montreal this weekend. The swimmers, Shirley Moldaver, Jean Millard, Iris Reilly and Norma Gant, will be accompanied by coach Mrs. Pansy Forbes.

The girs will swim in the Dr. Francis Gale Trophy competition in skills and solos Friday night and Saturday afternoon in the Harold Daly Trophy events in strokes. Saturday night they will compete for the Forbes-Munro trophy for duets. This trophy was presented to the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association last year as a perpetual trophy by the local club in honor of Mrs. Pansy Forbes, the coach, and Cookson Munro, the manager.

Tenants Delay Demolition On City Hall Site

Without recourse to the court and also without benefit of muscle men in the authority of the Sheriff, city council is clearing out the last of the untoppled houses on the city hall site next week.

Tenants who had known for months, and even longer that the city was going to move into that block, were lingering in their departure, and it appeared that ousting action would have to be taken before His Honour Judge S. L. Smoke.

A group of five or six was holding up the demolition of the last of the buildings on Murray and George Sts. Council had undertaken that the contractor, Eastwood Construction Co., could occupy the property by June 1.

It has appeared for a while that the whole schedule was becoming dislocated, and that possibly new tenders would have to be called.

Delay had obstructed the wrecker, and threatened the beginning of work on the new city hall.

The council engaged Mr. A. J. Gibbs, realtor, to interview the occupants in the hope of speeding up their departure. He reported some were amenable and were about to be on their way, several indifferent, and two or three hostile. Two of the tenants said they had leases until August, and they didn't have to go.

The city could pay $1,500 into court, and ask that authority be given Col. John Harstone, Sheriff, to eject the tenant families. However, that was the last measure and the council wished to avoid unpleasantness in getting possession.

Open Discussions

City Solicitor Huycke said: "Other tenants and owners knew this was coming and got busy and found other houses."

On the suggestion that an immediate effort be made to have the remaining occupants meet the Board of Works this week, telephone calls brought three of them to the city hall. Discussions continued from 10 p.m. until after midnight. They were carried on in adjoining rooms by Ald. Hugh Waddell, Mr. Huycke and Mayor Swanston.

The tenants with leases terminating in August agreed to accept $300 each, and move out fast. One of them used the money as part of down payment on a house. The other has a cottage. Arrangement was made for another tenant to rent a place, and so on. Total cost to the city for emergency accommodations is substanially less than $1,000.

Murney Howe, of Picton, resumes razing operations Monday, and it is expected that Eastwood Construction will be in a position to begin excavations before the end of next week. The contractor is already on the ground setting up temporary office south of the library, and in the city hall expression the difficulties have been "ironed out satisfactorily."

Want Arctic Weapons To Be Standardized

OTTAWA, June 1 —(CP)— Standardization and development of Arctic military equipment was believed under discussion here Wednesday at a meeting of American, British and Canadian experts on vehicle, clothing and other requirements in northern fighting. They included Sir Hubert Wilkins, famed explorer now working for the US forces.

The fact that the conference came shortly after it was announced the US will buy between $15,000,000 and $25,000,000 worth of Canadian war equipment in the year starting July 1 indicated that buying and selling might be one subject under discussion.

It is expected that most of the equipment Canada sells the US will be Arctic materials including snowmobiles, clothing, toboggans and other lines.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted for his explorations both in the Arctic and Antarctic, has been advising the US forces on northern development for some time.

United States Has Developed Atomic Artillery Shells, Warheads For Missiles

New Weapons Give Atlantic Pact Heads Fresh Security Conference; Still Believe Armed Forces Essential

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP).—The United States has developed atomic artillery shells and atomic warheads for guided missiles, it was learned today. News of these revolutionary weapons comes in the wake of Defence Secretary Louis Johnson's report to President Truman March 31 that this country is developing a variety of new atomic missiles which may have tactical as well as strategic significance. That means they can be used against troops in the field as well as against industrial targets.

Reports of the new weapons ares giving Atlantic Pact planners new confidence that western Europe can be made secure against possible aggression without bankrupting the United States and its Allies.

Atlantic Pact planners do not regard tactical atomic weapons as a substitute for stronger conventional ground and air forces in western Europe, or for stronger air and naval forces in the United States.

Make Them Vulnerable

They believe that strengthened ground and tactical air forces in Europe are essential to force the Russian army, in case it attacks, to concentrate in mass formation and thus be vulnerable to atomic weapons.

Atlantic Pact military planners have feaared that the absence of real military strength in western Europe may invite Societ attack a few years from now—unless the void is filled in the meantime.

What the new weapons are like has not been announced. One is reported to be an A-bomb capable of being carried by a jet fighter-bomber. Another may be a weapon about which Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the US Army's Chief of Staff, told a National Guard audience recently.

Collins said the army has a weapon which, mounted on a light or medium tank, is capable of knocking out any known tracked vehicle. That would include Russia's thousands of tanks which are among the best in the world.

The Army Chief of Staff also reported a new US light tank was just getting into production, but he said production of a planned heavy tank would not be started until the army became convinced that the mobile light tank and its new weapon could not do the job.

Assassination Plot Fake MacArthur Says

TOKYO, June 2—(AP)—Maj.-Gen. Charles A. Willoughbly said tonight occupation headquarters had received Japanese reports of another plot to assassinate Gen. MacArthur, supreme Allied commander in Japan, but he called them "an absolute fake."

MacArthur's Intelligence officer., said an excitable Japanese policeman had informed occupation headquarters that police had arrested a Japanese Thursday who "apparently was a paranoic" —a man who thinks the world is against him.

Headquarters "refuses to accept this story as evidence of a plot," Willoughby said. He added that no extra guards have been assigned to MacArthur.

Alleged Plot

Another American source said the alleged plot as told to occupation headquarters was this:

An unidentified Tokyo organization, reported to be left-wing, planned to kill MacArthur near downtown Hibaya Park, not far from headquarters.

The date originally was set for May 14 or 15 but was postponed until June 4 to coincide with the upper house of parliament elections.

The man arrested supposedly was involved in the plan but it was not clear whether he was to be the assassin. There was no information concerning the organization and no details as to how he killing was to be done.

MacArthur rides past a section of Hibiaya Park four times daily in commuting between his office and his American embassy home. He continued his regular schedule today.

Hold 6 Workers For Gas Thefts

HAMILTON, June 2 (CP). — Wholesale theft of gasoline from the Hamilton Street Railway by a number of employees was disclosed today when six men pleaded gutlty to theft charges. A seventh man requested a remand until June 9.

Police who investigated the complaint from officials of the company that gasoline was disappearing from the railways garage gave the Crown evidence.

Detective Clifford Dean said a marker was put in the gas used by the company for city buses. Thursday night the police visited the garage and tested the gas in all private cars on the premises. A quantity of "marked" gas was found in several employees' cars.

The detective told the court that six men made statements to the police and admitted putting company gas in their cars on several occasions.

Urges U.S. Congress Approve Arms Aid

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson today urged Congress to approve a new $1,222,500,000 foreign arms aid program to help free peoples protect themselves against "those who would enslave them."

Acheson said the United States must continue its military assistance to Western Europe in order to preserve the North Atlantic area from aggression.

4,000 London Cabbies Strike For Raise

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—Taxicabs were scarce in London today as 4,000 hack drivers went on strike to enforce demands for a bigger slice of the fares.

About 2,300 cabs operated by owner-drivers were not affected by the strike but virtually all union members refused to work.

Taxi fares went up one-third Thursday and the drivers said they had less business and smaller tips. London cabbies receive no salaries and in the past have retained one-third of the fares plus tips. They are striking to get a 40 per cent slice of the fares as compensation.

Morris Hard Hit

WINNIPEG, June 2.—(CP).—A Red Cross official from Morris, 41 miles south of here in the Red River Valley, said today that not one house in the flooded town escaped some damage. R. W. Moody said in a telephone interview that conditions are "terrible beyond description." More than 75 per cent of the town's 300 homes were badly damaged; at least 30 were destroyed by battering waves of debris such as railroad ties, telephone poles and floating outhouses.

Volcano Erupts 2 Missing, 15 Homes Razed

HONOLULU, June 2 (AP)—At least two persons are missing and 15 homes destroyed in the eruption of Mauna Loa volcano which poured a river of red-hot lava 20 miles to the ocean, Kona, Hawaii, police said today.

The massive volcano erupted Thursday night, driving 60 families from their homes on southwest Hawaii island.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Lincoln, in their 70s, are missing. The molten lava streams poured into several seacoast villages and destroyed "about 15 homes and one church."

A schoolhouse also was reported demolished but this was unconfirmed.

Police said the area damaged was on the northern side of the lava flow, which they said was one mile wide.

Communications with the southern part have been cut, and the damage there is not known.

60 Families Evacuate

Kona police reported by radiophone that "probably 60 families" were forced to evacuate seacoast homes.

It was impossible to assess damage immediately, police said. They added, however that another 40 homes in the area were believed safe for the present.

The hot lava presumably burned down telephone poles, cutting circuits.

The civil air patrol said the stream of molten rock poured into the ocean near Honaunau village on the southwest coast of Hawaii island. It said a second flow was only three miles from the sea.

A Pan-American pilot said Mauna Loa shot a smoke cloud 30,000 feet up.

"It looked like an atomic explosion mushroom," said Gilbert B. Blackmore. "We could hear pieces of what was probably ash hitting against the plane."

Blackmore said the main lava flow was two miles wide.

The air patrol quoted Sherwood Greenwell, rancher at Kealakekua 5,000 feet up Mauna Loa's slope, as saying the volcano erupted in three places. Lava and gas spewed out at the 7,000, 10,000 and 12,000 foot levels, Greenwell reported.

Frank Greely, 31, had a six-month term handed down at Belleville doubled.

Blow Vault Take Safe With 3 Bars

Arrange Road Blocks After Largest Theft In Porcupine Field

TIMMINS, June 2.—(CP).—Three gold bars, weighing nearly 2,000 ounces altogether and with a total value of approximately $75,000, were stolen Thursday night from the Delnite mines five miles south of here.

Inspector I. R. Robbie of the Ontario provincial police described the robbery as the largest theft of pure gold in the history of the Porcupine goldfield.

(In Toronto, top officials of the provincial police assigned Inspector H. H. Graham of the criminal investigation branch to the investigation. Inspector Graham left Toronto by Trans-Canada Air Lines plane at 11.10 a.m. and was expected to reach Timmins about 2.30 p.m. EDT).

Provincial police said the robbery was reported by J. J. Mangan, office manager at the mine.

Vault Entered

Mangan found at 7:30 a.m. that a walk-in vault at the mine had been entered and a small safe containing the three bars had been removed.

The thieves apparently forced open a ground-floor rear window. The small safe with the gold is believed to have been dragged out the front door, which could be opened from the inside. Police examined the gravel roadway and a lawn outside the building for tire marks.

Police arranged road blocks at strategic points on the single highway—No. 11—through the northeastern section of Northern Ontario. Blocks were established at Cochrane and Hearst to the north and northwes., and toward Swastika where the road leads to the south.

A general alarm was broadcast on the provincial police shortwave radio network.

It was not clear immediately how the robbers—police are convinced more than one man was involved—obtained entry to the mine office.

Commands High Price

The $75,000 valuation came from police. It was based on the official price of $38.50 an ounce for gold. Mining men said if the stolen gold were sold on the free market it would command a much higher price.

A single road through the bush leads from Timmins to the Delnite property in Deloro township.

Delnite's annual report, just issued, reports bullion output worth $1,410,083 in 1949. Its net profit was $395,256, 13.3 cents a share.

Held Several Weeks

Gold is usually held in the company safe for several weeks, pending shipment to the mint in Ottawa.

The mine property is several miles from the outskirts of Timmins. A skeleton crew is kept at the workings at all times and several company executives live on the mine property.

Delnite is a subsidiary of Sylvanite Mines at Kirkland Lake. Ken Gray is general manager of both mines.

Police launched a check of airplane movements in the district.

London Strike Threatens Food Cargoes

LONDON, June 2 (Reuters)—Strikes by Thames bargemen and railroad workers today threatened food cargoes in the Port of London and paralysis of movement of goods to the Continent.

More than 550 lightermen who man river barges were on strike because 91 bargemen had been fired after striking in sympathy with 14 men suspended for refusing to work overtime.

About 460 of the 4,000 lightermen in the port stopped work Thursday, tying up numbers of small craft and delaying unloading of cargoes from freighters anchored in mid-stream.

Fears were expressed that the lightermen's dispute might herald another widespread stoppage in the port, where a government-appointed mission has only just begun an investigation into the big dockers' strike of last summer and earlier this year.

South of the Thames at one of London's biggest rail depots, 250 cartage workers this morning decided to continue their two-day strike in protest against the promotion of a foreman to an inspector and to call on 1,750 other workers to support them.

Rescue 2 Servicemen As Tractor Founders

MORRIS, Man., June 2 (CP) — A sailor and a soldier were rescued Thursday when their amphibious "mudcat" tractor foundered in a squall and sank.

The two—Tpr. Ray Elliott and Seaman Red Styles—were crossing the Morris river to pick up livestock feed when a three-foot wave swamped their craft.

They were part of a navy clean-up force working in this flooded town, 41 miles south of Winnipeg, to keep the Red River from doing further damage.

Elliott and Styles were pulled aboard an amphibious duck. The "mudcat" was to be salvaged today.

Japanese Communists May Be Outlawed

TOKYO, June 2 (AP)—Japan's Communists, goaded to fighting temper by international revolutionists, may face a showdown in tomorrow's general strike.

Reliable Japanese sources said today Gen. MacArthur's headquarters is studying a government plan to outlaw the Japan Communist party.

The details already are known to the Communists through the usual leaks, the sources said.

Gas Truck Crashes House 9 Flee By Cellar Window

ADRIAN, Mich., June 2.—(AP). — Nine members of two families crawled to safety through a basement window Thursday night after a gasoline truck plowed into their cement house here and turned it into an inferno. The truck driver's body was pulled from the wreckage so badly charred it could not be identified. The driver had swerved to avoid a car coming out of a drive-in theatre and the truck raced out of control about 40 feet, police said.

Inside the house were Mr. and Mrs. William Black and their four young daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hough and their three-weeks-old son.

They had only a moment's warning of the crash. Nine-year-old Nancy Black, standing at the window, screamed:

"A truck's coming at us."

"About that time I heard a thud," Black said later. "I looked outside, and there was a mass of flames. Fire was running down the driveway. I knew we couldn't get out the front door."

The families fled to the basement and escaped by the window as flames were licking at the basement door. Fire destroyed the house.

Woman Detective Shoots Suspect

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—A petite slacks-clad woman detective shot and wounded a man Thursday night as she and a male sleuth raided an upper Manhattan apartment and arrested eight dope suspects.

Brunette Kathryn Barry, five-feet-two, is a member of the city's narcotic squad.

Clad in a gray topcoat, blouse and gray slacks, Miss Barry teamed up with Detective Max Renner to shoulder their way into the apartment and confront seven men.

Two other men walked in. One was carrying a gun. The man with the gun fled. The other man fumbled in an inner pocket.

"Keep your hands still or I'll kill you," Miss Barry said.

The man made another grab at his jacket and Miss Barry fired. In hospital with a leg wound is Douglas Lopez, 26.

Miss Barry, 10 years a policewoman, said it was the first time she had fired at a prisoner.

Bomb Planter Believed Found

PARIS, June 2—(Reuters)—Scotland Yard men in France have identified the man who placed a bomb which exploded in the Paris-London Viking plane April 13, according to the newspaper Aube today.

The man was believed, Aube said, to be an ex-convict, several times imprisoned for smuggling, and well known to the continental police as a member of a smuggling gang. He now was in France and was being closely watched.

This man placed the bomb in the Viking because the gang wanted to get rid of one of their number who was one of the 27 passengers, says Aube.

Frost To Aid Toronto War On Gambling

All-Out Crackdown Across Ontario Promised By Premier

TORONTO, June 2.—(CP)—An all-out war against gambling and other organized vice in Toronto will be waged by Ontario provincial police and Toronto police.

Premier Frost, in making this announcement Thursday, said the fight against the rackets would extend to the whole province if necessary and every municipality with its own police force will be offered provincial police aid.

Details and strategy for the campaign against Toronto rackets will be worked out in strict secrecy, the Premier said.

His announcement came after a conference with Mayor Hiram McCallum, Chief Constable John Chisholm of Toronto, members of the Toronto police commission, the anti-gambling squad of the Ontario provincial police, Attorney-General Porter and Provincial Secretary Welsh.

Call Conference

The conference was called after three days of disclosures regarding gambling in Toronto. They started Tuesday when Mayor McCallum said at least six gambling syndicates were operating in Toronto and that there were more than 2,000 places where bets could be placed.

Following the conference, Premier Frost made his brief announcement to the press.

"We have made arrangements for a very close integration of effort between the two police forces. It means that the majority of law enforcement agencies in the province—an enormous police force—will be brought against the gamblers."

Soldiers Now Have Appeal

OTTAWA, June 2 — (CP) — The government, in an historic move, is going to establish a new court in Canada that end the military's traditional right to sit in final judgment on soldiers' crimes.

It will be known as the court martial appeal board. Every service man found guilty by a military court martial now will have the right to appeal to this three-man civilian body and, in certain cases, beyond it to the Supreme Court of Canada.

It will sit in Ottawa and will be headed by a judge of the exchequer court or a provincial high or superior court. With him will sit two members who must have at least five years' legal experience. In wartime a number of such boards could be created.

Provision for this innovation is contained in the bill to consolidate and modernize defence legislation. The defence committee of the Commons approved the enabling clauses Thursday.

Crack Down On Underworld

US Starts Biggest Drive Since Prohibition

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—A Senate investigation of crime and gambling in the United States appeared to be snow-balling today into the biggest government crackdown on the underworld since prohibition days.

A special Senate committee moved toward a series of fast-breaking inquiries stretching all the way from New York and Florida to California.

In the latest move, Chairman Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) disclosed he will ask the federal communications commission to "freeze" all Western Union message files to prevent them from being discarded.

The F.C.C. has ordered such a freeze on telephone toll slips at the request of the Kefauver committee. Normally the telephone companies destroy toll slips after holding them for six month. Western Union keeps its message files for the same period.

Hope For Clues

The investigators hope, through these communications records, to establish that big-time gamblers and racketeers are using interstate communications to conduct their operations.

At a press conference Thursday, President Truman pledged the full co-operation of federal agencies to the Senate committee. He promised to give the Senators access to information which usually is highly confidential material.

Income tax returns and information are confidential under the law, but can be disclosed on Presidential orders. Committee members said an executive order is "in the works" to help them get the information they need.

Other Sources

Kefauver said he also expects to get information from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the treasury department's narcotics division, and the immigration bureau.

Specifically, the Senate group has set out to chart broadly the source of underworld wealth, where it is invested, and what connections there may be between criminal and political groups.

The group has been checking on the activities of a number of big-time gamblers.

Sees World Peace Added By Stabilizing Pakistan

KINGSTON, June 2—(CP)—World peace will be aided by international co-operation in helping Pakistan gain its economic feet, Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan said today.

He made his appeal before the national conference of Canadian universities. He came here from Ottawa, where he had spent the last two days during his tour of Canada and the United States.

Declaring that Pakistan held a strategic position for maintaining peace in Asia, the prime minister said it hoped to go ahead with economic rehabilitation, one of the means of removing discontent in Asia.

But, like most Asiatic countries, it could only a certain distance in this direction without international co-operation.

"Without co-operation few countries by themselves can today discharge their responsibility as effectively and as quickly as they may desire.

"So far as the prospects of an immediate world war are concerned, it will be nothing new or profound if I were to say that it is not the people in Asia who can pronounce upon it with authority.

"Our responsibility is to keep our own house in order, to go ahead with the enormous task of developing our resouces, of educating our people and of demonstrating to them in actual practice the benefits of democracy. Whoever helps us in promoting these aims will help us to help peace."

RumorCanadianDollar May Return To Par

OTTAWA, June 2 — (CP) — Rumors that the Canadian dollar may be returned to par with the United States dollar has led to a marked increase in the number of Canadian exporters taking out "coverage" on American orders on which payment is outstanding.

A spokesman for the Foreign Exchange Control Board confirmed that the board, through chartered banks, has covered millions of dollars worth of Canadian business with the United States against the eventuality that the Canadian dollar might be revalued.

"But, the official added, "there is absolutely no truth in the revaluation rumor as far as we are concerned.

"Forward contract protection has been available to Canadian exporters ever since foreign exchange control came into being."

Resources Dept. Estimates Get Going Over

OTTAWA, June 2 (CP)—The Commons got down to ducks, dams and a lot of dollars Thursday.

The House got a lot of work done in the process. Departmental estimates totalling $18,000,000 were passed. Discussion ranged from national parks to Labrador Eskimos.

When a halt was called for the night they were near the end of the Resources Department estimates totalling some $26,000,000. But controversial items such as the Trans-Canada Highway, emergency shelter housing and the National Film Board were still untouched.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, urged during the long day which began at 11 a.m., and ended at 11 p.m., that the government bring down legislation to provide more scope in dealing with national emergencies, such as the Manitoba floods which he termed the greatest disaster ever to hit Canada.

Most of the time Resources Minister Winters was engaged answering questions and assuring members he would do his best to preserve and develop parks in their areas.

Penny Mining Stocks Trading Briskly

TORONTO, June 2 — (CP).— Penny mining stocks traded briskly for moderate gains in an otherwise weaker market on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. A handful of low-priced golds accounted for a large share of the heavy volume.

Aquarius Mines, Porcupine Peninsular, Buffalo Canadian, Omega and Mosher Long Lac were among leaders in low-priced golds. Senior and junior producers slipped in continuation of Thursday's losses.

The three-day advance in industrials into new high price ground received a setback today. Profit-taking in market leaders depressed the list. Papers, leaders on the upturn, were lower, and liquors, constructions and a few steels eased. Utilities pointed higher.

Base metals eased with International Nickel, Smelters and Noranda down fractions.

St. Laurent Purchases Quebec Summer Home

OTTAWA, June 2— (CP).— Prime Minister St. Laurent will have a new home to move into soon—but not the official residence for Canada's prime ministers now being renovated in the capital.

The new home is a large summer residence at St. Patrick, Que., on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river below Quebec City, four miles from Riviere du Loup.

The Prime Minister's office said Thursday Mr. St. Laurent had bought the former home of Col. James W. Woods of Ottawa.

Mr. St. Laurent is the second Canadian Prime Minister to have a home at St. Patrick. His new home is only a few doors from that once occupied by the late Sir John A. Macdonald.

Blow Vault

There was a possibility the thieves had fled by air.

Use Nitro On Vault

Investigators said the vault was drilled and nitroglycerin was used to blow it. Then the safe, about two feet by three feet, was carried out.

No one lives close to the mine office and the explosion apparently went unnoticed. Police found a drill and other tools, not belonging to the mine, in the office. The tools will be examined for fingerprints.

The biggest previous gold robbery in Ontario was staged more than two years ago, when a gang of robbers broke into the Dome Mines office here and took gold valued at $40,000. Police recovered all the loot and two men were sent to penitentiary for five years for retaining stolen gold.

Shot At Daughter Guilty Man's Term Suspended

Found guilty of shooting at his step-daughter, Betty Brick, 16, and Harry Rowe, 41-year-old father of seven children, William Brick was placed on two year's suspended sentence by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court today.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw suggested suspended sentence reminding the court Brick had eight children to support and there were "probably certain extenuating circumstances."

Betty Brick and Rowe were fired at as Betty was getting into Rowe's truck in front of the Brick home at Haultain after an argument about Betty living at Rowe's home and going out with him.

Rowe said Betty had stayed at his house as a housekeeper helping his wife.

Both Rowe and Betty Brick said they knew Brick objected strongly to their going out together.

Defence counsel W. B. Gordon said the crown attorney "might well consider laying charges against Rowe and Betty Brick."

"It seems like a disgraceful situation," he commented.

Magistrate Philp said to Brick, "I would consider you were very, very fortunate. You might have been faced with a most serious charge, a charge in which provocation would not have assisted you a great deal."

2 Youths Die In Plane Crash

TILLSONBURG, June 2—(CP) —Two Tillsonburg youths were instantly killed late Thursday in the crash of a light airplane near the Tillsonburg airport, 30 miles east of London.

Victims were Bob Laur, 19, believed one of the youngest licensed air pilots in Canada, and Dalton Murr, 18.

The plane, a Tiger-Moth owned by Laur, crashed on a farm a mile north of the Tillsonburg airport.

Laur, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Laur, has been practising in preparation for dusting tobacco crops from the air and was flying low.

Clarence Trout, working at the airport, said he saw the plane "and I thought they were going to crash, they were flying so low." He said the motor seemed to be running smoothly but that the plane dropped suddenly.

28 Chinese Patients Moved From Hospital

MONTREAL, June 2 (CP) — Twenty-eight patients, many of them elderly Chinese, were evacuated Thursday from the Chinese hospital in midtown Montreal when fire swept through an adjoining building, driving more than 60 employees into the street.

The fire occurred about two blocks from the scene of another major Chinatown blaze which claimed eight lives two months ago.

The building where Thursday's fire broke out housed the Sturdy Steel Machine Products Corp., and brought all available city ambulances and fire fighters from 10 stations.

No patients or workers were injured but three firemen were overcome by smoke and another suffered facial cuts from flying glass.

The hospital patients separated by a thick wall from the blaze, were evacuated as a precautionary measure.

Acquit Boy In Slaying Of Father

Judge Says Youth Has Absolute Defence, Against Manslaughter

CORNWALL, June 2.—(CP). —On the basis of what the trial judge called "absolute defence," 15-year-old Maurice Leger Thursday was freed of a charge of manslaughter in the knife-slaying of his father, Morris Leger.

The boy, a partial cripple since birth, told the juvenile court hearing that he and his father had fought bitterly. Judge P. C. Bergeron said: "This court feels this case does not warrant procedure by indictment. With regard to manslaughter, the forced used by the accused was not meant to cause the death of his father, but rather to scare him off after he had threatened to kill the boy. This constitutes an absolute defence.

"He submitted as much as he could to abuse and blows of his father. This boy is not to blame and I can do nothing but release him and dismiss this case."

Mother Testifies

The boy's mother, Mrs. Mildred Leger, testified that her husband and son became involved in a fight April 15.

She said her husband had consumed five pints of beer and a bottle of wine before Maurice came in for supper. She managed to separate them but the fight was resumed after the father had brought the boy back from a neighbor's home. Mrs. Leger said her husband threatened to kill Maurice, and her evidence was corroborated by another son, 10-year-old Roger.

The accused youth said "I was just trying to hold him off. After he hit mother and came at me again I held out the knife, expecting just to scare him, but he came on and the knife went into his side. I didn't mean to stab him. He just seemed to stagger into the knife."

"When he staggered back I dropped the knife, I don't remember where. I thought he was still chasing me and I ran most of the way to the police station. I didn't realize what had happened."

Crown Attorney R. P. Milligan asked the youth: "Couldn't you have run instead of using the knife?"

"No, I was pinned in beside the table. He said he was going to kill me several times and I was afraid he would. I thought he was crazy."

Judge Reserves Judgment In $25,000 Claim

COBOURG, June 2. — (ENS). —Judgment was reserved Thursday by Mr. Justice Smily in the $25,000 damage action brought by Harry Glober of Port Hope against the H. E. P. C. Glober was cleaning a chimney on his tourist camp property on August 17, 1948, when a long pipe he was using contacted an overhead 44,000 volt hydro wire.

During the course of the trial it was established that the hydro line encroached by slightly more than a foot on his property and that the vertical clearance over the chimney was 12 feet six inches. Horizontal clearance between chimney and wire was two feet, 4½ inches.

Dr. D. N. White, Kingston neurologist, whose evidence for the plaintiff was delayed until Thursday morning, said that he had examined Mr. Glober and found him suffering from an anxiety complex but that there was no residual brain injury or evidence of any damage to the central nervous system.

In his argument at the conclusion of the case, Malcolm Robb, counsel for the plaintiff, challenged the statutory right of the HEPC to encroach on Mr. Glober's property.

Signs of Warning

"It may perhaps be rather an extreme analogy, but we find that a man painting a fence, where the penalty for getting into the paint means perhaps a dollar cleaning bill, posts signs warning the public of the wet paint. The consequences of getting into 40,000 volts are infinitely worse yet we find no signs of warning at the Glober property," Mr. Robb pointed out.

Commenting on the order-in-council of 1946, which the plaintiff claimed authorized the HEPC to encroach on Mr. Glober's land, Mr. Robb said that it was not the intention of the Power Commission Act that the HEPC should have the right to so act on its own authority but to show first the public need to encroach, expropriate or otherwise enter upon private property.

In the case of Mr. Glober's property, there was no evidence that any application or designation had been made. Therefore, since there was no evidence that the hydro had to encroach on Mr. Glober's land, plaintiff had no right as a statutory authority, Mr. Robb declared.

E. L. Haines, counsel for the defence, said the case was one as to whether the negligence lay in the plaintiff or the defendant. Mr. Glober, he contended, was well aware of the presence of the wires adjacent and over his property and if he didn't realize their danger he should have.

It was not a case where a child did something which naturally could be classed as negligent. Mr. Glober admitted that he never would think of holding up a 20 foot iron pipe on the street to touch the overhead hydro wires, yet he goes up on his roof with the same pipe and, with the top of the pipe weaving about, proceeds to clean his chimney.

Knew of Wires

The wires could be seen from anywhere on his property and they had been installed some time between the middle of April and the first week in May of the same year. Mr. Glober knew they were there because he had seen the hydro truck there and the men, and had even talked to them on two occasions, at least, in reference to the hydro line over his property.

"The question is, did Mr. Glober have knowledge of the presence of the wires and to what extent," interjected His Lordship.

"Agreed," replied Mr. Haines, "but the evidence is that he knew the wires were there."

"He says he forgot they were there. Was their presence impressed upon his mind?" asked His Lordship further.

Mr. Haines replied that the onus was on the plaintiff to establish that point without a doubt, but the evidence was that he was quite aware that they were there. The proper safety standards had been maintained.

At this point Mr. Justice Smily enquired if some additional precaution should have been provided at that location. Mr. Haines said that it was up to the plaintiff to realize his danger. The proper clearance had been observed but anyone could contrive to contact a hydro wire even with the correct clearance.

"A long instrument would be required to clean the chimney," said His Lordship.

"Yes, but should the defendant have to anticipate such a foolish act by the plaintiff in view of the danger of the wires. We were entitled to expect that Mr. Glober would have exercised reasonable care for his safety," said Mr. Haines.

HIS EXCELLENCY Jamel Abd Rehim Bey, head of the Egyptian delegation to the fourth session of the International Civil Aviation Organization's Assembly in Montreal, who recently was elected president.

Fourth Fire In Four Days Destroys Barn

LINDSAY, June 2.—Fire of undetermined cause, completely wiped out the barn and out-buildings on the farm of Arthur Smitheram, between Fenelon Falls and Glenarm, Tuesday night It is the district's fourth fire in as many days.

The blaze was discovered about 10.30 p.m. by Stewart Morrison, Glenarm, who was returning home from a lodge meeting with a load of passengers. The Smitheram family, who had retired, were aroused, but it was too late to save either the barn or any of its contents.

An aunt of Mr. Smitheram says the fire originated in the strawshed at one end of the L-shaped barn and swept through the entire structure so swiftly that neither livestock nor farm machinery could be saved.

A log henhouse on the property also burned. Included in the loss were five pigs, five calves, 14 chickens and all farm machinery with the exception of the tractor, which had been left near the house.

The barn was a modern structure, and had been wired for electricity only two years ago. Although the fire occurred on the night of the first rainfall in the district for some weeks, no lightning was reported, and a lightning-fire, although not impossible, seems unlikely, according to police.

The loss is said to be only partly covered by insurance.

This is the fourth fire since last Saturday night in the Fenelon Falls area, and the second barn fire. The first of these resulted in a loss estimated at $10,000 to Randolph Junkin last Saturday night. Sunday night, two boathouses owned by Mrs .Eva Knox, burned at Fenelon Falls. A car was reported to have been seen driving away from the scene of the fire.

All fires are being investigated by OPP Con. Lyle of Fenelon Falls.

Youth Loses Finger Operating Power Saw

CAMPBELLFORD, June 2. — (ENS).—Seventeen-year-old Anthony Desbarbieux, whose family lives on Portage Avenue, Campbellford, lost the index finger of his right hand while operating a power saw at a summer resort a few miles west of Peterborough on Tuesday. The thumb was also damaged and doctors fear they may have to amputate it later.

Desbarbieux was cutting a piece of wood to a V-shape when someone spoke to him. As he turned the saw struck a knot, throwing the piece of wood from the machine and drawing the lad's hand in.

Doctors plan to remove the cast on Tuesday and will know then if the thumb can be saved. The boy had started work at his new job only last Sunday.

The Frontier Becomes Oppressive

The editor of Look magazine announces that "The frontier between Canada and the United States is becoming today an oppressive cord that threatens to strangle the progress and security of both countries." This artificial division of the continent, he has discovered, is holding back the development of Canada's resources, and restricting the economic welfare of the U.S.A.; it is also, apparently, creating a dangerous lack of military unity in case this continent should be attacked. The solution, of course, is obvious: Canada ought to be taken into the U.S.A. It is interesting that about a fortnight ago a Chicago paper suggested the same thing, and for the same reason—that the U.S.A. could use Canada's vast resources.

• • •

We are used to suggestions from within this country that we should join the U.S.A. It is a novelty to have the suggestion made from the other side of the border. But we think that the time has passed when such a union would be practicable or desirable. We have not, hitherto, developed our resources as quickly as Americans might have done, but we are making great strides in that direction now, and by the time another century has passed we shall have done wonders. Whatever advantage there would be in union would all be on the side of the U.S.A. We may become a very wealthy country by selling to them. They will not like that, but we shall simply have to endure their disapproval as philosophically as we may.

• • •

The suggestion that our separation from the U.S.A. is a threat to the safety of the continent is nonsense. We have the fullest agreements on military and defence matters with the U.S. government, and we have shown in two wars that we can get ready to fight very quickly — quicker than some of our neighbours. It is an old trick for a country which wants to move in on a weaker neighbour to pretend that the neighbour's weakness constitutes a danger to both. We do not think that the more thoughtful people of the U.S. would approve of Look's brash scheme. If, of course, the U.S.A. chose to reverse an earlier decision and rejoin the British Commonwealth, we might see things differently.

Heavy Trucking On Our Highways

Undoubtedly many of our readers have seen an article condensed from the Buffalo Evening News which appears in the current issue of Reader's Digest, called "The Rape of The Roads." It tells a remarkable story of the damage done to highways in the U.S.A. by heavy trucking, and particularly by trucks which are overloaded to as much as 30 tons above the legal weight. What, we wonder, would be the result of a similar investigation in Canada? Certainly a lot of heavy trucking is done here, and there can be no doubt that it contributes to the destruction of our highways. The rapid decline of the Queen Elizabeth Way, indeed, is commonly attributed to this cause. The fact is that the highways now carry much freight which was formerly moved by rail, and the contribution made by the trucking companies, through license fees, is not equivalent to the damage they do.

The only way to check overloading is to have weigh-scales on the higways, and to use them often. At present half-loads are demanded in spring, but we have seen little evidence that loads are checked by the highways authorities at any other time.

If the highways are to bear great weights of freight, surely heavy tolls may be demanded of those who do the hauling. We have become accustomed, through the years, to severe damage to the highways every spring. Undoubtedly much of that damage is the result of carrying weights which no road can bear. Is there any reason why the full cost of repair should be borne by all the people of Ontario, including those who do not drive cars, and those who drive ordinary passenger vehicles or trucks whose weight, when loaded, the highways are well able to sustain? There appears to be something wrong with a system which allows large, overloaded transports to destroy roads which would last ordinary traffic for double or treble their present life.

For The Atlantic Community's Strength

News comes before the eye each day, and most of it slips out of mind before the next. But there are some items of news of such importance that they should be remembered long after they have ceased to be news. The statement issued a fortnight ago at the end of the conference of Foreign Ministers of the twelve Atlantic Treaty nations was so significant that it should be remembered. The Foreign Ministers, speaking with the authority of their governments, agreed to create a "balanced collective force" for their common defence. They agreed on the need to co-operate politically, economically and industrially to achieve this.

The principle has been stated, the quotas and various areas of responsibility have yet to be worked out. If they are, and the new force is established, it will indeed be a historic event, involving as it does the abandoning of the old nationalist concept that each country must depend primarily on its own men and equipment. In fact, most governments are charged to maintain such defence.

In the future will the R.A.F. be the air arm of the Atlantic community, the French infantry the men on the ground, the American navy the custodian of all the coasts? Will American dollars develop French steel for use in British guns, as a matter of mutual policy? The statement made by the Foreign Ministers has this revolutionary theme. Our Bip Pares map today suggests some of the strengths to be gained, and the security possible, when real, "balanced collective force," militarily and economically, is created.

Pension Squeezing

A howl may go up from sob-sisters because the Ontario government has reduced several thousand old age pension cheques, at the suggestion of the Dominion Government accountants who have discovered that about 8,000 Ontario pensioners were drawing bigger pensions than the law entitled them to draw. It will be said that the pensions are miserably small anyway, and what is the harm if a needy or guileful old man or woman (with the help of family or a lawyer) has managed to squeeze an extra ten or twenty dollars a month out of the two governments?

It has been discovered that many pensioners have not been declaring their full incomes, or that a house which they own has not been taken into account. Some of these cases have been known to the authorities for a long time, but the official eye was winked. Now it is opened. What has been happening is that some 8,000 old age pensioners have wittingly or unknowingly cheated the government. If the pensions are thought to be inadequate, the way to increase them is not by violating the law and, in a sense, indulging in petty larceny. If the old age pension regulations need changing, they should be changed legally and by the parliaments, not by private acts of subterfuge.

NOTE AND COMMENT

An expert says that bats prefer brunettes. Work better in the dark, of course.

A contemporary remarks that $1.62 nowadays has the buying power of a dollar in 1939. This is probably hitched in some remote way to the fact that it now costs $1.62 to get somebody to do a dollar's worth of work.

The most provocative contribution to the present discussion on reform of the Senate came from one of our school pupils. In a current affairs discussion, the teacher asked for suggestions. The lad said: "They should have a secret ballet in the Senate." The green linen walls of the Senate chamber would be an unusual decor.

Returning from Moscow Mr. Trygve Lie says that Russians wear "socks, shoes, neckties and suits, like anyone else". The more violent anti-Reds will notice, however, that he is suspiciously quiet about those hats with the special holes to perm free protrusion of the horns.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: The centre flag in the centenary streamers across the streets is a white flag with a red cross and a little union jack in the upper left corner. Is that any special flag, or is it just a holiday mixture?

ANSWER: It is the White Ensign of Great Britain, flown by ships of the Royal Navy. There are three ensigns, all originating with the Royal Navy: the red, white and blue ensigns. The blue ensign is exclusively the flag of public service other than the Royal Navy. It is, for instance, used by the royal naval reserve. The red ensign is the distinguishing flag of the British merchant service. With the shield of the coat of arms of Canada in the fly (lower right), it is officially authorized (1924) for all buildings owned or occupied by the Canadian Government, and situated outside of Canada. The Canadian Red Ensign is thus Canada's only "national" and official distinguishing flag. It was authorized as early as 1892 to be used on board Canadian registered marine ships. It is also flown by military formations.

The White Ensign on the street streamers is the red cross of St. George on a white ground, with the union jack in the canton (the upper left-hand corner). Why it should be the central flag in the streamers on a Canadian street, I do not know.

DEAR ALPHA: Saturday evening the House of Commons passed 88 bills in 12 minutes, so I read in the paper. Of these 72 were divorce bills. Don't you think that that is rather scandalous, to pass so many bills granting divorce without any discussion at all? Divorce is a serious matter.

ANSWER: The divorce bills were seriously considered in Committee. The Senate chiefly deals with these requests for divorce of people living in the provinces of Quebec and Newfoundland, where the courts have no power to grant divorce, as they have in Ontario and the other provinces. The cases are thoroughly weighed, before being given final reading in the Commons, and the Senate Committee summons witnesses in each case. Parliament cannot clutter up its sessions with private domestic issues like bills for divorce. It is a shame that it has to deal with them at all.

◇ ◇ ◇

AN APOLOGY: Many weeks ago an Omemee reader asked about paper collections: what dealers there are who buy old newspapers collected by churches and the like. The letter became lost in a pile of papers on my desk. Anyway, I have nothing to say, except that occasionally the Examiner carries advertisements from dealers in waste paper; and every head of church organizations in Peterborough can advise where it is best to sell. The value of waste paper has gone down considerably since the war years.

◇ ◇ ◇

SIR; Why are communists called Reds?

ANSWER: Because of their red flag, the title of the revolutionary song, and the fact that red is the traditional colour of battle, and revolutionaries are battlers against the established order of things. The Shorter Oxford English Dictionary gives 1864 as the earliest date for the colour to be a synonym for radicals, anarchists or bolshevists.

Every age seems to have its own "Reds" as bogey-men. For instance, as early as 1849 in Canada, the Liberal Party was called Red. One section of that party was so hostile to the Catholic clergy of Lower Canada (Quebec) that this clergy gave the party the name Red, denoting the colour of the European revolutionaries of 1848. The Conservatives were quick to make capital of the incident, and adopted the colour blue.

◇ ◇ ◇

EPITAPHS: I have a mild passion for old, odd and grotesque tombstone epitaphs, probably stimulated by several of the quaint ones in Peterborough's Little Lake cemetery. Here are a couple from my scrapbook: From Childwall Parish, England:

Here lies me and my three daughters,
Brought here by using Cheltenham waters.
If we had stuck to Epsom salts
We wouldn't be in these here vaults.

Another from East Tennessee:

"She lived a life of virtue, and died of the cholera morbus, caused by eating green fruits, in hope of a blessed immortality, at the early age of 21 years, 7 months, and 16 days. Reader, 'Go thou and do likewise'."

A foresighted man in Oxfordshire has this on his tomb:

Here lies the body of John Eldred,
At least he will be here when he is dead,
But now at this time he is alive,
The 14th of August, 'sixty-five.

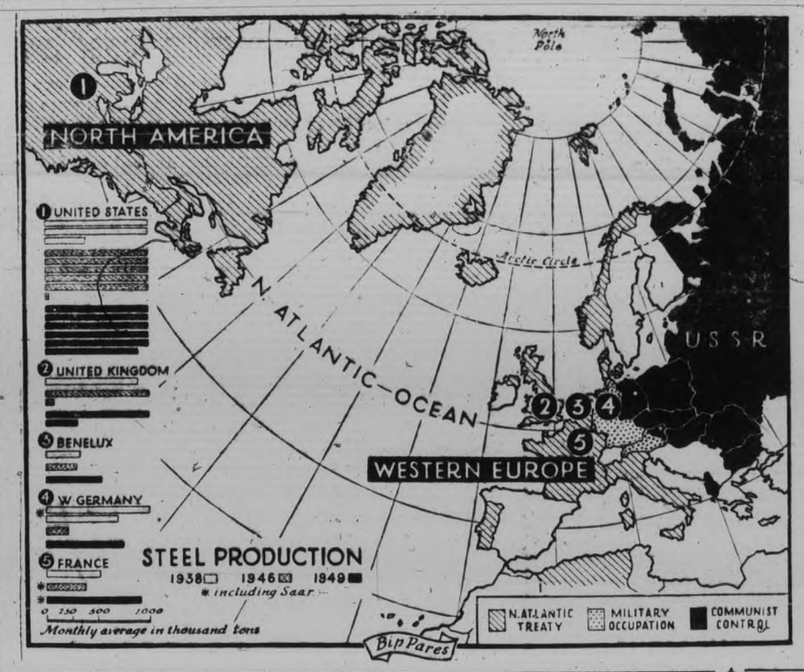
Here is the shortest in rhyme I have ever run into. A pauper died in a workhouse. The authorities decided to bury him as economically as possible, and the following inscription was proposed:

Thomas Thorps,
His corpse.

But the proposal was rejected, and this epitaph ordered:

Thorps'
Corpse

If any readers have a similar interest in curiosities of epitaphs and would share garnerings from their store-house, I should be glad to have them for use in this column, if they are printable.



◇ ◇ ◇

FOR THE RECORD: Anybody want to buy a grist mill more than a century old, a picturesque dam, part of a large pond, a trout stream, and a dozen acres of land, all in one parcel fronting a county road only a mile from Highway 28, and less than 15 miles from Peterborough—all for $500 or maybe less? Such a notice could have appeared in the Examiner last week. The Cavan mill built by Adam Scott, first white settler in Peterborough, and his son, later taken over and improved by the Needlers, has been for sale for months, with nobody wanting it very badly. To close an estate it had to be sold. A fortnight ago the only offer was about $280. By the week's end a $500 offer had come in, and I believe the mill, etc. has been sold for that sum.

I went down to inspect the mill. It is three storeys high, the roof and superstructure are sound but some of the foundation stone work has been undone by the ravages of the last forty years or so of disuse. It is decidely not in good repair, but there is sound timber (great nuge beams more than a foot thick, smoothed off by axe in times long since past), good flooring in the second storey, quantities of old iron and wooden machinery. The dam is in good repair, and the whole scene is peaceful and pretty, in a Forgotten Village way. Apart from its picturesque nature, it is historic. I have no doubt that the sale of this property in this year 1950 for $500 will also be historic.

There is a gimmick to the property. Whoever bought it has to keep the dam in repair .... I understand that a farmer whose property is adjacent to it, was the purchaser.

If any of my readers should wish to go out to see it for a Sunday's drive, here is the route. Take the last turn right off Highway 28 before the Millbrook turn (it's at the bottom of a hill, across the culvert over the trout stream) and go west along the township road for about 1½ miles. There it is on the left. You can't miss it. Do not expect to see a log structure of antique charm. It is high, dilapidated, with board walls, like an old barn. The dam, sluice and water-fall are charming.

ATLANTIC COMMUNITY

As the result of the London Conference of May, 1950, the Atlantic Community will form a joint defence system, pursue a co-ordinated foreign policy, and continue economic co-operation beyond 1952 for an indefinite period.

Western Germany will be given a chance of progressive integration into the community. Other European States are economically associated with it. Grouped around the Atlantic, as the Roman Empire was around the Mediterranean, this new community of free nations, commanding by far the greatest part of the economic and industrial resources of mankind, becomes a new centre of gravity in world affairs, dedicated to peace.

This map impresses on the eye its geographical outline, as well as the staggering extent of its steel production, the yardstick of its economic strength.

They Believe A Third War Is Inevitable

By TANYA MATTHEWS

AS I showed in my first article, the motives that prompted thousands of Soviet escapees to risk their lives to find freedom in the Western zones of Germany were varied and individual ones. Few escapees, if any, crossed the border in order to build up in a free atmosphere the groundwork of a new system which could replace the present Stalinist regime.

Although Allied officials are inclined to discount the peril of "plants" among the escapees, very little indeed is done in the Western zones to help them to think constructively about Russia's future. With the exception of a few whom the B.B.C. put on the air to tell in their own language and to their own people the story of their escape and their impressions of the West, the fruits of their reflections are not used in Western propaganda to the USSR.

Nevertheless, the escapees have organized their own channels through which propaganda, by leaflet and by word of mouth, is smuggled into Eastern Germany. This activity receives neither financial nor moral support from the Western Allies. Many escapees have thought deeply about the fate of the Russia they may never see again. One of them is Vladimir, the engineer whose adventures I described in my first article. He has written a novel on the lines suggested by the dream of the Grand Inquisitor in Dostoevsky's "Brothers Karamazov".

In this Marx rises from the dead and appears in Moscow. All the people recognize him and hail him, but Stalin leaves the Kremlin to have him arrested and arraigned as "an enemy of the people".

"The strength of Stalin's regime", Vladimir said, "is that an organized resistance against it is impossible, since under the omni-present secret police terror each and every Soviet citizen is isolated from his fellow-beings by mistrust."

That sort of fatalistic pessimism is almost universal among the escapees. They all agree that although the Soviet regime is detested by almost all its subjects except the high level administrators who form its steel frame, there is no hope of overturning it from within. When Stalin disappears, his absolutism will continue under a new idol. They compare the Stalinist regime to a Batavskaya Slezka (Rupert's drop), the drop of molten glass dropped into cold water, whose pear-shaped form, once cooled, can be hammered indefinitely without breaking it, unless it is hit on the tip, when it shivers into atoms under the released stress of internal tensions. Which amounts to saying—smash the Kremlin and the whole of Russia will be free.

BESIDES their hatred of Stalinism, there is one sentiment common to all the escapees—profound love of their country. "There would be no D.P. problem if Russia were liberated", one of them told me. "We'd walk home on our flat feet." And there is one fear common to them: the fear that in the armed conflict which they assume to be the inescapable precondition of that freedom, the Western Allies may repeat the mistake of the Nazis and make war not just on the Russian regime but on the Russian people. For they are certain that war between the Soviet Union and the West is inevitable. And they are sure that the longer the outbreak of this war is delayed the higher will be the price that the Western Allies will have to pay for it.

But although the escapees may feel that the Russians cannot by themselves determine Russia's future, they have their own ideas as to what they would like that future to be. There are few monarchists among them; these few are largely to be found among the older White Russian emigrants. There is an Ukrainian nationalist movement, not at all popular among the Russians. The political creed of the majority of the Russian escapees can be summed up as an indignant repudiation of the Western belief that Russia has no use for democracy and a demand that in any new regime that may be devised by a constituent assembly the MVD and the concentration camps must be abolished. Most of them advocate the de-collectivization of the farms but oppose the denationalization of manufacturing or the decentralization of heavy industry, though they would welcome the return of private enterprise to commerce.

One of the encouraging things about the escapees is that they disprove the belief widely held in the West that the years of Marxist - Leninist - Stalinist indoctrination must have wiped out all capacity for individual thought and initiative and established a new type of mind, impervious to outside ideologies. The minds I found among the escapees were minds which present no difficulty for us in the West to understand and establish contact with.

(From the Authorized Version)

O come, let us sing unto the Lord: let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation.... In his hand are the deep places of the earth: the strength of the hills is his also. The sea is his, and he made it: and his hands formed the dry land.

O come, let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our maker. (Ps. 95: 1, 4-6.)

The financial statement presented by Ken Wilson, the treasurer, revealed $1,000 ice time purchased from the Curling Club and $1,500 worth of ice time from Civic Arena.

About 70 per cent of the membership are children (mostly girls) under 14 years of age.

From a slate presented by the nominating committee the following directors were elected: Mrs. Jim Clarke, Ernest Ferguson Sr., Jim Harkness, Ralph Standish, A. Galoska, Kenneth Wilson, and Clare Collins.

The new board of directors met immediately, appointing the following executive for the 1950-51 skating year: President (second term), Ralph Standish; vice-president, Ernest Ferguson Sr.; treasurer, Ken Wilson; recording secretary, Mrs. (Grace) Simpson.

Medallions Presented

While ballots were being counted by scrutineers Dr. Russel Morgan and Mrs. A. Galoska, medallions were presented to the winners of the club competitions.

Next year cups will be presented to the winners, and some of these were on display, including Club Grand Champion Trophy presented by Mr. and Mrs. E. Collins, the Neill Trophy, the Ferguson Club Champion for most points in all events, and other trophies presented by Mr. Bert Austin and D. Raymore Scott.

Several suggestions were received from club members to be considered by the new board, one of which was insurance for club members while skating.

Building Grants Affect Hospitals

GUELPH, June 2 (CP)—A system of construction and maintenance grants initiated by the province in 1947 has had a marked effect on the hospitals in Ontario Premier Frost said in an address during a cornerstone laying ceremony at Guelph's new $1,750,000 General Hospital Wednesday.

"It was felt that it was first necessary to modernize our hospitals, increase their capacity and their services before anything else was considered," said Mr. Frost. "In my own view, however one of the basic advances was the institution of assistance by maintenance grants by which a contribution is made for every public ward bed for every day of the year."

Premier Frost said that expenditures in health in Ontario have increased four-fold in the last half dozen years.

Petes Down Staffords, 6-4 To Tie For Second Position

Defeating Staffords 6-4 in Toronto last night, the Petes moved back into a second place tie with Aces in the Viaduct Major League behind the leading New Toronto team. It was the fifth win in seven starts for the Murphy men, who meet New Toronto here tomorrow.

Doug Plunkett again was in good pitching form for the Petes as he sprinkled seven hits around in the cool air and struck out 13 while walking but two. A three-run rally by Staffords in the ninth narrowed the fairly comfortable margin the visitors carried most of the way. Lefty Johnston went eight innings in good form for the homesters, going out then for a pinch-hitter, with Rossen finishing on the slab. The fielding was pretty fair, till the Petes slipped a bit defensively toward the end.

Three In Three

Al Menzies had a perfect night at bat with a double and two singles in three tries, while Paul Estlick hit a two-bagger and single in three, and Howie Dalton a double and single in five. Estlick drove in three runs and also starred with a sensational one-hand catch against the scoreboard in the fourth to rob Stoneburgh of an extra-base blow. The latter homered for Staffs, while Heyes led at bat with three for four. Shapiro got a single as a pinch-hitter. Heyes had a neat catch, too, in right, and the losers reeled off one double-play.

Wilson walked in the second, moved up on Menzies' infield hit and tallied on a two-baser by Estlick. They added two in the fourth on a single to Dalton, a walk, passed ball and a steal, along with Menzies' two-bagger. Menzies singled in the sixth, took second on Dadson's infield hit, third on a passed ball and home on an error. Their last two came in the eighth on Dalton's double, Wilson's single, a steal and then a rap to left by Estlick for two.

Three Near End

Staffords got one in the third on hits by Haddleton, Heyes and Weir. Their other three came with none out in the ninth. Heyes singled and Weir was safe on an error. Stoneburgh then belted a screamer 425 feet to the fence in left centre and three men crossed the plate. With one out, Findlay was safe on an error but Plunkett bore down again to whiff two. He had struck out the side in the fifth. Johnston doing that stunt for Staffs in the third.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

A doctor told Tommy Henrich Thursday that the main trouble with his sore knee is something beyond cure—age.

"After 13 years of baseball he told me I've got to expect some wear and tear," the 33-year-old New York Yankee veteran reported after examination by Dr. George Bennett at Baltimore.

It was the second time in less than two months the noted healer of baseball players' ailments looked at the left knee of one of the game's greats.

"No change, no change," repeated Henrich coming out of the office after an hour and a half.

"He just told me to go on playing as much as I wanted and to take it easy as much as possible. No special treatment."

Dr. Bennett told the big first-baseman and outfielder the same thing April 10. Since then Henrich has been forced three times to the bench by the knee trouble.

However, he's played in 21 of the 36 Yankee games and belted the ball at better than a .350 clip to drive in 20 runs.

At Victoria, B. C., the touring English Football Association team Thursday night defeated Victoria All-Stars 3-2 before 4,200 fans but on the run of play the result should have been five or six goals to one.

Victoria's two goals came from penalty kicks, the second against goalie Stan Hanson.

The English team held the crowd spellbound with their scintillating footwork.

Featherweight champion Willie Pep was ahead all the way Thursday night in winning a unanimous 10-round decision over Terry Young, 138½, New York, in a non-title bout at Milwaukee.

Pep, who weighed 131, threw the book at Young, who kept coming on all the time in the face of repeated rapier-like left jabs and straight rights.

William Woodward's Prince Simon, second in the Epsom Derby, Thursday was made a 2 to 1 favorite in first betting on the Sept. 9 St. Leger, second of the English flat-racing classics. Double Eclipse, owned by Lady Zia Wernher but trained in the same stable as the American-bred Prince Simon, was a 7 to 1 second choice.

Jersey Joe Walcott, American heavyweight boxer, flew into Rome Thursday from Germany to see Pope Pius.

He arrived with his trainer Dan Florio, and said he wants "to see the Pope and how Rome looks during Holy Year." After a few days in Rome, Walcott will visit Stockholm, where he is expected to hold three exhibition matches.

In a Canadian American lacrosse game played at the Sarnia Arena Thursday night, Sarnia Beavers increased their lead to six points as they trounced Toledo Hertzfelds 12-6.

Baz O'Meara of the Montreal Star — his folks lived here for a time many years ago—writes: "Ebbie Goodfellow will be the new coach of Chicago Black Hawks. Bill Tobin wouldn't admit it at the NHL meeting but if he hasn't been signed he will be within a month. Hawks and Bruins are cooking up a deal but it won't be one of major proportions. Neil Colville will coach New York Rangers, but Eddie Shore won't get the Boston post. That job is still open. It was decided to curtail the annoying habit of stick-banging that has become so irritable in hockey in the last two years. Hereafter, the stick bangers will be served a misconduct penalty, and that phase of the game will be conspicuous by its absence."

Dit Clapper has told us that he isn't interested in returning as coach of the Boston Bruins if offered the job, preferring to remain a private Peterborough citizen the year around from now on. Ebbie Goodfellow sounds like a good bet to succeed fiery Chuck Conacher as tutor of the Hawks. Pat Wilson, Petes' right-fielder, labored under Ebbie last winter for St. Louis in the AHL, and he says Goodfellow really makes the players hustle. Lives hockey all the time and stands for no nonsense. Of course, he was one of the all-time NHL greats both as a forward and defenceman with Detroit Red Wings.

Mimico Men A-Coming

Mimico Mountaineers will be trying to break the Petes' OLA senior "A" victory streak here tonight at 8.45 in Miller Bowl. The bolstered Creighton crew knocked over Hamilton Tigers and then Weston Lions to start off the schedule and will be shooting for three in a row and possibly a tie for top spot in the standing. They won't find the rugged Mountaineers any soft touch, not fellows like Milne, Hewitt, Harrison, Mortimore, Simpson, Pritchard, Williams and several new players. It should be a hot scrap between strong and well-matched clubs and will likely fill the Bowl up again this gloaming. Weather being right, of course.

St. Kitts scribe wails of the lack of avoirdupois among the A's this semester. Says the rough Hamilton Tigers had a field day bumping Athletics around, though the latter eked out a win in Hamilton the other evening. Merv McKenzie bounced all and sundry, while the lighter St. Catharines forwards had to back-check their heads off to make up for the rugged checking. We've had that trouble the past season in senior "A" and may run into it again, but right now the Petes have enough husky "policemen" to cool out most rambunctious opponents who prefer to lay it on or use the body rather than stick to straight lacrosse. A heavy defence is a handy thing to possess in the gutted-stick game.

League Leaders On Hand

Ball fans Saturday aft at three in Riverside will see the leaders of the Viaduct Major League tangling with the Petes, presently in second slot with the Aces. The New Toronto team has lost but one in seven starts this semester and are being touted around the circuit at the coming loop champions. Having seen 'em beat the Petes in New Toronto, we disagree, feeling that the men o' Murphy can take them if they play heads-up ball all the way. Our pitching and hitting is as good, and normally the Petes' fielding is better—though it wasn't in that tilt. Anyway, the fixture tomorrow ought to be a dandy one. Bill Edger will get another crack at the leaders this game and will likely show them why he is rated one of the top twirlers in this lively loop.

Doug Plunkett was in good form again last p.m. to take Staffords 6-4. Threw seven-hit ball—two hits coming in the ninth and another being a misjudged fly—as he blazed a third strike by no less than 13. Petes wobbled a bit in the last inning, but other wise had a fairly comfortable time of it. Paul Estlick pulled off as fine a catch as you'd want to see, taking the ball against the scoreboard one-handed. He also had two for three hits as Al Menzies led with a double and two singles in three. Danny Brown can't get over just yet except for Saturday games, writing exams at present. Lefty Johnston pitched pretty fair ball, too, for Staffs.

Phillips Given Chance As Buc Pitcher

PITTSBURGH, June 2 (AP)—Things are tough at Forbes Field these days, what with Pittsburgh's Pirates wallowing in their worst slump in 11 years. But it wasn't sheer desperation that prompted Pirate manager Bill Meyer to send first baseman Jack Phillips to the mound for a five-inning pitching chore against Boston Thursday.

Meyer had been grooming Phillips for twirling work since Pittsburgh bought him from New York Yankees last August.

Phillips got his first call, after the Braves had run up a 10-0 lead over the slumping Bucs at the end of the fourth inning. He got off to a shaky start, dishing up a double to Tommy Holmes, singles to Bob Elliott and Walker Cooper and a wild pitch, permitting Elliott to score.

Then the six foot, four inch right hander bore down and retired the side, striking out dangerous Sid Gordon in the process.

Hits Stride

With his powerful delivery zipping along in a variety of fast breaking curves and tricky drops, Phillips retired 11 consecutive Boston batters. He ran into trouble in the eighth, but his infield mates pulled him out with a double play.

In the final frame Boston scored another run on a pair of hits for a 14-2 final score and ran the Bucs consecutive losing streak to nine games.

Although he had done some pitching in college, Phillips broke into organized baseball in 1943 as a first sacker and stayed there.

After Thursday night's game, Meyer enthused:

"The big boy showed me an extra good fast ball. It might even be the best one I've seen from any of our hurlers."

Braves' manager Billy Southworth remarked:

"Our boys thought Phillips looked good. He had a good sinker but experienced a lot of trouble with his curve."

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Baseball's great first base man—Lou Gehrig—died nine years ago tonight after a two-year fight against a rare disease of the spine. Gehrig had retired from the New York Yankees' lineup after 14 years with the club during which he established a consecutive-games record of 2,130.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

At Campbellford on Wednesday the men's doubles tournament was rained out. Our club was represented by seven pairs. In the lucky draw contest J. Fletcher, N. Routley, I. Cippen and L. Loftus each received a side of bacon.

The welcome rain that came Thursday evening halted all activities at the club. However, tonight it will be in full swing.

As far as we know, the program for tonight is men's rinks and for tomorrow evening the family hour mixed rink tournament. Both nights the draw is from the board at 7.30 o'clock.
